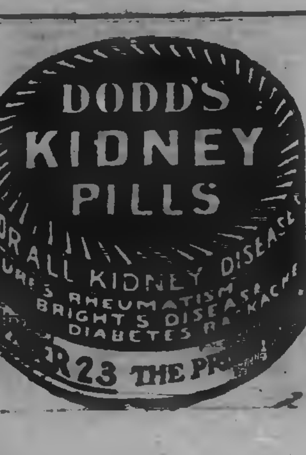
An attempt is being made, largely by the Grit press, to make it appear that the McBride victory means Mr. McBride's succession to the Conservative leadership at Ottawa. This attempt is largely based on the necessity of drawing public attention away from the overwhelming defeat in B.C., of the Liberal party. Mr. Borden is too highly thought of by the party, by its leaders and by the country at large for any idea of his giving up the leadership to succeed. Mr. Borden does not want the leadership. He has resigned it on several occasions, but always has his party insisted on his retention of the position. It is a great thing for a party to be able to go to the country at election time with a man as leader who is above criticism.

Canada is so large now that it is a question of policy and of honest administration, not of personal magnetism. The latter qualification is no doubt of value to a politician, but it is of no use to the country, and of little value at any time. Mr. Borden is still in the prime of life and retains the respect of Canadians of all creeds and political leanings. There were some rumors a short time ago that Sir James Whitney's overwhelming victory in Ontario would necessitate his journey to Ottawa, but that gentleman doubtless failed to entertain the proposition. Why should any other name be suggested?



EDITORIAL NOTES

W. T. Stead seems to be on the eve of being regarded as a lunatic. His new spirit bureau isn't even a blind pig. Signor Emanuel made a monkey of the whole staff.

From Sir Charles Tupper's letter in the Times and the latter's comment upon it, it is not unreasonable to suppose that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has pulled the wool over their eyes as he has done over the Canadian public's till lately.

"There are plenty of heroes in the guise of plain, ordinary people in the ordinary walks of life. No sooner have the news dispatches ended with the accounts of the heroic deeds done at the St. Paul coal mine in Cherry, Illinois, than an item comes about a thing done in the course of the day's work by Charles Deyo, a brakeman on the Great Northern, as a result of which he is now in a hospital in Spokane. This man crawled with a broken hip and a useless arm across a hundred yards of frozen ground and up an embankment to an open switch just in time to save a passenger express from derailment.

"Deyo was rear brakeman on a freight train that took the siding at Dryden to make way for the limited. The freight came on the siding at a high speed, so that Deyo, as he dropped off the caboose steps, jumped into an unlighted 'ground switch,' and fell so that he broke his hip, and greatly injured one arm. Although suffering intensely, he realised what it meant to leave the switch open, and painfully dragged himself to where the switch light showed red. With his last strength he managed to turn the switch so that the green light appeared. He heard the whistle of the onrushing limited as he turned the switch.

"When he was found he was unconscious. His deed is to be brought to the attention of the Carnegie Medal Commission. But we may be sure that the consciousness of having done his duty means more to him than any medal can."—Winnipeg Free Press.

OLD OCEAN TRAVELLING

Very few of those who cross the Atlantic in these days, amid the luxurious comforts of a modern ocean liner, have any idea of the progress made in the mode of travelling as compared with what was the experience of those who ventured out for the land of the west in the earlier days of the last century. We have recently seen an interesting old record, printed in Welsh, giving an account of the voyage of the brig Albion, with passengers and emigrants, from Carnarvon, North Wales, to North America in the year 1818, and by way of showing the contrast in the experiences of ocean travellers, we give a few extracts therefrom. The record appears to have been written daily by the Captain, Llewelyn Davies, of Cardigan, who was in charge of the ship, and which was purchased by a wealthy local magnate of Carnarvonshire, Mr. Griffith Jones, of Talysarn, for the purpose of transporting a large number of families and others from this country who desire to seek their fortunes in America.

After some days of preparation and provisioning, the vessel was moored in the Menai Straits on the 18th of May, the next day being wholly occupied in getting all the passengers, with their luggage on board. On the 20th, the King's officers made a minute inspection of all, and saw that every passenger was provided with sufficient food for three months. On the 21st, the pilot came on board and with very mixed feelings the voyagers passed out of sight of the ancient walls of Carnavon, most of them never to see that famous old place again.

The first night at sea was spent at anchor near the coast, and, after the pilot and owner had left, the passage was resumed in a fair wind. Seven heads of families were chosen to form a committee for the purpose of drawing up a code of rules to be observed by all passengers during the voyage. The first rule provided for the proper observance of the Sabbath, when all were to attend divine service, decently dressed, punctually at 10 a. m. The second rule was to prohibit swearing and the use of bad language, and whoever offended in this was to be put on half the allowance of water and compelled to wear a badge. Stealing was prohibited by the third rule, and any one found guilty of this had to clean the lower deck for a whole week, and to wear a certain distinctive badge. Any one found guilty of telling lies was sentenced to undergo a much more nauseating task; and there were several other rules as to general behaviour, with varying punishments, from being put last in rotation to cook their meals to the more rigid one of being put in the stocks.

FIRST WELSH TO AMERICA.

Having dropped anchor near Newport, Pembrokeshire, the Captain went ashore to see his family, and some of the passengers also went ashore by the same boat to purchase certain necessaries they had forgotten. The vessel and its passengers attracted considerable curiosity among those on shore, for it was then a very rare sight to see a load of Welsh passengers leaving their country to seek their fortunes in a strange land. On the 23rd several officials came on board to inspect the quarters, and, the relatives of Captain and crew having departed, the voyage was again resumed. The vicissitudes of the journey from this point are given very graphically by the Captain, and from these we cull a few extracts:

"May 25th, there was a strong breeze from astern, and we passed, the Old Head of Kinsale. At breakfast time one of the higher masts came down with a crash, but luckily no one was injured. We passed another vessel sailing in the same direction. Having passed Cape Clear, we met a vessel belonging to the King's Navy, which fired one of its great cannon, ordering us to stop that we may be searched. The vessels are placed to watch that no artisans shall leave England, and also to examine whether there was sufficient food and water on board for three months, otherwise we would be compelled to return to port. A boat was lowered and several officers came on board to make a minute examination, after which we were allowed to proceed.

"May 28, the wind and weather favorable, and the ship had travelled well during the night. The Captain ordered the passengers, one-half of their number at a time, to bring their beds and clothing on deck to be aired and to dry, and he also ordered other things to insure cleanliness and health among the passengers. At midday, while the Captain with his telescope, was taking observations of the run, a solemn looking passenger of middle age approached him and asked, "Can you see Llanuwchllyn, near Bala, with that thing?" And his eager looks seemed to indicate his desire to have just one more glimpse at the old home he had apparently left forever. This day was ended with a meeting of the passengers for Bible reading and Psalm singing.

"May 27th, and the next few days the passengers began to realize what the face of the ocean is like. The waves heaving up like mountains, and many of the passengers becoming very sick, and hardly any showed any inclination for food.

Sales Doubling Every Six Months

Wonderful Demand for a Wonderful Remedy.

During the past few years, the sales of "Fruit-a-tives" have doubled every six months. For the six months from January to July of this year, the sales of this popular medicine were more than twice greater than for any similar period since "Fruit-a-tives" was introduced to the public.

The National Drug & Chemical Company of Canada Limited, the largest wholesale drug house in the world—Lymans Limited of Montreal—and Lymans Brothers of Toronto—are buying "Fruit-a-tives" in 100 gross lots. 100 gross mean 14,400 boxes, which retail for $7,200.00. This gives some idea of the steady demand for these wonderful fruit liver tablets.

It is safe to say that "Fruit-a-tives" is on sale in every drug store and in departmental stores and general stores carrying medicines throughout the Dominion. Nor is the sale of "Fruit-a-tives" confined to Canada. In many parts of the United States, "Fruit-a-tives" is the standard family medicine and hardly a day passes that the Fruit-a-tives Company does not receive prepaid orders from our neighbors over the line.

The many testimonials, which have been published in the leading papers, are the most convincing evidence of the great value of "Fruit-a-tives".

50c a box—6 for $2.50—or trial box, 25c. If your dealer does not handle them, any quantity will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS

Peterboro People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions are dark, contain a sediment.

Passages are frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is constant day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.

The weakened kidneys need quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and urinary disorders.

Peterborough evidence proves this statement.

Mrs. Geo. Hawes, of 867 Water St., Peterborough, Ont., says:

"I suffered for some time with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble, and although I had tried many remedies and doctors, found little or no relief. My back was weak and a dull, bearing down pain had settled across the small of it and extended into my shoulders and around my sides. I was weak and languid, and the least exertion would tire me out. Dizzy spells were frequent and often I would awake with a severe headache. I tried Booth's Kidney Pills through an advertisement at McDermid & Jury's pharmacy and soon found them to benefit me. I continued their use, and in a comparatively short time I was as well and strong as ever, and without a symptom of the painful and longstanding disease."

Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Limited, Fort Erie, Ont., sole Canadian agents.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for week ending Nov. 27, were 3000 cattle, 2000 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 600 calves. The supply this morning for sale was 1500 cattle, 1400 sheep and lambs, 1600 hogs and 300 calves. Cattle prices scored a further advance, attributed to smaller supplies and more seasonable weather. A feature of the trade was the keen competition between packers for canning stock and prices were ¼c per lb. higher, at 2c for cows and 3c for bulls. Owing to the higher prices demanded for butchers' cattle trade was somewhat slow early in the day, but the demand improved, and a good trade was done both for local account and for shipment to outside points. Choice steers sold at 5¾c to 6¼c; good, at 5c to 5½c; fair, at 4½c to 4¾c; medium, at 4c to 4¼c; common, at 3¼c to 3¾c per lb. Sheep and lamb prices were fully maintained. Supplies were fair and an active trade was done. Lambs sold at 5¾c to 6c and sheep at 3¾c to 3¾c per lb. Trade in calves was quiet on account of small offerings, but demand was good and sales made at from $3 to $10 each.

Blanche Ring Lets Axe Fall on Chorus Men and They all are Weeded Out

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 29.—The doom of the chorus man has been sounded. There never has been much use for a chorus man, except as a setting for the pretty chorus girl.

It was dashing Blanche Ring who used the hook on the chorus men of her company, "The Yankee Girl," at the Alvin theatre. One of the unlucky men, Montmorency Blythe, clumsily tripped on his name, or on a ground cloth—anyhow, he knocked down Miss Gippy Mooney, his dainty dancing partner, and his awkwardness so disgusted Miss Ring that she discharged every man in the chorus.

Girls—pretty, smiling and winsome girls—will take the places of the discharged men. Miss Ring emphatically declares that "the stage is no place for men who want to stay in the chorus; most of them are either awkward or they look foolish."

YOUNG GIRL HAD LEPROSY

Got Disease From False Hair—Bought it in Prominent Store

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 29.—Four weeks ago Miss Mamie Gillespie was head of the glove department in one of Pittsburg's largest stores and to-day she is on a little island off the North Carolina coast suffering from a malignant growth of leprosy caused by wearing an infected human hair switch. As a result almost every employer of female labor has ordered that after the first of the month none of the women are to wear false hair of any sort.

Some three months ago, Miss Gillespie went to the hair department of the store where she was employed, and purchased a handsome blonde switch. After wearing it about two weeks her body, from the breast up became covered with a malignant growth which frightened the young woman. She went to Dr. L. M. Golden who became alarmed, and consulted several leading physicians before he finally announced that the disease was leprosy, and that Miss Gillespie would have to be taken away and isolated, where she would not contaminate others.

HAIR WAS DISEASED.

The girl's horror was pitiable, and and she stoutly refused to be taken away, until the government had investigated the matter.

It took several weeks for the U.S. officials to trace the lock of golden hair, but it was discovered to have been imported from an island in the Carribean sea, where the Cuban Government sends its worst cases of leprosy. The hair had been sold in one of Pittsburg's most prominent stores and this news caused a sensation, but the young woman had to go. Dr. Golden had warned all of his patients to stop wearing false hair, as this may be only the first case of the kind.

ANNA KESSLER

New York, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Anna Kessler was found murdered in the dining room of her apartment, at No. 319 East 121st street, and after a hurried investigation of the mystery the police sent out a general alarm for John Neuman, who had boarded with her.

The woman was strangled and stabbed and a fracture of the skull was inflicted by blows with a hammer. Robbery was the motive, for her diamond earrings had been torn from her ears and rings had been forcibly removed from her fingers. The victim was twenty-eight years old and exceptionally pretty.

The discovery of the murder was made by Mrs. Kessler's sister, Mrs. Sadie Altman, who lives on the ground floor of the building. Mrs. Kessler had been feeling ill, and when she did not make her usual morning call on her sister Mrs. Adams went up stairs to investigate. She found the apartments locked, and, becoming alarmed, called Louis Klein, who keeps a store on the ground floor.

PETERBORO' MAN VISITS MINES

At Killaloe in Company With Lindsay Owner

Renfrew Journal: Mr. J. D. Grant, of Lindsay, and Mr. Geo. Southwell, of Peterborough, were in town on Saturday on their way to Killaloe, where Mr. Grant is interested in the mica mines there. Several big shipments have been made from these mines and there are more to follow. In fact, Mr. Grant thinks he has struck one of the best things he has run across in his successful career as a prospector. The mica is of very superior quality—equal to the best imported mica—and finding a ready sale at a price much above that obtained for other Canadian mica, and even above the price of imported stuff, with the duty added.

Mrs. Jordan Watson, of the Windsor House for the Friendless, is accused of ill-treating inmates.

THE HOOK

I love to go to the opera
And listen to the songs,
And fall in love with the fair soubrette.
And see her many wrongs
All righted in the closing act.
Yet things are fierce at that
To have to sit behind some dame
Who won't remove her hat.

Don't make a bet with your barber. If he lost he might try to skin you.

WATER GUAGE BURST

C.P.R. Fireman Badly Scalded

C.P.R. Fireman Geo. H. Duffus, who lives in Robertson street, Fort William, while on his engine near Westford, happened a nasty accident. The water gauge of the locomotive burst and scalded the whole of the left side of his face and head terribly.

"It so happened," said Duffus to our representative, "that I had a box of Zam-Buk in my pocket, which I used for a sore on my lip, and when I had recovered from the first shock of the accident, I produced the balm and had it applied freely to the scalded parts. At the time I applied it I was suffering acute agony, but within a wonderfully short time Zam-Buk gave me ease. I was able to continue my journey, and upon reaching home I obtained more Zam-Buk and continued the treatment. It acted wonderfully well, and in a few days had the wound nicely healing. I don't know anything so fine as a healer of burns, scalds, cuts and similar injuries which workers are so liable to; and in my opinion a box of Zam-Buk should be kept handy in every worker's home."

There is something different and superior about Zam-Buk. Time and again workers in all branches of trade have proved its vast superiority over the advertised ointments and salves of the day. No doubt the fact that Zam-Buk is made entirely from herbal essences and extracts, while ordinary ointments contain more or less animal fats and oils, goes a long way to explain Zam-Buk's superiority. However this may be, the fact remains that in four continents to which it has been introduced within ten years it has become the leading household balm!

For burns, cuts, scalds, bruises, eczema, piles, ulcers, ring-worm, itch, salt-rheum, bad leg, festering sores, chapped places, cold sores, frost-bites and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is beyond doubt a most marvellous cure.

Druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box and the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, will mail a box, post free, upon receipt of price, to any of our readers who may have difficulty in obtaining a supply of the genuine Zam-Buk from their local stores.

THE FUTURE WEDDING

Here is the way the papers will write up weddings ten years hence: "The bride looked very well in a centred upon the groom. He wore a centred upon the groom. He wore a dark suit that fitted his form perfectly and in his dainty gloved hands he carried a small rose. His curly hair was beautifully done, and a delicate odor of hair oil of the best quality floated down the aisle as he passed. The young people will miss him now that he is married. He is loved by all for his many accomplishments, his tender, grave and winning ways. The bride commands a good salary as bookkeeper, and the groom will have none of the luxuries to which he has been accustomed. A crowd of pretty men saw him off at the depot.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED GRAIN ETC.

By instruction of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution is being made this season of samples of superior sorts of grain and potatoes to Canadian farmers for the improvement of seed. The stock for distribution has been secured mainly from the Experimental Farms at Indian Head, Sask.; Brandon, Man.; and Ottawa, Ont. The samples consist of oats, spring wheat, barley, peas, Indian corn (for ensilage only), and potatoes. The quantity of oats sent is 4 lbs., and of wheat or barley 5 lbs., sufficient in each case to sow one-twentieth of an acre. The samples of Indian corn, peas and potatoes weigh 3 lbs. each. A quantity of each of the following varieties has been secured for this distribution:—

Oats—Banner, Abundance, Danish Island, Wide-Awake, White Giant, Thousand Dollar, Improved Ligowo—all white varieties.

Wheat—Red varieties: Red Fife, beardless; Marquis Stanley and Chelsea, early beardless; Preston, Huron and Pringle's Champlain, early bearded. White varieties: White Fife, beardless; Bobs, early beardless.

Barley—Six-rowed: Mensury, Odessa and Mansfield. Two-rowed: Invincible, Standwell and Canadian Thorpe.

Field Peas—Arthur and Golden Vine.

Indian Corn (for ensilage) — Early sorts: Angel of Midnight, Compton's Early and Longfellow. Later varieties: Selected Leaming, Early Mastodon, and White Cap Yellow Dent.

Potatoes—Early varieties Rochester Rose and Irish Cobbler. Medium to late varieties: Gold Coin, Carman No. 1 and Money Maker. The later varieties are, as a rule, more productive than the earlier kinds.

Only one sample can be sent to each applicant, hence if an individual receives a sample of oats he cannot also receive one of wheat, barley, peas, Indian corn or potatoes. Applications on printed cards or sheets, or lists of names from one individual, or applications for more than one sample for one household, cannot be entertained. The samples will be sent free of charge through the mail.

Applications should be made to the Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and may be sent in any time from the 1st of December to the 15th of February, after which the lists will be closed, so that the samples asked for may be sent out in good time for sowing. Applicants should mention the variety they prefer, with a second sort as an alternative. Applications will be filled in the order in which they are received, so long as the supply of seed lasts. Farmers are advised to apply early to avoid possible disappointment. Those applying for Indian corn or potatoes should bear in mind that the corn is not usually distributed until April, and that potatoes cannot be mailed until danger from frost in transit is over. No postage is required on mail matter addressed to the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

WM. SAUNDERS,
Director of Experimental Farms.

WEDDINGS IN BELGIUM.

The Necessary Civil Ceremony Performed in the Town Hall.

If you want to get married in Belgium you must go to the town hall of the particular city in which you happen to reside and take one of the chief parts in a brief ceremony, which alone legalizes your matrimonial union. You can go to church before or after the little bit of civic business, as you choose, but nothing that priest or minister can do for you, however soothing to your feelings or your conscience, can give any recognized binding to your wedding vows as far as the law of this country goes. In most of the ancient and wonderfully interesting town halls of Belgium there is a "salle des mariages," a spacious chamber specially reserved for nuptial ceremonies. At Antwerp the town hall is more to be admired for its interior than for its exterior. The facade is in the renaissance style by Cornelis de Vriendt and dates from 1561.

The Antwerp town hall occupies the whole of the west side of the square of old guild houses and in its centre rises to a height of 183 feet. A statue of the Virgin Mary is in a niche in the centre of the top story.

Half a dozen wedding parties await the advent of the deputy mayor each morning. The procession of brides and their friends leads into the marriage chamber, the walls of which are appropriately covered with five frescoes.

The several wedding parties approach the mayor's table in turn, the unmarried parties remaining seated in the body of the hall, watching their predecessors. The proceedings are very brief. The deputy mayor examines a few papers put forward by the father or other representative of the bride, asks one or two low-voiced questions, smiles at the bride, nods to the groom, signs a certificate and informs them that they are man and wife. Then he touches a button on his desk, and from an adjacent apartment an organ sounds a few bars of a wedding march, during which the married pair and company file out of the chamber, and the deputy mayor murmurs the French equivalent of "next" to one of the two little pages attending him—handsome youngsters in court dress. Another wedding party stands before a desk; a repetition of the short proceedings; once more the tap on the button and the wedding march on the organ. Out they go, blushing and smiling, and No. 3 marriage begins. In less than half an hour the six marriages had been made. Nothing more and nothing less happens, no matter what the rank or position of the contracting parties may be, except that the mayor's pages can be employed to carry the bride's train if she happens to be wearing one.

Bravery Its Own Reward.

The Lady (to hero who had risked his life to save her little dog from a watery grave and looks for some reward)—Poor fellow, how wet and cold you are! You must be soaked through to the skin. Here! I'll give you some quinine pills. Take a couple now and two more in an hour's time.—Throne and Country.

No Worry.

"We have a strike in our factory every day, off and on."

"Why, I thought you had no labor troubles there at all?"

"No more we have."

"But how, then, can all this striking be going on?"

"The clocks do it."—Baltimore American.

No Soap-Shrunken Flannels

The woolen season is with us again. Every housekeeper knows what's in store for her, if she uses yellow rosin soap for washing. The woolens and flannels shrink and pucker up alarmingly small.

Don't let your household suffer this winter from uncomfortable underwear. Try the Taylor way of washing and keep woolens their original size.

Taylor's

washes woolens without shrinking, and brings them out fresh, clean and free from any "soapy smell." It is not necessary to boil the clothes—you don't even have to rub them, except very soiled spots. The borax softens the water, so less soap is required. It purifies and sweetens, and leaves the hands soft and white.

THAT WATCH OF YOURS

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch. You put it in your pocket, and while there is a kink in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker, and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time-keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones call around and see us.

The Position He Takes.

Mr. B. Lastar has called at the Review and wishes it stated for him that he has been receiving numerous letters, some attacking him for the communications he is writing to the papers. He wants it understood that as all the letters sent to him, so far, have not been signed with the names of the writers, he will not pay attention to any unless names are signed. He further says that as the space in the papers is costing him twenty-five cents per inch, single column, it is too expensive to waste on replies to people who are pitching into him from behind the fence. He adds that he has been urged to hire a hall and give the public the benefit of an exposition of his position. He would do so, but thinks he should not be called on to stand that additional expense, and there does not seem to be any willing to come forward and put up with him, a share, which he is cheerfully willing to do, in the interests of fair discussion. He does not advocate, he says drinking or protecting the liquor seller who sells illegally, but affirms that limiting drunkenness can better be accomplished by taking proper steps.

THE PURE MILK COMMISSION

Said to Reveal Serious Conditions in the Province—Legislation Needed.

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—The Ontario commission for pure milk arrived in Ottawa this morning and will continue their investigations till to-morrow night, when they will leave for Kingston. They will then have completed their tour which has taken in not only every city in the province but a number in the United States. The secretary of the commission is Mr. Bert Roadhouse, a newspaper man, and to The Citizen he said the commission did not want to anticipate its report to the legislature by newspaper interviews. Other members of the commission, however, freely admitted that the situation in the province is quite a serious one and that legislation dealing with the question is urgently needed. As far as Ottawa is concerned the commission had not yet made sufficient investigation to speak authoritatively but the opinion was expressed that Ottawa seems to be dealing very well with the problem.

The members of the commission are Dr. A. R. Myne, the chairman; Mr. W. F. Nickle, M.L.A. for Kingston; Mr. J. R. Dargavel, M.L.A. for Leeds, and Mr. Roadhouse. The other member is Mr. F. G. McDiarmid, M.L.A. for West Elgin, who is unable to be here owing to the illness of his father in Detroit.

This morning the commission inspected the Ottawa Dairy company's establishment and later had an interview with Dr. Law and Dr. Hollingsworth at the city hall, where they looked over the laboratory and the records. This afternoon they will drive to the various dairies and byres in the district from which the city supply comes. To-morrow it is the intention to consult with Dr. Rutherford and other Dominion officials and probably visit the Experimental farm.

After visiting Kingston the commission will prepare its report. The report will not only deal with a resume of conditions found but will suggest legislative enactments.

OBITUARY

MRS. J. J. LOWRY

After a very severe illness of about three weeks the death of Mrs. J. J. Lowry, of Highland Grove, near Minden, occurred on Nov. 20.

Mrs. Lowry had been ailing since last spring and had been in the Lindsay and Peterborough hospitals, and seemed much better until about three weeks ago when she was taken worse again. Everything was done that medical aid could do but to no avail. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. Robt. McFadden, who until about four years ago, resided here, but who now lives in Peterborough, and was twenty-nine years of age.—Lindsay Warder.

JOHN WALLACE.

After a serious illness from acute indigestion, the death occurred this afternoon at 2.30 in his apartments in the Bank of Commerce Building, of Mr. John Wallace, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Peterborough. The late Mr. Wallace, who came to Canada from Kilmarnock, Scotland, about fifty years ago, was seventy-nine years of age. He was a Presbyterian in religion, and a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church ever since he came to Peterborough. The deceased was also a member of the local clan of the Sons of Scotland.

Mr. Wallace was twice married and twelve children, six from each marriage, survive him. His first wife was Miss Mary Christie, of Westwood, Hastings County, and the second, who survives him, was Miss Isabel Rehill, of Peterborough.

The children of the first union living are Mrs. Wm. E. Clarke, of Ashburnham; John, of Winnipeg; Maggie and Bella, of Pearson, Man.; Hugh, of California, and Willie, of Pearson, Man.; and of the second, Nellie, of Peterborough; Jane, of Pearson, Man.; Martha, and Mrs. Hopkins, of Toronto; Mrs. Watson, of New Liskeard; James, of Perry Harbor, and Peter, of Sudbury. Other than one brother who resides in California, all of the deceased's relatives, outside of his wife and children, live in Scotland.

The late Mr. Wallace was caretaker of the Bank of Commerce building. He was an expert gardener, and was regarded as an authority in this branch of work.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been made, but interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

Navigation to Elk Lake has closed.

THE HOUSE OF TOO MUCH TROUBLE

Wife Accused Husband of Mistreating Her, But Decided to Give Him Another Chance to Do Better.

Claiming that she had been abused by her husband, who attempted to strike her with his open hand, and also called her unreasonable names, a lady who resides in Ashburnham, gave evidence against him at the police court this morning. She stated that she had had trouble with her husband since being married to him two years ago, and despite her willingness to overlook his treatment on many occasions he had not mended his ways. Last Sunday she had a narrow escape from receiving a blow in the face from him.

On the advice of the Magistrate, both interested parties adjourned to the office below and reached an agreement, whereby there will be no more unpleasantness in the home.

Emigration From the United States to Canada

The new territory in Western Canada which the Grand Trunk Pacific is opening up is so attractive to farmers, prospectors and investors, in the Western States that Minnesota and other states of the Union interested are organizing through their commercial bodies movements designed to counteract the heavy emigration that has set in to the north. A meeting of the Minnesota commercial organizations has been called for November 23rd to devise a method whereby some obstructions can be placed in the way of this emigration. The "St. Paul Despatch" of November 10 say that;—

"Considerable interest in the gathering has been manifested by cities in North Dakota, and several requests that they be permitted to be represented have been received. While it was at first proposed to have the conference discuss only the possibility of securing settlers from Minnesota, it is now possible that a united effort will be made to keep American farmers this side of the Canadian border. The conference will prepare literature showing the actual land conditions, in Minnesota and North Dakota. This literature will be scattered broadcast over the country and special efforts made to see that it reaches the persons who are at present interested in Canadian lands.

It is said that thousands of farmers, who have sold their land in Eastern States, pass through Minnesota annually on their way to Canada. It is thought that if the advantage offered here could be shown to the immigrants, a large portion of them would make this their home."

REFORESTRATION IN DURHAM COUNTY

Cobourg, Nov. 28.—The question of reforestration is a very live one at present in the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. Some conclusive arguments are at hand which are of interest, not only to citizens of this district, but all over Canada. A small lot of second-growth pine in Northumberland County has been sold for two thousand dollars, standing. Another farmer has sold $500 worth and has trees standing that will bring an equal amount. This second-growth timber was produced upon light land that is not specially adapted to grain growing, which makes the profit all the greater. A resident in the vicinity of Brighton has a fine wood lot of second-growth timber upon ground which eleven years ago was sown to oats. There are on it trees thirty feet in height, and from three to four inches in diameter. An oak has a diameter of seven inches. Another farm has a fine wood lot of mixed tree upon ground which had a crop of wheat on it in the not far distant past. Practical results like these are the things that appeal most strongly to all. If all waste lands were reclaimed similarly the farmers of Canada would have an immense increase in revenue.

THE "SCOUT" SYSTEM

Baden-Powell, who used to be known at school as "Bathing-towel," has been knighted for his "boy-scout" system. He has made a scout of every boy in England. The fever has extended to Canada. We have not heard of the microbe's having yet reached Peterborough. But we hope soon to hear of it.

The rules and regulations of "The Scouts" are such as to remind one of the days of Chivalry. They appeal to the imagination, and loftier enthusiasm of a boy, so much so that he is transformed in many cases from a wild animal into the lovely being that his mother has all along been quite sure that he was. The movement is having a wonderful effect, and the sooner that it is inaugurated in this city, the better. One of the features of it that is a little new to our people is that no one is allowed to "run" the movement for his own advantage. It can't be collared for political or other purposes. It is founded on the principles of frank and honourable dealing, and when these are wanting the movement vanishes as quickly as it came. This materialistic age seems on the brink of returning to the idealistic. The ebb and flow of history presages this. It will be a new thing for us to live in a world where the "almighty dollar" has little influence. In the vulgar but expressive language of a subscriber, "We have been on the hog long enough."

EXPENSES MORE THAN LAST YEAR

At the meeting of the Charity Board last night the statement of the expenses for the year to date showed that $2,216.87 had been expended. At the meeting on the same date last year the statement showed an expense account totalling $1,804.45. It will therefore be seen that the expenses this year have been heavier than in 1908.

SCOTTISH CONCERT AT ST. ANDREW'S

Harold Jarvis and Mrs. Shafor Delight Audience in Attractive Programme.

On their second appearance in Peterborough Harold Jarvis, robust tenor, and Mrs. Shafor, elocutionist, again packed St. Andrew's church last night, and the audience was more pleased than words can well express. The concert was under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society and the programme was largely Scottish, in keeping with St. Andrew's eve. The audience was composed mainly of descendants of natives of the land north of the Tweed, and the Scottish numbers on the programme appealed to them as they would appeal to no one else. There was a variety to the evening's entertainment, however, as the encores were not confined to Scottish selections—and there were many encores.

Mr. Jarvis sang in excellent voice, and roused his audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm with such songs as 'The Cameron Men,' 'The Highlandman's Toast,' and 'The Standard on the Braes O' Mar.' Very pleasing, too, was the 'Wee Bit O' Heather,' 'Stars May Forget,' 'What Shall I Give?' and his other encore numbers, which included a merry little Irish song, 'When I Sail for America.'

Mrs. Shafor showed herself a master of the Scottish dialect, and her auditors were moved from tears to laughter and from laughter to tears by her sympathetic and appealing rendition of the selections given. Her opening number was a selection from the "Bonnie Brier Bush," the story of the illness of Ann Mitchell, in which Dr. McClure's nobility of character is shown. The tale has to do with the bringing of the 'Queen's ain physician' from London to attend the Drumtochtie woman who is nigh unto death. Mrs. Shafor gave it a splendid reading and made the scene a very real one. Her other programme numbers—and all were equally good—were 'Aboot Wee Johnnie Paitterson,' 'Laddie' and 'Some Confusing Scotch Words.' One of her best humored selections was a portion of 'The Wee MacGregor.' The 'different kinds of crying' number was also done exceedingly well. Altogether it was a programme that delighted everyone, and the ladies who arranged the concert are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. It is no easy matter for two artists to give the whole programme for an evening's entertainment, and nothing more need be said for Mr. Jarvis and Mrs. Shafor than that they did it well. They will always find a large audience and a warm welcome in Peterborough.

The accompanist was Miss Maud C. Bradley, of Brockville, and her artistic work at the piano contributed greatly to the success of the concert. She is a skilled pianiste and an ideal accompanist.

Immigration to Canada for October totalled 17,391.

MANY HEARD ENTERTAINING TALK ON SCOTLAND

Rev. J. Russell Mc Lean of Colborne Delighted His Audience by His Splendid Discourse

The many who attended the lecture on "Scotland" at St. John's school room last night by the Rev. J. Russell McLean, of Colborne, enjoyed a most entertaining and instructive evening. A large number of beautiful slides were used to illustrate the many historic places and structures which the speaker referred to during his discourse. Mr. D. Hughes-Charles acted as chairman and during the evening Mr. Cameron gave some Scottish selections on the piano and Mr. H. Morphet and Mr. George Chandler, members of St. John's church choir, rendered vocal numbers which were well received. Mr. R. J. Devey acted as accompanist.

In his introductory remarks, Rev. Mr. McLean dwelt on the different classes of people in Scotland, and during this time told many humorous stories which greatly pleased his audience. The first scenes shown were those along the Clyde River and which are well known to every Scotchman. The old castles and churches where the great men who fought and died for Scotland, are asleep were other interesting places shown and referred to briefly. The hiding place of Wallace and the castle where some were imprisoned or put to death and many other places made famous in days gone past were included, during the lecture.

In his concluding remarks the speaker touched on the early religious conditions of Scotland.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Rev. Mr. McLean for his splendid lecture and the audience dispersed after the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

KNOX CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE AT Y. W. C. A.

The young people of Knox church walked in a body from the church to the Y. W. C. A. where a missionary meeting was held. The vice-president, Miss M. Menzies, was in the chair. After the opening exercises, Mr. A. T. Davenport sang a selection. A paper on "Corea, the country and people," by Mr. Roy Laing, was most interesting and helpful. Miss Ellen Warren spoke on "The outlook for missions." The speaker referred to the earnest endeavors of the Coreans and their liberality in giving to the church. Miss Lottie Childs gave a very straight talk on "Why young people should be interested in missions." Many reasons were put forth, regarding the urgency of the work for the heathen. A quartette, by Misses Menzies and Williamson and Messrs. Reid and Donaldson, was well rendered. Miss McCalla was called upon by Miss Menzies to speak. The Y. W. C. A. secretary was pleased to have the large gathering present, emphasizing especially the large turnout of young men. The addresses of the evening and of the meeting throughout were highly praised by Miss McCalla. The young ladies were heartily invited to come any time to the Y. W. C. A. The work of the association was sketched out. After the meeting the party were shown to the gymnasium. Refreshments were then served by the ladies of the "Y." Mr. W. Patten, the president, thanked Miss McCalla for the kindly way, and the pleasant time spent in the building. A reply was made by the secretary expressing the great pleasure it afforded her. Next Monday is social night at Knox church.

WATCHING A PLAY WHEN AT SEA

Experience a Unique One—What You are Expected to do at "Billy"

Have you ever been at sea and watched a play? That is what the audience is expected to do when they see "Billy," the three act farce which comes to the Grand Opera House to-morrow (Wednesday) evening direct from its summer run at Daly's Theatre, New York. All of the scenes of the three acts take place on board the steamship "Florida" en route from New York to Havana. Only the ship's rail separates the players from the audience, this being done to convey the idea that the boat is in motion with the audience as spectators of the amusing complications which arise on the other side of the rail. That the situations are amusing may be judged from the fact that the farce not only pleased New Yorkers on its opening night but continued to do so during the entire summer, thus establishing a record which has been equalled only by "Girls." When the piece is shown here the Shuberts insure the original cast including Edgar Atchison Ely, Mrs. Stuart Robson, Jane Marbury, Marion Chapman, Franklin Jones, Geo. LeSoir, Stuart Robson, jr., and fifteen others. "Billy" is by Geo. Cameron, who wrote "Billy's Tombstones," the vaudeville sketch from which the farce has been built.

EVERYTHING TRUE IN THE BIBLE

Says Dr. Elmore Harris in Sermon in London

London, Nov. 29.—Rev. Dr. Elmore Harris of Toronto denounced modern criticism in a most vigorous manner at the Adelaide street Baptist church yesterday morning in a sermon entitled "The Inspiration of the Word of God." Although he did not mention McMaster University by name, it was understood by his hearers that his remarks had largely to do with the recent heresy charges laid by him against a McMaster professor.

"There are no new arguments adduced by the modern critics," he said. "They are using the same old doctrines that were used by the French infidels, such as Voltaire and others. The seriousness of the thing is the fact that the same arguments that used to be used by infidels and skeptics, who were recognized as such, are now being used by men who are our evangelists and pastors. I have no fear whatever regarding the Word of God coming through uninjured in any way. My fear is that many men and women may go down to a Christless eternity because our teachers are tampering with the Word of God. Take, for instance, one of our colleges. You understand that a professor has a class within four walls of his lecture-room all to himself. He has your boy and my boy. Do you know that our boys will not tell us what they are being taught in nine cases out of ten? I contend that our professors must be men who are absolutely above suspicion, if men are in the position that they are in are to form the ideas of our boys and girls."

CHRIST AND OLD TESTAMENT

"As far as the Old Testament is concerned, we have it exactly the same as Jesus Christ had it in His day. Modern critics tell us that eleven chapters of Genesis are folk-lore. Jesus Christ had substantiated every one of ation of God, that is the original Scriptures were given to us by the Inspiration of God. that is hte original Scriptures. They say there are imperfections in them. Imperfections are not errors. If I send an article to the printer it will come back with many imperfections marked. The article is still mine. So with the Bible. I want to make this bold challenge, that no one can point to a single error in the Word of God.

"Make your mind that when you come to die you can lay your head down on the Word of God. The whole Bible, from cover to cover, is the Bible to me."

EDMONTON FACES A FUEL FAMINE

City Council Will Attempt to Get Miners to Go Back to Work

Edmonton, Nov. 29.—At a special meeting of the City Council Saturday morning it was resolved to attempt to induce the miners to go to work, failing which action will be taken against individual miners under the Lemieux Act. It will be difficult to get convictions as the miners disclaim collusion, asserting they jumped their jobs on their own initiative, yet they have asked the owners for larger pay and better conditions and refer them to union organizers, who, denying responsibility, are willing to negotiate. The power plant is drawing its supply from the Humberstone mine, which is being operated, but other public institutions including schools, Misericordia and public hospitals are facing a fuel famine.

Saturday night things looked brighter, two mines resuming, one having agreed to a small increase and the other mine to be turned over to the miners, who will work at the present scale and turn the coal over to the owners at a fixed price and divide any profits among themselves.

NELSON READY TO MEET WELSH

Says He Will Take on the Englishman Any Old Time at All

The Toronto Star says:—Battling Nelson, the lightweight champion, who is here at a burlesque theatre with the pictures of his famous 23-round fight with Dick Hyland last spring, says that he will fight Freddie Welsh, the English champion, just as soon as any one will stage the fight.

"I'm not running away from him," says Nelson, "but I won't punch his head the first time I meet him on the street; nor will I fight him for a bag of peanuts."

Nelson, a sturdy fellow, with a pair of cauliflower ears and a nose flattened out like a pancake, is an entertaining talker, but lacks the bombast of the majority of scrappers. He says he has lost the decision in a dozen battles, but has accomplished what no other lightweights has done—knocked out every top-notch lightweight of his day.

"Everybody wants to fight me," says Nelson. "I'll fight any one if there is money enough in sight."

Nelson says that while Johnson is a grand fighter, he is going the pace that kills, and thinks that if Jeffries ever comes back to anything like form he will win.

Nelson spars three rounds with Tommy Lake at every performance

THERE IS A GOOD DEAL OF TRUTH IN THESE LINES

Toronto Telegram:—Has it ever occurred to you what a gaping hiatus there would be in the surplus of these football clubs had they to pay for the free advertising they get, at the usual reading matter rate. Can you see the large hole in the Varsity treasury for instance, were the football club billed for every local notice, to say nothing of the literary boosts, gratis, of Argonauts. The average football club expects columns of free advertising, but is usually unwilling to give anything in return. To ask a football club to give a paper a little advertisement of an approaching game is to get nothing better than a haughty stare like an offended blonde would say, "Sir."

In fact, in all lines of sport, lacrosse, hockey, baseball or football a newspaper gives a great deal more than it receives. A ten-line advertisement from any of the above is expected to carry a half column of puff and glad talk, and if a paper behaves itself it may get tickets it could purchase for two shillings a time. Newspapers generally give far too much free advertising to these hockey, lacrosse and football events

DIRTY FORM OF SPORT IN NETTING DUCKS

Chief Game Warden Tinsley Will Get After the Offenders

"The dirtiest form of law breaking I know of," was the description given by Chief Game Inspector Tinsley of the gentlemen who make a living by netting ducks.

This brutal form of illicit sport attracted the attention of the Game and Fisheries Department a few days ago in the neighborhood of Belleville, and an arrest was made. The offender was fined $20 and his nets confiscated and destroyed.

"We have pretty well driven out duck netting," Mr. Tinsley told the News this morning. "It was but a few years ago when our game inspectors would not dare to molest some of the gangs engaged in the netting business, for fear of their lives. One of our best men was shot and killed on such an expedition. Port Rowan and Fort Erie and the vicinity of Belleville were two of the worst spots, which we have fairly well cleaned out."

The brutality of such law-breaking is explained by the treacherous laying of the next a few inches beneath the water, the ducks being tangled in the meshes in their search for food.—Toronto News.

P. A. C. to Organize

A special meeting of the Park Street Athletic Club will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock in the rooms on Park street for the purpose of organizing a hockey club for the coming season. The meeting will be open and all young men are invited to be present.

SPORTING NOTES

Manager Oldham of the West Ends announces that he has all positions on the team filled by fast players.

The Mercantile Hockey League should be much faster this season. The annual meeting will be held Thursday night.

It is refreshing to read the accounts in the Ottawa papers of the Ottawa-Varsity game. The writers admit the team was outclassed and give the winners all the credit due them.

There is a possibility of an exhibition game between Yale and Toronto University.

Fred Doherty, the Norwood boy who played with the Galt professional hockey team last season, will be on the line-up against Ottawa for the Stanley Cup.

Every canine has his one sweet hour, as John Milton so beautifully puts it, or to tell it simply, every dog has his day. After being prominent for three or four years, Lindsay has dropped off the hockey map. The boys of the old brigade have hung their skates in the wood-shed or have drifted away from the slow-moving Scugog. The intermediate cup is being shipped back to Toronto and the strains of "So Long Mary" are wafted on the ether. Perhaps the jug will come back some day. But for the present; Slow Music, Curtain, Exeunt.

O you dopesters! The lemons and the book and all the other weapons of an unappreciative audience for you. The worst of the culprits are confined to Hamilton and Ottawa but Toronto has no small number of offenders. What was Hamilton not going to do to Ottawa and what were the Interprovincial champions not going to do to the Intercollegiate leaders. And what they did not do was a good deal more than they did. The dope went all to the bad when the sure-thing Tigers were walloped to a finish by the Rough Riders and it got a knock-out blow when the Varsity team made the Ottawas look like a bunch of novices on Saturday. The dope has been all to the bad all year. It was skewgee when Dr. Cook beat out Peary in the North Pole hunt and it has been standing on its head ever since.

Henceforth the dopesters should confine themselves to picking their teeth instead of trying to pick winners.

Speaking of dopesters it might be remarked that the sporting editor of the Hamilton Spectator is worse than them all. Here he has been all season knocking the Intercollegiate teams, saying they were not fast enough to make a hit in Belleville. He also characterized the Ottawa team as a bunch of dubs. There was no sense in this hammering at the Intercollegiate union and also at the O.R.F.U., but it is often the incompetent critic that has the most to say. If the Parkdale team give Varsity a close run next Saturday the rout of the Spectator critic will be complete.

AUSTRALIANS ARE VICTORS

Sydney, N.S.W., Nov. 29—The Australian defenders of the Dwight F. Davis Challenge Cup defeated the Americans in straight sets in the doubles of the international tennis tournament to-day. The Australians showed better judgment, and won by magnificent volleying and prompt rallying at critical moments. The score;

International doubles — Norman E. Brookes of Victoria and A. F. Wilding, New Zealand, defeated Maurice E. McLoughlin, United States, and Melville H. Long, United States, 12—10, 9—7, 6—7.

The Californians made a splendid fight, though McLoughlin was erratic. Long's service was masterly. Wilding was forceful and consistent throughout, while the service and placing of Brookes was perfect.

The weather was bright and warm and the court fast. The attendance was excellent.

WRESTLING

At Detroit, Mich., last night, Dr. B. F. Roller wrestling champion of the Pacific Coast, held Frank Gotch, world's heavy-weight champion, fifteen minutes without a fall. Roller broke nearly all of Gotch's favorite holds. Gotch threw Jack Asman of Kansas City twice in seven minutes.

The Toronto News says: Artie Edmunds, the Pocket Hercules, is disgusted with the wrestling game in general and local mat artists in particular, so he has decided to throw up the business and will spend the winter on the stage in his physical culture stunts, which took so well when he was on the job before. He says he isn't going to waste any more of his time with the four-flushers hereabouts.

Artie will take on all the boxers that he can find and a match with Billy Allen of Ottawa is practically booked for in the near future, the fight to take place at either Oneida or Tonawanda.

MERCANTILE HOCKEY LEAGUE

Meeting to Re-organize for Season to be Held at Y. M. C. A. Thursday Night

The Quakers and Auburns are ready for the winter game and will place strong sevens on the ice this winter and when the other teams get into line, th prospects for fast hockey in this league will be bright

WIFE SAYS PREACHER WAS TOO FRESH

Montreal, Nov. 26.—According to a despatch from San Francisco, California, Mrs. Jennie Gay Du Moulin, wife of the Rev. Walter G. Du Moulin, of Niagara, Ont. has brought an action for divorce against her husband, alleging desertion and non-support. The complaint, it is said, abounds in sensational charges. Mrs. Du Moulin is at present at the home of her mother, Mrs. Gay, 1424 Steiner street, San Francisco, and the Rev. Mr. Du Moulin is in Seattle. The latter's father, Bishop Du Moulin, is well known in Montreal, having been rector of St. Martin's church and assistant to the Rev. Dr. Bancroft in Trinity church.

Mrs. Du Moulin was formerly Miss Louise Gay who sang in the choir of St. Paul's church, San Francisco, of which Mr. Du Moulin was rector. They met and ultimately were married, but their matrimonial experience seems to have been a stormy one.

Mrs. Du Moulin charges generally that her husband was unduly intimate with women of the parishes of which he had been rector. Mr. Du Moulin says that this charge is absolutely unfounded and that his wife was always jealous of the women members of the church in which he officiated. He says that because of her conduct he was asked to resign his pulpit in Michigan.

The most sensational charge made by Mrs. Du Moulin, however, is that her husband asked her to pose for a picture of a nature repugnant to her womanhood."

In an interview at Seattle, Mr. Du Moulin is reported to have made the following statement, in regard to the latter charge: "Yes, I did ask my wife to pose for a picture, and perhaps it might have been considered a trifle indelicate by fastidious persons. Yet it was just between us two and I thought she might have acceded to my wish."

Mr. Du Moulin is now acting as a solicitor for a life insurance company in San Francisco. He has a brother, who is rector of Trinity Cathedral, Cleveland.

DO JUST WHAT IS CLAIMED FOR THEM

That's What Joseph Macklin Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills

They Cured His Neuralgia, Cramped Muscles and Heart Disease From Which He Had Suffered For Two Years

St. Paul de Metis, Alta, Nov. 29.—(Special).—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for me all that is claimed for them." So says Joseph Macklin, a well known farmer of this district. "I was ill for over six years with Neuralgia, Cramps in my muscles, Backache and Heart Disease. I called on different doctors but got no help. I heard that Dodd's Kidney Pills were meant for just such cases as mine, and bought eight boxes of them. Now I feel just like a new man. I recommend them to all as a sure cure for Rheumatism and all troubles arising from diseased Kidneys."

Thousands of farmers all over the west relate similar experiences to that given by Mr. Macklin. They find that Dodd's Kidney Pills do just what is claimed for them—cure all diseased Kidneys and all diseases arising from diseased Kidneys.

The Wonder is

Baltimore Sun.

The wonder is that all the world is half as good and sweet,
The captains and the kings who rule
the people that we meet;
The trouble is, we want so much we cannot feel content
With just the portion of the dream that unto us is sent.

The wonder is we cannot see beyond our narrow strife,
The beauty of the boundless bloom
That fills the vales of life;
The trouble is, we do not care to kneel and look around us
Upon the living loveliness with which the days have bound us.

The wonder is, we take our wails of care for all that lies Around us in the world that lifts to wide and starry skies;
The trouble is, the selfish will that burns us and consumes us,
While everywhere the light of love in vain with love illumes us.

The wonder is that in this world
we've heart for anything,
Except to listen and to learn, while grey Grief holds her wing,
And music chimes and tinkling rhyme and fairy bells awake
The hearts of love that strive and take for sake of loving sake,

The trouble is, we do not know how much of goodness goes
Upon the tide of teeming life that round us leaps and flows;
With beauty here and beauty there,
and God's impartial will
To save us harmless from the hate that haunts and hounds us still.

SHOULD HELP RAILWAYS

Prompt Handling of Freight by Shippers Would Avert Car Famine Danger

An article on the subject of car supply, which appears in this month's issue of "Industrial Canada," the official organ of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, has caused a good deal of discussion, and apparently has been misunderstood in some quarters.

A railway freight official said yesterday that a careful reading of the article would show that the association had not only made no attack on the railroads, but that it was joining heartily in the movement to avert loss to the business world, always occasioned by want of cars, and conveyed to its members a warning of the impending danger unless shippers and receivers joined with the railroads in keeping freight cars on the move. The railroads say that there is really no car shortage at present, and it would seem that the public could aid greatly in preventing one if cars were detained only such length of time as is necessary to load and unload freight. In this way the freight car equipment of the railroads, in the use of which the public has a joint interest, could probably be made to supply all the wants of the shipping world, and the great loss and embarrassment to both the shipping public and the railroads through car famines, which have been of almost yearly occurrence in the past, would be obviated.—Montreal Gazette, Nov. 3, 1909.

A TRIP TO ALASKA

A trip to Alaska is one seldom undertaken by people in the British Isles, and of the many bookings undertaken by the Grand Trunk Railway officials in London, few tickets show the destination to be that part far north of Canada, where coal and gold, together with meteorological observations, are often supposed to be the chief reason for the existence of that land. That such a trip can be made with little out of the ordinary fatigue of travelling is well proved by a recent communication sent to Mr. Fred C. Salter, European Traffic Manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, from Mr. Bromley Challenor, F.R.G.S., who has just returned from the north-western limit of the North American Continent. The letter has an added interest by reason of the fact that on the day of the official opening of the Grand Trunk Railway's new offices at 17-19 Cockspur street, S.W., Mr. Challenor was the first person to book a passage with the Company for Canada. On Dominion Day, July 1st, the trip was planned and provision made for the journey and in the first week in October, back in England again, the well-known geographer has been pleased to write to the Grand Trunk offices expressing his entire satisfaction with the easy way in which the journey was accomplished. After thanking the railway officials for making his means of transportation pleasant and comfortable, he says: "I was very pleased, indeed, with both the road and rolling stock of your Company, and in my opinion it is second to none on the Continent of America. The arrangements you made for me very much added to my comfort and enabled me to reach my destination in the quickest possible time, and I must say I experienced the greatest civility from the Company's staff during my passage on your road. The route you worked out for me was a most interesting one, and coming back as I did, over the Rockies and the Great Lakes, I did not travel over a single mile a second time except the short run between Sarnia and Toronto. Will you be good enough to send me particulars of your 'Round the World Tours.' I am thinking that next spring I may have another run out to the West, and if I do, I should like to return home via the East." Thus the whole of Great Britain is quickly put in touch by this great railway system, with what frequently is said to be the uttermost parts of the earth.—Dublin, (Ireland) Daily Express, Oct. 19th, 1909.

THE CICADA.

Life of the Seventeen Year Locusts Due in 1919.

One of the insect marvels is the life story of the cicada, commonly and erroneously called the seventeen year locust. The famous brood twenty-two appeared in the summer of 1902. It extended over a territory from Long Island west to Wisconsin and south to Georgia. No harm is done by these insects, except that the females lay their eggs in bunches in the soft twigs of trees. But it does not hurt a tree to lose a goodly number of its twigs once in seventeen years. The next visitation of these insects is due in 1919.

It is interesting to note that brood twenty-two has a generation of youngsters developing right under our feet, says Country Life in America. They are seven years old this year and have ten years yet to grow before they come to light as winged adult insects.

The life story of a generation begins when the females flock to the treetops and lay their egg masses in the twigs. In a few weeks the eggs hatch, and the fat, antlike larvae wriggle out and fall to the ground. Immediately they burrow below the surface and establish themselves each alone in a little chamber near the root of some plant.

In the years of inactive life that follow the insects feed upon humus, possibly also on sap from rootlets. The front legs are developed into tools like cutting jaws for burrowing and getting food.

The insect molts its skin five times during its life underground. These changes occur during the second, fourth, eleventh and fifteenth years. When the seventeenth year is reached ambition of a new sort is born. The creature, now a pupa, crawls to the surface of the ground, sometimes celebrating the great day by building a chimney of earth and crawling out of this special exit into the open for the final molt.

Honored, but Empty.

The emperor of Austria holds lengthy dinners in detestation. In no circumstances will he spend more than forty-five minutes at table. Guests at the imperial banquets, which invariably consist of twelve courses, suffer the tortures of Tantalus, for no sooner are their plates charged than they see them whisked away in order to keep within the time limit. The emperor's "tafeldecker," or grooms of the table, are the chief gainers by this arrangement, as all food left over goes to them as a perquisite. These officials make arrangements with the proprietor of a restaurant near the palace, whither the dishes are taken as soon as they leave the dining room, and where Vienna gourmets flock when they hear that Franz Josef is giving a state dinner. Some of the imperial guests have been known to visit this restaurant after leaving the palace in an honored but empty condition.—London Chronicle.

The Royal Picture Dealer.

"The royal picture dealer is making preparations for another sale," says the Brussels correspondent of a Berlin paper. "The people of Belgium are still muttering about the sale of the old masters by King Leopold, but the royal merchant is not disturbed and shows his disregard by sending a collection of 250 modern works on its first stage to the auctioneer's block. The pictures were taken from the royal residence to the museum, where they may be seen by those who pay for the privilege for three months, and then to the auctioneer. Leopold will also sell all the castle furniture, and liberal American purchasers will receive as gratuities letters of Louis Philippe which will guarantee the genuineness of the various pieces."

Detroit aldermen are agitating for eight street car tickets for a quarter.

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Calendar's cab was drawing perilously near, and he was debating whether or not they should alight at once and try to make a better pace afoot when the decision was taken wholly out of his hands.

Blindly staggering on, wilted with weariness, the horse stumbled in the shafts and plunged forward on its knees. Quick as the driver was to pull it up, with a cruel jerk of the bits, Kirkwood was caught unprepared. Lurching against the dashboard, he lost his footing, grasped frantically at the unstable air and went over, bringing up in a sitting position in the gutter with a solid shock that jarred his very teeth.

For a moment dazed, he sat there blinking. By the time he got to his feet the girl stood beside him, questioning him with keen solicitude.

"No," he gasped, "not hurt—only surprised. Wait."

Their cab had come to a complete standstill. Calendar's was no more than twenty yards behind, and as Kirkwood caught sight of him the fat adventurer was in the act of lifting himself ponderously out of the seat.

Incontinently the young man turned to the girl and forced the traveling bag into her hands.

"Run for it!" he begged her. "Don't stop to argue. You promised—run! I'll come."

"Philip!" she pleaded.

"Dorothy!" he cried in torment.

Perhaps it was his unquestionable distress that weakened her. Suddenly she yielded, with whatever reason. He was only hazily aware of the swish of her skirts behind him. He had no time to look round and see that she got away safely. He had only eyes and thoughts for Calendar and Stryker.

They were both afoot now and running toward him, the one as awkward as the other, but neither yielding a jot of their malignant purpose. He held the picture of it oddly graphic in his memory for many a day thereafter.

To this mental photograph another succeeds of the same scene an instant later, all as it had been before, their relative positions unchanged save that Stryker and Calendar had come to a dead stop and that Kirkwood's right arm was lifted and extended, pointing at the captain.

So forgetful of self was he that it required a moment's thought to convince him that he was really responsible for the abrupt transformation. Incredulously he realized that he had drawn Calendar's revolver and pulled Stryker up short in midstride by the mute menace of it as much as by his hoarse cry of warning:

"Stryker, not another foot!"

With this there chimed in Dorothy's voice, ringing bell clear from a little distance:

"Philip!"

Like a flash he wheeled to add yet another picture to his mental gallery.

Perhaps twoscore feet up the sidewalk a gate stood open. Just outside it a man of tall and slender figure, rigged out in a bizarre costume consisting mainly of a flowered dressing gown and slippers, was waiting in an attitude of singular impassivity. Within it, pausing with a foot lifted to the doorstep, bag in hand, her head turned as she looked back, was Dorothy.

As he comprehended these essential details of the composition the man in the flowered dressing gown raised a hand, beckoning to him in a manner as imperative as his accompanying words.

Kirkwood choked on a laugh that was half a sob. "Brentwick!" he cried, restoring the weapon to his pocket and running toward his friend. "Of all happy incidents!"

"You may call it that," retorted the elder man, with a fleeting smile, as Kirkwood slipped inside the dooryard. "Come," he said; "let's get into the house."

"But you said—I thought you went to Munich," stammered Kirkwood, and so thoroughly impregnated was his mind with this understanding that it was hard for him to adjust his perceptions to the truth.

"I was detained—by business," responded Brentwick briefly. His gaze, weary and wistful behind his glasses, rested on the face of the girl on the threshold of his home, and the faint, sensitive flush of her face deepened. He stopped and honored her with a bow that, for all his fantastical attire, would have graced a beau of an earlier decade. "Will you be pleased to enter?" he suggested punctiliously. "My house, such as it is, is quite at your disposal. And," he added, with a glance over his shoulder, "I fancy that a word or two may presently be passed which you would hardly care to hear."

Kirkwood lingered with his friend upon the door stoop. Calendar, recovered from his temporary consternation, was already at the gate, bending over it, fat fingers fumbling with the latch, his round red face lifted to the house, darkly working with chagrin.

From his threshold, watching him with a slight contraction of the eyes, Brentwick hailed him in tones of cloying courtesy:

"Do you wish to see me, sir?"

The fat adventurer faltered just within the gateway. Then, with truculent swagger, "I want my daughter!" he declared vociferously.

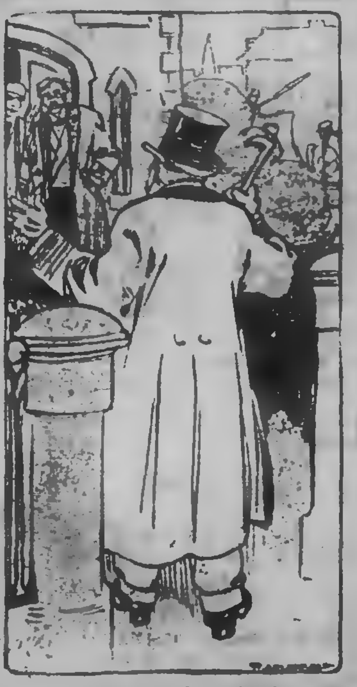
Brentwick peered mildly over his glasses, first at Calendar, then at Kirkwood. His glance lingered a moment on the young man's honest eyes and swung back to Calendar.

"My good man," he said, with sublime tolerance, "will you be pleased to take yourself off—to the devil if you like? Or shall I take the trouble to interest the police?"

He removed one fine and fragile hand from a pocket of the flowered dressing gown long enough to jerk it significantly toward the nearer street corner.

Thunderstruck, Calendar glanced hastily in the indicated direction. A blue coated bobby was to be seen approaching with measured stride, diffusing upon the still evening air an impression of ineffably capable self contentment.

Calendar's fleshy lips parted and closed without a sound. He banged the gate behind him and waddled off to join the captain, who already, with praiseworthy native prudence, had fallen back upon their cab.



"I want my daughter!"

Sullenly extracting money from his pocket, he paid off his driver and in company with Stryker trudged in morose silence down the street.

Brentwick touched Kirkwood's arm and drew him into the house.

CHAPTER XXIX.

As the door closed Kirkwood swung impulsively to Brentwick with the brief, uneven laugh of fine drawn nerves.

"Good God, sir!" he cried. "You don't know"—

"I can surmise," interrupted the elder man shrewdly.

"You turned up in the nick of time, for all the world like"—

"Harlequin popping through a stage trap?"

"No—an incarnation of the providence that watches over children and fools."

Brentwick dropped a calming hand upon his shoulder. "Your simile seems singularly happy, Philip. Permit me to suggest that you join the child in my study." He laughed quietly, with a slight nod toward an open door at the end of the hallway. "For myself, I'll be with you in one moment."

A faint, indulgent smile lurking in the shadow of his white mustache, he watched the young man wheel and dart through the doorway. "Young hearts!" he commented audibly and a trace sadly. "Youth!"

Beyond the threshold of the study Kirkwood paused, eager eyes searching its somber shadows for a sign of Dorothy.

By the fireplace, a little to one side, she stood, one small foot resting on the brass fender, her figure merging into the dusky background, her delicate beauty gaining an effect of elusive and ethereal mystery in the waning and waxing ruddy glow upflung from the bedded coals.

"Oh, Philip!" She turned swiftly to Kirkwood with extended hands and a low, broken cry. "I'm so glad."

A trace of hysteria in her manner warned him, and he checked himself upon the verge of a too dangerous tenderness. "There!" he said soothingly, letting her hands rest gently in his palms while he led her to a chair. "We can make ourselves easy now."

She sat down, and he released her hands with a reluctance less evident than actual. "If ever I say another word against my luck"—

"Who," inquired the girl, lowering her voice—"who is the gentleman in the flowered dressing gown?"

"Brentwick—George Silvester Brentwick, an old friend. I've known him for years, ever since I came abroad. Curiously enough, however, this is the first time I've ever been here. I called once, but he wasn't in—a few days ago—the day we met. I thought the place looked familiar. Stupid of me!"

"Philip," said the girl, with a grave face, but a shaking voice, "it was"—she laughed provokingly—"it was so funny, Philip. I don't know why I ran when you told me to, but I did. And while I ran I was conscious of the front door here opening and this tall man in the flowered dressing gown coming down to the gate as if it were the most ordinary thing in the world for him to stroll out dressed that way in the evening. And he opened the gate and bowed and said, ever so pleasantly, 'Won't you come in, Miss Calendar?'"

"He did!" exclaimed Kirkwood. "But how"—

"How can I say?" she expostulated. "At all events, he seemed to know me, and when he added something about calling you in, too—he said 'Mr. Kirkwood'—I didn't hesitate."

"It's strange enough, surely, and fortunate. Bless his heart!" said Kirkwood.

And "Hum!" said Mr. Brentwick considerately, entering the study. He had discarded the dressing gown and was now in evening dress.

The girl rose. Kirkwood turned. "Mr. Brentwick"— he began.

But Brentwick begged his patience with an eloquent gesture and rang the bell.

A soft footed butler, impassive as Fate, materialized mysteriously in the doorway.

"You rang, sir?" he interrupted frigidly.

"If any one should ask for me I'm not at home."

"Very good, sir."

"And if you should see a pair of disreputable scoundrels skulking in the neighborhood, one short and stout, the other tall and evidently a seafaring man, let me know."

"Thank you, sir." A moment later the front door was heard to close.

Brentwick turned with a little bow to the girl. "My dear Miss Calendar," he said, rubbing his thin, fine hands—"I am old enough, I trust, to call you such without offense—please be seated."

"Would you mind telling us how you knew"— began Kirkwood anxiously.

"Not in the least, my dear Philip. It is simple enough. I possess an imagination. From my bedroom window, on the floor above, I happen to behold two cabs racing down the street, the one doggedly pursuing the other. The foremost stops, perforce of a fagged horse. There alights a young gentleman looking, if you'll pardon me, uncommonly seedy. He is followed by a young lady, if she will pardon me," with another little bow, "uncommonly pretty."

Brentwick removed his glasses, rubbed them and blinked thoughtfully at the girl. "My dear," he said suddenly, with a peculiar tremor in his voice, "you resemble your mother remarkably. Tut—I should know! Time was when I was one of her most ardent admirers."

"You—y-you knew my mother?" cried Dorothy, profoundly moved.

"Did I not know you at sight? My dear, you are your mother reincarnate for the good of an unworthy world. She was a very beautiful woman, my dear."—

"But you will tell me"—

"A number of interesting things, Miss Calendar, if you'll be good enough to let me choose the time. I beg you to be patient with the idiosyncrasies of an old man who means no harm, who has a reputation as an eccentric to sustain before his servants. And now," said Brentwick—"now, my dear boy, for the adventure."

Kirkwood chuckled, infected by his host's genial humor. "How do you know"—

"How can it be otherwise?" countered Brentwick, with a trace of asperity. "Am I to be denied my adventure? Sir, I refuse without equivocation. Your very bearing breathes of romance. There must be an adventure forthcoming, Philip; otherwise my disappointment will be so acute that I shall be regretfully obliged seriously to consider my right as a householder to show you the door."

"But, Mr. Brentwick"—

"Sit down, sir!" commanded Brentwick, with such a peremptory note that the young man, who had risen, obeyed out of sheer surprise, upon which his host advanced, indicting him with a long white forefinger. "Would you, sir," he demanded, "again expose this little lady to the machinations of that corpulent scoundrel whom I have just had the pleasure of shooing off my premises because you choose to resent an old man's raillery?"

"I apologize," Kirkwood humored him.

"I accept the apology in the spirit in which it is offered. I repeat, now for the adventure, Philip. If the story's long, epitomize. We can consider details more at our leisure."

Kirkwood's eyes consulted the girl's face. Almost imperceptibly she nodded him permission to proceed.

"Briefly, then," he began haltingly, "the man who followed us to the door here is Miss Calendar's father."

"Oh! His name, please?"

"George Burgoyne Calendar."

"Ah, an American! I remember now. Continue, please."

"He is hounding us, sir, with the intention of stealing some property, which he caused to be stolen, which we, to put it bluntly, stole from him, to which he has no shadow of a title and which finally we're endeavoring to return to its owners."

"But why have you not caused his arrest?" Brentwick inquired.

Kirkwood nodded meaningly toward the girl. Brentwick made a sound indicating comprehension, a click of the tongue behind closed teeth.

"We came to your door by the merest accident—it might as well have been another. I understood you were in Munich, and it never entered my head that we'd find you home."

"A communication from my solicitors detained me," explained Brentwick. "And, now, what do you intend to do?"

"Trespass as far on your kindness as you'll permit. In the first place, I—I want the use of a few pounds with which to cable some friends in New York for money, on receipt of which I can repay you."

"Philip," observed Brentwood, "you are a most irritating child. But I forgive you the faults of youth. You may proceed, bearing in mind, if you please, that I am your friend equally with any you may own in America."

"You're one of the best men in the world," said Kirkwood.

"Tut, tut! Will you get on?"

"Secondly, I want you to help us to escape Calendar tonight. It is necessary that Miss Calendar should go to Chiltern this evening, where she has friends who will receive and protect her."

WARDEN SCOTT TO RETIRE FROM THE COUNTY COUNCIL

Made the Announcement During His Address at Opening of December Session This Afternoon — Deputation from Lindsay Council to Come on Friday

The December sessions of the Peterborough County Council opened this afternoon at two o'clock at the court house with Warden Scott in the chair.

Every member was present, as follows: Messrs. A. Breault, Norwood; A. G. Kidd, Lakefield; J. Knox, Havelock; W. Comstock, Asphodel; J. W. Russell, Belmont; W. Tucker, Burleigh; W. Hales, Chandos; C. J. Darling, Dummer; F. Moher, Douro; M. Perdue, Ennismore; C. Cober, Galway; B. Shaw, Harvey; J. Brown, Monaghan; J. Fife, Otonabee; W. B. Stewart, Otonabee; R. N. Scott, Smith; Thos. Graham, Smith.

In his address the Warden stated that at the end of the present year he would resign from the council.

The address was as follows:

Gentlemen,—I assure you all it is a great pleasure for me to meet you for the last session of the County Council for this year. The past year has been one of great pleasure to me as Warden. In conducting the work, we have all worked harmoniously together and I am sure that nothing has been left undone, which would be of benefit to the County. There will be several important question to be discussed at this session. One is the appointment of a new school inspector for the new district to be formed. A deputation from the Lindsay Council will be here on Friday and it is necessary that you take into serious consideration, who is to be appointed. Pick out the best man that can be obtained. I am sorry and yet glad to say that this is my last year in the council, as I shall resign at the end of the year. For five years and a half I have acted as reeve of Smith and have served seven years altogether in the council and during that time have been elected four times by acclamation. I do not wish to be selfish and would be pleased to see some other one in the office as there are plenty of good men who could be secured.

The Warden's remarks were received with much applause.

"INQUIRER" WANTS TO KNOW IF A CLUB GETS A LICENSE UNDER LOCAL OPTION

(To the Editor of the Review)

Sir,—Under the law as it is, at present, I understand a license to sell liquors is granted by the License Commissioners of this city to one or more clubs. There is no difference between a hotel license and a club license so far as I can see except that I understand the club can sell at any old hours and is not under government inspection. Now, sir, I want to know if local option passes if this club license is to be continued. I understand it is. If so I will vote against Local Option for I do not believe in class legislation. To cut off the poor man and let the rich one live high, bow and when he pleases, is more than the people will stand for.

I ask for information and many will be glad to know about it.

Yours,
INQUIRER.

The Review has made inquiries of two of the commissioners, the third not being at his telephone. Dr. Morrison, the chairman of the Board of License Commissioners, and Mr. Lebrun, the two spoken to, both made answer that the question would be dealt with when it came before the board but that so far it had not been considered at all. On a former occasion Mr. Kendry told The Review that there was no doubt if Local Option passed that the License Board would deal with club licenses as they deal with other licenses. The department made no distinction and their duty would be to cut them off.—Ed.

WHERE HON. SENATOR COX GOT HIS FIRST JOB

Colborne Express.

We had a call on Monday from Mr. William C. Proctor, of Cobourg, who conducted a business in Colborne many years ago—in the fifties—in the building now occupied by Hotel Bristol. He called our attention to a biographical sketch of Hon. George A. Cox in Collier's issue of November, 1909, written by John Verner McAree.

One paragraph, "The Boy at the Key," is incorrect, he says, both as to place or party securing the first situation for the boy Cox.

On the arrival in Colborne of a Mr. Eggleston, who represented the telegraph company, a place for an office was secured through the kind offices of Mr. Proctor. The place was a harness shop owned by Mr. Wm. Nobles. The next difficulty was to secure someone to learn telegraphy. Several other boys were recommended and strong representations made in their behalf by ministers and leading business men, but through the persistency of Mr. Wm. C. Proctor alone the boy Geo. A. Cox received the appointment. Future events have proven the correctness of Mr. Proctor's faith in the boy's ability. As stated in Collier's, Mr. Cox was transferred to Port Hope, and afterwards to Peterborough, where he continued by patient and untiring efforts, to climb the ladder to wealth.

Many others have been given the credit for Mr. Cox's start in life, but Mr. Proctor thinks he is the one person entitled to the credit through securing for him the opportunity to manage the first telegraph office at Colborne, and giving the boy Cox a complete new outfit of clothing to enable him to enter upon those duties. And the fact has not been forgotten by Senator Cox, as he has spoken of it to friends quite often. The man Cheney, who is given the credit in Collier's, had nothing to do with the appointment.

"CANADA'S VANISHING FORESTS," AT MEETING OF BOARD OF TRADE

This (Tuesday) evening, 30th inst., in the City Council Chamber, at 8 o'clock, sharp, under the auspices of the Peterborough Board of Trade, a lecture will be delivered, illustrated by stereopticon views, on "Canada's Vanishing Forests," and what should be done for their protection. The lecturer will be Mr. James Lawler, who is the secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association. He is sent out by the association for the purpose of showing Canadians by words and pictures the dangers that confront Canada from the ruthless burning and cutting away of her forests. All the civilized countries of the world are increasing their demands for timber. When these demands centre on Canada our forests will not last long unless we take measures to perpetuate and develop them. It is to point out how this may be done that the lecture is given. Besides the loss to trade from the destruction of the forests, agriculture, navigation and waterpowers are adversely affected and game disappears, thus removing one of the best source sof revenue and recreation. These developments are being strikingly illustrated all over Canada at the present time, and some of the pictures are of a startling character. The lecture is delivered free to the public and ladies, as well as gentlemen, are invited.

PROGRAMME FOR THE WINTER FAIR AT GUELPH DECEMBER 6TH TO 10TH

A special feature in connection with the lectures to be delivered at the Winter Fair this year is the discussion of proper types to be sought for in the breeding of the various pure breeds of live stock. Animals will be used for illustration purposes and the discussions will be of a practical nature of benefit to the farmer who is trying to improve his grade stock as well as the breeder of pure-bred animals. The questions will be of interest to all in these times when feed is so expensive. A general subject of special value will be "Underdraining." Prof. W. H. Day will explain the conditions under which it is advisable to underdrain, the principles to be followed in laying out a plan and the materials and appliances which should be used.

The following is a synopsis of the subjects to be taken up at the different sessions: On Tuesday evening, December 7th, there will be the session for poultry, with addresses on "Profitable Production of Poultry on the Farm," by Prof. Graham, Guelph; "Poultry Feeds and Feeding," by Miss Mary Yates, Guelph, and "Fireless Brooders," by J. W. Clark, Cainsville. The session for Dairy Cattle will be on Wednesday morning, beginning at 9.30 a.m. "Lessening the Cost of Milk Production" will be discussed by Prof. Dean, Guelph, and the "Breed Type of Ayrshires, Holsteins and Jerseys" will be taken up separately by Messrs. A. Hume, R. S. Stevenson and R. Reid, respectively. Wednesday afternoon at 1.30 Prof. W. H. Day will take up the question of "Underdraining," and at 3.30 there will be addresses on "Breed Type of Shorthorns" by Robert Miller, and "Herefords, Aberdeen-Angus and Galloways," by Prof. G. E. Day. On Wednesday evening at 7.30 p.m., there will be a public meeting in the City Hall, at which addresses will be delivered by prominent men and a musical programme will be rendered. Thursday morning will be taken up by addresses on the "Breed Type of Clydesdales, Shires, Hackneys, Thoroughbreds, Standard-Breds and Ponies." These will be discussed in the order named by Wm. Smith, John Gardhouse, Dr. Grange, Dr. J. H. Reed, Dr. Routledge and Robt. Miller. On Thursday afternoon at 1.30 "Breed Type of Sheep" will be taken up. Shropshires and Cotswolds, by Robert Miller; Southdowns, by Lt.-Col. McEwen; Dorsets, by R. H. Harding; Leicesters, by A. W. Smith, and Oxfords, Lincolns, Hampshires and Suffolks, by Prof. Arkell. On Thursday afternoon at 2.30 Prof. G. E. Day will discuss the "Breed Type of the Different Breeds of Swine." On Thursday evening at the Seed session, the addresses will be "Best Types of Ensilage Corn for the Various Stock Raising Districts of Ontario," by Prof. Grisdale; "Observations and Conclusions from the work in Judging Seed Exhibits at the Winter Fair," by Prof. Buchanan; "The Seed Control Act and the Farmers," by T. G. Raynor. There will also be some short addresses giving practical lessons obtained by the judges from the work in judging the fields of standing grain in Ontario during the past summer.

The judging of the different classes of live stock will take place at the following times:—

Horses, 255 entries—Tuesday, 1.15 p.m.; Wednesday, 3.00 p.m.; Thursday, 1.30 p.m. and 3.30 p.m.; Friday, 10.00 a.m., and 1.30 p.m.

Beef Cattle, 135 entries—Tuesday, 2 p.m.; Wednesday, 9.30 a.m., continued till finished.

WIRE PICTURES FROM LONDON

(Special Cable Service.)

London, November 27. — Telegraphing pictures from London to New York is the problem at present engaging the attention of the scientists. In a lecture given before the Royal Society of Arts Thorne Baker said that Prof. Korn was likely to find a practical solution of sending photographs by the ordinary cable across the Atlantic, while he himself was endeavoring to perfect a wireless system for the same purpose, which had already given promising results in his laboratory.

A complete series of photographs was shown illustrating the progress that had been made since the first instruments of Prof. Korn were established in November, 1907, at the offices of the Daily Mirror. The Korn telautograph and the Thorne Baker telectograph will enable photographs of all kinds to be telegraphed for publication with a fair measure of success. The improvements in the processes of transmission within this relatively brief period is striking.

KAISER THINKS TRIPLE ALLIANCE WILL KEEP PEACE ON CONTINENT

In Speech From the Throne at Opening of the Reichstag Emperor William Says He Relies on Treaty to Keep Things Quiet.

Berlin, Dec. 1.—Emperor William opened the Reichstag yesterday by personally reading the speech from the throne.

The speech dealt largely with domestic legislation and connected the important announcement that the Government had prepared a measure extending the sick benefit of insurance to the working classes not heretofore protected, and creating a system of insurance for the dependent relatives of deceased workers. The imperial insurance organization will be modified in important particulars.

One of the principal tasks of the Government, the Emperor said, was to fortify the financial position of the empire with the means provided by the finance bill of last session, and this task would be accomplished through the appropriation bill for 1910, which would be laid before the House.

"Our possessions overseas, in Africa and in the south seas," said the Emperor, "are developing well. The growth of their own incomes will relieve the empire considerably of colonial expenses.

"It is proposed," continued Emperor William, "to continue the Usamabar Railway to Killimajaro and thus round out the southwest African system. The increase in the working population and in the wealth of the protected districts make a reform in the legal system necessary."

Reference was also made in the speech to the proposed extension for two years of the trade agreement with Great Britain, which expires December 31; to the trade treaty with Portugal; the French-German agreement over Morocco, and to the triple alliance which had preserved the peace for a generation.

"I cherish confidence," said His Majesty, "that the three allied empires will continue to act together, using their strength for the welfare of their people and the maintenance of peace."

"HAMONIC" CRIPPLED

Keewatin Did Not Meet Her in Race on Lake as Was Reported.

Sarnia, Dec. 1.—A despatch from Owen Sound appeared in The Toronto World yesterday morning relative to the steamer Keewatin of the C.P. Line beating the steamer Hamonic between Fort William and Sault Ste. Marie.

The Northern Navigation Co. are indignant that such a misleading statement should have been sent out, as, in an interview with Capt. C. H. Nicholson, traffic manager of the Northern Navigation Co., he says that the steamer Hamonic at this season of the year has been running with reduced crew and only using four boilers for the last five or six weeks, and with only one blade and three parts of another blade.

Coming out the Passage Islands she threw one blade entirely and had to check down to twelve miles an hour, and completed the trip at that speed. The divers are now at work repairing the blade so that she can make her last trip.

Capt. Nicholson says that if this is the best the Keewatin can do she had better try a race with a freight boat next time, as the Hamonic is conceded to be the fastest and best boat on the upper lakes.

MANY SWITCHMEN ARE ON STRIKE

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 1.—After fifteen days' negotiation between the Switchmen's Union of North America and the joint committee of railroad managers, representing 13 roads of the Northwest, a strike, involving 2,300 switchmen, became effective at six o'clock last night. The men demanded six cents more an hour and double pay for Sunday and overtime in excess of ten hours. The men were employed by the various railroads running west and north of St. Paul and Lake Superior to the Pacific coast.

The first effect of the strike was a sharp bulge in the price of wheat on the Chicago grain market yesterday. As the roads entering St. Paul, Duluth and Superior are largely grain carriers from the west, the prospect of interruption to this traffic caused some to fear delayed deliveries of grain.

Last night both sides to the dispute issued statements.

CONSTABLE IS DECLARED NOT GUILTY

Brantford, Dec. 1.—The trial of Dominion Constable David Garlow, charged with shooting with felonious intent Curtis Martin, in a recent brawl on the Indian reserve, resulted yesterday in a dismissal. Garlow said that Martin attacked him with a fence rail, and he had to shoot in self protection. One bullet entered Martin's knee and the other his ankle. One leg will have to be amputated to save his life.

Wrecking Tug Burned.

Detroit, Dec. 1.—The big wrecking tug Ottawa, owned by the Reid Wrecking Co., was burned to the water's edge at Red Cliff Bay, Wis. The Ottawa had just succeeded in releasing the big steamer Hoyt, abandoned to the underwriters. The crew were forced to flee for their lives.

The loss is $50,000, partly covered by insurance.

Funds For Irish Party.

New York, Dec. 1.—T. P. O'Connor M.P., of the Irish Nationalists in the British Parliament, sent another $5,600 to John Redmond, leader of the Nationalists yesterday, making a total of $80,000 collected during his six weeks' visit to America.

LAWYER JUMPS INTO THE RIVER AT THE "SOO"

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 1.—E. O. Swartz, a prominent lawyer here, jumped into the icy waters of Saint Mary's River yesterday afternoon from the pier of the American ferry. The first intimation received of his act was when the captain of the ferry steamer Fortune approached the pier, shouting, "Man overboard!" He was fished out by emigration officials and returned to the Canadian side.

Asked why he had gone in, he replied:

"The Lord told me to."

Swartz has been regularly attending evangelical services in the American Soo, conducted by Sheldon and McEwan, and when crossing on the ferry Tuesday night was down on his knees all the way across.

Swartz was in company with Contractor Fagan, who was drowned at Goulais River during the summer.

H. H. STRATHY IS DEAD AT BARRIE

Barrie, Dec. 1.—Henry Hatton Strathy, K.C., died early yesterday afternoon after a brief illness. Mr Strathy was taken ill with low fever about three weeks ago and confined to the house. Nothing serious was anticipated until last Thursday. The best skilled medical aid was then brought from Toronto, but the fever overtaxed his heart, death being due to heart weakness. Mr. Strathy was in his 63rd year. The funeral takes place Thursday afternoon. He was associated with many philanthropic works chiefly as president of the Children's Aid Society for the county and of the Royal Victoria Hospital.

CHURCH CENSUS AT ST. KITT'S

Included are about three hundred boarders.

POWER FAMINE IN PORT ARTHUR

Port Arthur Dec. 1.—Port Arthur's campaign for electrical power grows in intensity day by day.

Council expects to have a new bylaw of agreement with Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission soon. Meantime the city's power supply is so short that lights have to be cut off at midnight on account of low water in the current of the river, due to the dry fall. Council last night appointed a committee to endeavor to make arrangements with the Kaministiquia Co. for the supply of 1,500 h.p. temporary power.

LORDS REJECT THE BUDGET MEASURE GOES TO PEOPLE

After Warnings by Notables in British Statesmanship the Upper House Throws Out Financial Bill—Earl Crewe Sums up for Government—Scene is Impressive, But Little Excitement Prevailed.

London, Dec. 1.—In direct disregard of the advice of some of its ablest and oldest members, such as Lords Rosebery, Morley, Cromer, Courtney, James of Hereford, Balfour of Burleigh, the Earl of Lytton and the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the House of Lords yesterday created a situation unprecedented in English history, at least in three hundred years, by refusing formal assent to the budget bill, and referring it to the country itself for judgment, thereby, in theory, making it illegal to collect taxes and carry on the King's Government.

The vote, taken close to midnight, was on Lord Lansdowne's amendment that the House was not justified in giving its consent to the budget bill until it had been submitted to the judgment of the country. It resulted: For the amendment 350, against 75. There was no excitement.

The following abstained from voting: The Duke of Connaught, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Viscount St. Oldwyn, Earl de la Warr, the Earl of Lytton and the Marquis of Dufferin and several other peers and bishops. The Archbishop of York and the Bishops of Birmingham, Chester and St. Asaph voted against the resolution. The Bishop of Lincoln voted for the resolution, while Lord James of Hereford and the Bishop of Hereford paired against the resolution. Otherwise the division was on strict party lines.

The Earl of Crewe, Secretary of State for the Colonies, and Lord Privy Seal, closed the debate in a speech frequently interrupted by Ministerial cheers.

Lord Lansdowne's amendment, he contended, was the negation of all precedent and flouted all usages. All agreed that it was necessary this year to raise a large amount of extra money by taxation, necessitated by the claims of national defence and the adoption of old-age pensions.

The sum total of the long debate, he declared, was that the Opposition considered the Government's method of raising money as illusory, and that that justified revolution.

The final day's debate was again distinguished by oratorical excellence, particularly by Lord Curzon of Kedleston, former Viceroy of India, and the Archbishop of York. The archbishop's speech was his maiden effort in the House of Lords, and his eloquent periods, added to by Dr. Lang's fine presence and beautiful voice, made a deep impression.

The archbishop strongly arraigned Lord Lansdowne's resolution, declaring that it would be unprecedented for the Lords to reject a finance bill passed by the House of Commons with such a majority.

The House cleared for division at 11.30 p.m.

The scene was impressive, but in no sense exciting, except that the House was packed to its utmost capacity and a great array of numbers of peers who only appear in the House in most exceptional cases.

None would have supposed that the event proceeding was destined not only to prove memorable in the annals of British history, but possibly also involving far-reaching charges in the British constitution.

There certainly was unusual animation in the public galleries, which were crowded with peeresses, members of the House of Commons, ambassadors and others, but in the House itself complete calm prevailed. There was none of that tense excitement or exuberant enthusiasm so distinctive of a similar occasion in the lower House.

Nearly fifteen minutes were occupied in clearing the House.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith, called another meeting of the Cabinet for ten o'clock this morning to complete formalities, following the action of the House of Lords, and it is practically certain that Parliament will be prorogued on Friday until the middle of January.

It is also stated, with an air of authority, that yesterday's council decided upon measures ensuring the uninterrupted collection of taxes on tea, spirits and tobacco, until the new Parliament is able to pass a retrospective act, regularising the situation.

The Premier went to Sandringham to see the King after the council to-day.

As the new taxes are all rejected, the treasury, in the words of Lord Welby, a leading authority on the subject, can only look to the taxation in force on 31st March last, but of this the income tax expired on April 5, leaving only about $5,000,000 arrears recoverable from the preceding year. This means a loss of revenue of over $140,000,000. Further, the tea duty expired on June 30, involving a probable loss of $22,000,000. These sums together with the estimated difference between the revenue and expenditure of the current year based on last year's taxation makes up a deficit of well on to $250,000,000 for which provision must be made.

The income tax and tea duties collected since the resolution affecting them passed the House of Commons according to the usual practice will now be repayable to the taxpayer and many suits for that purpose have been reported in preparation in anticipation of the rejection of the bill.

Whenever the session closes, neither income tax nor tea duty can be levied—in the latter case a serious matter for merchants with large stocks on hand. To meet these difficulties alternative methods have been proposed. The House of Commons might be invited to pass a budget which the Lords would approve, in which case the deficit in round figures would be $65,000,000. This, however, means submission to the peers, a humiliation scarcely conceivable. The other course suggested is for the House of Commons to pass a resolution authorizing the continued levying of the new taxes and duties pending the general election. But this might meet with objection as conferring no legal warrant.

If declarations made by responsible members of the Government are to be taken at their face value, no compromise of any kind will be accepted by the Cabinet. These were, however, qualified by the remark that the interests of the nation must be remembered. This was no doubt within the purview of the Opposition leaders when they resolved upon their revolutionary action. But it will be a task of exceptional difficulty to devise a means of safeguarding the national interests that will provide a way of minimizing the financial confusion and yet maintaining the absolute control over the country's taxation and expenditure assented on behalf of the House of Commons. The late Lord Salisbury warned the House of Lords fifteen years ago that to fight a budget must cause the greatest inconvenience in dealing with the public finances. That prudent counsel the peers have ignored in order to preserve their lands from being taxed on its proper value.

ACCIDENT AT LEVEL CROSSING

St. Thomas, Dec. 1.—Eighteen-year-old Charles Hathway of Appin died in the hospital yesterday afternoon from an accident which he had received at a level crossing on the Michigan Central yesterday morning.

He was driving a team of spirited colts and had stopped for the train, when a board in the wagon gave way and he lost his balance. The horses plunged in front of the engine, one being killed. The youth's skull was fractured.

The accused is a resident of this city, and came home a few hours previous to his arrest. An officer came yesterday from Powassan and took Duval back to that place for trial.

RAILWAY MUST BUILD GATES

Toronto, Dec. 1.—The Michigan Central and Pere Marquette Railways were yesterday ordered by the Dominion Railway Commissioners to install gates at level crossings at Highgate and Muirkirk stations, upon application of the Township of Oxford Kent County.

The companies put up the plea that the bells at the crossings were sufficient protection according to law, on account of neither place being an incorporated city, town or village.

Chairman Mabee said that bells were only a limited protection at best, and, besides, were frequently out of order.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW.

THIRTY MEMBERS CAME OUT AGAINST THE FRENCH TREATY

They Declare That it Would do no Good to the Farmers of the Country and That it Might Have the Effect of Ruining Trade Relations.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—After a lengthy debate extending until 11 o'clock the first and second readings of the Government's bill to bring into force the Franco-Canadian trade treaty were given last night. The measure passed through committee in quick order, and now stands for a third reading.

Whereas two years ago practically the same bill passed the Commons with only five votes against it, thirty-three members opposed it on various grounds.

The chief argument against it was that it did no good to the farmers of the country, and was a useless measure which might have the evil effect of injuring our trade relations with other countries without being of any benefit itself.

All the Liberals voted for the treaty and so did the following Conservatives: Borden, Boyce, Daniel, Doherty, Foster, Jamieson, Meighen, Monk, Nantel, Osler, Paquette, Roche, Taylor (Leeds), Taylor (New Westminster), Turcott (Nicolet).

In moving the second reading, Hon. Mr Fielding said that the opposition to the treaty in the French Senate had come from a number of prominent people interested in agriculture, who saw in the cattle schedules a menace. Canada had not been doing much in the way of exporting beef to France and would not likely do much in the way of shipping fat cattle, and it was agreed to qualify the treaty by adding the words "to the exclusion of fat cattle ready for the butcher." The method of determining the line of demarcation of the admission of cattle, it was decided to leave to the French authorities, Canada reserving the right to protest if necessary.

R. L. Borden quite agreed with Mr. Fielding that the amendments to the treaty were not important, but his reasons for taking the same view were probably different. He had very grave doubts as to whether the treaty would have any great effect on the trade between Canada and France. The treaty made by the Conservative Government had not been attended by very satisfactory results. Under the maximum French tariff, the duty on an animal weighing 2,000 pounds importing into France would be $30, and under the minimum tariff $36, and that Canada need not look to the development of a beef export trade to France. The agricultural schedules also would be of no benefit to this country.

As the treaty was subject to cancellation on a year's notice, he would not oppose ratification.

J. E. Armstrong (East Lambton) described the French tariff as of very little good to agriculturists. The time had come to take into consideration our relations with Germany, which was importing one billion dollars' worth of food products, three hundred millions of which were just what Canada is growing. France was self-supporting so far as food products were concerned. We should cultivate German trade instead. The Argentine Republic sent over one hundred millions of food products to Germany, whereas Canada would only send this year three hundred thousand.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier quoted from trade statistics to show that France imports annually wheat to the value of 186,000,000 francs, lumber of various kinds to the value of over 200,000,000 francs, cheese value at 40,000,000 francs, and many articles in similar proportion. These figures were the real factor which had induced the Government to endeavor to try and find a market in France for Canadian goods.

Touching on the demand from the Opposition benches for negotiations with Germany, Sir Wilfrid said that our relations with that country were not what they ought to be, but it was not Canada's fault. The Government would be prepared as soon as this treaty is disposed of, to negotiate with Germany. Canada, Sir Wilfrid said, had opened wide the door of trade to the Mother Country, in the hope that some day we would get a preference in the British market. It was the policy of the Government to improve trade relations in all parts of the world, and this could be done without interfering in any way with the imperial preference.

NO COMPULSORY DRILL, SAYS SIR FREDERICK

Toronto, Dec. 1.—Sir F. W. Borden Minister of Militia, has written a letter to Sir James Whitney explaining the aims and objects of the Strathcona trust, of the executive council of which he is chairman.

The provinces, he states, taking advantage of the provisions of the trust will be asked for a guarantee that physical training for all children of both sexes will be included in the regular curriculum of the schools.

He refutes the imputation that the object of Lord Strathcona is to bring about compulsory military training in the schools. It is merely asked that encouragement be given to the formation of cadet corps and to the practice of rifle shooting by the pupils leaving the question of participation in these exercises at the option of the parents of the children.

EARLY CLOSING OF THE SALOONS

Montreal, Dec. 1.—In accordance with the provision of a law enacted at the last session of the Quebec Legislature a bylaw was introduced in the City Council yesterday providing that saloons shall close at 10 p.m., except on Saturday, when they shall close at 7 p.m. It passed its first reading and it was then moved for second reading. This required the suspension of the rules of the council by a two-thirds vote. The vote stood 20 to 20, and the bylaw accordingly went over until the next session. It is not likely to pass.

Kingston, Dec. 1.—Yesterday afternoon a body washed ashore at Point Frederick, was identified as that of John Johnston, aged about forty, who has been missing from his home in Napanee for three weeks.

PAINLESS SURGERY AT LAST

New York, Dec. 1.—Painless surgery, anaesthesia without after effects, is the discovery which Dr. Jonnesco, dean of the medical board of the University of Bucharest, who arrived yesterday on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, has come to America to demonstrate.

Stovaine is a drug already known to the medical world, but by combining it with strychnine and distilled water, and injecting it into the spinal cord, the doctor has been able to produce complete insensibility to pain without loss of consciousness, nausea, headache, disturbance of the heart action, and other unpleasant effects of ether and chloroform.

In one case a boy with bandaged eyes, on whose brain the surgeon was at work, asked him when the operation was to begin, and then walked to his cot after it was over.

Specialists at Paris and London, where Dr. Jonnesco has conducted clinics, do not all agree that the new anaesthetic is safe in general surgery.

PROBABILITIES.

Fine and mild to-day then strong breezes, with rain on Thursday.

VARIANCE IN COAL PRICES

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 1.—The coal conspiracy case came up in court again yesterday. A new witness was Reid Wilson of Montreal, director of the Dominion Coal Co. He was examined in regard to prices paid by consumers at Montreal. He said prices varied according to quantities taken. The C.P.R. and G.T.R., taking about 300,000 tons each, would pay $2.90 cash for run of mine, while a man taking 5,000 tons would be charged $3.75, and a man taking up to 500 tons would be asked $4.25. The householder buys very little of Dominion Coal Co.'s coal, hard coal being used in the houses as a rule.

PLOT TO KILL ROCKEFELLER

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 1.—Acting upon information given by a man who said that he overheard a conversation in which plans to assassinate John D Rockefeller were discussed, East Cleveland police guarded Forest Hill, the oil magnate's home, all Tuesday night.

Sawyer Smith, who is a lumber dealer, said he learned from the conversation he overheard near Alliance, that the speakers were to be paid well for either killing or kidnapping Mr. Rockefeller. It was agreed by them that it would be easier to kill and the reward would be the same, Mr. Smith says.

THE GLOBE AND THE FARMER

The Globe is working hard to convince the farmer that spending a lot of money on a Canadian navy is good for him. It would probably contend also, that it is good for his land. Nothing is too foolish for the Globe when it has to defend a government. The farmer is not getting much out of the Ottawa Government as it is but when it comes to seeing millions and millions of cold plunks expended on a useless navy and crooked contractors, the limit has been reached. So the Dominion Grange thinks and it is about right.

At the various empire defence congresses held in London since 1902 Sir Wilfrid Laurier has steadily fought against united imperial defence. He has been the only one of the delegates from far and near to do so. He has rjected all Britain's overtures. The only alternative was to make a bluff at an independent Canadian navy and although it involves 20 times the expense and is almost wholly waste yet out of deference to French-Canadian prejudices he has done so. The Ontario farmer finds himself balked on every hand. The Globe tries to make believe that he is all right and that the government is all right but as facts and statistics belie the attempt it is a dismal failure.

STOVAINE

Chloroform has been succeeded by a variety of drugs as an anaesthetic in surgery. Ether, or a mixture of chloroform and ether, was found equally efficacious, and not so sickening and exhausting. They were both, however, general in their effects, that is to say, the sense of feeling in the whole body was dulled since the patient was put into a stupor. Various processes local to the sites of the operation were afterwards adopted, such as freezing or cocaine. Cocaine injected into the eyeball enabled a surgeon to operate on the eye without the patient's feeling it. Various other drugs have been used. But it has remained for stovaine to excite the wonder and admiration of these latter days. It is injected into the spinal column, low down or high up, as the part of the body in which the operation is to be performed requires it. We clip late news of it from an exchange:

Thomas Jonnesco, head of the Medical Department of the University of Bucharest, who has been demonstrating successfully here the use of stovaine as an anaesthetic, sailed for New York on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie on Wednesday on a brief visit at the invitation of a number of medical friends in America. While there he will demonstrate his method of the use of stovaine in conjunction with strychnine.

"I didn't invent stovaine," said Dr. Jonnesco in conversation with the New York Times correspondent before his departure from London, "but I have discovered the miraculous powers of strychnia added to stovaine as an absolutely harmless and thoroughly efficient anaesthetic."

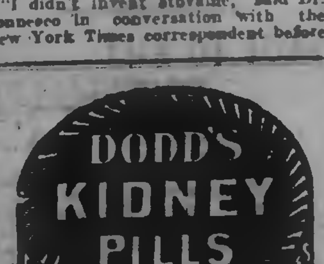
Dr. Jonnesco showed me a number of photographs of patients going through surgical operations—men and women of all ages—and all of these patients were smiling. There was a series of photographs of a boy of 8 whose brain had to be explored.

"The lad," the professor commented, "was talking to me all the time I was operating on him. As you see, his eyes were bandaged, and he knew so little that I was busy upon his brain that he kept asking when I would begin the operation, for he was anxious to receive a silver coin which I had promised to give him afterwards.

"It has come to stay," added Prof. Jonnesco. "In many European countries its marvellous properties are fully recognized, and I am glad that during my short stay in London, so conservative in everything, I succeeded in convincing many of the leading medical and scientific authorities. The possibilities of the new anaesthetic are obviously boundless."

The Lancet this week gives a technical description of Prof. Jonnesco's demonstrations, which, it says, were attended with "a comparative want of success." One case was almost perfectly successful, but in the second—laparotomy for gastric carcinoma—there was a straining expiration which interfered with the surgeon's manipulations to an undesirable extent. In the third case a high injection was made in order to procure anaesthesia for a mastoid operation. After two injections, although the skin was perfectly analgesic, there was so much agitation on the part of the patient when the periosteum was dealt with that chloroform was resorted to, and the operation was performed under its influence.

In conclusion the Lancet says that Prof. Jonnesco lays great stress on the importance of not sterilising stovaine itself. The chemists who prepared the stovaine for this occasion declare that it was not sterilized. Its behavior, however, suggested to some that in reality there had, perhaps, been a mistake in this respect, and that to this the want of complete success in the demonstration may have been due.



EDITORIAL NOTES

The Witness says that Mr. Smith, K.C., the leader of the Montreal Bar, pleads for better English and better manners. (Will he win his suit?)

The profit of the Armours was of 4 millions in one year. The various mergers, trusts, combines, etc., are even worse. "The People" are easy.

Warden R. N. Scott, reeve of Smith, retires from municipal politics at the end of his present term, which expires shortly. He has done good service for the township and for the county through a long series of years.

Mr. Newton, father of Newton, jr., the captain of the 'Varsity football team, says he would rather have his son Jack on the team than a graduate in Arts. The influence of sport seems to be antagonistic to the cultivation of common-sense.

The proposed great national theatre in Great Britain as a memorial of Shakespeare has proved a failure. Notwithstanding the required auspices, etc., only $250,000 was subscribed out of $25,000,000.

The 'Varsity-Ottawa game has done more for decent sport than for football. The losers and winners are equally entitled to honours. We suspect Stronach's sarcastic reference to Canadian roughness has helped things out a bit. The game was the highwater mark of Canadian sport. Rah for 'Varsity. We hope some of the Hallowe'en misfits were looking on.

GOOD PROGRESS ON THE NEW BANK BLOCK

Being Erected at Norwood—Municipal Politics Quiet—Real Estate Changes

Special to the Review.

Norwood, Nov. 30.—The Union Bank building on Colborne street is being pushed forward as quickly as possible notwithstanding the unfavorable weather. The brick work is nearing completion and will soon be ready for the roof. The front of the building is of pressed concrete to imitate cut stone and will present a very handsome and substantial appearance.

After the severe frosts of last week some of Norwood's most venturesome youths risked the dangers and indulged in some skating on the mill ponds.

Mrs. T. E. Finlay, who was a short time ago removed to the hospital in Toronto suffering from a serious kidney trouble, is, we are sorry to say, not yet out of danger. In fact very little hope is held out for her recovery.

The electric light wires which were badly damaged and broken in several places throughout the village during the storm of last Monday are being repaired as quickly as possible.

The telephone and telegraph lines are also being put into working order again.

We have not heard yet who will be the aspirants for municipal honors at January 1st. Everything in municipal political circles appears to be very quiet. Perhaps it is only the lull before the storm. The council of the present year appear to have given very good general satisfaction and it is probable that they may be returned without opposition.

Mr. Jack Clark, the veteran shoemaker, has opened a repair shop in one of the empty stores owned by Mr. John Finlay on Peterborough street, opposite the Methodist church sheds.

Mr. Andrew McMillan has disposed of his beautiful farm on the Dummer boundary line about one and one-half miles north of Norwood, and has purchased from Mr. Isaac Puffer his beautiful brick house and lot on the 9th line, Dummer, at the outskirts of the corporation. This is one of the choicest properties in Norwood, having been built only about two years ago by Mr. Hugh Drain and occupied by him previously to his going back on the farm.

Mr. James McNicholl is offering for sale his beautiful home on Spring street, at a very moderate figure. Mr. McNicholl intends moving from Norwood in the near future.

Mrs. J. Lamey and baby, of Vancouver, are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. McNicoll.

"KEY TO HEAVEN" HAS TO GO BACK

Books Found at Belgium Found to Violate New Copyright Law

Washington, Nov. 30.—"What's in a name?" asked customs officials yesterday as they passed along to Collector Loeb at New York an order which closes the gates of this country to a number of books whose titles fairly breathe the higher life.

"Key to Heaven" runs the title of the religious books that failed to unlock the customs gates. It all came about because an American publishing house failed to meet the provisions of the copyright laws. The books were returned by the appraiser at New York as an illegal importation, and the attorney general sustained him, declaring that prohibition against importations contained in section 31 of the act of March 4 last applies to every American copyright in a book, regardless of the law under which the copyright was obtained.

The books were printed in the United States and went to Belgium for fancy binding, cheaper than the binding could be done in America. The government holds that under the new copyright law the reimportation is prohibited of books printed in this country and then sent abroad for binding. They must be printed and bound in the United States from type set here.

WHEEZER OR SNEEZER

Have You Heard of Hyomei For Catarrh Asthma and Hay Fever

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk (or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.

And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of any catarrhal or inflammatory condition that exists.

It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a very pleasant, healing, antiseptic balsam, from the eucalyptus forests of Australia. You breathe this balsamic air through a small, hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrh germs.

Wm. Madill will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit for $1.00, on the moneyback plan.

"I have been a victim of catarrh for many months, the glands around my eyes and nose being sore and swollen. My head felt dull and stuffy. Pains in the front and back of my head, also across my eyes were frequent and I had trouble in breathing, especially at night when trying to rest. I had doctored but got no relief until after using Hyomei. This relieved me in the first twenty-four hours and in less than two weeks I was practically cured. I cannot give too much praise to Hyomei." Mrs. Mary Philips, 153 McNab St., Hamilton, Ont.

WANT DECENCY ON THE STAGE

Theatrical Journal Objects to "The Belle of the Boulevards"

The tendency of the times among the self-respecting members of the theatrical profession is to have everything on the stage clean and decent. Even the theatrical journals which depend on the advertising of professionals for their support, are quite outspoken in this respect, and the oldest and most reliable of them all, the New York Clipper, says of an act:

"Paul M. Potter wrote 'The Blue Belle of the Boulevards' for Valeska Suratt, and he wrote it with a pepper box. Miss Suratt played it at Hammerstein's during part of last week, but because of a disagreement with the management Miss Suratt left the theatre before the performance on Wednesday evening, her place on the programme being taken by Loney Haskell.

"Mr. Potter is an old offender, and his writings in the legitimate have of late been nothing short of nauseating. It is most regrettable that he should be placed in the vaudeville line right as well. His lines in the Suratt act are pointed and entirely too 'tart,' his theme is anything but a commendable one, and his situations should have no place on the stage. The story concerns a fast woman and her lover, and Miss Suratt, as the former, gave the role all the suggestive expression that she figures it would stand on a public stage. The act does not want 'toning down'—it should be swept out entirely."

The BLACK BAG

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Mm-m," grumbled their host, meditative. "My faith!" he commented, with brightening eyes. "It sounds almost too good to be true! And I've been growing afraid that the world was getting to be a most humdrum and uninteresting planet. Miss Calendar, I am a widower of so many years' standing that I had almost forgotten I had ever been anything but a bachelor. I fear my house contains little that will be of service to a young lady. Yet a room is at your disposal. The parlor maid shall show you the way. And, Philip, between you and me, I venture to remark that hot water and cold steel would add to the attractiveness of your personal appearance. My valet will attend you in my room. Dinner," concluded Brentwick, with anticipative relish, "will be served in precisely thirty minutes. I shall expect you to entertain me with a full and itemized account of every phase of your astonishing adventure. Later we will find a way to Chiltern."

Again he put a hand upon the bell pull. Simultaneously Dorothy and Kirkwood rose.

"Mr. Brentwick," said the girl, her eyes starred with tears of gratitude, "I don't. I really don't know how"—

"My dear," said the old gentleman, "you will thank me most appropriately by continuing, to the best of your ability, to resemble your mother more remarkably every minute."

"But I"— began Kirkwood.

"You, my dear Philip, can thank me best by permitting me to enjoy myself, which I am doing thoroughly at the present moment. And," he added as a maid appeared at the door, "I have already schemed me a scheme for the discomfiture of our friends the enemy, a scheme which we will discuss with our dinner while the heathen rage and imagine a vain thing in the outer darkness."

Kirkwood would have lingered, but of such inflexible temper was his host that he bowed him into the hands of a manservant without permitting him another word.

"Not a syllable," he insisted. "I protest I am devoured with curiosity, my dear boy, but I have also bowels of compassion. When we are well on with our meal, when you are strengthened with food and drink, then you may begin. But now—Dickie," to the valet, "do your duty."

He heard the young man's footsteps diminish on the stairway, and again he smiled the indulgent, melancholy smile of mellow years. "Youth!" he whispered softly. "Romance! And now," with a brisk change of tone as he closed the study door—"now we are ready for this interesting Mr. Calendar."

A suspicion of moisture glimmered in his eyes. "Dorothy!" he whispered huskily, and a little later, rising, he proceeded to the telephone.

An hour and a half later Kirkwood, his self respect something restored by a bath, a shave and a resumption of clothes which had been hastily but thoroughly cleansed and pressed by Brentwick's valet, his confidence and courage mounting high under the combined influence of generous wine, substantial food, the presence of his heart's mistress and the admiration—which was unconcealed—of his friend, concluded at the dinner table his narration.

"And that," he said, looking up from his savory, "is about all."

"Bravo!" applauded Brentwick, eyes shining with delight.

"All," interposed Dorothy in warm reproach, "but what he hasn't told"—

"Which, my dear, is to be accounted for wholly by a very creditable modesty rarely encountered in the young men of the present day. It was, of course, altogether different with those of my younger years. Yes, Wotton?"

Brentwick sat back in his chair, inclining an attentive ear to a communication murmured by the butler.

Coffee was set before them by Wotton, the impassive, Brentwick refusing it, with a little sigh. "By the way," he said, "while you were preparing for dinner Wotton returned from his constitutional with the news that, leaving the corpulent person on watch at the corner, Captain Stryker had temporarily made himself scarce. However, we need feel no anxiety concerning his whereabouts, for he reappeared in good time and a motor car, from which it becomes evident that you have not overrated their pertinacity. The fiasco of the cab chase is not to be re-enacted."

Resolutely the girl repressed a gasp of dismay. Kirkwood stared moodily into his cup.

"These men bore me fearfully," he commented at last.

"And so," continued Brentwick, "I bethought me of a counterstroke. It is my good fortune to have a friend whose whim it is to support a touring car chiefly in innocuous idleness. Accordingly I have telephoned him and commandeered the use of this machine—mechanician too. Though not a betting man, I am willing to risk recklessly a few pence in support of my contention that of the two, Captain Stryker's car and ours, the latter will prove considerably the more speedy.

"In short, I suggest," he concluded, thoughtfully lacing his long white fingers, "that, avoiding the hazards of cab and railway carriage, we motor to Chiltern, the night being fine and the road, I am told, exceptionally good. Miss Dorothy, what do you think?"

Instinctively the girl looked to Kirkwood, then shifted her glance to their host. "I think you are wonderfully thoughtful and kind," she said simply. "And you, Philip?"

"It's an inspiration," the younger man declared. "I can't think of anything better calculated to throw them off than to distance them by motor car. It would be always possible to trace our journey by rail."

"Then," announced Brentwick, making as if to rise, "we had best go. If neither my hearing nor Captain Stryker's car deceives me, our fiery chariot is panting at the door."

A little sobered from the confident spirit of quiet gayety in which they had dined, they left the table. Not that in their hearts either greatly questioned their ultimate triumph, but they were allowing for the element of error so apt to set at naught human calculations. Calendar himself had already been proved fallible. Within the bounds of possibility their turn to stumble might now be imminent.

When he let himself dwell upon it their utter helplessness to give Calendar pause by commonplace methods maddened Kirkwood. With another scoundrel it had been so simple a matter to put a period to his activities by a word to the police. But he was her father. For that reason he must continually be spared. Even though, in desperate extremity, she should give consent to the arrest of the adventurers, retaliation would follow swift and sure, for they might not overlook or gloze the fact that hers had been the hands responsible for the theft of the jewels. Innocent though she had been in committing that larceny, a catspaw guided by an intelligence unscrupulous and malign, the law would not hold her guiltless were she once brought within its cognizance, nor possibly would the Hallams, mother and son.

Before the door a motor car waited, engines humming impatiently, mechanician ready in his seat, an uncouth shape in goggles and leather garments that shone like oilskins under the street lights.

At one corner another and a smaller car stood in waiting, its lamps like baleful eyes glaring through the night.

In the shadows across the way a lengthy shadow lurked—Stryker, beyond reasonable question. Otherwise the street was deserted. Not even that adventitious bobby of the early evening was now in evidence.

Dorothy presently joining them, Brentwick led the way to the door.

Kirkwood to the right, Brentwick to the left of Dorothy, the former carrying the treasure bag, they hastened down the walk and through the gate to the car.

The watcher across the way was moved to whistle shrilly. The other car lunged forward nervously.

Brentwick, taking the front seat beside the mechanician, left the tonneau to Kirkwood and Dorothy. As the American slammed the door the car swept smoothly out into the middle of the way, while the pursuing car swerved in to the other curb, slowing down to let Stryker jump aboard.

Kirkwood put himself in the seat by the girl's side and for a few moments was occupied with the arrangement of the robes. Then, sitting back, he found her eyes fixed upon him, pools of inscrutable night in the shadow of her hat.

"You aren't afraid, Dorothy?"

She answered quietly, "I am with you, Philip."

CHAPTER XXX.

At a steady gait, now and again checked in deference to the street traffic, Brentwick's motor car rolled, with resonant humming of the engine, down the Cromwell road, swerved into Warwick road and swung northward through Kensington to Shepherd's Bush. Behind it Calendar's car clung as if towed by an invisible cable, never gaining, never losing.

To some extent he reckoned without his motor car. As long as they traveled within the metropolitan limits, constrained to observe a decorous pace in view of the prejudices of the county council, it was a matter of no difficulty whatever to maintain his distance. But once they had won through Shepherd's Bush and, paced by huge double deck trolley trams, were flying through Hammersmith on the Uxbridge road—once they had run through Acton and knew beyond dispute that now they were without the city boundaries—then the complexion of the business was suddenly changed.

Not too soon for honest sport. Calendar was to have (Kirkwood would have said in lurid American idiom) a run for his money. The scattered lights of Southall were winking out behind them before Brentwick chose to give the word to the mechanician.

Quietly the latter threw in the clutch for the third speed—and the fourth. The car leaped forward like a startled race horse. The motor lilted merrily into its deep throated song of the open road, its contented, silken humming passing into a sonorous and sustained purr.

Kirkwood and the girl were first jarred violently forward, then thrown together. She caught his arm to steady herself. It seemed the most natural thing imaginable that he should take her hand and pass it beneath his arm, holding her so, his fingers closed above her own. Before they had recovered or had time to catch their breath a mile of Middlesex had dropped to the rear.

Not quite so far had they distanced Calendar's trailing Nemesis of the four glaring eyes. The pursuers put forth a gallant effort to hold their place. At intervals during the first few minutes a heavy roaring and crashing could be heard behind them. Gradually it subsided, dying on the wings of the free rushing wind that buffeted their faces as mile after mile was reeled off and the wide, darkling English countryside opened out before them, sweet and wonderful.

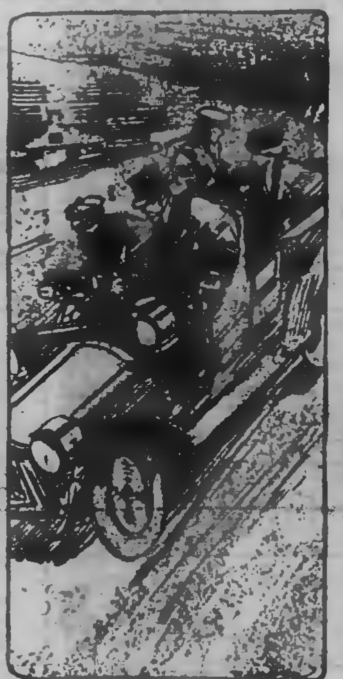
Once Kirkwood looked back. In the winking of an eye he saw four faded disks of light, pallid with despair, top a distant rise and glide down into darkness. When he turned Dorothy was interrogating him with eyes whose melting, shadowed loveliness, revealed to him in the light of the far, still stars, seemed to incite him to that madness which he had bade himself resist with all his strength.

He shook his head as if to say, "They cannot catch us."

His hour was not yet. Time enough to think of love and marriage (as if he were capable of consecutive thought on any other subject)—time enough to think of them when he had gone back to his place, or, rather, when he should have found it, in the ranks of breadwinners and so have proved his right to mortal happiness; time enough then to lay whatever he might have to offer at her feet. Now he could conceive of no baser treachery to his soul's desire than to advantage himself of her gratitude.

Perhaps she guessed a little of the fortunes of the battle that was being waged within him—perhaps not. Whatever the trend of her thoughts, she did not draw away from him. Presently the silken lashes drooped, fluttering upon her cheeks. The tired and happy smile hovered about her lips.

In something less than half an hour of this wild driving Kirkwood roused out of his reverie sufficiently to become sensible that the speed was slackening. Incoherent snatches of sentences, fragments of words and phrases spoken by Brentwick and the mechanician, were flung back past his ears by the rushing wind. Shielding his eyes, he could see dimly that the mechanician was tinkering (apparently) with the driving gear. Then, their pace continuing steadily to abate, he heard Brentwick fling at the man a sharp toned and querulously impatient question, "What is the trouble?" His reply came in a single word, not distinguishable.



Mile after mile was reeled off.

The girl sat up, opening her eyes, disengaging her arm.

Kirkwood bent forward and touched Brentwick on the shoulder. The latter turned to him a face lined with deep concern.

"Trouble," he announced superfluously. "I fear we have blundered."

"What is it?" asked Dorothy in a troubled voice.

"Petrol seems to be running low. Charles here"—he referred to the mechanician—"says the tank must be leaking. We'll go on as best we can and try to find an inn. Fortunately most of the inns nowadays keep supplies of petrol for just such emergencies."

"Are we—do you think"—

"Oh, no; not a bit of danger of that," returned Brentwick hastily. "They'll not catch up with us this night. That is a very inferior car they have—so Charles says, at least—nothing to compare with this. If I'm not in error, there's the Crown and Miter just ahead. We'll make it, fill our tanks and be off again before they can make up half their loss."

Dorothy looked anxiously to Kirkwood, her lips forming an unuttered query—what did he think?

"Don't worry. We'll have no trouble," he reassured her stoutly. "The chauffeur knows undoubtedly."

None the less he was moved to stand up in the tonneau, conscious of the presence of the traveling bag, snug between his feet, as well as of the weight of Calendar's revolver in his pocket, while he stared back along the road.

There was nothing to be seen of their persecutors.

The car continued to crawl. Five minutes dragged tediously. Gradually they drew abreast a tavern standing back a distance from the road. Sluggishly the car rolled up before it and came to a dead and silent halt. Charles, the mechanician, jumping out, ran hastily up the path toward the inn. In the car Brentwick turned again, his eyes curiously bright in the starlight, his forehead quaintly furrowed, his voice apologetic.

"It may take a few minutes," he said undecidedly, plainly endeavoring to cover up his own dark doubts. "My dear," to the girl, "if I have brought trouble upon you in this wise I shall never earn my own forgiveness."

"As if you could be blamed!" protested the girl. "You mustn't think of it that way. Fancy, what should we have done without you?"

"I'm afraid I have been very clumsy," sighed Brentwick, "clumsy and impulsive. Kirkwood, do you hear anything?"

"Not yet, sir."

"Perhaps," suggested Brentwick a little later—"perhaps we had better alight and go up to the inn. It would be more cozy there, especially if the petrol proves hard to obtain and we have long to wait."

"I should like that," assented the girl decidedly.

Kirkwood nodded his approval, opened the door and jumped out to assist her, then picked up the bag and followed the pair, Brentwick leading the way with Dorothy on his arm.

At the doorway of the Crown and Miter Charles met them, evidently seriously disturbed. "No petrol to be had here, sir," he announced reluctantly, "but the landlord will send to the next inn, a mile up the road, for some. You will have to be patient, I'm afraid, sir."

"Very well. Get some one to help you push the car in from the road," ordered Brentwick. "We will be waiting in one of the private parlors."

"Yes, sir. Thank you, sir." The mechanician touched the visor of his cap and hurried off.

"Come, Kirkwood." Gently Brentwick drew the girl in with him.

A rosy cheeked and beaming landlady met him in the corridor and, all bows and smiles, ushered him into a private parlor reserved for the party, immediately bustling off in a desperate flurry to secure refreshments desired by Brentwick.

The girl had seated herself on one end of an extremely comfortless lounge and was making a palpable effort to seem at ease. Brentwick stood at one of the windows, shoulders rounded and head bent, hands clasped behind his back as he peered out into the night. Kirkwood dropped the traveling bag beneath a chair the farthest removed from the doorway and took to pacing the floor.

In a corner of the room a tall grandfather's clock ticked off ten interminable minutes. For some reason unconscionably delaying, the landlady did not reappear. Brentwick, abruptly turning from the window, remarked the fact querulously, then drew a chair up to a marble topped table in the middle of the floor.

"My dear," he requested the girl, "will you oblige me by sitting over here? And, Philip, bring up a chair, if you will. We must not permit ourselves to worry, and I have something here which may perhaps engage your interest for awhile."

To humor him and alleviate his evident distress of mind they acceded. Kirkwood found himself seated opposite Dorothy. Suddenly Charles burst unceremoniously in, leaving the door wide open.

Will Cost One Dollar to Hear Captain Bernier in That City—Lower Prices Here

Captain Bernier gives his great Canadian lecture at Massey Hall on Thursday, December 2nd, and will be here the following evening. At Massey Hall the majority of those who hear him will pay ONE DOLLAR each for a seat. The Royal Astronomical Society of Peterborough who have done so much to procure renowned lecturers for this city have been able to present the same delightful entertainment at half the price. But they expect a monster crowd as a result.

Undoubtedly the Collegiate Auditorium is the finest room in the city for the purpose as the accustic properties are unexcelled.

"The Frozen North" will be Captain Bernier's subject.

WHO IS THE MEANEST MAN IN PETERBOROUGH?

This Question Will be Discussed at Grand Opera House Sunday Afternoon—C. R. Drum to Visit Peterborough Again.

The meeting in the Grand Opera House next Sunday afternoon is under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association and will be for men only.

The meeting will be addressed by Mr. C. R. Drum, one of the Secretaries of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North America.

Mr. Drum will be remembered as the man who spent a week in this city last spring in the interests of the local Association work when he conducted meetings in four of the shops at the noon hour and assisted in organizing that work which is now being carried on by the men of the shops, as well as giving an address in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute to a large audience on the subject "That Boy." His address on "An Honest Man," in the Opera House on the Sunday afternoon to nearly seven hundred men will be fresh in the minds of many, while his addresses in St. Paul's church on Sunday evening and at the conference on Bible study on the Thursday evening will not be forgotten.

The subject of the address Mr. Drum will give next Sunday is, "The Meanest Man in Peterborough," and it should interest every man in the city to find out who that man is.

The Orpheus Male Quartette will provide special music for this meeting.

Sunday evening Mr. Drum will speak in George street Methodist church with special reference to the men of the congregation.

During his visit to Peterborough Mr. Drum will be the guest of Mr. J. C. Shook, the President of the Young Men's Christian Association in his new house

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS AT HOME TO THEIR FRIENDS

Marathon Lodge, Knights of Pythias are splendid entertainers. For their smoker and "at home" held last night in the hall on Simcoe street, a programme for an enjoyable evening had been arranged, and the large number who took advantage of the opportunity to visit the members of the order in their sanctum, spent a very pleasant time. There was that spirit of good-fellowship pervading the hall that made everyone feel perfectly at home, and this one characteristic of the Knights of Pythias must be one of the many reasons for their flourishing condition. The first part of the evening was taken up by a progressive euchre contest of five games, which was finally won by Major P. A. Davie, the prize being a box of cigars. At the conclusion of the contest the chairman, Mr. T. W. Wilson, welcomed the guests, and the following excellent programme was carried out, amidst great applause:

Instrumental—Mr. Lewis.
Song—Mr. John King.
Recitation—Bro. D. Oscar Waring.
Song—Mr. Davenport.
Duet—Messrs. Firth and King.
Banjo Selection—Mr. Clarke.
Comic Song—Mr. Thompson.
Instrumental—Mr. Sherry.
Johnny Schmoker—Bros. Greenslade and Waring, Messrs. Firth and Thompson.
Song—Bro. Leadbetter.
Comic Song—Mr. Coleman.
God Save the King.

Light refreshments were served and the gathering dispersed, not before, however, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the officers and members of the order from their guests for the pleasant evening enjoyed by them.

A DESCRIPTIVE AND VERY INSTRUCTIVE DISCOURSE

On "The Winds of the Globe," Given by Mr. R. F. Stupart Under Auspices of the Royal Astronomical Society—The Message of the Weather Man.

"Old Probs" was here in person last evening in the form of R. F. Stupart, the director of the Meteorological Bureau of Canada. Before the members of the Royal Astronomical Society and their friends, Mr. Stupart gave a most interesting and instructive address on "The Winds of the Globe."

A large number of the Normal School students availed themselves of of the opportunity to secure first-hand knowledge of this important subject so difficult to teach intelligently. They undoubtedly were well repaid, as the subject was handled in such a lucid manner and with the aid of lantern views that no one could fail in grasping the fundamental principles.

Dr. Marsh, the President of the Society, in introducing the speaker of the evening, referred to the kindness of Mr. Stupart in loaning to Peterborough the excellent telescope now in the hands of Miss Foy. He assured the lecturer that the instrument was of great value and assistance as well as a source of much pleasure to the local astronomers.

Mr. Stupart, in his address, reviewed the history of meteorology showing how little was the real knowledge of the subject until very recent years. The mariners, however, all the past centuries, had been collecting data relative to the course of wind and water, and from these facts the underlying principles of the subject could be readily deduced.

By the use of the kite and the balloon in recent years, the actual condition of the great upper air currents, those up ten and fifteen miles, had been ascertained by equipping these aerial messengers with self-registering instruments. It had been found that at 15 miles ascension a temperature of 85 degrees below zero existed.

The barometer was an air-weighing instrument, and was the foundation of the whole system of meteorology of to-day. Areas of high pressure simply meant that great heaps of air were there, and areas of low pressure that a shallow amount of air was there. And just as water seeks its level so air acts. The result is that the mountain of air rushes down to the valley, and the greater the altitude of this mountain the more intense the wind.

Mr. Stupart showed on the screen the barogram or photo-register of the barometer as it read on the 27th August, 1883, in Toronto. On this date occurred the greatest volcanic explosion the world ever saw, that at Krakatoa, in Sumatra. The great air waves started round the world in both directions and came to Toronto only a few hours apart. Then again the next day their second trip was registered in no uncertain manner. It was a most interesting feature.

With numerous charts the speaker showed how with the variations in heat and cold winds were started which with the impetus gained went further and further. And as these great currents of air flowed about huge eddies were formed as in water. From these great eddies cyclones and violent storms often resulted. The location of a country in northern latitude did not always mean a certain degree of coldness as these currents of air very largely changed conditions. In this connection the coldest spot on earth was pointed out in the northern part of Russia. The thermometer there had touched 93 degrees below.

Charts were shown of the actual conditions in America on many specific dates, and the tracks of great storms traced day after day. These were all extremely interesting and instructive.

Mr. Stupart stated that in Canada there are some 38 depots, one here in Peterborough, where reports are secured twice a day. These are sent on to Washington, and from there 65 (U.S.) reports are received in return. Then from his exact knowledge the probabilities are forecasted.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker on motion of Mr. H. O. Fisk, seconded by Mr. T. A. S. Hay.

A RIFLE RANGE.

Lt.-Col. Hemming is in the city looking over possible rifle ranges. It is gratifying to find that at last this crying need is to be relieved. For years the efficient local corps has actually been without a place to fire a rifle over. The Review has done its best to co-operate with the regiment in urging its claims upon the department and it is a cause of rejoicing that a hope so long deferred as to amount almost to a scandal, is to be realized in the near future. Of course it is not here yet, but the Government would hardly dare to bluff the matter off any longer.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THIS?

wha tdo you think o fthis—
From the Ottawa Journal (Independent Liberal.)

"If there is one lesson taught by the whole history of Canada from first to last—and by the history of the old Thirteen Colonies, and by the history of South Africa, and by any old kind of history anywhere—it is that a policy of running in leading strings any longer than can be helped is not usually a wise or successful policy for anybody, while a policy of autonomy and self-development is usually a wise and successful policy for everybody. So we imagine that the Canadian Parliament and the leader of the Conservative party have shown sound sense in standing for the beginning of a Canadian navy, however much of value they may wish to add—and we hope they will add a lot—in the way of immediate effective contribution to the naval force of Great Britain as an emergent measure in view of the German menace.

"Those who in Canada argue for Canadian tribute to an English navy as the only permanent policy for this country, are aiming a smashing blow not merely at their own political party here, but at the British cause in Canada. They not merely stir up irritation at once against the Imperial tie, and against themselves, but, if even they had their way for a time, their success would merely provide perpetual food for friction between this country and that other country, which would be spending our money or using our contributed ships in ways which might not happen to suit many of us."

The boldness with which the "separatists" are coming to the aid of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his independence-of-Canada policy, is equally alarming and surprising. When the Hon. Geo. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, gave voice to the Liberal Government's contempt of a British governor in Montreal, as reported in a number of journals, he unconsciously or consciously, revealed the policy which has been ripening for years, and is now about to come to maturity—if the loyal portion of the population will stand for it. So determined is the Laurier Government to pander to the racial prejudices and aspirations of its chief support that it is not too much to say that British connection is in imminent danger.

COMMUNICATIONS DEALT WITH BY COUNTY COUNCIL

Resignation of Public School Inspector of County—Norwood Wants County Constable—Suggestion That Three Inspectors be Appointed to do Combined Work of Peterboro' and Victoria Counties.

Committee work was taken up by the County Council this morning and is being continued this afternoon.

At yesterday afternoon's session a communication from Mr. J. Coyle Brown was read in which he notified the council of his resignation as public school inspector of the county. The communications received and dealt with were as follows—

Clerk E. M. Elliott read a number of communications, which were dealt with by the council.

Councillors Breault and Shaw moved that the communication from the deputy minister of education re school inspectors and the proposed arrangement between Victoria and Peterborough counties be referred to the Committee of the Whole Council.—Carried.

Mr. J. Coyle Brown, inspector of Public schools for the county, sent in his resignation to the County Council. He took such action on account of the illness of his wife and to give the council a free hand, so far as he was concerned, to make such arrangements with Victoria County as they deemed advisable.

On motion of Councillors Shaw and Earling, the resignation was accepted.

A petition from Norwood asked the County Council to request Judge Huycke to appoint John L. Johnston, county constable in that town.

Isaac Tucker applied for the position of county constable for Norwood.

A communication was received from the deputy minister of education suggesting that as Peterborough and Victoria counties are too large for one inspector that they combine and have the work of two counties be done by three inspectors. This will be taken up by the Committee of the Committee of the Whole Council.

H. G. Hartyn, of Berlin, applied for the position of Public school inspector to fill the new position to be created.

The council adjourned to go into committee on finance.

THE CONGREGATION APPROVES OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF A HANDSOME $35,000 CHURCH

A Canvassing Committee Will Begin its Work at Once—Unanimous Vote at Enthusiastic Meeting — The Proposed Edifice Will be Ornament to the City.

A very large and enthusiastic congregational meeting was held in the Murray street Baptist church last night for the purpose of considering the advisability of erecting a new edifice next year. The popular opinion of all present was to go ahead and erect a structure to cost $35,000 upon the new site facing Central Park, which has recently been purchased. This will mean a total expenditure of nearly $45,000 for this beautiful property and the edifice to be erected thereon, and should be a credit not only to the Baptist denomination, but to our progressive city. A canvassing committee will begin at once a canvas of the entire congregation to ascertain how much of the above sum can be raised within two years. That committee is to report back to the congregation in January next.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises by Rev. Mr. Webb, and then Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman of the building committee, took the chair and presided over the meeting. He explained the object of the gathering. Dr. Browett acted as secretary. Addresses were made by the following gentlemen, all of whom were in favor of proceeding with the erection of the church:—Mr. Dunlop, superintendent of the Sunday school. Dr. Browett, Messrs. Geo. Cochrane, Wm. Cochrane, H. Webber, Thomas Wilson, C. B. Routley, V. Eastwood, Rev. Mr. Webb and others.

Full plans and elevations prepared by Messrs. Edmund & Burke, architects, of Toronto, for the proposed new edifice, were submitted, shown, explained, and discussed. These are for a most modern and massive stone church and Sunday school with a total seating capacity of over 1,200 people.

To get the consensus of opinion a standing test vote was taken of all favorable to the new church, and this meant the whole congregation at once arose to their feet like one person. The following motion was then passed enthusiastically;

Moved by Mr. V. Eastwood and Thos. Wilson, that we appoint a committee to canvas the entire congregation with a view to discovering what portion of $35,000 may be secured within the next two years for the purpose of erecting a new church not to cost more than the said sum, and that we pledge ourselves to give such committee the best encouragement possible, and that this committee be requested to report back to the congregation during January.

The following committee was then appointed;— Messrs. V. Eastwood, T. F. Matthews, Geo. Cochrane, Wm. Cochrane, T. Wilson, James Montgomery, Porter White, H. Webber and Dr. Scott.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman of the Building Committee, and Mr. V. Eastwood for the great interest they had taken in this work.

Musical numbers were given by Miss Clara Kidd and Mr. Ferguson, who was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Snyder and by Miss Hope Miller on the violin. All were well rendered and greatly appreciated.

Refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

LARGE NUMBER HEARD CHOIR AT GEORGE ST. METH. CHURCH

There was a very large attendance at the George St. Methodist church last night on the occasion of the presentation of a programme of great excellence by the choir, assisted by Toronto professional talent. Part I. was composed of a fine quartette by Misses Reesor and Sanderson, and Mesdames Rehill and Telford, solos by Miss Reesor and Mr. Frank Bemrose, tenor, and a reading by Mr. Craig. Part II. consisted of a dramatic musical presentation of "The Seven Last Words of Christ," by the choir with solos, duets, quartettes, etc. This difficult work was splendidly rendered. The concert was in every way a magnificent success.

To Mr. McCann, the organist and musical director, and to his excellent choir, especial credit is due.

WHO WERE THE COONS?

"Wonder who are the coons?" a small boy remarked as he observed two colored maidens going north along Aylmer street last night about nine o'clock. Who they were and where they came from is a mystery, but sure enough there they were in all the glory of their nightly complexion and gaudy garb. Has a minstrel show gone broke, or is an Uncle Tom's Cabin Company stranded in the vicinity of the city?

CONDEMNATION OF FOOTBALL

Goldwin Smith Goes Farther Than to Say "Brutal" and Uses "Murderous"

New York Times.—I see in your columns complaints, too well justified, as my own eyes have told me, of the murderous character of football. No wonder there are calls for the abolition of the game. Cannot it be played in a moderate manner, as it was, and I hope still is, in England? I was five years at Eton, where football was played by two clubs, and but one of them, if I remember rightly, in a way that gave full scope for roughness. Yet I do not recollect in those five years that there was a single case of maiming, much less was there slaughter. What there may have been among the roughs in the North of England, who were much addicted to football, I cannot undertake to say.

Is it not possible that the practice of betting on games, which also was unknown at Eton, may lend too much energy to the kicking?

GOLDWIN SMITH.

Toronto, Nov. 5th, 1909.

P. S.—An obvious consequence of playing a manly game in a murderous fashion is that the great mass of students, instead of being participants in the exercise, are turned into mere spectators.

AD WOLGAST BEAT POWELL

Jeffries-Johnson Fight Bids to be Opened To-day

San Francisco, Nov. 30.—Ad Wolgast is hailed to-day as the legitimate opponent of Battling Nelson for the lightweight championship. In last night's 20-round fight with Lew Powell he got the decision, to the disappointment of thousands who backed the Californian at odds of 10 to 8.

The fight was remarkable for the terrific clip the fighter maintained and the disinclination at any time to break ground or shirk punishment.

Wolgast opened the contest as if he intended to make a runaway fight of it. He fairly dazzled Powell with his speed and his aggressive fighting at close range was a revelation. Time and again he drove right and left short arm jabs to the body and jaw, and kept his arm going with such regularity that Powell was all at sea.

Try as he might he could not elude the Milwaukeean's determined rushes, and the best he could do was to protect himself, let alone administer any punishment.

In the twelfth round Powell made his only showing. It was the most vicious round of the night, and for a moment it looked as though Powell might turn the tables. He sent in several ponderous right-smashes as Wolgast rushed in, and forced him to stall most of the round. Towards the close of the round, however, Wolgast cut loose again and after administering a fearful beating to the Californian the latter went to his corner groggy.

Wolgast again took the lead and held it to the end, all the time punishing Powell severely about the face and bringing fresh blood in almost every round.

New York, Nov. 30.—The big fight promoters are all in the game, and but for their statement it would be hard to imagine that there is as much real money in the world as they are going to offer for the privilege of holding the Jeffries—Johnson go.

The bids are to be opened to-day in Hoboken.

Tom McCarey, the Los Angeles promoter, is the latest arrival, and he has several thousand iron boys moored to his person to act as his forfeit. The other big managers are gathering.

Conservative sports think the purse which finally lands the battle will not reach anywhere near the much vaunted $100,000 mark.

Although Stake-Holder Bob Murphy has received nearly a score of bids, it is not believed that more than four or five of them will receive serious consideration. Several of the bids were put in merely for advertising effect.

It is practically certain that the fight will go to some California promoters, for both Johnson and Jeffries desire to fight there, though some of the other far Western States may have a chance if their bids offer better inducements.

Jimmy Coffroth, Eddie Graney, and Tom McCarey are spoken of as being the men whose bids will be most seriously considered. Either of these promoters, it is said are in a position to handle the fight, and it is confidently believed that the one of this trio making the best offer, will get the fight.

In view of the fact that $69,000 was the largest sum ever taken in at any prize fight, it is not believed that any offer for the Jeffries-Johnson go will reach more than $75,000.

BASEBALL

New York, Nov. 29.—Will Charles Webb Murphy, of the Chicago Cubs, who has stirred up a peck of trouble in the National League by his opposition to the election of John Heydler as president quit cold when he knows that a baseball war is inevitable?

Many of the magnates in both major leagues believe that Murphy, who likes big pickings will back down completely when Herrman, of Cincinnati, and Dreyfus, of Pittsburg, show their cards.

The sale of the Philadelphia Club, in which Murphy is believed to have played a silent part, has caused a cry of "syndicate baseball," with the result that unless Horace Fogel can prove that Murphy and his backers, Charles Taft, did not put up a dollar to help swing the deal, the entire transaction may result in a majority of the clubs casting their votes for Heydler.

Several of the major league men declared this afternoon that Murphy, in order to secure the Phillies' vote, had promised to sell or trade Kling to the new owners of the clubs and that he did not count on the decision of the National Commission that Kling cannot play for three years.

Herrman and Dreyfus are full of fight. They have notified Heydler to stand pat and have informed him that they will go to a finish in his behalf. They are using powerful influences to round up Ebbets and Robinson, of St. Louis, and already have the Boston Club vote pledged. If Herrman and Dreyfus, however, find that Murphy will not quit, and that Brush, Ebbets, Fogel and Robinson are going to stand by him, it is predicted there will be a big crash and the National League will be the sufferer.

In spite of Brush's denial of all knowledge of or participation in the Philadelphia Club deal, numerous baseball men expressed the opinion to-day that the owner of the Giants was ready for a baseball war; that h[e] seeks a chance to rule or ruin, and that if war comes he may be able to secure some star players to strengthen the team at the Polo Grounds.

Persons who are usually well posted said to-day that B. F. Keith, the well-known theatrical man, might be the new owner of the Philadelphia Club, and that the same syndicate might make a big offer for the Boston Nationals. The Boston Club is controlled in the name of John Dovey, a close friend of Dreyfus, however, so that under the present circumstances such a deal could not be pulled off, it is thought.

Cincinnati, Nov. 29.—The attitude of Chairman Herrman, of the National Commission, and Ban Johnson, of the American League, toward the sale of the Philadelphia Club and the candidacy of Ward is expressed in their own statements.

President Johnson came to town on matters pertaining to the National Commission and was wrought up when he learned the Quakers had been sold to a syndicate.

"Just say for me that the American League will refuse to serve on the National Commission if John M. Ward is elected president of the National League," was his announcement.

"What is more, the American League is opposed to syndicate baseball in the National League, and we will endeavor to drive Charlie Murphy from the game. We have worked hard to put the sport on a firm basis and to get the confidence of the public and will not stand for any one to manipulate the business end of the game simply for financial returns. That goes, and you can tell it to the whole world."

MUCH TROUBLE AROUND LINDSAY

Bell Telephone Company Having Difficulty Getting Lines in Shape

Lindsay Post.—The Bell Telephone Co. system is still handicapped in their lines of communication west of the town as a result of the destructive rain and sleet storm of Tuesday last. Lines outside of the town east and north have all been repaired and opened for service.

The lines running to Blackwater, Uxbridge and Toronto are still closed, there being fully forty poles down between town and Uxbridge, while south of Blackwater and Uxbridge no less than 140 are strewn along the road.

This morning Manager T. J. Tilley secured the last man capable of going on repair work in or out of town. Thirteen experienced workmen from the head office at Montreal arrived in town last evening under forman Lapine, of that place, to work on the lines between Uxbridge, and with their assistance and with those already engaged Mr. Tilley expects the poles up and wires strung by the end of the week.

SECURED LIQUOR FROM A "FRIEND"

Blacklister Fined $20.00 — Fine Was Paid Under Protest.

Magistrate Dumble decided to try a new experiment in the case of a blacklister who appeared before him this morning charged with having secured liquor last Tuesday. On other occasions when the accused was charged with a similar offence, fines of various amounts have been imposed without the desired effect, so, after Mr. Gordon, who acted for the accused had pleaded guilty, his Worship placed the amount of the fine at $20.

Mr. Gordon stated that it would be paid under protest.

Asked by the Chief when he secured the liquor, the accused stated that on Tuesday morning that he met a man at the Grand Trunk Station, who had a bottle of whiskey. Each had a couple of drinks and afterwards he was given the bottle with the remainder of the whiskey.

AN UNUSUAL REASON FOR THIS DELAY

The C.P.R. train which left Montreal at 8.45 Monday morning, due to arrive at Toronto at 6 p.m., was about forty minutes late through an unusual cause. Near this city the train was boarded by a representative of the auditor's department, who started in to check up the conductor's tickets, first discovering that there were six short. He stated that he would make another check when the train reached Toronto, but the conductor immediately stopped and held up the train until he had re-checked, when everything was discovered to be O K, and the train then proceeded.

Runaway Youth Is Caught.

Windsor, Dec. 1.—Norman Freeman of Hamilton, sixteen years of age, was picked up in Detroit, in his quest of "Wild West" experiences. He had stolen $80 from his dad before starting out, and the police promptly took him into custody. He had nearly the whole sum concealed on his person.

The First Law of Nature.

Two Irish soldiers stationed in the West Indies were accustomed to bathe daily in a little bay which was generally supposed to be free from sharks. Though on good terms with each other, they were not what might be called fast friends.

One day as they were swimming about 100 yards from the shore Pat observed Mike suddenly making for the land as hard as he could without saying a word. Wondering what was the matter, Pat struck out vigorously after him and landed at his companion's heels.

"Is there anything wrong wid ye?" inquired Pat feelingly.

"Nothin', nothin' at all," replied the other.

"Thin what did you make such a suddint retrate for an' lave me?" continued Pat.

"Bedad," answered Mike coolly, "I spied the fin av a big shark about twenty feet ahead, an' I thought while he was playin' wid you it would give me time to reach the shore!"

IMPORTANT ADDRESS ON THE CONSERVATION OF FORESTS

"Our Vanishing Forests" Subject of a Comprehensive and Remarkably Able Discourse by Mr. James Lawler, Secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association—An Interesting Treatment of a Prominent and Timely Question.

The lecture on "Our Vanishing Forests," given by Mr. James Lawler, secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association at the council chamber last night, proved of unusual interest and value. The address, which was under the auspices of the Board of Trade, was abundantly illustrated by slides shown by Mr. H. Fife, which, with Mr. Lawler's treatment of the various phases of the topic he illustrated, were thoroughly explanatory.

Reforestration should be of especial value in Peterborough County, as its northern part is of little use, except for forest growth.

At the present time the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham are taking up the matter of acquiring the waste lands in these counties and setting them aside as a forest reserve for all time to come or to have the Provincial Government undertake the work. Mr. Lawler had several slides showing the nature of the land there and during the course of his address he showed the possibilities of the work.

Among those present at the lecture were Messrs. J. H. Larmonth, R. F. Ackerman, J. Coyle Brown, W. H. Meldrum, J. C. Shook, W. H. Moore, E. F. Mason, Mayor Rush, Ald. Dutton, Warden R. N. Scott, J. Daignan, H. R. H. Skinner, A. C. Herridge, M. R. Cowan, Donald Denham, J. H. Harvey, S. W. Stobbs, Dr. Buchanan, and about thirty others.

In the unavoidable absence from the city of the president and vice-president, Mr. J. H. Larmonth was appointed chairman.

In introducing the subject, Mr. Lawler said that the first question that naturally suggests itself to you is why there should be this meeting, why you should be asked to take an interest in the forests of this country. The forests are owned by the Dominion or Provincial Governments for the most part and so far as worked are leased to private individuals or lumber companies. These, you will say, can be trusted to look after the interests of the people on the one hand, and of the private limit holders on the other. Besides, it has always been said that our forests are illimitable, and every day the railways are pressing farther into our north country where the forests are. Again, you will argue, even supposing that the supplies of timber do fail, clever men will invent substitutes that will take the place of wood; we can get on without the timber and the land can be used more profitably to grow crops.

There is a good reason for using such arguments. It is only yesterday that our public speakers ceased to talk of Canada's illimitable and inexhaustible forests. Those who live in the older parts of Canada have heard of the struggles of the pioneers to clear the land. They see the fine farms which have replaced the forests and they have always been taught to look upon this as a sign of progress. But while this is a natural belief, it is an erroneous one.

In the first place our forests are not illimitable.

In the second place no substitute has ever been found for wood. It is unlikely that one ever will be found, and if it is, it will be more costly than the original.

In the third place, supposing a suitable substitute was found, this would not touch the other great uses of the forest, equally important with the supplying of wood. These uses include the conservation of the water supply in our streams with its attendant effect upon waterpowers and navigation, the prevention of soil erosion and evaporation and the forming of a cover for game and insectivorous birds.

The area of the forests of Canada has been very much overestimated. Estimators have dwelt on the size of the belt of timber stretching from Ungava across Northern Quebec and Ontario, and thence north of the prairies to the Peace River Country. But the timber on much of this is not merchantable. Except for firewood it is scarcely serviceable to man, and firewood cannot be transported long distances. Nowadays, while the matter is still keenly debated, the best estimates fix the amount of Canada's merchantable timber at from one third to one half that of the United States. A very generous estimate places the available supply at 532 billion feet board measure. This seems an enormous quantity, but at the present rate of consumption this would last the United States only twelve years, or England, which is a more careful user, only sixty years. A recent Ontario estimate was to the effect that the timber of this province will last at the present rate, thirty years.

All these are estimates made with the hope of arriving at some idea of the situation. They differ widely but all point to the fact that authorities are agreed that our forests, instead of being inexhaustible, are so limited that a period can be set when they will be used up, unless some plan of conservation forest management is adopted in the meantime.

As to the claim that substitutes will be found. This has not proven to be the case so far. Nor has it in other lines until the cost of the original rose so high as to render it profitable to search for a substitute. In paper making many fibres may be used, but all these cost more to gather and prepare than does spruce-wood.

We are using more steel and concrete in the erection of buildings than ever before, yet the amount of timber consumed has been steadily increasing. In Canada the consumption of sawn timber is figured out to to be 780 feet per head per year. That is to say there is every year cut up into lumber in Canada enough timber to make a board walk ten feet wide and 75 feet long for every man, woman and child in the country. Taking in the quantity used for fuel, posts, etc., it amounts to nearly two cords (255 cubic feet) for every person in Canada.

But huge and wasteful as this is it is not so huge as the dead loss from fire which it is estimated destroys every year at least twice as much lumber as is used by man. During the nineteenth century more than half the forests of Canada were swept away by fire without doing anyone a particle of good, but on the other hand they were accompanied by the destruction of other property and even of life. While the fire fiend has been somewhat checked in recent years the fire loss would yearly supply a complete railway system with ties, would keep every citizen of Canada warm in the way of fuel and would supply all the timber required to build a good sized city.

REVENUE

But the people of this country are deeply interested in the forests in a financial way.

In Ontario the annual revenue received by the provincial government is nearly $1 per head, or say $5 for the average family. The last return was $2,082,878. That is to say if our forests are allowed to disappear the people of Ontario will be compelled to pay in taxes this enormous sum annually. The only reason why Ontario has not had to resort to direct taxation for provincial needs as in th States of the Union is because the revenues from her Crown lands have been sufficient to meet this need. Thus everybody in Ontario has a direct interest in seeing that the forests are preserved. That total revenue from forest lands held by the provinces of the Dominion is about $4,500,000 which all goes to reduce the taxes.

TRADE

Besides the revenues which the country receives there is the immense trade arising out of timber which goes to enrich the people. The total exports of lumber for which the returns are available was (1908) $49,168,265. To this must be added all the home consumption which is estimated by the census at $50,000,000 per year. The exports for the forty-one yars following Confederation amounted to $1,139,534. This makes an average of nearly twenty-eight million dollars per year. This is one and one-third times the value of agricultural produce exported in the same period.

If this enormous trade were to cease, look at the industries that would be lost to Canada; sawmills, pulp and paper mills, furniture factories, wagon works, sash and doro factories, and all the smaller industries that depend on lumber. One Ottawa mill alone employs 3,500 men during the season.

There would follow the loss of all the industries supplying the lumber trade. These include machine shops, boiler factories, the makers of axes, saws, tools, dry goods, groceries, etc., while the farmer would lose a market for his feed, meat, and live stock. The railways draw a large part of their trade from the lumbermen and much of the shipping of our lake and ocean marine is engaged in carrying forest products. The special census of 1906 shows that 78,000 families or 400,000 people in Canada are dependent on the forest industry, which amounts to about 6 per cent of the total population.

In speaking of Forestry as related to the Power question he said that all central Canada is without coal and it would appear that nature had compensated for this lack of providing an abundance of water power. It is estimated by some authorities that Canada has forty per cent of the waterpowers of the world and these powers are most abundant in the central parts where coal is not found. Mr. Cecil B. Smith in a recent paper said there was probably now developed in Canada 350,000 horsepower of waterpower. Considered only on a basis of a ten hour day this represented a saving of 1,750,000 tons of coal as compared with about 6,000,000 tons annually imported. The near future will, he stated, see this doubled and trebled. Central Ontario has 200,000 to 300,000 h. p. developed or to be developed outside of Niagara Falls. Since the amount of power now developed could be readily doubled or trebled, it means that we are allowing the equivalent of five thousand to ten thousand tons of coal for every day in the year to flow away in our streams. If we saw coal falling over a precipice and lost forever at this rate we would soon take steps to stop it, but since it was only water we let it go. However the public is waking up and everybody sees more harness put on our streams.

Then he took up the question of the preservation of the power and the regulation of the flow, by forestration of the headlands of the streams, and after explaining the loss to the land, through too rapid evaporation, he said that if 20 per cent. of the land were left in trees there would be a larger yield of farm-products than if there were no trees.

He gave an interesting account of what has happened in other countries and what will happen here unless forest destruction is prevented.

Palestine was once described as a land flowing with milk and honey, a land of vine, olive and fig trees. It is to-day largely desert because of the destruction of the forests which once crowned the hills.

Syria is in the same condition. A forest expert who went carefully over a district forty miles square, says the district had once 150 cities and towns ranging from three thousand to three hundred thousand inhabitants. Now each contains but a few squalid families. Antioch which had a population of half a million has now but thirty thousand people. In those days the famous cedars of Lebanon flourished on the mountains. To-day the hills are bare and the lowlands are a desert.

The Johnstown flood and similar disasters were the result of the laying bare of the hills, allowing the water to rush down and break dams and reservoirs. The clearing of the mountains has reduced the regions near the Alleghenies to comparative sterility.

In France about eight million acres of what was previously among the most fertile land in the country lying in the valleys and lowlands, has been ruined by the wash of sand, gravel and loose stones from the hills and mountains over the fields below. Until the forests were cut shortly after the Revolution these destroyed areas were amongst the most productive parts of France. The Government of France has spent $40,000,000 on the effort to reclaim the land thus destroyed, and it is estimated that it will take $100,000,000 more to get back partly to where they were before. This does not take in the value of the crops that have been lost nor the value of the trees that should have grown on the mountains.

Because of the ruthless destruction of the forests, northwestern China has become a desert and this desert is rapidly extending. To keep the debris from the mountains from washing over and destroying the lower fields completely, the inhabitants have been forced to terrace with stones whole mountain sides.

Spain is largely desert from this cause, and one of the reasons for Spain's decadence is the decay of her agricultural industry. Much of Southern Europe is in the same position, though the area affected is not so large as in Spain and the Government of these countries are now spending large sums simply to get back to where they were a few decades ago. Would it not be well for us in Canada to take warning and save the forests upon which so much depends. Otherwise the lesson written all over history is that we will be reduced to the state of China, Spain, Syria, France and many other of the older countries of the world.

Perhaps you think this is only a case of "The Gobblins 'ill git ye if ye don't look out." But right at our doors in fertile Southern Ontario the story of these old countries is already being repeated. The desert-making process has gone so far that the Ontario Department of Agriculture has issued a report on the Reforestation of Waste Lands in Southern Ontario. The Government has set aside a sum for the purchase of a portion of these lands in Norfolk County. Prof. Zavitz, of the Guelph Agricultural College, has been selected to have charge of this work, and already the work has been begun. The forest nursery has been moved from Guelph to Norfolk county, where the conditions are better suited for it, and by the close of this year one thousand acres will be under the control of the Department of Agriculture and much of it planted. Prof. Zavitz, speaking on the quality of such lands, says that in Old Ontario there are at least 18,800,000 acres which should be managed for forest crops.

At the conclusion of the lecture it was moved by Mr. J. Coyle Brown, and seconded by Mr. W. H. Meldrum: "That a hearty vote of thanks be, and is hereby tendered to Mr. James Lawler, secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, for the very interesting and instructive lecture on 'Our Vanishing Forests,' given by him to the Board of Trade this evening.'

The motion was unanimously adopted.

LOOKING FOR SITE FOR RIFLE RANGE

Leiut. Col. Hemming, D. O. C., of No. 3 District in City To-day and Inspected Several Sites in Company With Col. Stevenson of the 57th Regiment.

A rifle range for the military men of Peterborough appears to be in sight at last. Lieut.-Col. Hemming, D.O.C. for military district No. 3, was in the city to-day and in company with Col. Stevenson of the 57th Regiment, looked over a number of sites in an endeavor to secure one that will be suitable for a rifle range. Among the places inspected were Milburn's hill on the Chemong road, and some property, part of which belongs to the Dickson Company, east of the canal and south of the C. P.R. track. The farm of Mr. Samuel Price, in Otonabee township, about a mile east of the city was also inspected and the old Curtis range was looked over. Another site under consideration is some property in North Monaghan, belonging to Mr. George Bennett. While the aim is to secure the best site available, the price of the land has to be taken into consideration.

The Review understands that it has been decided at Ottawa to give Peterborough a range without further delay. This will be good news to the military men here, especially the members of the 57th regiment.

HAS THE MOON GOT TO GO?

One by one our cherished beliefs are taken from us. Age affords experience, experience brings—or should bring—wisdom. Then when we have gained settled opinions or beliefs, along comes the matter-of-fact scientist and knocks the props from under.

This time it is the moon, as a factor in the making of weather that has to go. We have had the moon with us so long that we have got on a certain footing of familiarity, and it has been a convenient thing to blame on the kindly orb vagaries of the weather. In this respect we have been using the moon unjustly and desire to apologize, and it won't occur again. Mr. R. F. Stupart, chief of the Meteorological Department, Toronto, and who is that indefinite, yet definite individual known as "Old Probs," was asked the question, "What influence has the moon at any... on the weather," and replied, "none whatever." Scientists, he says, have for many years been plotting and marking and comparing notes. Reports covering many years have been brought together from countries diversely apart. The most faithful scrutiny has been afforded and comparisons made, and the results gained show that in no sense has the moon an influence on the weather. The wet and dry moon are only fancies, so far as influence is concerned. It is true we have had abnormally wet weather when the crescent moon has been upside down, spilling down on the earth, so to speak, a watery torrent. (That is merely a coincidence. The reverse has been the case in that of a dry spell.

Mr. Stupart defines the weather as the gift of the sun, the determining factor. There are seasons of abnormal activity on or in the flaming envelope surrounding the sun, indicating periods of increased energy. The influence extends to the earth and induces changes in the atmosphere, piling it up at one point, drawing away from another. These changes produce the winds, which bear across the face of the globe a share of the heat or cold prevailing where they were generated. Weather predictions are only a summary of daily observations, wired in ahead, and grouped and compared, and deductions drawn from what certain well recognised conditions have produced in the past. If a storm is moving northward over Lower New York and its rate of travel is 60 miles per hour, Peterborough is bound to feel it if the storm has strength enough to blow so far. Cold waves are felt along a path until the energy behind is spent.

HISTORY OF THE BUDGET

Budget to provide for a deficit of $78,810,000 incurred by old age pensions, presented to the House of Commons on April 29.

Increased income tax, death, estate and legacy duties, a tax of 20 per cent. on future unearned increment in lands, taxes on motors to keep up roads and a stamp tax on the sale of property, the principal levies.

Debate on the bill commenced in the House of Commons on May 3rd.

Third reading of the bill passed on Nov. 4th by a vote of 379 to 149, the Irish Nationalists abstaining from voting.

The second reading of the bill moved in the House of Lords on November 22nd.

Lord Lansdowne moved amendment, "That this House is not justified in giving its consent to the bill until it has been submitted to the judgment of the country."

Lord Lansdowne's amendment carried November 30th, by a vote of 350 to 75.

MR. McLEOD'S BANKING ACT AMENDMENTS

The necessity of doing something in the way of governmental protection for the banking public was insisted upon by the Grand Jury at the Assizes held in Toronto in the spring of 1907. It was the occasion of the trial of a well-known bank president. Mr. McLeod, the general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, has taken the matter up. His brochure has gone through more than one edition. He advocates a Board of Audit to be appointed by the Canadian Bankers' Association to inspect the head office of each bank. Either Mr. McLeod's suggestion or a government board is necessary for the guaranteed safety of the public. There have been too many bank smash-ups in Canada of late years.

MR. COYLE BROWN HAS RESIGNED

The retirement from this sphere of active usefulness of Mr. Brown removes from one of the most important of county offices, that of education, a man who has been an ornament to it in every way. THE BRITISH LIBERALS HAVE ISSUED A PARTY RALLY FOR REFERENDUM

Manifesto is Published Calling on the People of England to Rise and Preserve the Rights for Which Their Forefathers Struggled.

London, Dec. 2.—The National Liberal Federation last night issued a manifesto to the country, which may be regarded as a party rally for the elections. It concentrates attention entirely on the constitutional struggle between the House of Lords, and the House of Commons. It says:

"If the present action of the peers is not repudiated swiftly by the people, the rights and privileges won so dearly by our forefathers in the great struggles for freedom are all surrendered."

The manifesto declares that the peers' power of veto must be restricted, so that the last word on legislation and finance must rest with the House of Commons. Otherwise, no Liberal Ministry can again assume the responsibility of office.

"In the fight forced upon us," the manifesto continues, "the electors will have to decide whether they wish to govern themselves, or be governed at second hand by a few hundred hereditary peers who have thrown the constitution into the melting pot in order to shift the burden of taxation from wealth, land and liquor to food and the necessaries of life."

Lord Rosebery, in a letter to the press last night, repudiates the charge made by Lord Curzon, that he led an army to the walls of a fortress, and then abandoned it. Lord Rosebery reiterates that throughout [illegible] and warned against, the course the Lords have taken, as one calculated injuriously to affect the House of Lords iself, and enhance what popularity the budget may possess.

Miss Asquith as Campaigner.

London, Dec. 2.—Even before the Government has announced on its program of campaign women folk of the Cabinet Ministers' families are beginning to show their active interest in the coming struggle.

Miss Violet Asquith, the Prime Minister's daughter, is determined to make herself a valuable asset to the Liberal party. She has made her debut as a political speaker and proved herself to possess remarkable eloquence and a charming platform manner. She is decidedly opposed to the militant suffragette policy.

Miss Asquith has opened a Liberal bazaar at Hammersmith, a western suburb of London, where in a eulogy of the work of the Liberal Government she said:

"They have resurrected the army, united South Africa and given the Utopian boon of old-age pensions, which some of us had relegated to the millennium. Now we are Crusaders outside the walls of the Holy City."

This was a reference to the Liberal Government's attack on the strongholds of wealth and privilege.

SIR PERCY LAKE SAYS THE MILITIA IS EFFICIENT

New Inspector-General is a Strong Advocate of Militarism in Schools—Expenditure for the Year is $6,484,806, and Strength is 45,532.

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—Sir Frederick Borden yesterday tabled in the Commons the report of the Militia Council for the fiscal year ending March 31 last.

Some remarks as to the general efficiency of the various Canadian militia units are made by Sir Percy Lake, inspector-general. On the whole, he says, there is little doubt but that the infantry is steadily advancing in efficiency, owing greatly to the appointment of brigadiers. The training of nearly all military corps suffers from the tendency of most commanding officers to forget that company drill is the foundation of the more advanced training. The artillery forces had maintained their standing, and perhaps made progress towards further efficiency. The cavalry, was on the whole, better mounted than usual, the best mounted corps being those of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The report of the council notes that it has been decided to proceed with the organization of a Canadian general staff, which will in time become the Canadian section of the imperial general staff.

"I entirely associate myself with my predecessor's remarks as to the value of military training in schools. Mentally and physically, it is a most valuable aid to education. From a military point of view, it is almost the only means by which a citizen force can hope to surmount the difficulties imposed by the practical impossibility of exacting an adequate period of annual training from adults."

The expenditure for the year was $6,484,806, a decrease of $311,218 as compared with the previous year. The number of men of all ranks trained was 45,532, at a total expenditure of $1,064,416. During the previous year 47,121 men were trained at an expenditure of $1,064,499. In 1904-5, only 33,874 men were trained, at an expenditure of $677,734.

In the House yesterday, Hon. G. E. Foster moved for an order "for a copy of the correspondence, papers and letters in respect to the agreement between Great Britain and the United States for the maintenance of war vessels on the great lakes, including the agreement itself, the several requests made for permitting the United States war vessels to pass the canals, with description and armament, the places where they are stationed, and the purpose for which they are used."

The Rush-Bagot agreement of 1818 had stipulated that one vessel of one hundred tons, and carrying one eighteen pounder gun would be allowed by either country on Lake Champlain, one on Lake Ontario and two on the upper lakes. During late years this armament had been considerably exceeded by the U. S., which now had on the great lakes nine vessels, all many times the specified tonnage and armament.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that it would have been better had Mr. Foster, instead of trying to raise a scare, been able to suggest a remedy. The Rush-Bagot arrangement had served an excellent purpose. The treaty might be terminated by either country giving six months' notice. That would make the situation worse, and might lead to a large expenditure in the building of vessels. Under such circumstances it was incumbent upon us to be careful as to what we did and said. The agreement was discussed by the joint high commission in Washington in 1899. It had been more recently under consideration by the two Governments.

BIG RAILWAY DEAL HAS BEEN CONSUMMATED

New York, Dec. 2.—Six thousand five hundred miles of railroad forming the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad Co., generally known as the 'Frisco, changed hands in New York yesterday by its severance from the Rock Island Co., with which it was merged in 1903. The purchasers are B. F. Yoakum, former chairman of the Frisco-Rock Island board, and B. I. Winchell, former president of the Rock Island, who now becomes president of the 'Frisco.

It is believed that the 'Frisco will form some alliance with the lines of Edwin Hawley, the new comet in the railroad world, who recently acquired with B. F. Yoakum, control of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway.

Hawley is credited with the control of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Chicago & Alton, Minneapolis & St. Louis, Iowa Central and the Toledo, St. Louis and Western; while he is interested in Hocking Valley, Toledo & Ohio Central, Western Pacific, the Atlantic Coast Line and Louisville & Nashville.

UNITED STATES ARMY RECOMMENDATIONS

Washington, Dec. 2.—Many changes in the military establishment were suggested yesterday by United States Secretary of War Dickinson in his annual report to the President, among them the following:

The division of the United States into territorial and tactical districts so that the organized militia of the states may be practically combined with the regular army stationed therein.

The location of troops in or near the principal cities of the United States, instead of distributing them at remote forts, to meet the three requirements of economy, possibility of rapid movement, and the training of the militia.

More officers of the army and promotion on the merit system.

Encouragement of rifle practice among the citizens and school boys.

PROBABILITIES.

Fresh winds, fair, and continued mild. Friday, cloudy, followed by rain.

OPPOSITION TO SUNDAY FUNERALS

Brantford, Dec. 2.—The Sunday funeral will soon be a thing of the past in Brantford. Local ministers have united in discouraging them, having passed a formal resolution at the Ministerial Alliance. Copies of the resolution are now in the hands of all undertakers, who are asked to cooperate. The City Council will also be requested to close the cemeteries on Sundays. The ground of the appeals is that ministers have too strenuous duties on Sundays, and that the cemetery employes should not be required to work.

ADJOURNMENT ON DEC. 17TH

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—Parliament will adjourn for the Christmas holidays on the seventeenth of this month, and will resume sittings on Jan. 10.

Writs have been issued for the Lunenburg and Dufferin bye-elections to fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of Mr. A. H. McLean, now Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, and by the death of Dr. John Barr. Nominations are set for the 15th, and polling on the 22nd.

JAIL AWAITS MRS. PANKHURST IN ENGLAND

New York, Dec. 2.—"When I go back to England," said Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant little English suffragette, yesterday, "I am going to serve 30 days in jail with 90 others, and I shall tell you now that there will be another 'hunger strike.' We shall refuse to eat the prison food, not because of the sort of food it is, but because we think this a good method to gain our end. If any of us die in prison, heaven help the Government candidates at the general election.

Pay Fine or Go to Prison.

London, Dec. 2.—The Divisional Court yesterday denied the appeal of Miss Cristabel Pankhurst and Mrs. Haverfield, sentenced to pay a fine of $25 each or to go to prison for a month on the charge of resisting the police. The women were arrested June 30, along with 114 other suffragettes, who had attempted to force their way into the House of Commons to present a petition to Premier Asquith.

THE QUEBEC JUDGESHIPS

Montreal, Dec. 2.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given the Montreal bar to understand that the vacancies on the Superior Court of this province will be filled without delay. It is understood that Mr. Ethier, M.P. for Two Mountains, will replace the late Judge Rochon in Pontiac. As soon as Hon. W. A. Weir is appointed to replace Judge Curran, it is said J. C. Walsh, ex-M.P. for St. Ann's, will be made judge of sessions here.

The magistrate's ruling will be given.

EMPLOYEES ARE FINED FOR THEFT

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 2.—James Armstrong, William Watts and Harry Putney, all Michigan Central Railway employes, arrested and charged with robbing cars in the yards at Bridgeburg, were before Magistrate Rathven yesterday and fined $5 and costs. They promised to make restitution to the company. Ernest Finlayson, charged with receiving stolen property, got off with the same sentence.

Maurice Woodlee, formerly M.C.R. night yardman at Bridgeburg; John Kee, fireman, son of Chief of Police Kee; Chester Lawson, son of the collector of customs, and R. S. Girvin, M.C.R. checker, were committed for trial at Welland on the same charge. J. O'Neill, former yardmaster, charged with stealing seven cars of crushed stone from the company, and Burns, charged with returning a false payroll, will also be tried at Welland.

THEY WANT TO STOP THE LEGISLATION

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—Mr. R. G. Hutchins, jr., representing N. W. Harris & Co. of New York, who hold six millions of the bonds of the Dominion Power & Transportation Co. of Hamilton, was in Ottawa yesterday to see Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and urged the Dominion Government to disallow the hydro-electric legislation of the Ontario Government tending for the establishment of a Government power enterprise, which would, he said, very seriously interfere with the security of the investments in private power undertakings established without expectation that there would be Government competition and a radical interference with vested interests.

Sir Wilfrid stated that the question had already been brought to the consideration of the Government by various deputations recently in Ottawa.

LAY DEAD WITH WIFE HELPLESS

Hamilton, Dec. 2.—Michael Cronin, 75 years of age, was found dead in bed at his home in Dundas yesterday morning. It is thought that he had been dead since Sunday. BRIBERY CHARGED

Two Oxford Officials are Accused of Grafting — Two Strange Stories

Woodstock, Dec. 2.—An investigation by County Judge Finkle of charges made by certain ratepayers that there had been graft in connection with the administration of the county roads system of Oxford County was held here yesterday, and some decidedly startling statements were made by witnesses. The judge will prepare a report on the evidence to be submitted to the council.

James Vance, an agent for the Hamilton Bridge Co., swore that he paid Charles Sutherland, reeve of East Zorra, and chairman of the Good Roads committee of the County Council, $50 for his signature to an acceptance of Vance's tender at $3,950 for a steel bridge for Wolverton. Vance states that Sutherland demanded $100, but reduced his request when Vance told him there wasn't that much profit in the deal.

Reeve Sutherland positively denied getting any money out of the transaction, saying that none was ever offered him, but charged Vance with having endeavored to bribe him with $10 on a smaller bridge contract at a later date.

An astonishing story was told by James L. Thayer of Aylmer, general agent for the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Co., implicating M. T. Buchanan of Ingersoll, that town's representative on the County Council for many years until two years ago, in questionable transactions. In 1907 Oxford County entered upon a system of roads construction and appointed a committee to purchase machinery. The committee interviewed Thayer, and he was advised by one member to see Buchanan.

Buchanan wanted to know what commissions were paid agents by the company. Thayer told him, and informed him that Lancelot Waller of Tillsonburg was the local representative. The committee bought two steam road rollers for five thousand dollars and paid for them. When the company undertook to settle up the commissions Buchanan appeared and demanded four hundred dollars, claiming he had made an arrangement with Waller, who had, in the meantime, died, that he was to get half the commission.

His claim was that he was boss of the council, said the witness, and had used his influence in behalf of the contract. The sum of $340 was paid, Mr. Thayer said, to avoid a lawsuit. The $340 was later repaid by Buchanan.

VICTUALLERS IN FAVOR OF REDUCTION

Montreal, Dec. 2.—The Montreal licensed victuallers met yesterday and adopted a radical and progressive policy as regards the sale of strong liquor. Lawrence A. Wilson was chosen president and he would only accept upon condition that his new policy should be adopted.

This policy favors the gradual reduction of liquor licenses in Montreal, the reductions to be left entirely with the commissioners. Notice of at least three years to every cafe or saloon and five years to a hotel is recommended. He maintained also that there should be a law of compensation for those forfeiting their licenses.

The new policy also favors the classifying of licenses in cafes, restaurants and hotels, and to have the jurisdiction of the commissioners to extend all over the Island of Montreal, club license for the city to be obtained in the regular way and approved of by the Government. The president, however, opposed the early closing movement.

CAPTAIN BERNIER

There will be with us to-morrow evening a Canadian who deserves well of his country, if he, being a French-Canadian, will allow the rest of us so far to trespass upon his rights as to claim him as a common possession. He has done great and enduring work in the far north, but if it were not for the applause accorded to Messrs. Cook and Peary it is doubtful if he would receive more than the ordinary recognition of a traveller. It is not too much to say that Captain Bernier ranks with the most famous Arctic explorers. He has triumphed in the face of difficulties at home almost as great as those to be met with farther north. He is one of the world's great men. He should be shown the most distinguished attention by the city's representatives, the Mayor and City Council and the president of the Board of Trade. We can imitate Great Britain, the United States and Germany in this respect without fear of compromising our dignity.

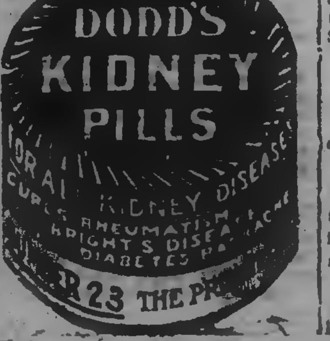
A NEW MOVEMENT IN ENGLAND

A direct solution of the poverty problem in England by the establishment of model cities, as well as an exposition of the horrors and consequences of the prevailing destitution, were the questions submitted to the Canadian Club at luncheon yesterday by Mr. J. Bruce Wallace of the Letchworth Garden City, situated near London, England. Mr. Wallace, who spoke on "Social Experiments in England," emphasized the enormity of poverty in the United Kingdom by saying that no less than one-third of its population were below the poverty line. "I have read the statements of one of your leading members as to the conditions of a large portion of the English people. Some criticism of his statements have also appeared in the English press, but I wish to say that nobody can possibly exaggerate the appalling condition in which a considerable portion of the English working-people find themselves today. One-third of the population of London have not more than a guinea a week per family as a maximum, and the minimum extends down to the starvation line. England's problem is based on the fact that the children of one-third of the population are growing up in conditions which make for moral, mental and physical deterioration."

Mr. Wallace also touched briefly on the immigration problem, which he had heard adversely criticised in Canada, by saying:—"There is a portion of our social wreckage, ground out by our bad land system and by our industrial and commercial systems, which comes to Canada as immigrants."

As a practical solution of the question, Mr. Wallace instanced the Garden City movement in England, with which he is intimately associated. One city, known as the Letchworth Garden City, has already been established by interested capitalists, whose endeavor has been to socialize the ground values only, and to turn the profits from the increasing value of the land site, or the unearned increment, to the advantage of the community and not of the landlord. Five years ago the town site was prepared for 30,000 people, and as a result of the introduction of industries the population already numbers 6,000. Each inhabitant is provided with a comfortable dwelling and a garden, and so far the electorate has enforced local option in its three elections.

"The importance of the Garden City movement," concluded Mr. Wallace, "lies not in the one isolated example, but in the principle outlined. Already other cities are following its lead, and the idea is being adopted or modified to suit other conditions, so that it promises to be one of the greatest modern forces in quickening the public conscience in England."—The Globe, Toronto.



DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

THE DOMINION GRANGE

The Dominion Grange has pronounced upon the proposed navy and upon military training and combines. It is against them. It is also against protection. By it the Canadian navy idea was ruthlessly ridiculed and condemned. Pronouncement was made upon the increasing military expenditure and upon military training in our schools.

With most of the opinions we are in accord. The Canadian navy scheme is absurd, wasteful and a help towards complete separation and independence. The whole trend of Canadian politics is towards the French-Canadian ideal of "a French-Canadian republic in the great basin of the St. Lawrence." Everything is tending to the realization of that ideal. The west may serve to distract our attention for a time. French Canada, including Acadia, extends from the sub-arctics to New England. It has the coast line of all Eastern Canada. This policy of a fleet for Canada only, will protect that coast line and nothing else. It is a great scheme.

That bounties should be continued on rich and well-developed industrial plants such as those of the great steel companies is downright robbery. The recent cement merger is hardly less than a crime. It is such things as these that bring on socialistic anarchy apace. The farmer is robbed on all sides. Of what use to our farmers is the heavily-bonussed G.T.P.? The C.N.R. has no bonus and yet the G.T.P. is a baby to it.

With regard to military training in our schools, it seems to us that some form of physical and moral discipline is necessary, not necessarily a desire to kill, but a methodical and well-organized system of cohesion. Physical training improves the face.

Canada is at present a prey to the grafter and swashbuckler. Morally and commercially we are the prey of the unscrupulous. The following extracts from the Sun will be read with interest;

"The combine clause in the report was also considered as not going far enough, and this formal resolution, moved by Bro. Good, and seconded by Bro. Glendinning, was carried as a rider to the report;

That this Dominion Grange, in convention assembled, does hereby censure the Dominion Government for not enforcing the law relating to combines in restraint of trade by investigating the alleged combines, and with drawing the tariff protection enjoyed by such combines as have been shown to exist.

Mr. Drury said that the deputation which had waited on the Ministers at Ottawa in March last, in regard to this matter had laid before the Government facts which clearly pointed to the existence of combines in this country which had undoubtedly enhanced prices. "The answer we received to our demand that in such cases the tariff be reduced or abolished, was to my mind entirely unsatisfactory," said Mr. Drury. "The Government admitted that it had the power to appoint a judge to enquire into these things, and on the facts being proven, to reduce or abolish the tariff on combine controlled articles. But the Government objected to use its power lest it should be charged with hitting at political opponents among manufacturers."—The Weekly Sun.

E. A. Partridge, of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Grain Co., said farmers of this Province were also in favor of the entire elimination of the principle of protection so far as is possible. "So long, however, as a tariff on imports is maintained," said Mr. Partridge, "more or less advantage is given to the home manufacturer, but we have formally declared that so far as possible the principle of protection be eliminated. We are opposed in the west to a system under which colossal fortunes are built up. You cannot create a mountain without lowering the ground all about.—The Weekly Sun.

EDITORIAL NOTES

About 400 million cigarettes were smoked in Canada last year.

We may expect that boys will go to war over differences in creeds, but it is to be hoped that grown-ups will not imitate them.

American journals like nothing better than telling of the "exclusiveness" of New York's or Chicago's, etc., society. Snobbishness is worse in a land of democracy than anywhere else, it would seem.

A perusal of Hansard shows the enormous expenditure going on for public works of all sorts. Postoffices to cost $25,000 each are being erected in villages in Eastern Canada by Mr. Pugsley.

The Review has received the Business Proclamation number of the Ottawa Citizen. It is a very fine number, showing enterprise on the part of the Citizen and ability on the part of its staff. The advantages of Ottawa in many spheres are attractively set forth, illustrations being used generously in this respect.

Mr. Foster.—I would like to ask the right hon. gentleman if he has heard anything with reference to the information which he said he would telegraph for as to the position of New Zealand and Australia on the defence qestion?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.—I have a despatch which is confidential, but I can show it to my hon. friend.—Hansard.

This is the way it is done. Keep everything dark. The great purpose of isolating Canada goes on apace.

Mr. Donnelly (S. Bruce) expressed his surprise that Mr. Fielding should treat as unimportant the supplementary convention which excluded Canadian fatted cattle from the minimum tariff. This amendment, he submitter, had destroyed the only real advantage given by the treaty to the Canadian farmer. "I protest," said Mr. Donnelly, "against the interests of the Canadian farmer being sacrificed for the benefit of the manufacturer to enable some French dealers to sell us more liquors and perfumes." (Applause.)

From Hansard;

Mr. Oliver;

1. No, except as stated in answer to No. 2.

2. Yes.

3. Damages are claimed to the extent of $71,276.

Mr. Urian Wilson;

1. Has the North Atlantic Trading Company asked for a fiat in order that they may bring suit against the Government for damages or other claims?

2. If so, has such fiat been granted?

Mr. Oliver;

1. Yes.

ELDERS HELD A RECEPTION

To the Members of the Congregation of Knox Church—Interesting Evening

A very successful reception was given at Knox church last night by the elders of the church, who met with the members of the congregation.

After a short service the newly appointed elders, who were inducted a week ago, made short speeches. The addresses were followed by a musical programme in which vocal solos were given by Mr. A. C. Davenport, Mr. Alex. Donaldson and Rev. H. J. Keith. A piano selection was given by Miss Chiles and Mr. Andrew Robertson rendered a violin solo.

After the programme refreshments were served by the wives of the elders.

MONTREAL, Dec. 1.—(Special).—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market offerings were 1100 cattle, 800 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 100 calves. A firm feeling prevailed for cattle, but prices showed no important change. There were some extra choice northwest ranch steers and heifers, for which the holder asked $6.00 per cwt., but there were no buyers and they will be exported. Weather was favorable for keeping stock and demand was good for choice steers at 5¼c; good at 4¾c to 5c; fair at 4¼c to 4½c; medium at 3½c to 4c; cows at 3¼c to 4c; bulls at 3¼c to 3c, and canners at 1¼c to 1¾c per pound. Supplies of sheep and lambs were much smaller, and prices were firmly maintained, with sales at 6c for lambs, and sheep at 4c per pound. Calves were also scarce, and only a few medium ones offered, which sold at from $3 to $7. Hogs advanced 15c to 25c per 100 pounds, owing to the increased demand and the limited supply, and sales of selected lots from west of Toronto were made at $8.60, and from east of Toronto at $8.35, weighed off cars.

Closed For Lack of Water.

Cornwall, Dec. 2.—The very low water in the St. Lawrence River caused the local factories to close for a couple of hours Tuesday afternoon, as the drain for power had reduced the level at Lock 21 to less than the 14 feet required by a couple of large eastbound freighters. The water at the head of the canal is over a foot lower than it has been for several years. The filling of the big lake after a few hours restored the canal to its normal condition.

Drop in "Chicago Subway."

Chicago, Dec. 2.—A slump of nearly two points in Chicago Subway stock on the local exchange followed the announcement yesterday that the company defaulted interest in its bonds. Small holders threw their shares on the market for what they would bring, and as a result the price dropped to $3.25. Several years ago the price was as high as $87.50.

Was Frozen to Death.

Rosthern, Sask., Dec. 2.—A French-Canadian named Margui, aged 19, was found dead on Saturday afternoon 60 miles northwest of here, frozen to death. He was hauling wood, when the load upset on top of him, probably knocking him unconscious. He died in this state. He was a homesteader, coming from Quebec last year.

THIS STRIKE MAY MEAN FORTUNE FOR HAMILTON MAN

Has Hit on Timely Invention That Will Be Appreciated By All Cigar Users—Abrasive Patch on Side of Cigar.

Hamilton, Dec. 1.—After a man has entered the field for municipal honors his face usually takes on an anxious look, when he is where no one can see him. Of course, when he meets the public he has the stereotyped smile and the glad-hand stunt working overtime. But there is one man in the municipal honor race this year who is smiling all the time; that man is Frank J. Quinn, of the board of health. Mr. Quinn's bearing is consistently courteous and kindly, but the placid expression he is wearing these days is even more benign and benevolent than usual.

The truth is that Mr. Quinn is not bothering so much about the race for the controllership as he is about a race with Dame Fortune. Mr. Quinn has turned inventor, and his friends say that he has hit on an idea that will make him a rich man and will put all the smoking fraternity under a lasting obligation to him.

The idea came to Mr. Quinn in a dream. He was wrestling with a bad cold—and the chances are that he will live to regard that cold as the most fortunate experience in his career. As he lay dozing he imagined that he took a cigar out of his pocket. He had a match, but there was no place to strike it. A suit of pyjamas does not afford the necessary match-striking facilities. But, lo and behold! as in the Arabian Nights, there was evolved, just as the thought was expressed, the very identical place. Along the side of the cigar was a small, tough patch, just like the sort that is used on match boxes. Mr. Quinn struck his match on that and enjoyed his smoke.

Now, mind you, what was all in a dream. But when Mr. Quinn got better and went to his work, he remembered that dream. The idea struck him as being a good one, and he devised a scheme whereby an abrasive substance could be attached to a cigar band. In an apologetic way he mentioned his experiment to John H. Tilden, in whose service Mr. Quinn is employed.

"Why, its great, simply great!" shouted Mr. Tilden. "Its the very thing we smokers have been wanting for years. Often at a function have I wished for a place where I could strike a match to light my cigar. The leg of the trousers of a man's full dress suit is not exactly the proper place to rub a match, and a patch on the side of a cigar is the identical thing. What'll you take for half your invention?"

Mr. Quinn on the spot made a deal with Mr. Tilden, and the result is that applications for patents have been filed in Canada and the United States and other countries.

Everybody to whom the idea has been mentioned is as enthusiastic as Mr. Tilden, and as inquiries are made and offers received, Mr. Quinn smiles. And is it any wonder? Success to him and his abrasive patch!

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY

Yesterday was Her Majesty Queen Alexandra's birthday. She was a daughter of Christian IX, King of Denmark, was born at Copenhagen, December 1st, 1844, and was married to His Majesty (then Prince of Wales) at Windsor, March 10th, 1863. The household in which Queen Alexandra was brought up was a model for the poorest in the land, as the late Queen of Denmark looked well to the ways of her home and "ate not the bread of idleness." The royal family of Denmark is one of the most democratic in the world, and the young princesses of that home were trained in all womanly arts and manners. From her first coming to England on the occasion of her marriage, "the sea-king's daughter from over the sea" has been a favorite among the British people. Her interest in all philanthropic matters and her kindly thought for those immediately connected with the royal household and estates have endeared her to the people not only of the United Kingdom, but of the Empire. Her Majesty's wonderful youthfulness in outline of face and form has often been remarked, as she has kept, to a surprising degree a delicacy and daintiness which too frequently disappear with the early years. Her courtesy, grace and genuine kindness of heart have supplemented those qualities in King Edward, which have justly given him the name, "The Peace-maker of Europe."

HOW PRICE OF BROOMS ADVANCED

Since a year ago, or even since last spring, the price of brooms has almost doubled, said a Peterborough dealer in brooms to-day. Brooms that sold ten months ago for 25 cents are now retailed at 45 cents, and the prospects indicate that the price of such will be still further increased by the beginning of the new year to 50 or 55 cents. The reason given is the growing scarcity of broom corn, and the fact that the crop has been brought up largely by the manufacturers themselves this year. A couple of brooms might be regarded as an acceptable Christmas gift by housekeepers in view of the prospective rise in prices.

SHE MYSTIFIES HER FRIENDS

Bessie De Voie the Dancer Disappears After Report of Suit

Bessie De Voie, the dancer, who figured prominently in the trial of Mrs. Ben Teal in connection with the Frank J. Gould divorce case, has disappeared, and to-day her friends on Broadway are at a loss to account for her movements. She lived at Huntington, L.I., with her mother during the summer, but moved into the city in September.

To intimate friends Miss De Voie expressed deep regret that her name was dragged into the marital troubles of Frank Gould, but admitted that the young millionaire was a very dear friend of hers.

Mr. Gould and Miss De Voie attended the opening performance of "The Motor Girl" together, but later in the summer were not seen again in public. Mr. Gould was a regular attendant at the Lyric Theatre during the run of "The Motor Girl," and appeared greatly interested in the artistic success of the show.

The millionaire's attention to "The Motor Girl" was not approved by Miss De Voie, who has personal dislike for that kind of comedy.

Miss De Voie confided to friends that Mr. Gould was paying a great deal of attention to theatricals, especially "The Motor Girl," and that she rarely saw him. But she did not send back any letters alleged to have been written by the young man.

Miss De Voie's reported suit for $200,000 against Frank J. Gould was not unexpected by stage friends of the dancer. It was expected by Broadway that Miss De Voie would be a bride before the year was passed. But Miss De Voie is still unmarried.

HAVELOCK COUNCIL HOLDS SESSION

Suit Entered Against Belmont and Methuen—Mr. and Mrs. Burnett Were at Home to Their Friends

Havelock, Dec. 1.—The village council held their monthly meeting in the town hall on Monday evening with all members present. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved and the electric light account for $62.05 ordered to be paid.

Councillors Phillips and McMaster were appointed a committee to look into the matter of placing an electric light on Mathison street east.

By-law No. 107, making the license for pool tables $30, was amended by adding a clause that the license for each additional table be $15.

The application of Mr. Chas. Armstrong for a pool table license was accepted.

Mr. Hoffman made application for a lower rate for the town hall for the Purity Club for the purpose of raising revenue for the club. The fee was set at $6 per night.

By-laws to raise $5,000 for drainage and $8,000 for cement walks were read a first and second time, and ordered to be published in the Havelock Standard for three consecutive weeks.

Dr. W. Brown, of Toronto, was in town on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burnet entertained a number of their Havelock friends at their residence on King street on Friday evening last, when a most enjoyable time was spent by the guests. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Burnet were presented with a beautiful hall rack. A dainty lunch was served in the dining room, after which the guests indulged in various games.

Mr. McMullen, of the Prudential Insurance Co., Peterborough, was in town last week.

Mr. Packenham, of Norwood, was in town on Monday.

DANGEROUS DANDRUFF

Will Make Canada a Baldheaded Nation if Not Checked

M. Pasteur, the great French Physician of Paris, once said; "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause, there would be no baldness.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

Wm. Madill guarantees it. It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning gray.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease stickness. It is the favorite with women of taste and culture who know the social value of fascinating hair.

A large bottle costs only 50 cents at leading druggists everywhere, and in Peterborough by Wm. Madill. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package.

Protection at Level Crossings.

Ottawa, Dec. 2. The Railway Commission will soon take up the question of the protection of the C.P.R. crossings at Dundas street, Lambton, Dundas street, Cooksville, and Brock avenue, Toronto, and G.T.R. crossings at King street, Berlin, and Queen street, Palmerston.

Latham's Highest Yet.

Mourmelon, France, Dec. 2.—Battling against a wind of nearly 40 miles an hour, Hubert Latham, the French aeronaut, attained a height yesterday of between 475 and 500 metres (about 1,600 feet), beating the official world's record.

Togo Retires.

Tokio, Dec. 2.—Admiral Togo, chief of the general staff of the navy, retires to-day from the naval command and becomes a member of the military council. He is succeeded by Vice-Admiral Sir Gero Ijuin.

"SURELY I DID" SAYS SIR WM. VAN HORNE

He Re-Affirms His Winnipeg "Chip in" Interview—Written Protests to Montreal Papers Not Published.

Special Staff Correspondence of the Montreal Star.

New York, Nov. 30.—A Star representative talked with Sir William Van Horne here before he departed for Cuba, about his Winnipeg pronouncement on naval affairs.

There were also present at the interview, which took place in the Manhattan Hotel: Mr. R. B. Van Horne, of Montreal; Mr. Lynch, the private secretary of Sir William; Mr. M. E. Nichols, of Winnipeg.

When asked if he adhered to his statement, made in Winnipeg to a Telegram reporter, that it was time for Canada to "chip in" on Imperial naval defence, the chairman of the C.P.R. Board said:

"Why, of course I did. I was not only correctly reported, but exceptionally well reported; and I want you to say so.

"Well, now, about the reports in Montreal papers, in which I am represented as denying the authenticity of the Winnipeg interview. I did not see any reporters at all. Some one called me by telephone at my Sherbrooke street home in Montreal. I didn't say much; and I didn't deny anything I had said in Winnipeg regarding naval affairs."

Sir William here turned to Mr. Nichols, and enumerated the persons who were present when the interview was given, and added some complimentary references to the Winnipeg Telegram reporter. (Mr. Nichols is the editor of The Telegram.)

Sir William added: "I have written to the offending papers in Montreal, protesting against the views—or whatever you would call it—attributed to me by their representatives. I do not see how they can refrain from publishing my communication." (Here Sir William quoted textually one of the letters, in which was a blend of genial sarcasm.)

Continuing, he discussed the relative merits of a Canadian navy, and, as against that, the superiority of "chipping in" for the strengthening of the Imperial fleet. This he did at length, incidentally giving a well-reasoned view of international politics, which, as it had "nothing to do with the case," and was in the nature of a confidential chat, is not reproduced here.

I would like to add that all present enjoyed the conversation of Sir William, which was both picturesque and humorous in some of its passages. And if some of his references to the Canadian admirals-to-be were published and the drollery of his intonation and countenance could be reproduced, the readers of the Montreal Star to-night would laugh as uproariously as did the little group that surrounded Sir William.

WAR SCARES.

The Ease With Which They Develop in European Nations.

Germany has just had a scare, and it appears that a British cruiser is the innocent cause. During the recent Baltic cruise of the Cornwall the captain intimated his intention of paying a visit to Kiel.

A dense mist prevailed at the time, and the Harbor authorities did not expect her to put in an appearance before morning. When day broke, however, the official world of Kiel was staggered to find the Cornwall moored in her assigned position and apparently quite at home.

She had navigated the difficult Kiel fiord in the darkness and mist without a pilot on board, and not only that, but investigation showed that she had done the same thing at Danzig and Swinemunde.

A German newspaper immediately lashed its readers into a panic. "What would happen in the event of a sudden outbreak of war with England?" it screamed. "They would not have the slightest difficulty in bottling up the high seas in Kiel or elsewhere!"

One Belgian newspaper kept its readers awake for several nights on account of a discovery it made in a German geography book. The book, the use of which was said to be obligatory in most schools, contained this passage: "Belgium, Switzerland, Lichtenstein, Holland, Luxemburg and Denmark are considered as forming part of Germany, because they are mostly situated inside her natural boundaries." Then Denmark and Switzerland and the others began to scream.

Switzerland had another "scare" all on its own account. Not very long ago several battalions of Italian Alpine troops on skees appeared on the Theodule pass, above Zermatt, and had the town practically at their mercy.

The incident raised a storm of excitement in the Swiss press. Where, they demanded, were the twelve battalions of mountain troops and artillery for which money was voted in the Swiss parliament?

A few weeks ago the Parisian boulevard press bubbled over with excitement. Four German balloons had descended in France within forty-eight hours, and one of the papers complained, "It is raining German balloons."

One little country mayor wrote up in a state of great agitation. He had seen a balloon driven over his village by a violent wind, and he had mounted his horse and pursued it till it came to earth.

The occupants, he reported, three men and two ladies, had with them "elaborate photographic apparatus of military appearance." The minister of war received a string of frantic telegrams from various parts of the country.

Russian newspapers have been pouring oil on the troubled waters of England's German "scare" by getting up some excitement over the Austro-German entente. In some quarters it has actually been advocated that the official archives should be removed from St. Petersburg because the capital is too much exposed to the possibility of capture by the armies of her western neighbors.—Pearson's Weekly.

Courage.

For cool courage the deed of a Bendigo gold miner named Davis would be hard to beat. He and two others were sinking a shaft, and after putting in two charges of blasting powder they ascended to the plat above. One of them, Allen, slipped as he came to the surface and fell to the bottom. Instantly Davis rushed down after him, disregarding the fact that the charges were due to explode. He had dragged Allen about five feet before the first shot came. The debris luckily was carried in the opposite direction. Then he struggled on again and managed to reach a comparatively safe place for the second explosion. The two were found little the worse for their closeness to the bursting mass of rock, but Allen's leg had been broken by the fall. The Victorian government has recommended that Davis be awarded the Prince Albert medal for gallantry.—Melbourne Cor. San Francisco Bulletin.

Schoolboy Suicides.

Writing from Berlin, a correspondent of the Chicago News discussed the alarming number of child suicides in Germany. "Investigation proves that every week a schoolboy kills himself in Germany and that this average has been maintained for the last twenty-six years," says the correspondent. "Opinion is divided as to whether blame rests upon home conditions, such as the harshness and ambition of parents, or upon the school management. A case is cited in which a father said to his son on the eve of an examination, 'If you don't bring me your certificate of promotion I will not speak to you again.' The boy went into the examination more dead than alive and luckily got his certificate, but one investigator asks, 'What if he hadn't?'"

Kangaroo Money For Australians.

Sixpences and shillings displaying a kangaroo on one side are a probability of the early future. For a long time Australia has been clamoring for the right to coin silver, and the imperial mint authorities have at last consented. Sir John Forrest, the commonwealth treasurer, says the London Globe, will supervise the new departure, and he says it is likely the coins will have a kangaroo on one side and "some other typical Australian device on the other. There are three branches of the royal mint in Australia—Sydney Melbourne and Perth—but hitherto their operation has been restricted to gold.

REFORESTRY FOR PETERBOROUGH

The illustrated lecture by Mr. Lawler of the C. F. A., Wednesday night, before the members of the County Council and others succeeded in arousing discussion and endorsement amongst those who are closest to the subject of that discussion, the reeves of the townships. Mr. Lawler showed how clearing the country of trees meant the more rapid evaporation of the rain-fall and the consequent drying-up of the soil. In a few years the top-soil turned to sand or was carried off, spring freshets leaving the farm a barren waste. There are immense stretches of these sand areas now developing in Ontario. What were formerly fine farms are now valueless. Peterborough county is being rapidly stripped of timber and wood. In a few years the conditions precedent to a drying-up of the land will be complete. In a few more years it will be impossible to grow remunerative crops. Then will come barrenness and abandonment.

Canadians have been accustomed to think of Canada as practically all wood. As a matter of fact our timber would last the U. S. for twelve years only, at the present rate of consumption. The U. S. has much more than we have and it is reforesting and conserving its pine timber and hardwood resources with all the energy and skill at its command. We must wake up to this fact in Canada. Our revenue from timber has been greater than our export trade in any other form. We overlook this fact. Our necessities at home require a constant wood supply such as we shall soon not have. We overlook this fact also.

It is the duty of the provincial government, we believe, to establish reforestry reservations in each county of old Ontario. The people of old Ontario are entitled to have a greater share of the profit returned to them arising from their state lands and minerals. Foresters and fire-rangers should be appointed in each county. Germany has in this respect enlightened the world. It began 100 years ago and look at it to-day.

This must be done here before it is too late. Once the drying-up process begins farmers will leave the township districts never to return. It will pay them to go to the west and they will go. Will it pay the townspeople to let them go? This aspect of the quiestion draws the city and the villages into the business at once.

Mr. Bradburn, M.P.P., and Mr. Thompson, M.P.P., have a manifest duty to perform. They have chances of conferring an enormous benefit upon this country by pressing these matters upon the attention of the government. The pressure of public opinion brought to bear through them upon the government would soon have its effect. They can confer a direct benefit of millions of dollars upon this county by reforestry. They can confer a direct benefit upon the farming community of millions more through the preservation of the fertility of the farm lands. It will be but the beginning of great things. Irrigation can be brought into effect as well. Old Ontario which should blossom as the rose is neglected for newer regions. It is true the Whitney government has begun some sort of compensation for this neglect with regard to schools, etc., but this is only the fringe of the garment. We want more. A farmer or other landholder in charge of Peterborough County would be prosecuted for the neglect of it everywhere apparent. Why should the government escape? Too much attention is given to the money-grabbers and too little to the producers. The farmer is the hewer of wood and drawer of water for the financier. The wage-earner takes what he can get and that which has been the fruit of tremendous agitation on his part in the form of unions and strikes.

A government should represent the people. The idea has grown up in Canada and even in the U. S. that the people exist for the government. The U. S. are just now engaged in upsetting this idea. Canadians should do likewise.

"Billy"

Peterborough theatregoers were presented with the best received comedy of the season on Wednesday evening when "Billy," a piece by George Cameron, was produced at the Grand by an all-star cast. "Billy" was taken from a vaudeville stunt called "Billy's Tombstones," and made over into a comedy. The entire play deals with "Billy" Hargrave, a college football hero, and the many trials and tribulations he passes through after having four front upper teeth kicked out. The young man is very sensitive about it, especially when his sweetheart is around, and his family are cautioned morning, noon and night never to mention it. He and his sister embark on the SS. Florida for Havana. "Billy's" sweetheart also is on board. When Billy is talking to Beatrice he is given a violent jolt by a sailor and loses his teeth. The remainder of the performance, until he finds them again, when a sailor auctions them off and Billy pays $1,000 to get them back, is very amusing.

Edgar Atchison-Eld as "Billy Hargrave," was excellent. He had an exceptionally hard part to play, one in many points that could be badly overdone, but he handled it to perfection. Mr. Atchison-Ely was given excellent support by every member of the company. As Alice Hargrave, "Billy's" sister, Miss Jane Marbury was perfect. Her work in the second act was much admired. Marian Chapman scored a bit as Beatrice Sloane, "Billy's" sweetheart. As Mrs. Sloane Mis. Stuart Robson was all that could be desired. One of the best pieces of work during hte play was that of Prince Miller, as the sailor, when he found the false teeth. The three acts all took place on the deck of the SS. Florida, the same scene being used for each.

The biggest house of the season saw "Billy."

NEXT SUNDAY AT ST. ANDREW'S

Rev. Sam Small the Famous Evangelist Will Preach at the Morning Service

Next Sunday morning the Rev. Sam W. Small, the famous southern evangelist, journalist, author and lecturer, will preach at the morning service at St. Andrew's church.

Sam Small, who for some years was associated with Sam Jones, in his world-wide evangelistic mission, is a born orator.

The New York Herald speaks of him as a "magnetic master of assemblies." The Washington Post says: "There are not half a dozen men in the country who are equal to him in popular power as a public speaker."

Dr. Samuel W. Small is a man of exceptional attainments. He was educated by private tutors and finally graduated with high honors from Emory and Henry College in Virginia. He holds the literary degrees of B.A. and M.A., and is a Ph.D. from Taylor University, and D.D. from the Ohio University. Dr. Small was attached to the staff of Generals Bates and Wilson in their military service in Cuba, and was United States delegate to the International Literary Congress in Paris in 1878. After leaving college he studied law and was admitted to the bar by the Supreme Court of Tennessee, and was then called to become private secretary to ex-President Andrew Jackson.

Dr. Sam Small is a member of numerous societies, being a Mason, an Oddfellow, one of the oldest of the Knights of Pythias. In 1898 President McKinley tendered him the chaplaincy of the Third Regiment of United States Volunteer Engineers, and as such Mr. Small served in the Cuban campaign and subsequently as a staff officer in the work of reconstructing the Island government.

Dr. Sam Small will lecture in St. Andrew's church on Monday night at 8 o'clock. Subject, "The Woman that God Made." A generous silver collection will be taken.

A MEASURE OF MERCY

That is what early Christmas shopping is—a measure of mercy.

It is a measure of mercy to the overburdened servants of the public behind the shop customers. There is just about as much Christmas shopping to be done, and every bit of it that is done before the rush of the last few days is that much relief for the saleswomen and salesmen. It is that much less to be done in those terrible last days of the Christmas shopping season when nerves are worn to the breaking point, and when aching heads and weary hands and tired feet do their best to meet the demands of an eager and insatiable and thoughtless public. That early shopping tends to relieve the pressure of that awful last week is reason enough for it, but there are other and more selfish reasons.

It is a measure of mercy to yourself. Buying now, you get the pick of the stock, you have less competition for the attention and assistance of the clerks; you are crowded less and hurried less; you shop more comfortably and to better advantage.

Buying just before Christmas you get what wiser shoppers have left for you; you necessarily get less attention from the clerks because there are thousands of others pressing for their services; you submit yourself to a jam on the streets and in the shops; shopping then is a burden and a care and a dread; shopping now is a leisurely and comfortable pleasure.

The arguments are old, but they are always good. There is every reason for shopping now; no reason whatever for shopping at the last moment. As a measure of mercy to the people in the shops and to yourself, do your buying now.

MANY NAMES FOR THE VOTERS' LIST

Three Hundred and Ninety-Eight Appeals Entered --Anti-Local Optionists Have 255 and Local Optionists 158 — Will Be Considered By Judge Huycke.

Yesterday was the last day for entering appeals in connection with the voters' list of the city of Peterborough for 1910, and judging by the number of appeals put in there has been a good deal of work done in this connection during the past few weeks. The total number of names which will come before His Honor Judge Huycke is three hundred and ninety-eight, which is many times larger than the number in past years. Of course it is the local option fight that is responsible for the activity to have names placed on the list and both sides have been busy getting the names of those who are perhaps entitled to vote but who are not on the list. One hundred and fifty-eight appeals have been entered by the local option party and those opposed to the introduction of the by-law have sent in lists, the names on which total two hundred and fifty-five. Some of the names, but only a few, appear on the lists of both sides. In addition to the above fifteen appeals have been entered by individual parties.

The date for hearing the appeals has not yet been set.

MR. LAWLER, C. F. A. LECTURES BEFORE THE COUNTY COUNCIL

Peterborough County Being Rapidly Denuded of Wood—The Drying Up of the Soil and Resulting Barrenness.

Mr. Lawler, C.E.A., delivered his lecture on "The Scarcity of Canadian timber and the imminent necessity of reforesting," before the County Council at the Court House last evening. At the conclusion of the lecture Warden Scott, who was in the chair, called upon Mr. J. H. Burnham to say a few words. Mr. Burnham said that in his opinion it was time that the farmers got more attention from Governments. A very small portion of the revenues of state lands and mines was returned in aid to farmers and agriculture. The opportunity was at hand. Peterborough County needed reforesting and the Government might be urged through the people's representatives to take up the matter seriously.

County Solicitor E. A. Peck, said; "I think portions of the northern townships of the county are not suitable in any respect for agriculture and that the Government should withdraw such portions from location and appoint fire rangers for their protection.

Tree planting would not be necessary if protected from fire, etc., reforesting would follow naturally."

Mr. S. R. Armstrong was of opinion that it is desirable. What seems to be needed most is the prevention of the cutting of growing timber and protection from fire, so as to permit of natural reforestation.

Councillor Hales, of Chandos, made a very practical presentation of the needs of the north country. With care and ample protection from fire he thought the country might, to some extent, reforest itself. It was a matter of great importance both on account of the timber and the land itself.

On motion of Councillor Knox, of Havelock, seconded by Councillor Darling of Dummer, a hearty vote of thanks was voted to the speakers.

The annual football dinner at the Grove Preparatory School on Tuesday night was a most successful and thoroughly enjoyable function. All the boys of the school were in attendance and there were about twenty outside guests, including the parents of several of the pupils.

After the dinner an adjournment was made to the speech room where Mr. Light of the Grove teaching staff, entertained the company by an interesting exposition of the sleight-of-hand art.

Mr. Frank Darling Tells of the Intense Feeling in England

Mr. Frank Darling is back to the city after a three months' visit to England, where he has been the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Darling, Berkshire, Eng.

Mr. Darling says the feeling among the democrats of the old land on the budget question is intense, and its rejection by the House of Lords has caused much indignation.

The trip across the Atlantic to England on the Empress of Britain was a very rough one, and Mr. Darling says that although it was the third time he had crossed from America to England, besides travelling to Africa and New Zealand, he never saw such a seasick lot of passengers in his life.

"STORIES FROM NORSELAND"

Interesting Contribution to Realm of Children's Literature by Nephew of Local Citizen.

The Argus-Leader has received from The Penn Publishing Company, with the compliments of the author, a copy of "Stories from the Norseland," by John Percy Edmison, a former resident of Sioux Falls, but for several years past the associate editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Mr. Edmison is a son of P. H. Edmison, of this city, and his many friends here will be pleased to know of the growth he has been making since he graduated from Yale with high honors

The volume is part of a classic series for boys and girls, and the contribution which Mr. Edmison has made to the series, is likely to give him a desirable place among the students and writers of the United States. The author has undertaken to tell in simple, but graphic language, the old legends of the Norsemen, and in his pages we are put on terms of the most delightful intimacy with dwarfs and giants and feats of heroism and magic. He has succeeded admirably in putting the red blood of the present day into mythology of the Northland. There are 311 pages of the book, which is skilfully illustrated and nicely bound.

There have been rumors about the city since the police case of Tuesday, when a hotelkeeper was charged with selling after hours, that some action would be taken against two members of the police force charging them with perjury. Meharry and himself as well as the chief of police will welcome any such steps being taken against any one or all of them. "We are tired of hearing such talk and such a lot of it," said the officer, "and it is now up to those to either take proceedings against us or shut up. It will not cost anyone a cent and if no action is taken and all this loud talking does not cease, we will proceed to take measures to stop it.

IMPRESSIONS OF THE VARSITY-OTTAWA GAME

Written for The Review by REV. H. R. TRUMPOUR.

At the request of the Review, Rev. H. R. Trumpour, an enthusiastic supporter of football and a crack half back in his college days, has given the following comment on the Varsity-Ottawa game at Rosedale last Saturday;—

"The writer of this article travelling to Rosedale last Saturday in a car with an Ottawa supporter, remarked that he had made the same trip four years ago to see Varsity trim the Rough Riders. "Yes," was the reply, "but that was a fluke; it will be different this time." And so it was. The score of 31-7 showed that Varsity needed no fake kick by Casey Baldwin to convert defeat into victory. It represented superior merit and ability.

One ventures to suggest that the spectator of the match will retain impressions of the enormous crowd longer than he will of the game itself. Great battles have been won with lesser numbers. And those bleachers, filled high with the lusty lunged student body drowning out the band's musical accompaniments to their songs and slogans, which filled the surrounding community, were enough to wish one back at Varsity again. And yet withal that enormous enthusiastic crowd was as perfect in order as a faultless kindergarten. To see that crowd and hear that well trained, out-of-door choir of hundreds of male students' voices were well worth the speculator's price of admission we so reluctantly paid.

Impressive as was the crowd, the appearance of the teams—Varsity first—rivetted all eyes. I never beheld two teams more equally matched in physique. Yet even the Rough Riders of better days rivetted no such scrutiny as the Varsity men this year seemed to centre upon themselves. Physical strength in all its development was there, but the game showed that speed and brains, skill and courage are the essential requirements, even of the much maligned brutal game of Rugby.

Before the crowd had identified the players, we were dumbfounded by Varsity scoring a touchdown by as clean a play as was ever performed on the gridiron. It was one of the "end plays" we had heard so much about while strolling round the college. What I can't yet make out is how Ottawa had no one there to block it, but being a first down they expected what Varsity not once attempted, namely, to buck through the line, all of which leads us to reflect that the "bucking game" in mid-field, has seemed to us nine-tenths of the time a waste of strength and time. The running, passing and punting game makes most brilliant and more brainy rugby. From the moment of that touchdown the victory was never in question. The only question was at each turn, "What new wrinkle has Varsity up its sleeve?" for whether it was an end play or a mystifying criss-cross, or a pass half across the field to Gall playing unnoticed yards outside the outside players, or a combination which ended up in Lawson's anatomy, or a punt on first down, it was always unexpected by Ottawa, and unprepared for. In fact the Varsity generalship was unique, and Newton does not seem to me to have received his share of praise in the newspapers. For, while we read so much of Lawson's edition of Swash Ole's running, and Gall's superb punting, the machine-like precision of the team was more brilliant than the individual plays. And just here I cannot say what signals Varsity used. From my seat not one code of numbers was heard—for which we were thankful—though we could see divers telegraph messages by motion of the arms.

In every department Ottawa was outplayed. Varsity out wings were equally as fast as Stronach, and what is most seldom let their man elude them. Gall outkicked Williams 5 to 3. The Varsity wing line more than held their own; the quarter-back was as accurate as a clock, while the half line was miraculous. The way they caught Williams's punts with sun in their eyes and got away with Stronach ready to grab them was even more brilliant than their accuracy and speed when on the aggressive. While as for tackling, I can't recall one Varsity man failing to nail his man, whereas time and again Lawson left a row of "slain" behind him, and Gall made his touch-down while walking.

The third quarter was magnificent. Varsity played two men shy at once. It was a case of 12 to 15 (for the referee seemed anxious to demonstrate to the Rough Riders that he had never been at Varsity), and in a game where no chance was missed, the Rough Riders didn't miss this one. How they did try to tear, crush, annihilate, and demoralize the younger Varsity team! ! They are well named Rough Riders. It was almost "wicked" at times, but the College boys stood the gruelling like Spartans and came back for more. If most Varsity men were hurt the first half, most Rough Riders took the count in the second. In fact, short-handed as they were, had not one of Gall's punts been blocked by an Ottawa wing who broke through the hole made in the Varsity line by the referee, Varsity would have saved the score. As it was, once the game was restored to mid-field they forced a rouge.

The fourth and last quarter showed Varsity's old custom, learned in the days of Casey Baldwin, when so many games were won in the closing minutes of play. People who wondered if the Varsity players could stand the pace set in the first quarter must have been surprised as they added two touch-downs in the last—and that by most of force and less of skill than the two of the first quarter. And so for the third time in her history Varsity has established her claim to the Dominion championship. It was most natural to see "Biddy" Barr, the first captain of a Varsity team to win any kind of a championship, and who won the Dominion championship with Varsity in 1896, on the side lines staking off "the yards." He was evidently enjoying the game as much as anyone, though the game has gone through many transitions since his day.

The next question is not "Will Varsity play Yale?"—a chronic suggestion made perennially—"but how many of her players will Varsity retain next year?" for she virtually has a brand new team every four years. This explains why she has won the Dominion championship only three times in thirteen years, though very often she has been in the finals, and has usually won the Intercollegiate series.

FRED WHITCROFT WILL LIKELY CAPTAIN THE EDMONTON CUP HUNTERS

Edmonton, Nov. 30.—Lester Patrick, the famous Montreal hockey player arrived here this afternoon from Nelson, B.C., and has been in conference with Captain Fred Whitcroft and other members of the Edmonton Hockey Club with a view to playing with the local team during the coming season. Whitcroft announced to-night that the club had made Patrick an offer, and that if he could leave his lumber business at the Coast he would be with Edmonton, not only in the Stanley Cup games, against the Ottawas, but all season. Patrick will likely play point for the Edmonton team and will draw a record salary. The Edmonton club is also after Frank Patrick, who does not care to turn professional. Frank Patrick is also in business in Nelson. He, too, may come. Jack Winchester is signed for goal and with the Patrick boys on the defence, Edmonton would have the greatest team ever. Fred Whitcroft, Hal Miller, Deeton and two or three others are available. King, a crack Calgary man, whom Eastern clubs were also after, may be with Edmonton.

The Edmonton club has been in communication with the Stanley Cup trustees and has been assured games with the Ottawas just as soon as the Capital City seven disposes of the ambitions of the Winnipeg Shamrocks and Galt professional clubs, which no doubt they will.

Lester Patrick has had offers from the Ottawa, All-Montreal, Wanderer and Shamrock clubs, but has given no definite answer to any of them. If he can get away from business for a few months, as he expects to, he will either play with Edmonton or go to the eastern club which puts up the most money.

McINTOSH MAKES SLIDING OFFER

For the Johnston-Jeffries Fight—The Alternative

New York, Dec. 1.—Among the offers that have been received for the Jeffries-Johnson fight is that cabled by Hugh McIntosh of Australia, who pulled off the Johnson-Burns fight in the Antipodes.

McIntosh's offer, backed by a $5,000 forfeit, provides a sliding scale of purses for the fighters.

If they will agree to fight in Australia he offers $100,000 for the go. If the bout is to be held in England he offers $80,000; if held in America or France he will offer $75,000.

As an alternative the promoter offers the entire gross receipts, less $10,000, if the fight is in America, France, or England, with a guarantee of at least $50,000; or if the fight is held in Australia he offers the entire gate receipts, with a guarantee of $75,000. In all these offers he reserves the fight picture privilege for himself, hoping thereby to make his profit.

His second alternative offer is a $50,000 purse in America or France, with one-third interest in the fight pictures, or in England a purse of $65,000, with one-fourth interest in the pictures.

Fight men say the best of the offers for the fighters is the position to fight in Australia for the entire gate receipts, which it is confidently expected would amount to $150,000.

The other fight promoters refused before going into the meeting to-day to tell the amount of their offers.

McIntosh's offer is about what was expected for the fight in America, as it was not believed previous to the opening of the bids that any manager would offer more than $75,000 for the fight if held in America.

Clean Sport

The Toronto Star says editorially; Lovers of clean, honorable sport should well feel gratified by the incidents following the two big football matches. The vanquished teams serenaded the victors, and there was every mark of good-fellowship among those who had fought so hard a battle on the field. The Ottawa papers, after last Saturday's game, freely acknowledged the superiority of the Varsity team. To be able to accept a defeat in that way is almost as good as to win. This spirit is all the more remarkable because football is a strenuous game, in which the play is rough and hard and sometimes dangerous. Muscular strength and skill, mental alertness and good generalship, do not exhaust all the possibilities of sport. Players may exhibit all these qualities and yet leave a disagreeable impression upon the public mind for foul play, by jeering, grumbling, and quarrelling. But a combination of skilful planning, hard and strenuous play, fairness, courtesy, and good temper, is the finest flower of athletic training.

RUGBY

The Ottawa Journal says:—"Casey Baldwin was a great little player, but Casey and his Varsity team of 1905 were not in the same class with the team that made history repeat itself last Saturday on the Rosedale field. Casey himself played centre half, and while McInnes, McPherson and Gordon Southam made a sparkling array of backs, and Jackson and Babe Reynolds two good outside wing men, still they did not have anything on the present team."

A TOUCH-DOWN

Good Farmer Wayback sent his son to college for a year;
The boy came home Thanksgiving time but father didn't hear
A single word that made him think his son was growing wise;
He greatly doubted if in life he'd win
the highest prize.
He kept on doubting till the boy let forth his college yell Stampeding all the livestock in the neighborhood, pell-mell!
And every one was startled when the youth with loud huzza
Exclaimed, "Oh, bosh! Some slosh!
Hog wash! Ham fat! Ding dat!
Rah! Rah!"

'Tis mother wit that saves a man, and that good farmer knew
In moments of emergency the proper thing to do;
He caught that young man unawares
and bent him o'er his knee,
He didn' do a thing to him! Well, say!
'tween you and me,
He worked the center rush and scored a touch-down every time,
The while that yell spread o'er the farm like a remorseless rhyme.
And as he beat a fierce tattoo that grand old Roman pa
Exclaimed, "Oh, bosh! Some slosh!
Hog wash! Ham fat! Ding dat!
Rah! Rah!"

MAY ABOLISH THE GAME AT HAVARD

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 1.—The death of Cadet Byrne in the Harvard-West Point contest, has led to a movement here in favor of changing the football rules in the direction of lessening the number and severity of the injuries occurring in the present game.

At a meeting of the Harvard Athletic Association to-night it was voted to request the advisory committee on football, a sub-committee of the general body, to report as soon as possible suggestions in football to this effect. There is no idea, however, of abolishing the game. The tendency, it is understood, will be to recommend a further opening the general scheme of play.

Tragic End of a Flirt.

Details of the lynching of a young and beautiful woman by a crowd of jealous members of her own sex are to hand from St. Petersburg. The affair took place recently in the village of Voleckhi, in the Russian Government of Volhynia. The victim had incurred the hatred of the other women in the village by her flirtations with the men of the neighborhood, both married and single, and feelings reached a climax when it became known that on her account one of the young men of the village had broken his promise to marry another girl. On coming out of the church the other day the women, both old and young, threw themselves upon the flirt, and in spite of her cries for mercy tore all her clothes off. They then dragged her through the village by the hair of her head, beating and stoning her mercilessly. At first the men laughed, but when they saw how savagely the girl was being maltreated they attempted to rescue her. The infuriated women, however, drove them off and then dragged their unhappy victim, who was by now a mass of wounds, to a large tree just outside the village, where they hanged her to one of the branches and then lighted a fire of brushwood under her. When the police arrived on the scene they found the victim of the women's fury lying dead under the tree, blackened to a cinder.

COFFORTH, GLEASON OR TEX RICHARD WILL LAND FIGHT; NO DECISION IS REACHED

nouncing the successful bidder for the world's championship heavyweight prize-fight between J. J. Jeffries, the retired and undefeated champion, and Jack Johnson, the negro title-holder was made in New York to-night, because the promoters wished to avoid any clash with public authorities. The decision will be made known in Hoboken, N.J., at 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

Sporting men were keenly disappointed in what many considered a puritanical interpretation of the anti-prize fight laws, but Police Commissioner Baker served notice that no such announcement could be made in New York City with propriety.

Gossip in New York sporting circles to-night picked as the winning bidders, James Coffroth, of the Colma Athletic Club, San Francisco; Jack Gleason, the California baseball magnate, and Tex. Rickard, the Nevada boomer, who have apparently formed a triple alliance to capture the fight for Utah, Nevada or California.

Tom McCarey, one of the biggest bidders, said before the bids were opened: "The cards have been stacked against the Los Angeles Club. But if the highest and best bid, which has no private strings attached to it, is to be accepted, Los Angeles will get the fight."

After the bids were opened, he said: "I have bid the most money, a guarantee of $110,000 and 50 per cent. of the picture proceeds. If they turn that down it shows that somebody is getting more than appears on the bids submitted."

While the sporting public had commonly agreed that this is to be the greatest pugilistic fight, without doubt, in the history of the ring, it was not believed that a promoter would bid more than $80,000, and would then obtain one-third of the moving picture revenue. Incidentally it is conservatively estimated that if the fight runs twenty or twenty-five rounds on a clear day, the moving pictures, displayed throughout the world, will be worth at least $500,000.

The bids were opened in the presence of Jack Johnson and his manager, George Little, Sam Berger representing Jim Jeffries, who was absent, together with Thomas J. McCarey, of Los Angeles, Edward Graney of San Francisco, John J. Gleason of San Francisco, F. M. Rickard of Nevada, and many well-known New York sporting men.

Mr. Graney, representing the Tuxedo Athletic Club of San Francisco, made a bid involving three different propositions. In his first proposition, Mr. Graney offered 80 per cent. of the gross receipts, with a guarantee of $75,000, the management to have sole ownership of the picture privileges. The second proposition was 80 per cent. of the gross receipts, with $70,000 guaranteed, and an offer of $20,000 for one-third of the picture proceeds. The third was 90 per cent. of the gross receipts, with no guarantee.

Mr. Graney agreed, if the offer was accepted, to build a pavilion seating 25,000 people, in or within five miles of San Francisco.

John Gleason of San Francisco, in combination with James Coffroth, submitted a bid of $125,000 for a fight on July 4th at either the Colma Athletic Club or Green View, or San Francisco, reserving full rights to the picture proceeds. Gleason agreed, if the bid was accepted, to deposit immediately a cheque for $30,000. Mr. Gleason made a second proposition, offering a purse of $75,000 and 66 2-3 per cent. of the picture rights. A third proposition by Mr. Gleason provided for an offer of 80 per cent. of the picture rights. Coffroth agreed to deposit $10,000 if the offer was accepted.

A cablegram was received from Hugh D. McIntosh of Australia, offering $37,500 to each of the fighters for a contest in this country; $40,000 to each fighter for a contest in either England or France, and $50,000 to each fighter for a contest in Australia. No cheque accompanied the offer, and Mr. McIntosh's bid was not considered.

E. M. Rickard of Ely, Nevada, submitted a bid, in which he offered $15,000 in cash and a cheque for $5,000 now for a fight on July 4th in either Utah or California, and a cash purse of $101,000 and 66 2-3 per cent. of the receipts of the moving pictures. If the bid was accepted, Mr. Rickard agreed to deposit within sixty days $50,000 and the remaining $30,000 forty-eight hours before the fight.

Thomas J. McCarey, of the Pacific Athletic Club of Los Angeles offered the receipts of the entire house and 50 per cent. of the moving picture receipts, or a purse of $110,000 in cash and 50 per cent. of the moving picture receipts.

SAYS RICKARD WILL LAND IT.

San Francisco, Dec. 1.—The following message, according to Gregory Mitchell, was received by him to-night from James Coffroth, the San Francisco fight promoter, who is in New York:

"Rickard will get the big fight, but am not at all disappointed."

Pleased His Majesty.

The dark monarch from sunny Africa was being shown over an engineering place in Salford by the manager, who, in explaining the working of certain machinery, unfortunately got his coattails caught in it and in a moment was being whirled round at so many revolutions per minute. Luckily for the manager, his garments were unequal to the strain of more than a few revolutions, and he was hurled, dishevelled and dazed, at the feet of the visitor.

That exalted personage roared with laughter and said something to his interpreter.

"Sah," said that functionary to the manager, "his majesty say he am berry pleased with de trick an' will you please do it again."—Sketchy Bits.

The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Mr. Brentwick, sir," he cried gustily, "that other car"—

With a smothered ejaculation Kirkwood leaped to his feet, tugging at the weapon in his pocket. In another instant he had the revolver exposed. The girl's cry of alarm, interrupting the mechanician, fixed Brentwick's attention on the young man. He, too, stood up, reaching over very quickly to clamp strong, supple fingers round Kirkwood's wrist, while with the other hand he laid hold of the revolver and by a single twist wrenched it away.

Kirkwood turned upon him in fury. "So," he cried, shaking with passion, "this is what your hospitality meant! You're going to"—

"My dear young friend," interrupted Brentwick, with a flash of impatience, "remember that if I had designed to betray you I could have asked no better opportunity than when you were my guest under my own roof."

"But—hang it all, Brentwick," expostulated Kirkwood, ashamed and contrite, but worked upon by desperate apprehension, "I didn't mean that, but"—

"Would you have bullets flying when she is near?" demanded Brentwick scathingly. Hastily he slipped the revolver upon a little shelf beneath the table top. "Sir," he informed Kirkwood with some heat, "I love you as my own son, but you're a young fool, as I have been in my time and as I would to heaven I might be again! Be advised, Philip—be calm. Can't you see it's the only way to save your treasure?"

"Hang the jewels!" retorted Kirkwood warmly. "What"—

"Sir, who said anything about the jewels?"

As Brentwick spoke Calendar's corpulent figure filled the doorway; Stryker's weather worn features loomed over his shoulder, distorted in a cheerful leer.

"As to the jewels," announced the fat adventurer, "I've got a word to say, if you put it to me that way."

He paused on the threshold, partly for dramatic effect, partly for his own satisfaction. In his hand a revolver appeared, poised for immediate use if there were need.

There was none. Brentwick, at his primal appearance, had dropped a peremptory hand on Kirkwood's shoulder, forcing the young man back to his seat. At the same time he resumed his own. The girl had not stirred from hers since the first alarm. She sat as if transfixed with terror, leaning forward with her elbows on the table, her hands tightly clasped, her face, a little blanched, turned to the door. But her scarlet lips were set and firm with inflexible purpose, and her brown eyes met Calendar's with a look level and unflinching. Beyond this she gave no sign of recognition.

Nearest of the four to the adventurers was Charles, the mechanician, paused in affrighted astonishment at sight of the revolver. Calendar, choosing to advance suddenly, poked the muzzle of the weapon jocularly in the man's ribs. "Beat it, Four Eyes!" he snapped. "This is your cue to duck! Get out of my way!"

The mechanician jumped as if shot, then hastily retreated to the table, his sallow features working beneath the goggle mask which had excited the fat adventurer's scorn.

"Come right in, cap'n," Calendar threw over one shoulder. "Come in, shut the door and lock it. Let's all be sociable and have a nice quiet time."

Stryker obeyed, with a derisive grimace for Kirkwood.

Calendar, advancing jauntily to a point within a yard of the table, stopped, smiling affably down upon his prospective victims and airily twirling his revolver.

"Good evening, all!" he saluted them blandly. "Dorothy, my child," with assumed concern, "you're looking a trifle upset. I'm afraid you've been keeping late hours. Little girls must be careful, you know, or they lose the bloom of roses in their cheeks. Mr. Kirkwood, it's a pleasure to meet you again. Permit me to paraphrase your most sound advice and remind you that pistol shots are apt to attract undesirable attention. It wouldn't be wise for you to bring the police about our ears. I believe that in substance such was your sapient counsel to me in the cabin of the Alethea, was it not? And you, sir," fixing Brentwick with a cold, unfriendly eye, "you animated fossil, what might your name be?"

"It might be Brentwick," said that gentleman placidly.

"Brentwick, eh? Well, I like a man of spirit. But permit me to advise you"—

"Gladly," nodded Brentwick.

"Eh? Don't come a second time between father and daughter. Another man might not be as patient as I, Mr. Brentwick. There's a law in the land, if you don't happen to know it."

"I congratulate you on your success in evading it," observed Brentwick, undisturbed. "And it was considerate of you not to employ it in this instance." Then, with a sharp change of tone, "Come, sir!" he demanded. "You have unwarrantably intruded in this room, which I have engaged for my private use. Get through with your business and be off with you."

"All in good time, my antediluvian friend. When I've wound up my business here I'll go—not before. But, just to oblige you, we'll get down to it. Kirkwood, you have a revolver of mine. Be good enough to return it."

"I have it here, under the table," interrupted Brentwick suavely. "Shall I hand it to you?"

"By the muzzle, if you please. Be very careful. This one's loaded, too—apt to explode any minute."

To Kirkwood's intense disgust Brentwick quietly slipped one hand beneath the table and, placing the revolver on its top, delicately with his finger tips shoved it toward the farther edge. With a grunt of approval Calendar swept the weapon up and into his pocket.

"Any more ordnance?" he inquired briskly, eyes moving alertly from face to face. "No matter. You wouldn't dare use 'em anyway. And I'm about done. Dorothy, my dear, it's high time you returned to your father's protection. Where's that gladstone bag?"

"In my traveling bag," the girl told him in a toneless voice.

"Then you may bring it along. You may also say good night to the kind gentlemen."

CHAPTER XXXI.

DOROTHY did not move. Her pallor grew more intense, and Kirkwood saw her knuckles tighten beneath the gloves; otherwise her mouth seemed to grow more straight and hard.

"Dorothy!" cried the adventurer, with a touch of displeasure. "You heard me?"

"I heard you," she replied a little wearily, more than a little contemptuously. "Don't mind him, please, Mr. Kirkwood!" with an appealing gesture, as Kirkwood, unable to contain himself, moved restlessly in his chair, threatening to rise. "Don't say anything. I have no intention whatever of going with this man."

Calendar's features twitched nervously. He chewed a corner of his mustache, fixing the girl with a black stare. "I presume," he remarked, after a moment, with slow deliberation, "you're aware that as your father I am in a position to compel you to accompany me."

"I shall not go with you," iterated Dorothy in a level tone. "You may threaten me, but—I shall not go. Mr. Brentwick and Mr. Kirkwood are taking me to—friends, who will give me a home until I can find a way to take care of myself. That is all I have to say to you."

"Bravo, my dear!" cried Brentwick encouragingly.

"Mind your business, sir!" thundered Calendar, his face darkening, then to Dorothy, "You understand, I trust, what this means?" he demanded. "I offer you a home, and a good one. Refuse and you work for your living, my girl! You've forfeited your legacy"—

"I know, I know," she told him in cold disdain. "I am content. Won't you be kind enough to leave me alone?"

For a breath Calendar glowered over her. Then, "I presume," he observed, "that all these heroics are inspired by that whippersnapper Kirkwood. Do you know that he hasn't a brass farthing to bless himself with?"

"What has that"— cried the girl indignantly.

"Why, it has everything to do with me, my child. As your doting parent I can't consent to your marrying nothing a year, for I surmise you intend to marry this Mr. Kirkwood, don't you?"

There followed a little interval of silence, while the warm blood flamed in the girl's face and the red lips trembled as she faced her tormentor. Then, with a quaver that escaped her control, "If Mr. Kirkwood asks me I shall," she stated very simply.

"That," interposed Kirkwood, "is completely understood." His gaze sought her eyes, but she looked away.

"You forget that I am your father," sneered Calendar, "and that you are a minor. I can refuse my consent."

"But you won't," Kirkwood told him, with assurance.

The adventurer stared. "No," he agreed after slight hesitation; "no, I shan't interfere. Take her, my boy, if you want her, and a father's blessing into the bargain. The Lord knows I've troubles enough. A parent's lot is not what it's cracked up to be." He paused, leering, ironic. "But," deliberately, "there's still this other matter of the gladstone bag. I don't mind abandoning my parental authority when my child's happiness is concerned, but as for my property"—

"It is not your property," interrupted the girl.

"It was your mother's, dear child. It's now mine."

"I dispute that assertion," Kirkwood put in.

"You may dispute it till the cows come home, my boy. The fact will remain that I intend to take my property with me when I leave this room, whether you like it or not. Now, are you disposed to continue the argument, or may I count on your being sensible?"

"You may put away your revolver, if that's what you mean," said Kirkwood. "We certainly shan't oppose you with violence, but I warn you that Scotland Yard"—

"Oh, that be blowed!" the adventurer snorted in disgust. "I can sail circles round any tec that ever blew out of Scotland Yard! Give me an hour's start and you're free to do all the funny business you've a mind to with—Scotland Yard!"

"Then you admit," queried Brentwick civilly, "that you've no legal title to the jewels in dispute?"

"Look here, my friend," chuckled Calendar; "when you catch me admitting anything you write it down in your little book and tell the bobby on the corner. Just at present I've got other business than to stand round admitting anything about anything. Cap'n, let's have that bag of my dutiful daughter's."

"'Ere you are." Stryker spoke for the first time since entering the room, taking the valise from beneath the chair and depositing it on the table.

"Well, we shan't take anything that doesn't belong to us," laughed Calendar, fumbling with the catch, "not even so small a matter as my own child's traveling bag. A small—heavy—gladstone bag," he grunted, opening the valise and plunging in one greedy hand, "will—just—about—do for mine!" With which he produced the article mentioned. "This for the discard, cap'n," he laughed contentedly, pushing the girl's valise aside, and, rumbling with stentorian mirth, stood beaming benignantly over the assembled company.

"Why," he exclaimed, "this moment is worth all it cost me! My children, I forgive you freely. Mr. Kirkwood, I felicitate you cordially on having secured a most expensive wife. Really, d'you know, I feel as if I ought to do a little something for you both."

The thick, mottled fingers tore nervously at the catch. Eventually he got the bag open. Those about the table bent forward, all quickened by the prospect of for the first time beholding the treasure over which they had fought, for which they had suffered so long.

A heady and luscious fragrance pervaded the atmosphere, exhaling from the open mouth of the bag. A silence, indefinitely sustained, impressed itself upon the little audience—a breathless pause ended eventually by a sharp snap of Calendar's teeth. "Mm-m!" grunted the adventurer in bewilderment. He began to pant.

Abruptly his heavy hands delved into the contents of the bag, like the paws of a terrier digging in earth. To Kirkwood the air seemed temporarily thick with flying objects. Beneath his astonished eyes a towel fell upon the table—a crumpled, soiled towel bearing on its dingy hem the inscription in indelible ink, "Hotel du Commerce, Anvers." A tooth mug of substantial earthenware dropped to the floor with a crash. A slimy soap dish of the same manufacture slid across the table and into Brentwick's lap. A battered alarm clock with never a tick left in its abused carcass rang vacuously as it fell by the open bag. The remainder was—oranges, a dozen or more small, round, golden globes of ripe fruit, perhaps a shade overripe, therefore the more aromatic.

The adventurer ripped out an oath. "Mulready!" he raged in fury. "Done up, I swear! Done by that infernal sneak—me, blind as a bat!"

He fell suddenly silent, the blood congesting in his face; as suddenly broke forth again, haranguing the company.

"That's why he went out and bought those oranges, is it? Think of it—me sitting in the hotel in Antwerp and him lugging in oranges by the bagful because he was fond of fruit! When did he do it? How do I know? If I knew, would I be here, and him the devil knows where this minute? When my back was turned, of course! That's why he was so hot about picking a fight on the boat, eh? Wanted to get thrown off and take to the woods, leaving me with this! And that's why he felt so awful done up he wouldn't take a hand at hunting you two down, hey? I'll camp on his trail for the rest of his natural born days! I'll have his eyeteeth for this! I'll"—

He swayed, gibbering with rage, his countenance frightfully contorted, his fat hands shaking as he struggled for expression.

And then, while yet their own astonishment held Dorothy, Kirkwood, Brentwick and Stryker speechless, Charles, the mechanician, moved suddenly upon the adventurer.

There followed two metallic clicks. Calendar's ravings were abrupted as if his tongue had been paralyzed. He fell back a pace, flabby jowls pale and shaking, ponderous jaw dropping on his breast, mouth wide and eyes crazed as he shook violently before him his thick, fleshy wrists, securely handcuffed.

Simultaneously the bold mechanician whirled about, bounded eagerly across the floor and caught Stryker at the door, his dexterous fingers twisting in the captain's collar as he jerked him back and tripped him.

"Mr. Kirkwood," he cried, "here, please, one moment! Take this man's gun from him, will you?"

Kirkwood sprang to his assistance and without encountering much trouble succeeded in wresting a revolver from Stryker's limp, flaccid fingers.

Roughly the mechanician shook the man, dragging him to his feet. "Now," he ordered sternly, "you march to that corner, stick your nose in it and be good! You can't get away if you try. I've got other men outside, waiting for you to come out. Understand?"

Trembling like a whipped cur, Stryker meekly obeyed his instructions to the letter.

ARBITRATOR WITHDREW

Claim of B. Hall & Son in Connection With Fire Not Adjusted Yet

An attempt was made here yesterday to arrive at a conclusion in the matter of the arbitration in connection with the damage done by smoke at the recent fire at B. Hall & Son's store. There was a considerable array of legal talent on hand, including prominent outside lawyers.

One of the board of arbitrators withdrew at the eleventh hour and his successor was not agreed upon at yesterday's meeting, and the matter still stands unadjusted.

YUKON BISHOP'S WHEREABOUTS

Bishop Stringer Wrote Last Summer That He Might Be Delayed

Toronto, Dec. 2.—Further light on the journey of Bishop Stringer, of the Yukon, who left last spring for a mission expedition is causing some anxiety, is obtained by a letter to Mrs. Stringer, written at Fort McPherson, on July 14th:

"I am feeling very well now, and as strong as I ever was. Mr. Johnson is one of the finest men you could have on a trip. We have a Peterborough canoe for the Rat River portage, and will take two men across and up the rapids, and then go down the Porcupine ourselves in the canoe. Do not worry if we are not on time or if you do not hear from me till later, as I may be delayed on the way, and we have no great reason to hurry. If we see Indians on the Porcupine we must stop and visit them. I hope to see Elias and his father, John Kwatlatsi, at the mouth of Old Crow River. It will take nearly a month from here to Fort Yukon.

"Whitaker and Johnson and Fry and I will go in a whaleboat, without any native help—perhaps first to Kittygagsyooit, and then to Herschel Island.

"Mr. Johnson and I will return to Peel River, and go over the Rat River route, as it seems the best route for us. We ought to reach Fort Yukon as planned about the first of October. I shall then send you a wire stating time of arrival."

From these extracts, it appears that the Bishop changed his plan and decided, instead of taking the direct route from Herschel Island, to return to Peel River. The Rat River route, mentioned in the letter, is that between the Peel River and the headwaters of the Porcupine River.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Particulars of Alleged Stabbing Affair of Saturday Night Told at Police Court

At the Police Court this morning Magistrate Dumble allowed Thomas Jenkins to go on suspended sentence, and advised him to leave whiskey alone in the future. The particulars of the alleged stabbing affair with which the accused was arrested and charged were told by the complainant, William Sullivan, and a witness, Andy Sullivan.

The complainant said;—I was at the corner of Brock and George streets in front of Clarke's window, on Saturday night about seven o'clock. Andy Sullivan was with me. Prisoner, who was a stranger to me, was also standing in front of the window at the time. I noticed some mud on his coat collar and said; "There is some mud on your coat collar lad, I'll brush it off." Prisoner said; "Don't come fooling around me." and then hit me on the wrist with a knife that he held in his hand. He was intoxicated at the time.

Andy Sullivan corroborated the evidence of the previous witness and added that afterwards prisoner went down to Hunter street he yelled to a number of men; "This knife will pierce some of your hearts." At the Oriental Hotel he was arrested.

When asked for his explanation, prisoner stated that he was sitting down at the time filling his pipe. Sullivan put up his hand to brush his collar he (Jenkins) turned around quickly and the knife made a small scratch on Sullivan's wrist.

George Edmison, said prisoner, had worked for him for five years and his conduct had always been good, and he had never seen him drunk before. His disposition was not of a vicious character.

County Crown Attorney Wood made no objection to the prisoner withdrawing his previous election for a trial by jury and the Magistrate gave the above judgment.

THE TRIUMPH OF A CANADIAN ACTRESS

It is a Canadian actress, who has won the greatest triumph on the New York stage this season. J. J. Dingwall, the dramatic critic of the Busy Man's Magazine, writing in the December number says that, it is a fact worthy of note that at the present writing the most distinctive and important feature of the dramatic season is that the chief niche of popularity and theatrical excellence is occupied by a Canadian actress in a dramatised novel, all of the success of which is entirely due to feminine ingenuity and skill. The actress is Miss Margaret Anglin, of Ottawa by birth, but in point of residence and nativity, of New Brunswick. In her new play, "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," Miss Anglin has acheved the triumph of her dramatic career. From being hailed as the successor of Clara Morris, with tear-compelling force as her greatest asset, Miss Anglin has risen to far greater heights that even her most devoted admirers dared to prophesy. Miss Anglin's round-the-world tour has been her salvation. It has broadened her art and widened her dramatic horizon of view to an extent that is only appreciated by those who have seen her earlier efforts and now witness her most recent triumph. Her emotional voice is still potent, but no longer are her tears constantly on tap. She is a new Margaret Anglin, the comedienne, displaying a new volatile grace in her portrayal of this titular heroine. To quote her own words: "My world-beating trip has given me a new view of everything—a bigger view. And I hope it has subdued my acting. I don't feel the part for long," she continued. "If I did I would be dead."

BILL FOR SUPPRESSION OF GAMBLING IS CONSIDERED

Hon. Mr. Murphy and Hon. Mr. Aylesworth Are not Certain as to Merits of Bill, Which Finally Goes to a Committee.

Ottawa, Dec. 3.—The anti-race track gambling bill was the chief business before the Commons yesterday.

H. H. Miller of South Grey, when the bill came up for the second reading, explained that his object was to prevent utterly pool-making, bookmaking and the business of gambling and betting on race tracks. The bill, however, did not endeavor to interfere with the racing of horses, nor to prevent private betting. The reasons why he sought an amendment of the criminal code in this regard were:

1. It had been asked for by the Moral and Reform Association of Canada. He denied the assertion that no laymen had asked for this reform. Laymen, as well as clergymen, were behind the movement, he said.

2. Many states of the American union had passed similar legislation, including New York, California, Louisiana and Michigan, four of the greatest horse-breeding states. Mr. Miller asked for serious consideration of the effect of the passing of this legislation by these states. Canada had been flooded with American bookmakers, and one grand jury had declared that Ontario had now become a paradise for gamblers. Japan, in order to build up a strong people, had passed anti-betting legislation.

3. For economic reasons. During thirteen days' racing at the Woodbine, one Toronto newspaper had stated that the people had placed $2,000,000 in the custody of American bookmakers.

4. Race track gambling did much to deteriorate good clean manly sport.

F. D. Monk said, so far as he had observed the invasion of American bookmakers had not reached Montreal. In Quebec they had a principle that horse-racing led to the improvement of breed, and races could not be held without prizes, betting and even bookmaking, that is if these races were to be a success. He himself would not like it to be understood that he approved of the abuses connected with betting, but he held that it was impossible to carry on successfully the operation of racing without allowing that form of betting conducted by bookmakers.

J. B. McColl, West Northumberland, said that the bill ought to be placed in the hands of a special committee of the House.

Major Beattie considered that this was a matter with which the Ontario Legislature ought to deal. He said he had been on the race track in Toronto once or twice, but saw nothing at all like what Mr. Miller described.

"The member for South Grey," said Major Beattie, "told a most pathetic story about a small boy going home with $3 in his pocket. I saw a boy going home with a dollar in his pocket and I asked him how he got it. He said that ten little newsboys had each put a ticket in a hat and had each put in ten cents and he happened to draw the lucky ticket. The hon. member calls that gambling. There is no gambling about it at all.

"I know of no race track in this country that amounts to much except the Woodbine in Toronto, and it is a credit to Canada.

"We did have a batch of Americans who came over to Fort Erie and set up a race track and another similar institution was established at Windsor. These men should have been put out of the country. They were not Canadians and their race tracks are not desirable, but they should have been dealt with by the Government of the Province of Ontario, and not this Government.

"If the effect of this bill would be to do away with gambling in this country, I would be glad to support it, but there is other gambling in Canada far worse than race track gambling, which is not affected by this proposed legislation.

Samuel Barker said he would welcome the fullest enquiry into the question, but considered that the proposed legislation would do harm to horse breeding.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, who spoke after a number of members had been heard, many of them in favor of the bill, dwelt upon the difficulties of legislating upon a subject of this kind, for by the average man the making of a bet was not considered to be in itself a crime. Therefore, the bill proposed to make by statute a crime of what was not regarded as a crime.

The whole question resolved itself into a question of policy. Hundreds and hundreds of petitions had been received on the subject. There had been some from his own constituency, and they were signed by the substantial men, the backbone of the county whose views they could not afford to disregard. As evidenced by the petitions, there was a strong body of public sentiment on this question, but the public sentiment was by no means unanimous. If they accepted Mr. Miller's legislation they would destroy such corporate bodies as the Woodbine Association, and others at Montreal and Winnipeg, etc.

He suggested that the bill be referred to a committee, and after both sides had been heard they would be in a much better position to come to a judgment regarding the question.

Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State, who followed Mr. Aylesworth, was inclined to resent the attitude of the people, not members of the House, who undertake to tell Parliament what laws it shall, or shall not, pass.

Mr. Murphy suggested that the bill will be sent to a committee, where he proposes to move an amendment which would prevent newspapers printing information as to betting.

Hon. George P. Graham said that while he was prepared to vote for the bill on its merits, it was only fair that it should be referred to a special committee where those opposed to it would have an opportunity of being heard. He expressed the opinion that the insanity which affects a portion of the people of Canada in respect to the game of "bridge" was training our children to be racing touts and bookmakers. Mr. Graham confessed a liking for the sport of horse racing, but, nevertheless, he was in sympathy with the provisions of the bill.

The bill was then read a second time and referred to the following committee of seven: J. B. McColl, H. H. Millar, F. D. Monk, Richard Blain, W. H. Martin, J. H. Sinclair, and J. R. Stratton.

LORD BERESFORD IN GLOOMY MOOD

London, Dec. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Lord Charles Beresford, speaking at Portsmouth, said that for the four years the Government have wasted, every year has brought the country lower in strength and credit to its defensive force. Put them into power once more and the end is sure; the army will be further reduced, the navy will continue to be starved, and its present disorganization grow worse, and the dominions beyond the seas be finally and forever alienated. Britain will cease to be great, and the power of the British Empire will pass away.

JUDGES ARE OVERWORKED

Montreal, Dec. 3.—It is understood that apart, from the nomination of several superior court judges, some new circuit court justices will be appointed. Although the present judges, Lebuf, Dorion and Purcel, are working under full steam, they are no less than three thousand cases behind against 2,000 cases this time last year.

In eleven months the three judges named have given over twelve thousand judgments. In spite of all this work, they only receive $3,000 per annum, against the $7,000 salary of the superior court judges and $5,000 received by the police magistrates.

PIERPONT MORGAN SECURES EQUITABLE

New York, Dec. 3.—Control of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, which was secured by Thomas Fortune Ryan, after the insurance scandals of several years ago, has passed to J. Pierpont Morgan, with the $472,000,000 of assets which the company declared in its last statement. The transfer, apart from its magnitude, marks a complete reversal of the old order under which the insurance companies controlled the destinies of the banks and trust companies.

PAUPER WOMEN ARE DEFENDED

New York, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Crisante, a woman charged with having shot her husband after he had constantly abused her, was yesterday acquitted of a murder charge.

Too poor to engage counsel, the court had called on Max Untermeyer, one of the city's most prominent lawyers, who with a few other lawyers had agreed to defend any prisoner who might require counsel engaged at the state's expense. His masterly efforts won her discharge and he at once presented her with a comparatively small fee, which the state will pay him.

WIDOW CHARGED WITH A MURDER

St. Louis, Dec. 3.—An information charging the murder of William J. Erder, was issued Wednesday against Mrs. Loren B. Doxey of Columbus, Neb., following the discovery of arsenic in Erder's stomach by the coroner's chemist. Mrs. Doxey was arrested Wednesday night on a warrant charging bigamy.

The arrest and investigation was mainly due to Erder's sister, Miss Kate Erder, who traced her brother's wife of two months to Columbus, and found her living there as the wife of Dr. Doxey.

INCENDIARISM, THE JURY SAYS

Barrie, Dec. 3.—"The fires were of incendiary origin and the jury are strongly of the opinion that both fires were caused by some member of the S. J. Guthrie household, or some person or persons known to them. The jury recommend that the Attorney-General's Department make a further investigation."

The coroner's jury rendered the above verdict after half an hour's deliberation.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Naval forces of the United States are being moved forward to-day to both coasts of Central America for the purpose of protecting American life and property in Nicaragua. With the despatch yesterday from Philadelphia of the troopship Prairie with 700 marines for the Isthmus of Panama, and, if it be so decreed, for Nicaragua, and with the sailing from Magdalena Bay of the cruiser Albany and the gunboat Yorkton for Corinto, on the Pacific coast of Nicaragua, the activity of the Navy Department is becoming manifest on both oceans that wash the Nicaraguan shores.

Besides, the cruisers DesMoines and Tacoma and the gunboat Marietta are lying off Port Limon, Costa Rica, ready for any call upon them, and the guns of the little gunboat Vicksburg are pointed toward the custom house and town of Corinto. The gunboat Princeton is endeavoring to make her way from the Bremerton navy yard, Washington, to Corinto also.

With the probability of many delicate questions arising in Nicaragua and of their demanding immediate response, the Navy Department decided to send a flag-officer to Nicaragua to take command of the American naval forces. Rear Admiral Wm. Kimball was chosen for that duty, and sailed yesterday for Colon on the Prairie. Doubtless he will proceed to Corinto as rapidly as possible.

Two of the vessels ordered south have already met with slight mishaps. The gunboat Princeton, while off Willapa harbor on the Pacific coast Monday night, ran on the North Spit and sustained a few minor injuries.

Yesterday the troopship Princeton ran aground in the Delaware River between Newcastle and Delaware city.

There is a report in circulation today to the effect that President Zelaya has developed a plan whereby he can resign and, at the same time retain the reins of power. This plan consists of putting into the office of President of Nicaragua Jose Madriz, well known in Central American diplomatic circles as Zelaya's henchman, and declared to be at Zelaya's beck and call. The State Department, it is declared, is entirely cognizant of the conspiracy under way, and will act vigorously and promptly if occasion demands.

ADRIFT IN OPEN BOAT

Terrible Suffering of Nova Scotia Fishermen—Were in Gasoline Launch.

Halifax, Dec. 3.—At 3 o'clock on Monday morning George Repool, aged 55 years, and his son, Ray, aged 20, sailed from Westport in a twenty-foot open gasoline boat fitted for trawling. They failed to return with the rest of the fishing fleet, and as the greatest gale of the season prevailed from Monday until early yesterday morning, everybody believed that their little craft had blown to sea or foundered while endeavoring to make port. About one o'clock yesterday afternoon they were picked up some twenty miles off shore, near Trinity Ledge, by the schooner Augusta Evelyn and landed in Westport in an exhausted condition. The men are unable to give a full account of their terrible experience, but as near as can be learned their engine became disabled after the squall struck them on Monday morning. They anchored their little craft four miles off shore, and two miles west of Grand Passage, where they rode out the gale three days and three nights without food and with very little water.

Early yesterday morning, when they had hope of being seen from land, their anchor rope parted, and they drifted to sea, not being picked up until they were more than twenty miles from home.

HAMILTON MAN TRIED SUICIDE

Hamilton, Dec. 3.—At noon yesterday Ronald McDonald, 69 years of age, deliberately threw himself in front of a moving street car at the corner of James and Vine streets. He was rolled under the fender, but the motorman stopped the car before any serious damage was done. McDonald was arrested on the charge of attempting suicide. He is a tailor and had been on a spree.

PUT CURB ON WALL STREET

Washington, Dec. 3.—The President has become convinced that speculation in railroad securities plays far too important a part in the affairs of the banks of the great commercial centres, and especially of New York City, and in the preparation of his annual message he is striving to frame recommendations outlining legislation which, in addition to giving added character and stability to railroad stocks and bonds, will tend to minimize this evil.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Charles O'Hara, farmer, of North Elmsley, was found dead in his field.

Dillon, the Montreal murderer of a policeman has been declared insane and will be sent to an asylum.

William Peters, the only living man with a broken neck, has been arrested for drunkenness at New York.

Miss Annie Plett, aged 19, of Ottawa East, was drowned in the Rideau Canal last evening. She was skating on thin ice.

Mistaking William McCreary for a deer in a bush ten miles north of Rathwell, Man., John Smith shot and instantly killed him.

John Tancock of Sarnia while being arrested for creating a disturbance, gashes his throat with a jackknife. It is thought he will not recover.

While playing soldier with his brother Roy, Leonard Silmser, the young son of Donald Silmser, near Cornwall, had his eye pieced by a toy sword and may lose the sight.

Mrs. E. J. McQuaid of Kingston, whose eye was injured by a hat pin through her hat being tossed to her at her request, is showing improvement, but the sight is likely gone.

A gigantic butter fraud is engaging the attention of the Montreal officials. The butter had been worked over with water and made heavier so that a handsome profit was being made.

TWO KILLED BY FALLING WALL

Londonderry, N.S., Dec. 3.—A falling wall in the foundry of the Londonderry Iron Works killed two men and injured two others. The dead are Alex. McLean and Walter McCully. The foundry is divided by a brick fire wall, some fifty feet high, that obtrudes three feet above the roof. For three days there had been heavy gale, and it is thought that vibration of building weakened the wall, causing collapse. Fifteen feet of the top of the wall came down, bringing a part of the roof, and burying the victims under tons of wreckage.

BRITISH COMMONS INSISTS ON RIGHT TO HANDLE MONEY

Asquith Offers a Resolution in Chamber to the Effect That Rejection of the Budget Was a Breach of the Constitution.

London, Dec. 3.—At the opening of the House of Commons yesterday Premier Asquith announced that the Government had advised King Edward to dissolve Parliament and that His Majesty had accepted the invitation. The Premier added that if the Liberals were returned to power, the first act of the Government would be the re-enactment of all the taxes for which provision was made in the budget rejected by the House of Lords.

Later, by a majority of 215, during a brief but exciting sitting, the House recorded its claim to exclusive control of the nation's purse — a claim that never in modern times had been challenged until the House of Lords threw down the gauntlet by rejecting the budget.

The vote of yesterday was taken on a resolution offered by Premier Asquith, which declared "that the action of the House of Lords in refusing to pass into law the financial provisions made by this chamber for the expenses of the year, was a breach of the constitution and a usurpation of the rights of the House of Commons," and the resolution was passed by a vote of 349 to 134.

By this vote the opposing forces of the Lords and Commons are placed in battle array for one of the greatest constitutional struggles that has come before the country's judgment for centuries. The scenes of enthusiasm which accompanied the voting on Mr. Asquith's resolution were in marked contrast to those witnessed during the recent debates in the House of Lords. No prominent members from the Government side arose to utter solemn warnings against the course the Ministers were pursuing. The Ministerial ranks were closed in a complete unanimity of protest against the action of the Upper House.

Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, evidently was suffering from the effects of his indisposition and did not speak at his best. His speech lacked the ring of sincerity and conviction which characterized the Prime Minister. The latter had an easy task in pouring ridicule upon what he described, amid the rousing and encouraging cheers of his supporters, a "new-fangled Caesarism—the arrogant usurpation" of the House of Lords.

The Premier's ironical reference to the instinct of divination of the peers on reaching manhood, dissolved his hearers to laughter. He quoted with trenchant effect the speech of Mr. Balfour less than a year ago, in which the ex-Premier described himself as "House of Commons man;" and said: "It is the House of Commons, not the House of Lords, which settles and controlled our financial system. If the House could touch the money bills the whole executive machinery of the country would be brought to a standstill."

The session of Parliament was closing the Premier said, without a financial act and until fresh provision could be made, the necessities of state could be supplied only through borrowing.

He expressed the hope that the ultimate loss to the Government would not be very great, but said that so far as the present financial year was concerned, it was obvious that the result of the action of the House of Lords must be the largest deficit yet faced. His warnings, he said, had been unheeded and the responsibility of the chaos, confusion and loss must rest with the Lords.

The only course left open to the Government was to advise the King to dissolve Parliament at the earliest possible moment and His Majesty had accepted that advice.

A CONSPIRACY AFOOT

At the present time there looks to be a conspiracy afoot to put Canada in the hands of American capitalists. The U.S. has very large monetary investments in Canada. It has still larger interests in the way of Canadian pulpwood, minerals and water routes. Western U.S. farmers have been going into our west. Our fisheries are needed by American fishermen. All told, just at the present time, we are worth having.

Now, then how did it come about that Sir William Van Horne's endorsation of the imperial navy plan as opposed to the Laurier independent navy plan, was burked and butchered by certain Canadian party newspapers of high renown! Not only that, but after the butchering Sir William Van Horne wrote to some of these journals himself, and yet they refused to publish his statement. Can anything be clearer! Sir William had to be "interviewed" in New York City and have his remarks wired by a staff-correspondent of the Montreal Star to that journal so that he could place before the Canadian people his opinion of the great desirability of "chipping in" with the Mother Country in a great united system of imperial defence. Instant with this evidence of journalistic crookedness there arose in various parts of the country other interviewers who expressed "distinguished opinions" which were published in big type, to the effect that Canada would do well to join the U.S.

Crises are usually best depicted by striking circumstances that arise suddenly. The circumstances cited above and the conditions precedent point to the inevitable conclusion as foreshadowed by Hon. Geo. Graham in his reference to the "no longer necessary" governor-general from Great Britain, viz: That Canada, under Sir Wilfrid is determined to resist closer union with the empire at all hazards, and that absorption by the U.S. will follow.

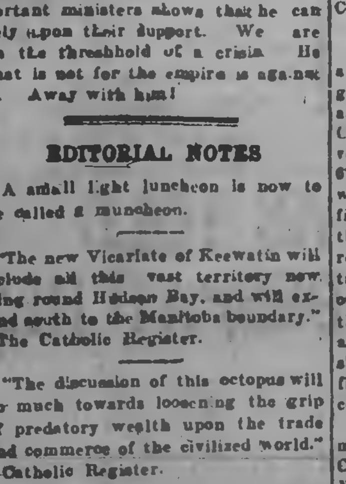
If we refuse to join Great Britain in protecting other parts of the empire, how can we expect other parts of the empire and Great Britain to join in protecting us? Sir Wilfrid from 1902 to 1909 has fought the imperial principle at every stage. He stands, alone amongst Colonial premiers as hostile to closer imperialism. The old record of his most important ministers shows that he can rely upon their support. We are on the threshold of a crisis. He that is not for the empire is against it. Away with him!

EDITORIAL NOTES

A small light luncheon is now to be called a muncheon.

"The new Vicariate of Keewatin will include all this vast territory now lying round Hudson Bay, and will extend south to the Manitoba boundary."—The Catholic Register.

"The discussion of this octopus will do much towards loosening the grip of predatory wealth upon the trade and commerce of the civilized world."—Catholic Register.



The Examiner's defence of the Laurier Canadian Navy policy is long, labored and unconvincing except in one particular. It convinces the reader that the policy is really an attempt to separate Canada from the empire.

Postmaster-General Lemieux is in England uttering carefully-worded sentences regarding the navy. An imperialist would not need to be guarded. Attorney-General Longley of Annexation Fame is of course a staunch supporter of the Laurier navy policy.

"Is it not time the government stopped paying any further bounties on steel manufactured in this country? The Nova Steel Co. has just declared a dividend of twenty per cent. to the holders of its common stock, a good deal of which dividend must have come out of the pockets of the citizens of this country in the shape of bounty."—Kingston Standard.

"Dr. W. Pakenham, dean of the Faculty of Education of the University of Toronto, thinks Canada's system of education is sadly behind that of Germany, particularly in the system of physical training and medical inspection so admirable in the German schools. Strange to say, he states that Germany, while it is the greatest military power in the world, has no military training in its schools."—Kingston Standard.

"While each nationality is free to pursue its own methods for the advancement of religion and for the spiritual life of its people and in that manner which they have inherited from the parent stock, yet the spirit of nationalism is itself destroyed by the very tenure of a Plenary Council which boldly proclaims that the Church of Canada is Catholic and Roman and must be so in faith, doctrine and discipline."—Catholic Register.

"On the principle that two negatives are equal to an affirmative, Sir William Van Horne's Winnipeg 'chippin' naval interview stands. He denied his alleged denials in Montreal newspapers and he also repudiated any change of views, despite the palpable hints thrown at him. Sir William's view of direct assistance to the Imperial Navy will carry deserved weight, backed, as it is, by the business insight of one who has been styled a nation builder."—Montreal Star.

"What was done or enacted in this First Religious Confederation of our country we cannot tell until such time as the oath of secrecy which was enjoined on all shall be lifted by the promulgation of the decrees. What are the opinions of certain Bishops on certain subjects that call for the special attention of our Catholic Hierarchy in Canada is a matter that might excite the curiosity of many of our people, but upon those subjects silence must be observed until such time as the procedure of the Church shall determine when such silence be no longer deemed necessary."—The Catholic Register.

"The people of the United States are positively appalled at the trail of rottenness which is being disclosed as a result of the investigation into the methods and practices of the Sugar Trust. For years the Trust has been plundering both the government and the general public, but its influence in high places enabled it to escape the consequences of its iniquitous practises. There is a general demand for the punishment of the criminals 'higher up' as well as for light as to the reasons for their immunity from punishment up to the present hour. It will ultimately bring about the dissolution of the Trust and the forced retirement of many politicians who in the past have constituted themselves defenders of the 'Sugar' interests."—Catholic Register.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—"At about $1,800 a head, the average price of negro girls on the auction block fifty years ago, the 300,000 white slaves in the United States to-day represent an investment of $540,000,000. Each year 67,000, or $120,000,000 worth of these women, are sacrificed in the highly financed districts of vice throughout this country, and an equal number of recruits are procured each year to take their places. Of this vast army of unfortunates, whose march from the home to the morgue or the insane asylum by the vice route has been shown by statistics to average but five miserable years, Chicago to-day contributes 37,000."

In these words, Dr. Jean T. Zimmerman, president of the National White Cross League, in an address before the Woodlawn Woman's Club yesterday, strove to impress upon her audience the extent and horror of the traffic in women.

Paris.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day the Premier, Mons. Briand, made reply to a speech of Abbe Gayrand, member for Finisterre, who defended the action of the episcopate concerning the public school question. Mons. Briand said the time was rapidly approaching when bishops and priests would prefer to do their duty as Frenchmen to their duty as Catholics. "You are being forced into an attitude which has become so harmful to this country at home and abroad that your consciences as Frenchmen should speak louder than your consciences as Catholics," the Premier declared. "Warfare seems to be essential with some people. It is now a war of schools. You speak of a possibility of arriving at a peaceful compromise, but do you think the present attitude of the Catholic leaders is conducive to this end?"

A Catholic deputy, in replying to Mons. Briand, inquired if law-made consciences were to be the order of the day from now on in France. * * * —The Catholic Register.

ABOUT THOSE BOYS WHO ATE THE PEANUTS

A number of Dummer township boys were fined by the court for disturbing a religious meeting a week ago. To most people the news will be most welcome, for surely boys big enough to go to church and sit in the rear pews must have sense enough not to eat peanuts, and generally act like village cutups. If they lack that sense, a fine now and again will go far toward making them more sane. Would our grandfathers have eaten peanuts in church? Hardly! They had more sense. They possessed a deeper and finer appreciation of the Sabbath day. They were better young men, take them all round, than the average young man of to-day. Certainly better than those cheap Dummer boys.

Then, again, if our grandfathers ate peanuts in church, laughed, talked, and tossed nutshells at the girls while the service was in progress, what would our great grandfathers have done to them? Taken it to court? Appealed to the law? Hardly! Everyone knows just what would have occurred.—Port Hope Times.

THEATRICAL

HARRY LAUDER

Harry Lauder will make a long tour of the Shubert theatres in various cities, beginning Dec. 6, with a week's engagement at the West End Theatre, New York City.

William Morris will direct the tour, and the little Scotchman will, of course, remain under his banner. The arrangement to play Lauder over the Shubert time table enables Morris to get good booking fro the comedian and simplifies matters greatly as compared with Lauder's last tour.

A vaudeville programme will surround Lauder, but as he can give two-thirds of an evening's entertainment himself, if he so desires, there is little concern felt over the eventual frame-up of his company. Lauder's bookings, after the engagement at the West End, will include Philadelphia, Albany, Syracuse and Rochester. His tour will then be extended to embrace practically all the leading theatrical centres in the country, from New York to the Pacific coast.

The New York World says that Ruth F. Denis in her dance of "The Five Jenses" is clad only in the spirit of India."

The New York Clipper says: "We are in receipt of a telegram from Marguerite Clark, dated Chicago, Ill., Nov. 29, and stating that the recent report of her marriage, which appeared in a New York paper is absolutely false."

William Turcks, 81, eloped with a woman of 82, at Evanston, Ill.

Taylor's Infants' Delight Soap is in constant use today.

There are reasons for this amazing preference.

We have been soap makers 44 years. No expense is spared in procuring materials. The purity of our olive oil is proved by our own chemist's test.

We import our own cocoanut oil from Ceylon. Otto of Roses, that costs us six dollars an ounce, lends delicate fragrance. To this we add just sufficient boracic acid to soothe and heal the delicate tissues. Each cake of takes twenty-one days in the making—200 people have part in it.

It comes to you as firm and seasoned as if it had been on your shelf six months. It will wear to a wafer.

If you wish a beautiful skin—soft and free from roughness and chaps—get Taylor's Infants' Delight Soap, today.

MR. WILLISON MAY GO ON "THE TIMES"

J. A. Willison, editor of the Toronto News, goes to England on December 8, and expects to be absent at least six weeks.

What significance Mr. Willison trip has is not definitely known, though many things recently have happened in Canada and Great Britain that seem to indicate that his presence in England will be hailed with joy by the tariff reformers.

On one hand it is said that Mr. Willison, who for some time has been the Toronto correspondent of the London Times, goes to consult with Lord Northcliffe, the new head of the Times, in regard to a thorough reorganisation of the Colonial, not to say the Imperial programme of that paper. Perhaps Mr. Willison will remain in London and from that centre direct the colonial policy of the paper. He will return to Canada as the Times ambassador with greatly increased powers, even to dismiss, to supersede and employ.

At present, Fred Cook, of Ottawa, is the head of the Times in Canada. If Mr. Willison is called to higher things under Lord Northcliffe, something will be done in this direction through Fred Cook is easily the premier news gatherer at the Capital.

Mr. Willison's thorough knowledge of journalism in Canada, gained by long experience, would fit him to lend valuable aid to the owners of the Times. Then again it is possible that Mr. Willison will take some part in the general elections that are about to be launched in the old land. It will not surprise his friends to hear of his addressing notable gatherings of the subject of tariff reform.

EFFECT OF APPOINTMENT.

Later.—In appointing J. S. Willison managing editor of the Toronto News, as chief correspondent for Canada, the London Times in its imperialistic policy is abolishing the hitherto supreme Washington influence. Mr. Willison sails Dec. 15 for London. He does not sever his connection with the News.

MARRIED FANNIE SO HE WOULDN'T HAVE TO WORK

Another romance and another victim to the wiles of the pretty little peasant girl, Fannie Antewil, who has strewn the paths from the sweatshops to army social life in San Francisco with broken hearts and wrecked fortunes, was disclosed in the Harlem Court, New York, yesterday, says a despatch, when she was identified as Mrs. Harry Feitelberg, complainant against her latest husband, of that name.

She was gem-decked and fur-laden, but accused the twenty-eight-year-old husband, whom she had arrested, with non-support.

"She don't need it," Feitelberg said. "She's the famous little 'Widow' Steinberg, or Mrs. Fannie Fobs, or the "Daughter of the Regiment,' that you've read about."

NO WORK, THEIR AGREEMENT.

"Why, this talk of hers don't go with me, Judge. I met her when she ran a moving picture concern up in Bridgeport and married her on the condition that I wouldn't have to work. That suited her. She has $4,000 in a Fifth avenue vault; $5,000 worth of diamonds and furs, and another $1,800 in a bank that I know of. And I get $9 a week. She's running a rooming house now at No. 1 9 West One Hundred and Eleventh street."

Questioned by the Court, Mrs. Feitelberg admitted the truth of Harry's statements.

"If what the defendant says is true, I can't hold him," said the Court. "You are by no means a pauper."

Mrs. Feitelberg left the court-room broken-hearted and crestfallen.

MARRIED FOUR TIMES.

Her life bristles with romance. She has been married four times and divorced two or three times. She has slaved in the sweatshops of New York and Russia, posed as a cloak model, kept a cigar store, sung in the chorus of a German opera company, and according to Feitelberg, has since branched out in the theatrical and boarding-house business.

Hardly had she reached America a crude peasant girl than Abram Steinberg, a staid Russian, proposed marriage. Three months afterwards she got a divorce.

Then she became a singer and drifted to the coast, but hurried back to captivate young Samuel Fobs, a wealthy son of a cigar manufacturer. A short life of bitterness resulted in their separation. Then the versatile young beauty experimented with vocations in life as she had with hearts of men.

WENT TO PACIFIC COAST.

From the sweat-shops to a cloak model and a studio study in San Francisco she sped rapidly, winning popularity as she went until her smiles gripped firmly Lieut. Oscar Haines of the Revenue Cutter Service. His family forced him from her and she sued for $50,000 for breach of promise. Lieut. Haines was then dismissed from the service on account of the scandal which was spread.

Her next conquest was Lieut. Chas. E. D. Lord, of the Marine Hospital Service. Lord had a wife and two children and when the relations of the couple became public, the girl pleaded innocence and brought suit against Lord. He also was dismissed from the service by President Roosevelt.

Fannie then became known as the "Daughter of the Regiment," but turned her attention back to civilians. Her latest escapade was revealed by Feitelberg in court to-day.

CONCERNING THE CAMEL.

Queer Looking Beast of Burden Stores Fat In Its Hump.

The camel eats readily all kinds of juicy plants, beans, peas and grains, but when such dainty food is not to be had he browses quite contentedly on dry, thorny shrubs and even swallows whole branches of acacia, whose thorns are sharp enough to pierce the sole of a strong boot. During the rainy season, when fresh, green vegetation is abundant, the camel drivers encourage their charges to eat as much as possible, and it is said that in order to increase their appetites common salt is dissolved in the drinking troughs. Under such treatment the camel rapidly accumulates fat, and the hump, which contains his reserve store, may increase to four or five times the dimensions it had during the hot season. When drought is prolonged and food is scarce the hump may almost disappear again.

The foot of the camel is two toed, but the toes are joined together by a large cushion covered with more or less callous skin. It is this cushion which enables the camel to walk steadily across loose and shifting sands where a horse's hoofs would sink deep at every step. The average speed of a baggage camel is about two and a half miles an hour, and its load varies from 300 to 800 pounds. A dromedary may travel at the rate of ten miles an hour, and this rate may be kept up for many days.—Golden Rule.

TINKLING COWBELLS.

Time Honored Musical Instrument Needs No Improvement.

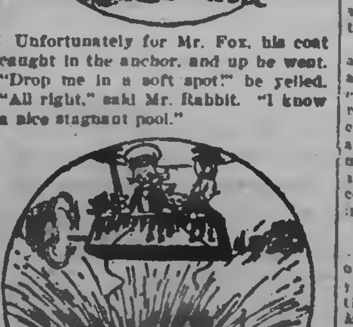
One of the comparatively few things that the band of improvement has not touched is the cowbell, which is made now just as it was a hundred years ago. Cowbells are made some of copper and some of a composition metal, but most of them are made of iron and finished with a coating of bronze.

The cowbell is not cast. It is cut from a sheet of metal, which is folded into shape and riveted. The metal loop at the top through which the strap is passed is riveted into the bell. The bells are made of ten sizes, whose sounds range through an octave. Sometimes musical entertainers who play upon bells of one sort and another come to the manufacturer and by selection among bells of the various sizes find eight bells that are accurate in scale.

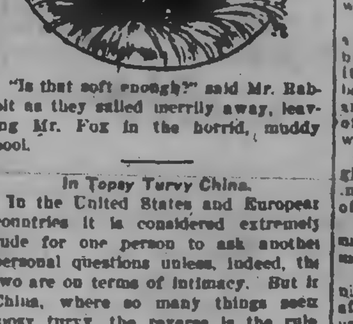
There are only a few factories in the United States in which cowbells are made, and in each case the cowbell is only an item of production among many other things. Cowbells are sold all over the country just the same as ever, but much of the greater number are sold in the south, the southwest and the west, where farms are larger, less likely to be fenced and cattle are more likely to stray.—Chicago News.

Trip In an Airship.

Mr. Rabbit was waiting for a favorable wind to try his airship when Mr. Fox came along, bent on mischief, as usual. "I'll cut old Rabbit loose. It will surprise him," he said.



Unfortunately for Mr. Fox, his coat caught in the anchor, and up he went. "Drop me in a soft spot!" he yelled. "All right," said Mr. Rabbit. "I know a nice stagnant pool."



"Is that soft enough?" said Mr. Rabbit as they sailed merrily away, leaving Mr. Fox in the horrid, muddy pool.

In Topsy Turvy China.

In the United States and European countries it is considered extremely rude for one person to ask another personal questions unless, indeed, the two are on terms of intimacy. But in China, where so many things seem topsy turvy, the reverse is the rule. When a Chinaman meets you casually on the road there is thought to be no more delicate way of indicating a polite and friendly interest in you than asking, for instance, how old you are. From this he may rapidly pass to queries as to whether or not you are married, how much you make a year where you are going, what you are going for and even how much you paid for various articles of wearing apparel.

At Lockport, N.Y., a 5 cent theatre was allowed to run on Sunday for the first time in the history of the city.

Why Stanfield's Use Nova Scotia Wool

THE chief reason is because the Stanfields have never found any other wool that makes Underwear so peculiarly suited to Canadians.

The salty, ocean breezes and healthful climate, coupled with the rich grazing, give Nova Scotia wool a quality which is not found anywhere else.

Nova Scotia wool is perfectly blended.

It is soft and smooth, yet staunch and strong. It can be spun like silk and wears almost like steel. Garments, knitted of this fine wool, give the desired warmth and are not heavy or bulky.

It is no exaggeration to say that the Stanfields get the pick of the Nova Scotia wool. The founder of these mills did much to develop the sheep-raising industry throughout the Maritime Provinces. The farmers saved their best wool for him, and continue to send their high grade wool to the Stanfield mills.

Then, too, this wool reaches the mills in the best possible condition. There are no long railroad hauls—no lengthy journeys in the holds of tramp steamers. The wool is shipped direct to Truro as soon as sheared. Experts sort, clean and make it ready at once for its trip of transformation into Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear.

Stanfield's Underwear is made by the only process which takes the shrink out of the wool before the garments are knitted.

The value of this discovery—made by the founder of the Stanfield Mills—is shown by the growth of this business, which is now capitalized at $750,000.00 and employs over 300 operatives.

Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear is made in 3 standard weights, Light (Red Label), Medium (Blue Label) and Heavy (Black Label) and in 17 other weights and qualities to suit the requirements of every man and woman.

The best dealers everywhere handle Stanfield's Underwear. Catalogue showing styles, and samples of fabric, sent free for your address. 21

KILLED HIS WIFE AND WOUNDED HER MOTHER

Brooklyn Contractor Also Injures Brother-in-Law and Young Nephew—Then He Tries Suicide—Blames Wife's Mother.

New York, Dec. 2.—Patrick H. Rafferty, a contractor, killed his wife, Margaret; mortally injured his aged mother-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Kelly; slashed the face and hands of his brother-in-law, Frank Ohland; knocked down his little nephew, Frank Ohland, jr., and then tried suicide early this morning at his home, No. 1832 Fulton street, Brooklyn.

When the police arrived and saved him from killing himself he looked at the dead body of his wife and the unconscious mother-in-law. He called to the crying child to keep still, and, pointing the finger at the wounded brother-in-law, shouted:—

"I'm glad I did this. I'd do it over again twenty times if I had to die twenty times."

Then the police put him in shackles and bundled him off to the Atlantic avenue station, where he later realized what he had done and began to rave like a maniac. For fear he would end his life by dashing his head against the bars of his cell two policemen were assigned to watch him, and all through the morning hours the contractor was kept from further injuring himself by strong arms.

MARRIED THREE YEARS.

Rafferty, who is forty-five years old, married Margaret Kelly, some years younger, three years ago, and the two took up their home with Mrs. Rafferty's mother. About this time Mrs. Ohland, another daughter of Mrs Kelly, died and Frank Ohland and his nine-year-old son also went to live with Mrs. Kelly.

Rafferty was prosperous. He was a good moneymaker in his contracting business, but he was a better spender. It was not long after his marriage before he plunged into dissipation, and the neighboring saloons saw more of him than did his home or his wife.

Rafferty blamed all his home neglect on the presence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Kelly, a feeble woman of seventy-three.

"I hate her," he told his wife six months ago, "and you and I must make our home elsewhere."

Rafferty was in an ugly mood last night. He lurched out the house after dinner and did not appear again until midnight. The wife was waiting for him. Rafferty was apparently sober. He began:

"Now we are going to have a home of our own or I'll know the reason why. I'm tired of this and I want to repeat—I don't like your mother."

NEARLY SEVERED HEAD.

"And I don't propose to trust myself to you until you change your habits."

On the dresser was an open razor. Rafferty made for it with an oath. Mrs. Rafferty grappled with him, but her strength was no match for the broad-shouldered contractor. He held her back far, and while her head was bent he drew the razor across her throat, almost severing her head. She fell with a gasp.

Old Mrs. Kelly heard her daughter scream and leaped from bed. As she advanced on Rafferty he seized a mop and felled her and then he beat her on the head until the skull was crushed. The little Ohland boy was in the room before his father. Rafferty dropped the mop and struck the child a furious blow in the face, knocking him to a far corner of the room.

Then came Ohland. He grappled with Rafferty and the latter slashed him about the face and hands and then attacked him with his fists and feet.

FLED FOR HIS LIFE.

Ohland to save his own life fled to the hall. Neighbors came and their cries brought more neighbors. Then into the hall and later into the street fled the small Ohland boy.

Ohland telephoned to the Atlantic avenue police station. The call for help was answered by Acting Captain John J. Woods, Lieutenant William J. Watterson. The three policemen met Ohland at the doorway, blood streaming from his face and hands.

They hurried upstairs and broke in upon Rafferty. He was seated in a chair, his wife's body under his feet and the bloody razor still in his hand. There was a deep gash in his throat, but it was plain that he had lost his nerve when he saw his own blood. The three policemen disarmed him, and before he could give battle his wrists were in shackles.

Dr. Miller came racing up in an ambulance from St. John's Hospital. The doctor said Mrs. Kelly would die in a few hours.

Rafferty was arraigned in the Gates Avenue Police Court before Magistrate Gilroy on charges of homicide and felonious assault. When the first charge was read to the prisoner the Magistrate asked:

"What have you to say, Rafferty?"

"Nothing at all," came the ready response, "the charge is perfectly correct."

SIXTEEN HUNDRED POLES DOWN

To show how badly the recent storm affected the C. P. R. between Havelock and Smith's Falls it may be mentioned that between Havelock and Tweed 594 poles were down. Between Tweed and Sharbot Lake 290; between Sharbot Lake and Maberly 172; between Maberly and Bathurst 186 and between Perth and Smith's Falls 585, only 11 being left standing. That makes a total of 1645 poles down on the division and the resulting tangle of wires may be imagined. Most of the poles are broken.

Parliament will adjourn for Christmas on Dec. 17th.

BAPTIST MINISTER AT SMITH'S FALLS FINED FOR ASSAULT

Rev. Mr. Stobo, Formerly of Peterborough, Spanked Boy Who Used Insulting Language, and Was Fined by Magistrate.

A Smith's Falls boy was abusing a smaller lad when the Rev. Mr. Stobo, Baptist minister, was passing by. Mr. Stobo pulled the big boy off and lectured him for taking advantage of the smaller boy. The lad turned on the minister and assailed him in the most foul and blasphemous language. Mr. Stobo thereupon took hold of him and, putting him across his knee, administered a sound spanking. The boy went off blubbering. Later on, information was sworn out against the minister for assaulting the boy. The Smith's Falls magistrate declined to act, and Henry Taylor went from Perth to adjudicate. He decided that in spanking the boy the minister had taken the law into his own hands, and therefore should be punished, inflicting a fine of $3 and costs, or $9 in all. The Smith's Falls News says the case was pushed because Mr. Stobo has been active in moral reform and temperance work there; that the lad is notoriously blasphemous, and that the magistrate would have shown more common sense had he dismissed the case and given the boy a warning.

Rev. Mr. Stobo is well known in Peterborough, being a former pastor of the Murray St. Baptist church.

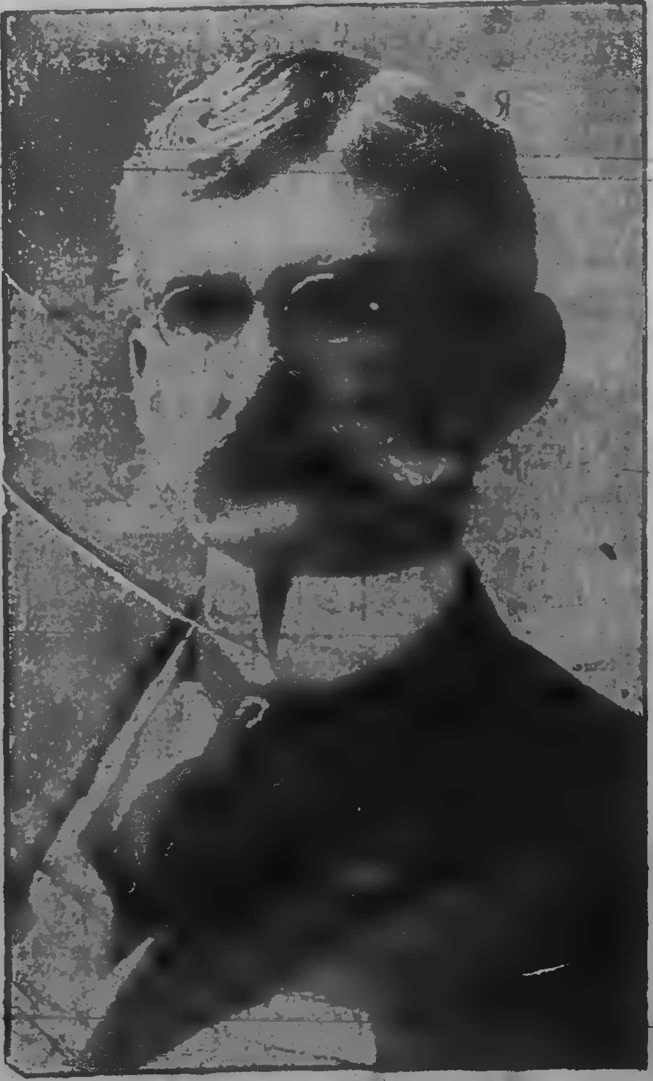
TRENTON MAY BE SELECTED AS A DIVISIONAL POINT OF CANADIAN NORTHERN

There has been no decision reached at present in regard to the Trenton Ottawa route. Kingston, Belleville and Napanee want the road, but the Belleville people want them to run down the middle of the Bay, so there is not a shadow of a doubt that the C.N.R. will go to Ottawa by way of Frankford.

The C.N.R. have purchased the I.B. and O. and will extend it to the Georgian Bay and Ottawa, where it will connect with the Ottawa Montreal branch, and it will be their grain route. The signs of the times seem to indicate the C.N.R. have the C.O.R., so Bancroft will be a divisional point of the two C.N.R. lines. But in the same breath comes the rumor that the C.N.R. have purchased the Bay of Quinte. In all probability they will do this and extend it to Kingston and Point Anne or Belleville, where it will be a feeder for its Toronto-Ottawa line and its transcontinental via C.O.R. and I.B. and O.

Trenton will probably be divisional point and will have the works and round houses, as it will be a safe harbour for coal, the Junction of C.N.R. and C.O.R., because it is the right division length, and because the citizens of Trenton are willing to meet the C.N.R. half way.

VISITS PETERBOROUGH SUNDAY



SAM SMALL, the Famous Evangelist.

NAMED AFTER BROTHER OF FATHER McCOLL

The entire fleet of the Trent Canal with the exception of the tug "Empire," has been laid up for the season at Lakefield. The "Empire" has been hauled out at Peterborough, preparatory to be rebuilt, and it is understood that her name is being changed to the "J. B. McColl." The reason of this is that all government boats must be registered the same as any other vessels, and the name "Empire" is possessed by some other craft already registered.—Examiner.

A PERTH VIEW OF SAM SMALL

The following, taken from the Perth Expositor, of Nov. 17th, has been handed the Review for publication on the usual terms for insertion of news matter:—"On Thursday evening of last week Knox church was fairly well crowded to hear Rev. Sam W. Small speak on temperance. The speaker from Georgia was heralded here as "the silver tongued orator of the South," and many wanted to hear him. Col. Balderson, who is the president of the Social and Moral Reform Council of Perth, occupied the chair, and in a few brief references to the meeting called upon Mr. Small for an address. For more than an hour Mr. Small spoke, during which time he made many lucid explanations of tangled arguments against the adoption of a local option or total prohibition measure. He had a way of speaking which, when he used the King's English and spoke temperance, and got away from his slangy utterances, proved a treat. The effect of the many strong points made from the standpoint of the subject under discussion was lost by such references as these: He spoke of the men who uphold the liquor traffic as "Those red-nosed, flannel-mouthed, bull-necked, devils down town," and their arguments as "hog-wash," and slangy as was the language he used here it was evidently much worse in some places, judging from an extract which appeared in the Kemptville Advance last week. The Advance says that Mr. Small when "advising voters who cash in their conscience for the sake of a few hundred dollars revenue from the trade, to get all the good they can get out of that money here and now, he said:—"All the good you ever got out of the traffic won't buy you two ounces of ice in hell." The churches and temperance go hand in hand, and such language as was used in Knox church does not do the church the clergy or temperance any great credit. The style was thoroughly disapproved of by the great majority of those present, some of the speaker's utterances only calling forth smiles from the young boys present, while the older heads in many cases were hung in shame. The style may be typically American, but just the same it was vulgar, and should not be countenanced on a public Canadian platform, not to speak of a church pulpit.—Perth Expositor.

A MATTER OF FACT

The other day two of us stood looking at a child going to school with bag on back and in all the prettiness of youth. The flush of constitutional health was in the child's cheeks. Happiness and a fine nature beamed from the young eyes. But one of the child's feet was badly twisted. It was not out of proportion but the natural formation had been originally interfered with in some way with the effect described. The child was about 8 years of age. The deformity must, therefore, have gone unattended to for that length of time. We both exclaimed "That could not occur with medical inspection of schools!" Nor could it. Every day a sharp observer will detect numbers of defects, distortions or deformities that might easily be made right. Is it not worse than neglect to allow these things to continue without making an attempt to do something in the way of, at least, recommendation? Many people hesitate to take their children to a doctor. Others neglect them. Is it not cruelty to the child to do so? There is, manifestly, a reform to be brought about here somewhere. Twice or more has the question of medical inspection been brought up by the local Board of Trustees but as many times has it been allowed to drop. Meanwhile children are allowed to grow up past the age when remedies can be satisfactorily applied in pitiable deformity; all because—what?

We have on more than one occasion advocated the institution of a dispensary, a place where physicians are in attendance by turn and where the poor and deserving may be properly treated at slight expense. The dispensary is an old and useful institution. It dates back for a long period. It is merely a question of whether Peterborough is or is not big enough for one and according to all precedent it most assuredly is.

WRAP YOUR GIFTS DAINTILY

Make Your Gifts Attractive—Use Holly Cards, Tags and Seals

A large amount of pleasure in receiving a Christmas gift lies in the manner in which the gift is wrapped. If the parcel is daintily tied up, decorated with pretty holly seals and has a pretty card enclosed conveying the best wishes of the donor, the anticipation is sure to be greater than if the parcel is roughly tied in a careless manner, in perhaps, used wrappings.

So if you would have your gifts appreciated to the highest extent, see that they are wrapped up as nicely as possible. First you will need to supply yourself with some clear white paper; than you need some fancy cards, either small or large, in keeping with the gift; then some fancy tags for the outside and these may be had in two or three sizes and designs. After the parcel is tied up, a Christmas stamp may be put in one corner, and the openings sealed with holly seals, of which there are several designs.

If you do this your parcel will look very much nicer and the recipient of it is sure to enjoy receiving it much more. All these materials may be bought at the Review Office, and really are not expensive. Call and secure some of them before the supply is disposed of.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE

Held Meeting to Prepare for Monday Nights Council Meeting

The Finance Committee of the City Council transacted considerable business at a meeting held yesterday afternoon.

A letter was received from City Solicitor Hall, regarding a cheque received from the liquidation of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Co., for the taxes of the company, less the percentage charge.

On motion of Ald. Phelan and Ald. Gillespie the tax collector was authorised to accept a cheque for $86.83 from the liquidator for the taxes of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Co.

Mr. Stanley Coon was granted a theatre license on condition that he pay the difference between the fee for a theatre license and a moving picture license for the balance of the of the term.

A letter was received from City Engineer Hay asking what rate of interest the debentures for the local improvement of this year would bear and at what rate of interest he would have the sinking fund.

Ald. Bradburn moved, and Ald. Phelan seconded, that the rate of interest be four per cent, and that the rate on sinking funds be calculated at 4 per cent.

A recommendation was received from the Board of Health that Dr. McPherson M.H.O. be paid $1000 in connection with the recent smallpox epidemic was referred to the Committee of the Whole Council.

LINDSAY SEVEN WERE DEFEATED

Local Roller Hockey Team Won by 3-2 Score—In Good Game at Brock St. Rink

The Lindsay roller hockey team went down for the count at the Brock street rink last night and the local aggregation won out by a 3—2 score, in an interesting and by no means one-sided exhibition of the roller hockey game. The visitors win on the round by one goal as they took the first contest in Mudville by 6—4. Both teams were made up of fast and clever skaters but the home seven had a slight advantage in this respect and although their opponents started the scoring early in the game, the pace was too swift and they faded away. While there was no deliberate rough work the play was strenuous at times and several of the players found the hard floor a stiff proposition to connect with. For the locals, Clute in goal, blocked some hard ones. Kenealley and White on the defence worked well together and rushed effectively. Thompson at rover and Halpany at centre did splendid work and Godfrey and Smith, who played the boards were always in the game, the latter securing two of the three counters made by his team. Thompson scored the other.

Hickinbothem put both of Lindsay's goals past Clute. Primeau had a busy time in the nets and gave a good account of himself. The remainder of the team, while not conspicuous, were steady and had they been in better condition, the score might have gone in their favor. Jack Seymour officiated with the whistle and had an easy time.

The teams were:—

Peterborough		Lindsay
	Goal
Clute		Primeau
	Point.
Kenealley		Dovey
	Cover.
White		Scott and Parrington
	Rover
Thompson		Leadie
	Centre
Halpany		Dennison
	Right Wing
Smith		Hickinbothem
	Left Wing.
Godfrey		Begg

Umpires—Staunton and Boyce.

JOHNSON HAS GREAT SPEED

New York, Dec. 2.—Jeffries and Johnson appeared before a highly critical audience that hardly half filled Madison Square garden last night. Both men had on the gloves, Johnson sparring with three different men and Jeff working three rounds with Berger. Jim made the pace so fast for the haberdasher that the latter had to walk out of the ring at the end of the last round before time had been called. The crowd seemed to like Jeff's appearance and gave him a good welcome, though they were just as liberal with their applause when Johnson jabbed three different sparring partners until they were wobbling about the ring.

The crowd marvelled at Johnson's fast work, for none of the three men he boxed with put a glove on him. Johnson opened the boxing. He took on Prof. Joe Murphy, of Columbia University, first. The college instructor was full of good intent, for he tore after Johnson as though he was going to relieve Jeff of the trouble of trying to win back the title. Johnson enjoyed the merry mix, and the men were forced to stop by Manager George Little. Johnson also boxed with Monte Cutler and Jack Heinen.

The best event of the night was the handicap wrestling bout between Champion Frank Gotch and Dr. Roller. They roughed it in royal style Gotch being required to throw Roller in 15 minutes to win the bout. Roller stayed the required time, and the crowd cheered him in noisy fashion for his pluck.

JUNIOR TEAM FOR LINDSAY

Will Likely be Entered in O.H.A. —Youngsters to be Tried out

There'll be hockey in Lindsay this winter all right. Despite talk to the contrary some sports are backing a club which will place a junior team in the O.H.A. A little informal meeting was held last night in a local hotel, and the conclave lasted for considerable time. The upshot was that a decision to enter a team was reached. This team will be composed of the rising generation of hockey players and great things are expected of the boys in future years if not in A. D. 1910.—Lindsay Warder.

SECOND GAME WON BY WHITES

Greens Were Put Away by Score of 10-7 at Y.M.C.A.—Blues and Greens Play To-night

Last night the second game of the Junior Basket Ball League was played off before a large number of spectators, who made more noise than the players.

The Whites played rings around the Greens, in the second half, but in the first half of the game, the Greens had things pretty much their own way, and it looked as if the Whites would fade away. In most cases when Morrow secured the ball it meant two points for the Greens, as he seldom missed the ring of the basket. The first half ended 7 to 5 in favor of the Greens.

The second half started, and one would think that ten men had been shot out from the cannon mouth, for it was go from the start. Smith, captain of the Whites had made a change. He placed Laing to stay with Morrow and the result was that Morrow did not score another goal, while Laing got away with some playing that would make some of the old-timers sit up and take notice, and when the Bell sounded, the score was 10 to 7 in favor of the Whites.

Officials—Referee, H. A. McLaughlin; umpire, Bruce Lees; time-keeper and scorer, R. Howden.

To-night the Blues and Greens will clash, and it's going to be go from the start to the finish.

The teams were as follows:—

Whites		Greens

H. Smith		Phelan
	L. F.
R. Laing		Morrow

W. Thornton		Brown

FRANK GOTCH'S GREAT GRIPS

"Do you know what makes Frank Gotch the greatest wrestler in the world?" inquired Dr. Roller recently in a Cleveland interview.

"Well," he continued, "it isn't his speed nor his wonderful strength.

"It's the hands—the vice-like grip that sends us fellows dashing second money. When it comes to work with his hands, Gotch is in a class by himself. A great many people think Gotch is much stronger than yours truly, but such is not the case. In actual strength there is very little choice between us. It's the hands. I haven't got that powerful grip—no man has it like Gotch.

"Shoving a plow when he was a boy and continual training in that department have developed Gotch's hands until they are like iron. Farmer Burns is the only other wrestler that I know of that comes any way near comparing with the champion in the gripping department. This hand story, however, is not offered as an excuse. Even with the same development Gotch could probably beat me."

SPORTING NOTES

Paul Acoose has challenged Shrubb to a 15 mile race within the next ten days, the winner to take all the gate receipts.

The meeting of the O.H.A. Executive to group the teams in the various districts in the three series, senior, intermediate and junior, will be held at the Telegram office on Monday, December 13th, at 8.30 p.m.

A chance to compare the Jeffries of to-day with Johnson came last night, and now fight fans are more divided than ever as to the merits of the two men.

Both Johnson and Jeffries appeared on the stage at Madison Square Garden last night in sparring bouts, Jeff having Sam Berger for his opponent, while Johnson did some fast boxing, against Joe Murray, of Columbia University.

It is true that the big white man never extended himself, but those who witnessed the lightning work of the black as he mixed things up with Murray were astounded at his speed and shiftiness.

When the negro did unlimber he looked like chain lightning in action. Jim Corbett was never faster than the negro, according to some of the expert fight fans, who are wondering if Jeffries' strength can overcome the negro's increasing skill.

At a meeting of the representatives of several hockey clubs at Montreal last night it was decided to form a new hockey association, which will be known as the National Hockey Association, and which will include in its membership the Wanderers of Montreal, and the Renfrew, Haileybury and Cobalt teams.

Carr Harris, the big defence player who played with Goderich two years ago, and was on the All-Star West team the same year, is in Toronto and will play with one of the senior O.H.A. teams this season.

The Ottawa Hockey Club last night wired Bruce Ridpath, the Toronto hockey player, accepting his terms of $1,000 for the season, and asked him to wire back his acceptance, but Bruce, in view of the hockey war, is taking things easy, therefore the Ottawa club received no answer last night.

A novelty introduced in Winnipeg by President Lyall, of the Thistle Curling Club, in the way of putting white paper under the ice, seems to have a good effect, as the ice has a very white appearance and makes it much brighter than the clay bottom. It also shows up the rings much better.

When Jack Johnson heard in New York that Jeffries had twice dreamed that he had knocked Johnson out in the fourth round, he said: "That Mistah Jeffries sure is a bear on dreams. He better turn over on the other side."

Some United States oarsmen evidently intend to adopt the English style of sculling, as, according to a London cable, overtures have been made to Tom Sullivan, ex-champion of England, to coach the Pennsylvania College Crew.

HOCKEY

The President of the Mercantile Hockey League failed to put in an appearance at the meeting last night in the Y.M.C.A. and those present decided not to transact any business but call another meeting for Tuesday night, when the preliminary work of the season will be proceeded with. Representatives of five teams were present:—Quakers, Auburns, Cordage Works, Can. Gen. Electric Co. and the Canoe factories. A suggestion was made that there be only four teams in the league this season and this matter will likely be decided at the next meeting.

From present indications it looks as if Peterborough will be grouped with Belleville, Whitby and Oshawa, in the Intermediate series of the O.H.A. The districts will be formed at a meeting to be held in Toronto on December 13th. Lindsay, Port Hope or Cobourg will not be represented in the intermediate series and as Whitby and Oshawa were grouped with the local junior team last year, it is probable that these two clubs will be placed in this district.

For the junior series there will be Peterborough, Lindsay, Belleville, Trenton and Whitby to pick from for this district.

For Bantam Title

San Francisco, Dec. 2.—A fight has been arranged between Monte Attel and Danny Webster, to take place around the middle of this month, fifty per cent. of the proceeds to go to Johnny Murphy, a former aspirant for light weight honors, who is reported to be dying of tuberculosis at Honolulu. The match will be for the bantam weight championship of the world, and the men will weigh in at 116 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. They will fight 20 rounds, Jack Welch acting as referee.

CONTRAST BETWEEN CANADA AND AUSTRALIA

Melbourne, Dec. 2.—Premier Deakin said: "We need our unit and we need it now." He preferred defeat to a postponement. Time pressed and delay was unthinkable, though he disliked borrowing as much as anybody.

The "unit is what Sir Wilfrid Laurier positively declined to give. A unit means of one of many "units" united for an imperial purpose. Canada, if Sir Wilfrid Laurier and French Canada have their way, will continue to refuse to be part of the empire.

WHAT WILL PETERBOROUGH DO ABOUT IT

The new act requires that all sewage emptying into navigable waters must be relieved of its impurities before being emptied into the said water. This will mean a large expenditure for the city. Has the council considered the question? It may be a factor in determining who will stand for councillors in January. The may be an expensive business for the city.

FARMER'S TEAM MADE FAST TIME

A farmer's team became frightened while standing outside of Houdry's mill this afternoon and ran away. Tearing up George street, they furnished a lively time for the owners of other vehicles, but fortunately no accident occurred until the frightened animals arrived at Central Park, where they ran into a rig and were stopped. Some damage was done to the rig.

WOMEN'S WOES

Peterborough Women are Finding Relief at Last

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. John Wallace, of 325 Water street Peterborough, Ont., says:—

"I had suffered with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble for over two years, and could find nothing that would benefit my condition. My back was weak, and a dull, heavy pain settled across the small of it, extending into my sides and shoulders. I could not sleep at night as the kidney secretions were so frequent and irregular that I would have to leave my bed a number of times. I was dizzy and weak and would usually awake with a dull headache. Booth's Kidney Pills, procured at McDermid & Jury's Drug Store, cured me when all else failed. I am stronger, and feel better generally. I can conscientiously recommend Booth's Kidney Pills and would not be without a box in the house."

THAT WATCH OF YOURS

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch. You put it in your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker, and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time-keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones call around and see us.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Pleased His Majesty.

The dark monarch from sunny Africa was being shown over an engineering place in Salford by the manager, who, in explaining the working of certain machinery, unfortunately got his coattails caught in it and in a moment was being whirled round at so many revolutions per minute. Luckily for the manager, his garments were unequal to the strain of more than a few revolutions, and he was hurled, disheveled and dazed, at the feet of the visitor.

That exalted personage roared with laughter and said something to his interpreter.

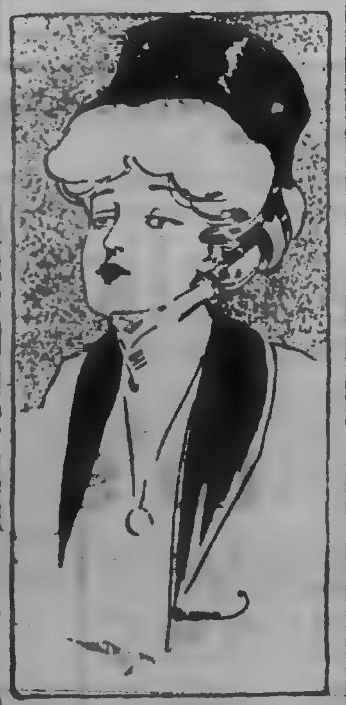
The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

The mechanician, with a contemptuous laugh, leaving him, strode back to Calendar, meanwhile whipping off his goggles, and clapped a hearty hand upon the adventurer's quaking shoulders.



"Philip, I meant it, every word!"

"Well," he cried, "and are you still sailing circles round the men from Scotland Yard, Simmons or Bellows or Sanderson or Calendar or Crumbstone, or whatever name you prefer to sail under?"

Calendar glared at him aghast, then heaved a profound sigh, shrugged his fat shoulders and bent his head in thought. An instant later he looked up. "You can't do it," he informed the detective vehemently. "You haven't got a shred of evidence against me! What's there? A pile of oranges and a peck of trash! What of it? Besides," he threatened, "if you pinch me you'll have to take the girl in too. I swear that whatever stealing was done she did it. I'll not be trapped this way by her and let her off without a squeal. Take me—take her, d'you hear?"

"I think," put in the clear, bland accents of Brentwick, "we can consider that matter settled. I have here, my man," nodding to the adventurer as he took up the black leather wallet—"I have here a little matter which may clear up any lingering doubts as to your standing which you may be disposed at present to entertain."

He extracted a slip of cardboard and at arm's length laid it on the table edge beneath the adventurer's eyes. The latter, bewildered, bent over it for a moment, breathing heavily, then straightened back, shook himself, laughed shortly with a mirthless note and faced the detective.

"It's 'come with you, now,' I guess?" he suggested very quietly.

"The Bannister warrant is still out for you," returned the man. "That'll be enough to hold you on till extradition papers arrive from the States."

"Oh, I'll waive those, and I won't give you any trouble either, I reckon," mused the adventurer, jingling his manacles thoughtfully. "I'm a back number anyway. When a half grown girl, a half baked boy, a flub like Mulready and a clubfooted snipe from Scotland Yard can put it all over me this way, why, I guess it's up to me to go home and retire to my country place up the Hudson." He sighed wearily. "Yep; time to cut it out. But I would like to be free long enough to get in one good lick at that mutt Mulready. My friend, you get your hands on him, and I'll squeal on him till I'm blue in the face. That's a promise."

"You'll have the chance before long," replied the detective. "We received a telegram from the Amsterdam police late this afternoon, saying they'd picked up Mr. Mulready with a woman named Hallam and were holding them on suspicion. It seems," turning to Brentwick, "they were opening negotiations for the sale of a lot of stones and seemed in such a precious hurry that the diamond merchant's suspicions were roused. We're sending over for them, Miss Calendar, so you can make your mind easy about your jewels. You'll have them back in a few days."

"Thank you," said the girl with an effort.

"Well," the adventurer delivered his peroration, "I certainly am blamed glad to hear it. 'Twouldn't 've been a square deal any other way."

Then, with an uncertain nod comprehending the girl, Kirkwood and Brentwick, "So long!" he said thickly and turned, with the detective's hand under his arm, and, accompanied by the thoroughly cowed Stryker, waddled out of the room.

Kirkwood, following the exodus, closed the door with elaborate care and slowly, deep in thought, returned to the table.

Brentwick had slipped down in his chair, resting his silvered head upon its back, and was smiling serenely up at the low yellow ceiling. Before him on the table his long white fingers were drumming an inaudible tune. Presently rousing, he caught Kirkwood's eye and smiled sheepishly, like a child caught in innocent mischief.

The younger man grinned broadly. "And you were responsible for all that!" he commented, infinitely amused.

Brentwick nodded, twinkling self satisfaction. "I contrived it all," he said. "Neat, I call it too." His old eyes brightened with reminiscent enjoyment. "Inspiration," he crowed softly—"inspiration, pure and simple. I'd been worrying my wits for fully five minutes before Wotton settled the matter by telling me about the captain's hiring of the motor car. Then in a flash I had it. I talked with Charles by telephone—his name is really Charles, by the bye—overcame his conscientious scruples about playing his fish when they were already all but landed and settled the artistic details."

He chuckled delightedly. "It's the instinct," he declared emphatically—"the instinct for adventure. I knew it was in me, latent somewhere, but never till this day did it get the opportunity to assert itself. A born adventurer—that's what I am! You see, it was essential that they should believe we were frightened and running from them. That way they would be sure to run after us. Why, we might have baited a dozen traps and failed to lure them into my house after that stout scoundrel knew you'd had the chance to tell me the whole yarn. Odd!"

"Weren't you taking chances, you and Charles?" asked Kirkwood curiously.

"Precious few. There was another motor from Scotland Yard trailing Captain Stryker's. If they had run past or turned aside they would have been overhauled in short order."

"What I don't understand," contended Kirkwood, "is how you convinced Calendar that he couldn't get revenge by pressing his charge against Miss Calendar—Dorothy."

"Oh-h!" Mr. Brentwick elevated his fine white eyebrows and sat up briskly. "My dear boy, that was the most delectable dish on the entire menu. I have been reserving it, I don't mind owning, that I might better enjoy the full relish of it. I may answer you best, perhaps, by asking you to scan what I offered to the fat scoundrel's respectful consideration, my dear sir."

He leveled a forefinger at the card.

At first glance it conveyed nothing to the younger man's benighted intelligence. He puzzled over it, twisting his brows out of alignment. An ordinary oblong slip of thin white cardboard, it was engraved in fine script as follows: "Mr. George Burgoyne Calendar, 31 Aspen Villas, S. W."

"Oh!" exclaimed Kirkwood at length, standing up, his face bright with understanding. "You"—

"I," laconically assented the elder man.

Impulsively Kirkwood leaned across the table. "Dorothy," he said tenderly and when the girl's happy eyes met his quietly drew her attention to the card.

Then he rose hastily and went over to stand by the window, staring mistily into the blank face of night beyond its unseen panes.

Behind him there was a confusion of little noises—the sound of a chair pushed hurriedly aside, a rustle of skirts, a happy sob or two, low voices intermingling—sighs. Out of it finally came the father's accents.

"There, there, my dear, my dearest dear!" protested the old gentleman. "Positively I don't deserve a tithe of this. I"— The young old voice quavered and broke in a happy laugh. "You must understand," he continued more soberly, "that no consideration of any sort is due me. When we married I was too old for your mother, child. We both knew it, both believed it would never matter. But it did. By her wish I went back to America. We were to see what separation would do to heal the wounds dissension had caused. It was a very foolish experiment. Your mother died before I could return."

There fell a silence, again broken by the father. "After that I was in no haste to return. But some years ago I came to London to live. I communicated with the old colonel, asking permission to see you. It was refused in a manner which precluded the subject being reopened by me. I was informed that if I persisted in attempting to see you you would be disinherited. He was very angry with me—justly, I admit. One must grow old before one can see how unforgivably one was wrong in youth. So I settled down to a quiet old age, determined not to disturb you in your happiness. Ah—Kirkwood!"

The old gentleman was standing, his arm around his daughter's shoulders, when Kirkwood turned.

"Come here, Philip. I'm explaining to Dorothy, but you should hear. The evening I called on you, dear boy, at the Pless, returning home I received a message from my solicitors, whom I had instructed to keep an eye on Dorothy's welfare. They informed me that she had disappeared. Naturally I canceled my plans to go to Munich and stayed, employing detectives. One of the first things they discovered was that Dorothy had run off with an elderly person calling himself George Burgoyne Calendar, the name I had discarded when I found that to acknowledge me would imperil my daughter's fortune. The investigations went deeper. Charles, let us continue to call him, had been to see me only this afternoon to inform me of the plot they had discovered. This Hallam woman and her son—it seems that they were legitimately in the line of inheritance, Dorothy out of the way. But the woman was—ah—a bad lot. Somehow she got into communication with this fat rogue, and together they plotted it out. Charles doesn't believe that the Hallam woman expected to enjoy the Burgoyne estates for very many days. Her plan was to step in when Dorothy stepped out, gather up what she could, realize on it and decamp. That is why there was so much excitement about the jewels—naturally the most valuable item on her list, the most easy to convert into cash. The man Mulready we do not place. He seems to have been a shady character the fat rogue picked up somewhere. The latter's ordinary line of business was diamond smuggling, though he would condescend to almost anything in order to turn a dishonest penny.

"That seems to exhaust the subject. But one word more. Dorothy, I am old enough and have suffered enough to know the wisdom of seizing one's happiness when one may. My dear, a little while ago you did a very brave deed. Under fire you said a most courageous, womanly, creditable thing. And Philip's rejoinder was only second in nobility to yours. I do hope to goodness that you two blessed youngsters won't let any addle pated scruples stand between yourselves and—the prize of romance, your inalienable inheritance!"

Abruptly Brentwick, who was no longer Brentwick, but the actual Calendar, released the girl from his embrace and hopped nimbly toward the door. "Really, I must see about that petrol!" he cried. "While it's perfectly true that Charles lied about its running out, we must be getting on. I'll call you when we're ready to start."

And the door crashed to behind him.

Between them was the table. Beyond it the girl stood with head erect, dim tears glimmering on the lashes of those eyes with which she met Philip's steady gaze so fearlessly.

Singing about them, the silence deepened. Fascinated, though his heart was faint with longing, Kirkwood faltered on the threshold of his kingdom.

"Dorothy! You did mean it, dear?"

She laughed a little, low, sobbing laugh that had its source deep in the hidden sanctuary of her heart of a child.

"I meant it, my dearest. If you'll have a girl so bold and forward, who can't wait till she's asked, but throws herself into the arms of the man she loves—Philip, I meant it, every word!"

And as he went to her swiftly, round the table, she turned to meet him, arms uplifted, her scarlet lips a-tremble, the brown and bewitching lashes droping over her wondrously lighted eyes.

THE END.

THE SHEPHERD

Pumpkin seeds have always been a safe and effective home remedy for expelling worms from sheep. Even tapeworms can be got rid of by them, the seed containing a special element which is fatal to them.

Sheep Destroy Weeds.

One great value of sheep on the farm is that they destroy brush and sprouts and reduce the crop of weeds. It will almost pay a farmer to keep a small flock of sheep simply to keep down underbrush vegetation.

Silage a Valuable Food.

Silage is fed to sheep on many farms. When well preserved it is relished by animals and affords a valuable succulent food. From three to four pounds per head daily is about as much as experienced sheepmen care to feed. Fed in larger quantities or if too acid it is liable to cause serious indigestion.

Rape For Feed.

The time will soon come on the majority of well managed farms maintaining sheep when the flock will be turned from the regular pastures to rape fields or patches. The flock owner who has never before given his sheep access to rape need not feel alarmed over the prospect of the change, for, as in the handling of all kinds of farm stock, if common sense be exercised good results can safely be expected.

An Improvement Over Nature.

Ringbone Remedy.

Here is a spavin and ringbone remedy recommended by a noted veterinarian: Turpentine, three-quarters of a pint; wood alcohol, three-quarters of a pint; tincture of iodine, three-quarters of a pint; camphor gum, six ounces; crude petroleum, one and one-half ounces; oil of thyme, one-half ounce. Cut the camphor into small pieces and dissolve it in the alcohol and turpentine mixed. Then mix in the other ingredients and shake thoroughly. Before applying wash the parts well with strong soapsuds, taking care to wash off the hair and rub the remedy in for fifteen minutes every other day. For spavin rub the same time every day.

TO FACILITATE INSPECTION OF THE COUNTY SCHOOLS

And Put Work on a Most Economical Basis—Joining of Peterborough and East Victoria Countries Decided Upon—Dr. Merchant's Address to the County Council.

The important decision of the Ontario Department of Education to unite adjacent townships of Peterborough and Victoria for the purpose of facilitating the educational organization and rural school inspection of the counties named, was the big question presented at the session of the County Council this morning by the department's representative. Re-arrangement of districts is being effected all over the province, and Dr. F. W. Merchant, M.A., inspector of Normal schools, for Ontario, has been commissioned by the Department of Education to look after the work on its behalf, and present the department's plans to the different county councils of the proposed re-adjustments in the rural school inspectorates. The idea of the change is, as Dr. Merchant frankly admitted to the County Council this morning, mainly for the purpose of having the schools grouped on the most economical basis, and at the same time in the most convenient manner for inspection.

In some portions of the province the work is too heavy for one inspector, and this applies to Peterborough County. Under the proposed educational merger East Victoria and the townships of Smith, Ennismore, Galway, Harvey and Cavendish would be included in one division to the west, and the remaining townships of Peterborough County would be embraced in one division to the east.

Under the system in vogue there have been three inspectors for the counties of Victoria and Peterborough—two in Peterboro and one in E. Victoria. The Victoria inspector and one of the Peterborough inspectors have resigned, and for the new inspectorate, taking in Victoria County, it will be necessary for the county councils of Peterborough and Victoria to come to come to a mutual agreement as to who the inspector will be.

Dr. Merchant explained that the boundary division he had prepared was the one that appeared the most desirable to him, after careful consideration, although the councils could decide for themselves if changes were in their opinion, called for. The appointment of the inspector would also be entirely in the hands of the council or the committee they might appoint for that purpose.

At the County Council's session this morning the following deputation from Victoria County were in attendance to discuss the matter with the council: G. A. Jordan, Lindsay, warden of Victoria; B. L. McLean, first deputy reeve of Lindsay; W. W. Jordan, second deputy reeve of Lindsay; Joseph T. Beatty, reeve of Omemee; Emerson Teir, reeve of Verulam; J. T. Bing, reeve of Bobcaygeon; R. H. Callen, reeve of Somerville; J. R. Boate, reeve of Emily.

Dr. Merchant, in opening his address, thanked the council on behalf of the Minister of Education for the hearing he was granted. The object of his visit was in connection with the reorganization of the county school inspectorate. The task of reorganization of the inspectorate had been placed on the Minister of Education at the last meeting of the Legislature. The salary of the inspectors was to be $1,500 as a minimum and $1,700 as a maximum.

In some counties the speaker stated stated that it had been necessary to ask for more money to carry on the work of readjustment, but his mission here was just the opposite, for less would be required to carry out the department's plans than had hitherto been necessary. His intention was to have one inspector do the work as far as possible, at the same time he realized that one inspector could not accomplish as much as two. The Minister of Education would like to see if the council couldn't see its way clear to joining with the neighboring county for the purpose of carrying out the proposed improvement.

Peterborough was a fairly difficult county to cover. In such a county an inspector should have about 90 schools. The arrangement with Victoria would give about that. Some such division as the one suggested should have a satisfactory result. There might be objections to the proposition as submitted but then every scheme was open to some objection. The union as proposed would mean the uniting of the townships of Smith, Ennismore, Harvey, Galway and Cavendish with Lindsay, Verulam, Omemee, Bobcaygeon, Emily and Somerville, the first five townships being in Peterborough county and the last mentioned constituting East Victoria with the exception of Opps township.

Any modifications to the Minister's plan would be considered, but Dr. Merchant said that one thing that had to be insisted upon was the equality of division. He thought the redistribution was as fair as it could be made.

The principal objection would probably be owing to the fact that Smith was in the western division and yet so near to Peterborough. But the speaker explained that this was not so serious as it probably appeared and the division of the townships had been made only after serious consideration.

In an educational sense Peterborough was highly favored. The Normal School was in the city and the teachers of the school could be consulted on all matters of education. It was the fault of any school near Peterborough if that board was without a good teacher.

The inspector would get as the salary at the beginning $1500, $750 would be from the county and $750 from the Government. The proposition was purely a business one. The speaker suggested that a nominating committee be composed consisting of the reeves of the municipalities affected. The matter had been brought up in Victoria. The council there were favorable to the appointment of a committee in that way.

The new division placed 32 Peterborough schools in it and 59 Victoria schools making a total of 91 for the new inspector and 96 for the present inspector in Peterborough county, Mr. R Lees.

It was moved by Councillors Shaw and Hales and carried that the matter be referred to the committee of the whole council with Dr. Merchant to assist them.

THE COMMITTEE'S MEETING.

Minutes of meeting of the committee of the whole council appointed to consider a proposal to establish a a school inspectorate jointly with the County of Victoria.

Dr. Merchant, representing the Minister of Education, stated that the Victoria Council are, as he understands, willing to enter into an agreement that the townships of Smith, Ennismore, Harvey, Galway and Cavendish should be united with Lindsay, Verulam, Omemee, Bobcaygeon, Emily and Somerville to Victoria County to form one school inspectorate.

It was moved by Mr. Knox, seconded by Mr. Brown, that this committee approve of an inspectorate being established by those parts of Peterborough and Victoria counties above designated with power to the County of Victoria to substitute the township of Ops for Emily and Omemee, if they see fit—Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Moher, seconded by Mr. Perdue, that this committee approve of an agreement being made that the proportion of time of the inspector which shall be given in each of said counties, and the proportion of salary and traveling and other expenses of the inspector shall be determined, borne and paid for by the counties interested, on a basis of the number of teachers in each county respectively in such inspectorate.

It was moved by Mr. Russell, seconded by Mr. Kidd, that the reeves of Smith, Emily, Harvey and Galway and Cavendish, and the deputy reeve of Smith, be a sub-committee to confer with a committee appointed by the County of Victoria to nominate an inspectorate and to determine any other necessary matters in connection with the proposed arrangement.

The report was adopted.

A TRIBUTE TO THE INSPECTOR

Dr. Merchant Refers to Splendid Work of Mr. J. Coyle Brown.

At the meeting of the County Council this morning Dr. Merchant took the opportunity to pay a sincere tribute to Mr. J. Coyle Brown, the retired County School Inspector, for the excellent service he had rendered in the interests of education. Mr. Brown had been in the work of education since 1848. He was one of the pioneer educationalists of the province and had accomplished an important and useful work.

ONTARIO'S NEW DRAWING BOOKS

Will Be Better Than Old Ones and Lower in Price

Tenders for new drawing books for the Public and High Schools of the Province were considered by the Cabinet at Toronto yesterday.

It has been learned that there will be as big a reduction in prices relatively in these books as there was in the readers. The old prices of ten cents and fifteen cents will be reduced to five cents, it is said. The present books run from 20 to 24 pages, and the new ones will be double that in size.

PAPER SPECIALLY SELECTED

A superior quality of paper has been selected. It is the unanimous choice of a number of drawing teachers and artists. Dr. D. J. Goggin is the editor in charge and has had the paper tested for crayon, ink, charcoal and water colors. A new idea is the perforation of the pages so that they can be taken from the book or that the book can be used as a pad, just as the teacher desires.

CAPT. BERNIER THIS EVENING

Captain Bernier will meet with a hearty reception this evening at the Collegiate Auditorium as the distinguished gentleman will be presented with an address of welcome by Mayor Henry Rush on behalf of the city council and the citizens of Peterborough.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., will occupy the chair in deference, it is said, to the personal request of the famous lecturer.

Captain Bernier's lecture will be illustrated throughout with a most unique set of lantern views, showing life in the far north as he found it on his several expeditions to that wonderful country. He will also have with him a number of the records and relics deposited by the famous explorer, Sir John Franklin, who lost his life in polar travel. These curios were left in the north in 18200, and naturally are extremely interesting for their historic associations.

"Has the North Pole been discovered?" Captain Berlier will answer this question and tell who he believes was actually there.

FENIAN RAID SURVIVORS WANT GOVERNMENT GRANTS

Sir Wilfrid Says He Will do What He Can, But it Will be Difficult — Mr. Defers Introduces Measure to Amend Banking Act.

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—Veterans of the Fenian Raid, represented by a deputation of about 150, yesterday requested the Federal Government for land grants in recognition of their services, rendered in 1866.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Frederick Borden, Hon. Sydney Fisher, and Hon. L. P. Brodeur were present in the railway committee room of the Commons when the veterans, headed by Sir Mackenzie Bowell and supported by a Highland piper, entered. Some of the veterans had drawn swords in their hands. The deputation was introduced by M. Martin, M.P., of Montreal.

Abbott Johnston of L'Original, promised on behalf of the veterans that if given grants of land they were prepared to work the land themselves or their sons would. They had fought for their country, and they were prepared to fight again.

Capt. Paterson of Montreal deprecated the efforts which had been made to turn this into a political question. They were grateful for the medals they had received, but as many of them were poor, he thought that a pension would be better than a land grant. It was not in the power of many of them to locate. He denied that they were charlatans, mendicants, or paupers—they were the men of the country.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that in 1870 he had the honor of wearing the Queen's uniform. He expressed the belief that if the veterans had taken up the matter some years ago there would have been little difficulty about their request.

He sympathized deeply with the movement, but could have wished that the veterans had been uniform in their demands. If anything is done, however, it should be done soon. He thought there would be some difficulty in deciding just who would be entitled to reward.

Sir Wilfrid said, in conclusion, that the matter was seriously engaging the attention of the Government, and if it was possible to decide that the request could be granted, nothing would please him better.

In the House yesterday Mr. Defers introduced a bill to amend the Banking Act.

It provides that more publicity be given when banks make a large bonus; that 15 shareholders, representing one-twentieth of the capital of a bank, may summons a meeting, instead of 25 shareholders, representing one-tenth of the capital as is now the case.

It also aims to protect shareholders from bad faith on the part of the directors, and provides for the inspection of banks by the Department of Finance.

Hon. Mr. Foster asked when the amendment of the Banking Act would be introduced. Mr. Fielding said that it would be some little time. Owing to matters affecting the Department which would be dealt with, the amendments would probably not be introduced until after the recess.

Mr. Foster: "What about the budget?"

Mr. Fielding said he had hoped to make his budget address before the holidays, but he would not be able to definitely inform the House as to when it would be delivered until early next week.

When the House was in supply on public buildings' estimates and "new postoffices" were under consideration, Mr. Magrath of Lethbridge, Alta., attacked the Minister of Public Works for what he described as his lack of policy. He condemned his actions in placing public buildings in towns and villages without a request for such from the departments concerned. He instanced postoffices, and said that all the Minister could show in many cases, such as a $25,000 building for the Village of Maneville, Que., with a population of 1,300, were the requests of the member for the constituency or a board of trade. The request should have come from the department itself.

He described it as humiliating to be compelled to advance the claims of Lethbridge, which was in dire need of a postoffice, and though a request had been sent by the Postoffice Department to the Minister of Public Works, it had been disregarded.

Before his election "political snipes" had gone through the constituency telling the people that if they elected Magrath they would get no postoffice. Yet, said Mr. Magrath, the Minister claimed there was no politics in public works.

Mr. Pugsley in reply said that Lethbridge had only recently taken on its very rapid growth. However, he would consider carefully the claims of Lethbridge.

The public accounts committee entered upon its work for the session yesterday under the chairmanship of Col. Warburton.

Mr. Blain asked for the production of seven accounts in connection with the Quebec Tercentenary, one amounting to $39,528, paid to J. H. Gignac, Ltd., Quebec, for the construction of grand stands, etc., and supply of materials for scenery. Another of $4,344, paid to the Cambridge Corporation, Ltd., Montreal, for printing souvenirs and programs; and a third, amounting to $7,293, paid to L. O. Armstrong, Montreal, for supplying and equipping one hundred Indians.

U. S. Money Circulation.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Every person in the United States should have a stake of $34.98 if the money in circulation on Dec. 1, were evenly divided. This is based on the treasury's estimate that the population is 89,524,000.

NEW GOVERNOR BRITISH COLUMBIA

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—Thos. W. Patterson has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, in succession to Hon. James Dunsmuir, whose resignation was accepted yesterday.

Mr. Patterson is a wealthy retired railway contractor of Victoria, B.C.

He is a native of Bruce County, Ont., and went west about twenty-five years ago.

His wife is a daughter of Senator Riley of Victoria.

TRAINMEN ARE NOW ON STRIKE

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—With 1,500 men imported to take the places of the striking switchmen who are members of the Switchmen's Union of North America, and those strikers who are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen returning to work, managers of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railroads last night asserted that the strike was about over.

The strike leaders, however, despite the desertion of the trainmen and the gradual resumption of traffic, last night asserted that the strike had only begun. Freight congestion is not appreciably relieved.

After a conference yesterday afternoon with President Hawley of the Switchmen's Union, and E. W. Decker of the clearing house, Governor Eberhart announced that a well-defined movement had been started to effect a settlement of the strike.

CLARA GUTHRIE SENT TO JAIL

Barrie, Dec. 4.—Becoming suspicious, when he learned yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie had left town mysteriously without his knowledge, Bondsman James Goodwin withdrew his name from the bond on Miss Clara Guthrie, aged 17, under indictment for perjury in connection with a fire inquest. She could not or would not say where her mother had gone.

The injured Miss Montgomery, an adopted daughter of the Guthries, upon whom Miss Guthrie was in attendance, was taken to the hospital, and the Children's Aid Society have charge of the two Guthrie boys.

CAN'T GET SALARIES

Teachers of Sturgeon Falls Stop Work Till They Get Some Money.

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., Dec. 4.—The public schools of Sturgeon Falls are closed to-day and the scholars at their homes for an indefinite vacation, its duration depending upon a solution of the financial problem which has been thrust upon the trustees.

Public school ratepayers are indignant at the state of affairs, which has deprived their children of the instruction for which they have been paying taxes.

Since the plant of the Imperial Paper Mills went into liquidation about two years ago, business has been seriously affected in the town, as the plant was the principal and only industry of any size in the community and employed a large number of hands, the mills being practically closed down during the receivership.

On account of a dispute over the amount of taxes due from the mills and the liquidation proceedings, a large sum in public school taxes has been tied up, and the town owes the public school nine thousand dollars on the levies of 1907-8, besides the year's levy.

The teachers have only received $30 each since the midsummer vacation and yesterday they resolved to quit in a body, as there seems no immediate prospect of receiving any money on their salaries, and the prospect of living without means does not appeal to them after subsisting three months on $10 per month.

The town council has in view the submitting of a bylaw to the electors authorizing the consolidation of the municipal debt and the issue of debentures to provide financial relief, but there is a feeling among the ratepayers that the bylaw is in some way connected with the present situation, and it may meet with substantial opposition.

PROBABILITIES.

Sunday, unsettled with rain. Colder Sunday night and Monday.

THE BRITISH ISLANDS ARE SWEPT BY TERRIBLE GALES

Coal Steamer Thistlemere Goes Down off Appledere With Thirty Men—Steamar Ellen Vannin Believed to Have Sunk.

London, Dec. 4.—In a terrific gale that raged yesterday over the British Isles the steamer Thistlemere, coal-laden, went to her doom off Appledere, in Barnstable Bay, and it is believed that her entire crew of thirty men perished. Four bodies have been washed ashore.

The Thistlemere was in command of Capt. Yeo and was bound from Liverpool for an American port. She was of 4,008 tons and was built in 1906 at Stockton, Eng.

Another vessel was in distress in the same vicinity, but proceeded on her way, and it is hoped that she may have saved some of the crew of the Thistlemere, whose chief engineer is safe at Barr.

It is feared another disaster occurred in the Irish Channel. The Isle of Man steamer Ellen Vannin, with a crew of 21 and 12 passengers, left Ramsay, Isle of Man, for Liverpool at midnight on Thursday, but has not since been heard from. A mail bag and two lifeboats washed ashore on the banks of the Mersey leaves little doubt that she foundered.

One of the Vannin's passengers, Mark Jonghin, was proceeding to America to take possession of a fortune left him there.

Small vessels everywhere were at the mercy of the storm and Lloyds reports eight of them ashore at various points. Their crews, however, all escaped.

The British steamer Congress, which arrived at Falmouth yesterday, reports that during the storm her captain, the mate and one seaman were washed overboard by mountainous seas.

Havoc Off Newfoundland.

Birchy Cove, Nfld., Dec. 4.—Two schooners of the Gloucester, Mass., fishing fleet, the Mabel D. Hines and the Henry M. Stanley, were wrecked in the violent northeast gale which has swept Newfoundland waters in the past few days. The schooner [illegible] the vessel which [illegible] Bradley, [illegible] carried Dr. Cook's Arctic expedition, is also reported missing, and wreckage is piled all along the coast.

Foundered at Sea.

Portland, Oregon, Dec. 4.—Advices received by the U.S. weather bureau from Tatoosh Island, Wash., state that the British four-masted bark Matterhorn foundered at sea Nov. 27, seventy miles off Umatilla Reef. The first mate, steward and four sailors were drowned. Twenty-seven of the crew were saved.

Only One Wreck.

Boston, Dec. 4.—With the softening yesterday of the weather conditions which have been unusually boisterous for nearly ten days, coastwise traffic was resumed and several vessels in precarious positions were able to extricate themselves.

The schooners at anchor on Nantucket Shoals, whose position aroused some anxiety earlier in the week, were found to be all right.

Only one disaster occurred, however, the wreck of the schooner Mizpah and the loss of three of her crew on the tip end of the cape Thursday night.

Nova Scotia Schooner Ashore.

Boston, Dec. 4.—The northeast gale which has been raging along the coast is abating somewhat.

Two wrecks have occurred and three men are known to have perished.

The British schooner Mizpah, from Lunenburg, N.S., for Boston, went ashore Thursday night on Peaked Hill Bar, off Highland Light. It was impossible to launch life boats, and the life-savers brought the breeches buoy into play. Capt. Westerhaven and three of his men were saved, but the other three were washed overboard and lost.

The schooner Borda, which foundered off Nantucket, will be a complete loss. Her captain and crew were picked up at sea by the steamship Vaderland.

INDIAN PATENT MEDICINE MAN SHOT A YOUTH

Sudbury, Dec. 4.—Dr. Whitecloud, an Indian patent medicine doctor, more or less famous throughout Ontario, is lodged in Copper Cliff jail.

On Wednesday night while performing in a public hall he claims to have been disturbed by small boys. One of the doctor's thrillers is trick rifle shooting, and failing to quiet the small boys, it is alleged, he shot one of them while doing his rifle act.

After lingering for a night and a day between life and death, the boy died in Copper Cliff hospital Thursday night. An inquest was being held yesterday afternoon. Arrested on Thursday for wounding, Whitecloud pleaded guilty and was remanded to jail for a week awaiting developments of the boy's wound.

He will now have to answer the more serious offence of killing the boy.

STRANGLED BY CHEWING GUM

New York, Dec. 4.—Little [illegible] Menninger, whose body was found on a tenement roof Thursday, may have been the victim of an accident. A quantity of chewing gum was lodged in the child's larynx, sufficient to have caused death, the physicians state.

Marks on the throat might have been caused by paroxysms during strangulation.

KILLED WHILE STEALING RIDE

Woodstock, Ont., Dec. 4.—A man whose name, according to papers found in his pockets, was Jas. Brown of Chatham, or Toronto, was yesterday morning run over and killed by a G.T.R. freight train about one mile east of Ingersoll, G.T.R station, his body being cut in two.

It is stated that he had been stealing a ride, and had been put off the train at Ingersoll Station, but on the train being started again, he once more climbed on board and stayed on for almost a mile, when in some manner he fell under the wheels.

WOMAN FINED FOR SHOOTING HER HUSBAND

Brockville, Dec. 4.—Mrs. H. C. Barker, who shot her husband on Saturday last, following a domestic quarrel, got off lightly yesterday morning. Her husband not being willing to prosecute, the chief of police lodged a minor charge of discharging a pistol in a public place, to which she pleaded guilty, and was fined $20 and costs.

Gun Went Off.

Kingston, Dec. 4.—While lifting his shotgun from his boat at Big Bay, James Berry, a resident of Wolfe Island, accidentally discharged the gun, receiving the shot in his left hand and part of his body. He will lose his hand.

GOUIN TO BE DINED

Sir James Whitney will Entertain Quebec Premier at Toronto, Dec. 15th.

Toronto, Dec. 4.—Sir James Whitney and his colleagues in the Cabinet will entertain Sir Lomer Gouin, Prime Minister of Quebec, together with one of his Ministers and a member of the Quebec Legislature, at luncheon in the Parliament Buildings, on Dec. 15, at 1 o'clock.

In this way the Government desires to express its appreciation of the hospitality and courtesy extended to Sir James Whitney by the Quebec Government on the occasion of the celebration of the tercentenary of the founding of the City of Quebec and the nationalization of the battlefields of Quebec.

All the members of the Legislature, representatives of the Senate, the House of Commons, the judiciary, the Canadian Club and the press will be invited to be present at the luncheon.

On the evening of the same day Sir Lomer Gouin will be entertained at an informal dinner by the Canadian Club, and the distinguished visitor will return to Quebec the same evening.

While the reason officially assigned as furnishing the occasion of this fraternizing of the Premiers is a purely social one, it is understood that grave questions of state affecting the relationships of the provinces will be discussed privately during the meeting.

It must not be forgotten in this connection that at the close of the last interprovincial conference, Sir James Whitney and Sir Lomer Gouin was appointed a committee to determine the time, place and subject for the next meeting of the conference. The question of provincial rights is in the air at present. The inference seems to be obvious.

Again, the Province of Quebec is generally credited with having ambitions in the line of a power policy. Hon. Adam Beck will be within handy calling distance on Dec. 15, and Ontario is the chief depot for information of this nature.

THE REVENUE SHOWS A GAIN

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—The total revenue of the Dominion for the eight months of the fiscal year which closed on Nov. 30, was $64,6[illegible]509, as compared with $55,115,227 for the same period last year, an increase of $9,541,822.

For the month of November alone, the revenue was $8,748,923, as compared with $6,867,988 for November, 1908.

Expenditures for the eight months totalled $42,726,569, as compared with $45,376,957 for the first eight months of last fiscal year, a decrease of $2,650,388.

Granite Workers Stay Out.

Montpelier, Vermont, Dec. 4—Hopes for a speedy settlement of the strike of 5,000 granite workers here, in Barre, and in Northfield, vanished yesterday when the Northfield branch, the first to strike, refused to accept the Barre Granite Manufacturers' Association proposition, that the use of the bushing hammer, over which the strike started, be made optional between Dec. 11 and March 15.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT GOES TO THE PEOPLE FOR VOTE

In Speech From the Throne King Regrets That Budget Provisions Were Unavailing After all—Troubles in Southeastern Europe Settled.

London, Dec. 4.—The King's speech proroguing Parliament was read yesterday. The proceedings were brief and the attendance small. In fact the private members of the chamber were almost outnumbered by the Ministers in attendance.

Both Houses met at 2 o'clock, when the black rod proceeded immediately to the Lower House to request the attendance of the Commoners at the Upper House to hear the royal speech.

The speech was read by Lord High Chancellor Loreburn, who was supported by Viscount Althorp, the lord chamberlain; Lord MacDonnell, Lord Pentland, secretary for Scotland, and Lord Haversham.

As soon as the speech had been read, the King's consent to the bills passed during the session was announced, and the members dispersed.

The only reference to the political crisis in the speech of prorogation was in the clause addressed to the House of Commons, in which the King thanked the members for the adoption of the provision for the national expenditures. This concluded: "I regret that the provision has proved unavailing."

Beyond this, the speech made the usual references to the visits of foreign sovereigns, the friendly relations with foreign powers and the legislation passed during the session. On the matter of foreign relations the speech continued:

"The difficulties which unfortunately arose in Southeastern Europe in the autumn a year ago, have resulted happily in a practical solution for the maintenance of peace, while the constitutional regime in Turkey continues to make satisfactory progress.

"Subject to certain reservations made by my plenipotentiaries at the time of signature I have to ratify the conventions which resulted from the conference held at The Hague in 1907. Agreements with Germany, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland and Portugal, have been renewed for a further term of five years, and other agreements about to expire are in process of renewal.

"The important conference which met in July last for the exchange of views between my Government and the Governments of the self-governing dominions beyond the seas upon the subject of naval and military defence has been of great mutual advantage, and as the outcome of the deliberations it may confidently be expected that the stability of my dominions will be preserved and their unity promoted."

Polling for the elections will begin Jan. 13 and continue until Jan. 24.

The election campaign already is in full swing and many speeches were delivered last night in all parts of the country.

Lord Lansdowne at Plymouth defined the issues as tariff reform versus the extinct budget, and the two Houses of Parliament versus a single chamber. He pointed to the danger of the disestablishment of home rule and of the single chamber policy on the resident Liberals.

Winston Spencer Churchill, president of the Board of Trade, spoke at Preston and challenged the Unionists to show any benefit that could come to the cotton trade from their fiscal policy. He reminded his auditors that "every leader of the Conservative party, from the great William Pitt to the small Arthur J. Balfour—all leaders from the sublime to the ridiculous, were agreed that the House of Commons had control of finances."

David Lloyd-George Chancellor of the Exchequer, whose budget was the initial cause of the crisis, was given the opportunity of firing the first shot in the struggle as the guest at luncheon of the National Liberal Club. The function was one of the most elaborate ever held in this city.

He expressed confidence that although the budget had been buried it was assured the certain hope of an early resurrection. Attempts would be made, he said, to divert the minds of the people to irrelevant questions, but the one great and dominant question was that of the House of Lords, and this would absorb all others.

It was time for the Lords to be handled firmly, and for one he would not remain a member of the Liberal Cabinet for an hour unless he knew that the Cabinet had power to carry its bills.

CAPTAIN BERNIER WANTS SPECIAL CANOE FOR NEXT TRIP TO ARCTIC REGIONS

Captain Bernier intends taking another trip to the Polar regions and although he only returned home from the far north a few weeks ago he is already making preparations for his next expedition. While in Peterborough yesterday the captain called upon the Peterborough Canoe Company for the purpose of ordering a specially constructed canoe to be used on his next Polar trip. Captain Bernier wants a canoe that will take the designers of the factory some time to work out. He wants a boat of the "knock-down" type, one that can be taken apart and carried in three pieces. It must be light but the captain wants it of two thicknesses of lumber with canvas between. The Canoe Company will endeavor to build a boat to conform with the explorer's ideas.

WEDDING BELLS

SAVIGNY—KING

The marriage of Miss Victoria King, daughter of Mrs. Lillie A. King, to Mr. Lorne Savigny, of Peterborough, took place on Wednesday evening at 9.30 at the home of the bride's mother, Avalon, Pa. The bride wore a dainty embroidered gown and carried white bridal roses and maiden hair ferns. The bride's sister, Miss Edith King, was maid of honor. She was gowned in pink mousseline and carried pink chrysanthemums. Mr. Roy Houston, of Avalon, acted as groomsman. Miss Mayme Hunter presided at the piano, and played Lonherin's wedding march, and during the ceremony the flower song, very sympathetically.

Decorations for the bride's table table were carried out in the wedding colors of pink and white, while a profusion of autumn leaves were artistically clustered throughout the rooms.

After December 10th Mr. and Mrs. Savigny will be at home to their friends at 617 Florence avenue, Avalon.—Com.

The Rev. Samuel W. Small, D.D.

The Rev. Sam Small will speak in St. Andrew's Church to-morrow, (Sunday) morning, at 11 o'clock, and in the Grand Opera House at 8:15, he will give his celebrated address on "Personal Liberty." Mr Small will also be present at Mr. C. R. Drum's meeting in the afternoon at 3:30 in the Opera House.

DR. SMALL speaks as a man who knows the terrific power of evil; he cries out as a man who has been saved as a brand from the burning, and the effort on the part of the liquor interests to stop his soul from giving expression to its deepest feelings must always be expected. He has, as a saved man, triumphed gloriously over evil through the power of the Cross of Christ, and his view of Satan's power seems to him awfully real.

THE LOCAL OPTION MOVEMENT IN THE CITY

The Matter Appearing in This Department is Furnished by the Peterboroug Temperance and Moral Reform League Which Has Arranged for its Publication.

HOW WILL IT AFFECT BUSINESS?

A conservative estimate places the amount annually paid for liquor over the bars of Peterborough at $500,000. If these bars were abolished and that money went into the channels of legitimate trade who would get it? The following is probably a fairly accurate estimate:

Dry goods	$60,000
Groceries	60,000
Buildings, etc.	60,000
Boots and shoes	15,000
Hardware	15,000
Books, etc.	12,000
Religion	12,000
Entertainments	6,000
Pleasure trips	6,000
Confectionery	6,000
Electric lights	6,000
Jewellery	5,000
Toys	5,000
Photographs	5,000
Laundry	5,000

Leaving for insurance and savings $60,000.

This fact is realised by merchants in places where Local Option has been tried. Mr. Ireland pointed out at the Opera House last Sunday that the merchants and business men of Owen Sound considered it a privilege to raise the sum of $1700 last year to fight a repeal movement there after having had three years' experience of the working of the Local Option law, and they did that not for sentiment but as a business proposition.

To the above statement may be added the fact that if there was no open bar the earning power of a large number of men would be greatly increased, so that a sum even larger than that mentioned would be diverted into the hands of men in legitimate business. Mr. Merchant, just sit down for a minute and figure out how much of that $500,000 or $400,000 will come your way.

LIGHTING CONTRACT AWARDED

At a meeting of the Finance Committee yesterday afternoon it was decided to award the contract for the lighting of the new Public Library to F. R. J. MacPherson & Co. at the price stipulated in their original tender, $150.00. The delay in awarding the contract was due to some work having been done at the library in connection with the lighting by Alexander & Miller.

A resolution was also passed recommending that the insurance in connection with all the city buildings be placed in the hands of the City Trust Commissioners. At the present time it is divided between the City Council and the Commissioners.

In connection with the request of Mr. Edward Green that a settlement be made regarding some property along the water front at the end of Charlotte street, the committee recommended that Mr. A. E. Dixon, who is acting for Mr. Green, be requested to make an offer for the property which belongs to the city.

The 43rd Regiment, Ottawa, will go in for snow-shoeing this winter, tis said.

WHAT GOOD HAS THE BAR-ROOM DONE YOU?

LAST MINUTE ARGUMENTS.

If one thing has been more clearly shown than another, in the present campaign, it has been the fact that the opponents of Local Option do not believe in the potency of any arguments they may have to advance against its adoption. Notwithstanding investigations in this column, and the frequently expressed desire on the part of many private citizens, that they should give the public, either through the press or otherwise, the benefit of any light they may have, they have resolutely abstained from doing so. There can be but one conclusion; that they have nothing to present to the public that will carry weight, or that cannot be effectually replied to. This is a point for the public to keep clearly in mind.

There are rumors afloat to the effect that a large amount of material is being stored up by the supporters of the open bar, and that will be unloaded on the public, in the last hours of the campaign, when the possibility of replying to it is past. No attention should be paid by anyone to such arguments. Anything that will not stand the test of fair discussion is of no value, and should be so treated.

IS LOCAL OPTION PROVING A SUCCESS?

Objection:—I voted for the Dunkin and for the Scott Acts neither of which were successful and I therefore am not going to vote for Local Option.

Answer:—Local Option is utterly different from either the Dunkin or the Scott acts. The mistakes that were made in these acts have been eliminated from the Local Option law with the result that the Local Option law is proving a success wherever it has been tried. Without explaining the various improvements that have been made in the law, it is sufficient to say that last year in some 97 municipalities in Ontario where Local Option had been in force for three years, the liquor interests attempted to bring on a repeal vote in only 27 cases. A simple majority vote would have been sufficient to have repealed the law. In only two of these cases were the liquor interests successful. These were in villages which had been part of townships that had carried Local Option. When the townships carried Local Option these villages had given a majority against it. Last year the majority in these villages against Local Option was smaller than it was at the time of the previous vote.

This year the temperance forces are bringing on votes in 164 municipalities in Ontario. These liquor interests are not attempting to bring on a repeal vote in any constituency. They would do so if they thought they had a ghost of a chance of winning. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. When some 200 municipalities might bring on repeal votes if they wanted to and yet none are attempting to, it is the best proof possible that Local Option is proving a success.

DIED AFTER HALF HOUR'S ILLNES

The death occurred this morning at 6.30 o'clock at the Children's Shelter of Mary Rosebush, one of the Society charges, and 7 years of age. The child's death was due to membranous croup following an attack of scarlet fever. She seemed to be as well as usual last night and up to six o'clock this morning when she was suddenly seized and died in half an hour. Burial took place this afternoon in Little Lake cemetery.

Within the next few years several power plants will likely be in operation, all situated a few miles from this town.

Our Country's Future Depends Upon Our Manhood and Womanhood, The Bar-room Business is Built up by the Ruin of Both.

THE EFFECT ON TAXES?

Objection.—If we carry Local Option the money we will lose in license fees will result in our taxes being increased.

Answer.—This is an argument that has been exploded in practically every constituency where Local Option has been carried. Results in such cities as Owen Sound, Toronto Junction, Orillia, and many others prove that taxes are not increased as a result of the introduction of Local Option. It is rumored that the liquor interests in Peterborough are gathering information to be used in the last few days of the campaign in an effort to show that taxes in Peterborough will be increased if Local Option is carried. Look out for these arguments and have a good laugh over them when they appear. If they would stand the light of investigation they would be brought out now.

THEY GENERALLY TAKE IT.

Objection.—I can take a drink, or leave it alone, and every one else should do the same, so I won't vote for Local Option.

Answer.—It will be noticed that nearly all the men who say that they can take a drink or leave it alone, generally "take it" We have to deal with the facts as we find them. Everybody else must see that apart from personal practise, the public institution of the bar room with its treating system is a menace to good society. Local Option aims to do away with the open bar. What good has the open bar ever done for you?

HOTEL ACCOMMODATION IMPROVED.

Objection.—The hotels will not be as well kept if they lose the profit they have been deriving from the open bar.

Answer.—Over 66 million people in the U.S. live in states where there is no open bar. The hotels in these sections are the equal of the hotels that can be found anywhere. There are 400 municipalities in Ontario without bars. They have just as good hotel accommodations as can be found in places of the same size under license. Where the hotel-keepers have tried to close their hotels or to reduce their efficiency, such as Bowmanville, companies have been formed and new hotels started that have been run on modern lines. Like most other objections of this nature, this argument lost its force long ago.

CAMPBELLFORD LIKES LOCAL OPTION.

The following extract from an article published some time ago in the Campbellford Herald, indicates what the people of Campbellford think of Local Option:—

"To the general onlooker Local Option has wrought a marvellous change in Campbellford. During the leisure hours of the day and evenings when scores were seen to line the bars of the hotels under the license system, scarcely a man is seen today. Moreover, a variety of liquor is sold which is non-intoxicating, and hence the absence of drunken men.

"The most encouraging feature of it all is that the temptation is removed from the youngest element of the community. It is a cardinal principle in education that it is better to be a former than a re-former. In other words, it is better to bring up a boy without acquiring bad habits than to reclaim him after the habit has to some extent got control of him. To a large extent, under the present conditions the young and rising generation have been spared from the temptation."

A HOPEFUL POET.

Failure to Recognize His Genius Didn't Dampen His Ardor.

Paddy Quinn, a type of bohemian found only between the covers of a cheap novel, was sentenced by Justice Samuel C. Hyde, congressional representative for Washington during territorial days, to serve ten days on the rock pile after confessing that he had worked only seventy-five minutes during his stay of two months in Spokane. Asked by the court to explain how he earned a living, the prisoner said:

"I am a poet, but there is no use explaining to you that which would be unintelligible to your mind. I will recite some of my poetry instead. I will read a few stanzas from my masterpiece."

Before Quinn could give voice to the second line of his latest work the court had imposed sentence and the sweet singer was on the way to the city jail, where his tattered garments, oxford shoes and flesh colored hose were exchanged for overalls, jumper and hobnailed brogans. His long black hair and flowing beard were also trimmed for hygenic purposes, and, armed with a six pound hammer, he started for the rock pile, mumbling as he left the station:

"The muse got an awful jolt that time at the hands of an unsympathetic judge; but, then, there's hope. Recognition will come some time. It must come. Officer, please see that Pegasus is properly cared for until I return!"

Disposition of Breeders.

In breeding profitable horses care should be taken to select animals known to possess desirable qualities. Vicious mares should not be bred. Every year bad dispositioned horses send quite a number of persons to premature graves and cripple others, while the material damage they do is quite considerable.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrah, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

BLUES WON BY CLOSE MARGIN

Defeated Greens at Y.M.C.A. Last Night by Score of 11-9

Last night the Blues and the Greens had an exciting game of real basket-ball. The Blues started with four men and the Greens made their chance good, for they played hard while there was a man missing. Morrow played the usual game, fast and good shooting. He scored the first goal and things looked pretty blue for the Blues, but Scott, the Blue's centre, finally showed up, and they succeeded in holding the Greens down to a safe margin. The first half ended 5 to 4 in favor of the Greens. It was a hard go, and each man on the team had to do his share, and they certainly did it. For the Greens Phelan, Morrow and Wallace were the men that played to suit the spectators, but Elliott and Carlisle did the real work.

The second half started, and Pearson started the excitement by throwing a basket with his eyes shut; it wasn't his fault that the ball went in, but just the same, it counted two points for the Blues.

The rest of the game was fast and exciting. Scott followed Pearson and they did some good old team work, and he put the ball in the basket from a very difficult angle. The crowd crowd raised the roof in the good old-fashioned way. The game was fast, and two minutes before time the score was tied, but Stratton secured a free throw and a field goal, and the game ended 11 to 9 in favor of the Blues.

The line-up follows:—

HIS PLAN TO LIMIT THE LIQUOR HABIT

Mr. Laster Writes of the Success of the T. A. S. and Commends the Methods Used.

Note.—The communication following, and which appears over the signature of Mr. B. Laster, is offered for publication by him, independent of the wishes and objects of either side in the local option campaign, and without approval or endorsement by either party. The space occupied is paid for by Mr. Laster, and it is on these conditions that the communication appears.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—After seeing that the liberal critic got busy, and has not time to inspect my manuscripts, and is waiting until pay day to get the necessary $25 for the Children's Aid. Or is he like the rest of the local option workers, who are great in speech and small in deeds. So I will not take the trouble to wait for him, but will write more reasons why local option should not be carried in Peterborough. I have made reference in my last letters to those workers who are working for local option, if they would adopt the same system as the T.A.S. have done, they would have no necessity of passing local option, here. Now let us see the difference of the two ways. Which is best to limit drunkenness here in Peterborough? We will take the T.A.S. first. As a matter of fact, if a person has the tooth-ache, and if he wants to cure it, the best way is to take it out at the root. It would be no good, if he breaks the tooth off, and leaves the root, but the best way is to take out the root, and the pain will stop. In my opinion this is the way the T.A.S. are doing, in saving men from drinking, and put him directly on a better standing both morally and financially. The way they are doing, you may all know. In the first place when they see a man suffering from drinking, or if his family is in distress, they visit him, and induce him to join the T.A.S. Once he has made up his mind to join them, they make him take a pledge to leave drink alone, and no matter how many hotels there may be in his neighborhood, he will not go near them. And what is more important, he will not take any liquor home and drink it there. That is where the real temptation is, and more danger for the children. In doing this, they are taking the matter by the root, and settling the drinking question, without any inconvenience to any one. I agree with them for that reason, that they are saving not only the children from drinking, but their fathers also. Because if the father doesn't drink, he will naturally bring the children up in the same way. But I do not agree with the Rev. Mr. Smith, of Toronto Junction, who in his address said:—"By all means, if anybody is bound to drink, and cannot get it in the open bar, let him take it home, and drink himself to death." That is where I oppose him. I do not want any man, even a father of a family, who has to support them, to get dead drunk. If there is any saving to be done, it is the first duty to save that man, and they should see that he does not drink himself to death. If they cannot make him take a pledge not to touch any more drink; force him by putting him on the black-list. But above anything, do not give them the opportunity to take it to his home. And if they go at it in this way to save a man from drinking, they will naturally be educated and brought up from their childhood, to look with contempt at a saloon. We have proof right here in our city, where fathers have joined the T.A.S. years ago, the children of those men are absolutely abstaining from any intoxicating drinks whatever. Now some of you will say, "That would be good, if you could just get them to join such a society as the T.A.S. You cannot easily bring a drunkard to reason, once he is one. But this I will answer you, that with proper ways and with proper men, such as they have in the T.A.S., you can induce any drunkard to become a law-abiding and sober man. Now let us see what the T.A.S. do, and what they have accomplished in avoiding drunkenness. In the ten years since it has been founded, you will find that out of a population of 4,000 Catholics, where there are about 1,500 men, the T.A.S. has a membership of 1,000 members. Just think of it: out of 1,500 men, they have 1,000 of them who are not touching liquor or bringing any intoxicating liquor to their houses; and I must congratulate them on their grand and noble work, by teaching and educating the children in the same moral way, by not giving the children the temptation of having intoxicating liquors in their homes. Every one of us knows how many families were absolutely on the edge of ruin when those noble men stepped in and have saved them. Why should you bring here some outside professional speakers, who are strangers to us, and who don't know the conditions of the city; but tell us sad stories and in many cases misrepresented. We do not care for the inhabitants of Peterborough, so long as they get their pay. And what do they tell you. They only compare you with the meanest and most disgraceful people and places; and you listen to them because you think they are doing the work of God. You have here in the city comparisons, if you would only follow them. I have been told by many parties that the T.A.S. is only for Catholics. If so, why should not the Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists and the others make one for themselves, if they do not want to join the T.A.S. Why should you not be able to reform men from drinking, as they have done. If out of the same number of men you could get as many members, you would be able to bring three-quarters of the city to join you, and then there would not be any necessity for so many hotels. And if there were no patrons to patronize them, they would have to close, and there would only be those that were absolutely necessary for the travelling public. Some canvassers are trying to induce people to vote for local option by saying that the Catholics are in favor of the hotels because the hotel-keepers are Catholics, and therefore they are supporting them. If any one tells you anything like this, tell them, it is not the truth. Out of 23 men who are in the liquor business here, there are only eight Catholics; and even if they should have been all Catholics, they would not be in favor of the hotels, if they did not think they were harmless. If you would only do as the T.A.S., and not visit the hotels when you want a drink.

Now, let us see the other side of the story. If local option should pass. What benefit would we get from it? We have been shown and told only one side of the story. They will all acknowledge that by passing local option they only succeed in limiting to a certain extent the drunkenness. They have not told you that by closing the open bars, the number of which at the present time is 19, that there will likely be 119 private bars, where young men and boys will be tempted to have a bottle on the quiet. You are not told how poor women and girls are forced by hard times, at first to try to sell liquor on the sly, and later to lead immoral lives. You do not find women and girls serving liquor in the open bar. I was informed that at a short distance from Peterborough, where local option is in force, that a mother and two daughters, who made an honest living by washing before local option carried, now have a quiet business for themselves by selling liquor and leading immoral lives. They have not told you that where men were in the habit of going to the bar and taking one drink before, after the bars are closed they have bottles and barrels in their homes, and instead of taking one drink, are drinking so long as they can stand on their legs. The wife and children see it at first with contempt, and then when they are getting used to it, the wife starts to steal it from the husband, and the children, seeing that the mother is taking it on the sly, begin also to steal a bottle. Is this saving the children? It is bringing them not only to drunkenness, but to theft. They have not told you what Recorder Weldon, of Portland, said. It reads this way: "There are at least 400 men and women who are brought before this court time and again for intoxication." Think of it, 400 inhabitants of a city from which the liquor traffic is supposed to have been banished years ago. During the four years up to January 1st, 1907, in Portland liquors were sold on 75 streets and alleys at 445 different places and 832 different persons were brought into court for violation of the liquor law." They have not told you that the whole state of Alabama after having an experience with local option for some years, only last week voted on the local option bill again and defeated it with 15,000 of a majority. Why? Because they were disgusted with the conditions of local option. Because they have found out there is more immorality and drunkenness when the bars were closed than when they are under the supervision of the authorities. Neither have they told you that in many local option towns, out of dozens of honest citizens, they have made law-breakers and perjurers who are filling the prisons by selling illegal liquor. Why should you lead these people to such a temptation? You claim you want to save the poor and relieve distress, and here you are trying to tempt them to break the law, and at a time when you have absolute proof that if you should originate another T.A.S., which has proven such a success, you would also succeed.

Now, I want every reader of this letter to consider those two ways. You must come to the conclusion that by going the proper way about it, as the T.A.S. are doing, it is a crime for us to bring local option in Peterborough. I have seen in this morning's paper, in their literature, what the Catholic authorities are saying about the drinking question. If you just compare them with mine, you will find that they are expressing the same opinion as I do. That they are all against drinking, but not against the hotels. But to educate and induce the people to leave drinking altogether.

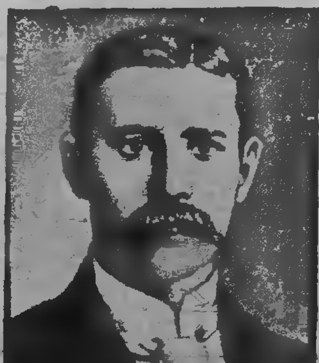
Recommended As An Ideal Remedy



W. S. BOND, Esq.

Lloydtown, Ont., March 19th, 1909.

"For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, brought on by stomach disorders, constipation and biliousness. I had tried many remedies with only indifferent success, until "Fruit-a-tives" came to my notice. Being a general storekeeper, I was selling a good many "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers and, remarking how pleased they were with the results obtained from using "Fruit-a-tives," I decided to try them and, I might say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and to-day I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers as 'An ideal remedy.'

"I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or lift one foot over the other. A good treatment of "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of these pains and banished the Sciatica and Lumbago so that to-day I am as well as ever and can lift anything necessary."

GOLF

PORT HOPE'S NEW GROUNDS.

Port Hope, Dec. 3.—A provincial charter has been granted by the Ontario Government to the Port Hope Golf and Country Club. The club has already made considerable headway on the improvements on the Monkey Mountain property. The ground is being prepared; the club house is to be removed, enlarged, and rebuilt on the property. Pine street will be improved by having a culvert placed for the stream, and the ravine filled from the crest of the hill. This is improvement, not only in the interests of the club, but also the properties to be reached by Pine street north. Pine street should be improved north to the limits of the town, and this would open up property unequalled in Canada for summer or all the year around residences.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."

Sale of Work at Dr. Barnardo's Home on Thursday Dec. 9th

For some months past the girls residing at the "Margaret Cox Home," and many of those placed out in situations in various parts of Ontario, have been busy in their spare time with their needles, hoping that the dainty tray-cloths, centre-pieces, cushions, tea-cosies and many attractive novelties their hands have fashioned, will when sold bring in a sufficient sum to buy the new organ for their Assembly Hall which has been talked of for many years. The girls greatly enjoy the singing at their daily services and on Sunday, but of late this has had to be without an instrument. His Worship the Mayor has kindly consented to perform the opening ceremony and all friends who can spare the time to come up will be very welcome. The sale will take place in the Assembly Hall wing lately added to the building by the Honorable George A. Cox. From 5 p.m. to 10 p.m.

THE "QUEEN'S" BANQUET

It was rather a pity that Prof. Lyde's magnificent study of past and present conditions in Canada and of the duty of Canadians to themselves and the empire in future, was not delivered before a large general audience instead of being confined to those of the "Queen's" persuasion. We have done our best to convey his words and meaning in another column.

When Prof. Laird made the fitting acknowledgment of the timely and generous help of Toronto and McGill graduates and sympathizers to the cause higher education at Queen's we were reminded that the usual toast of "Our Sister Universities" had been omitted from the programme. The success of the occasion and the splendid spirit of mature and refined Canadianism shown by the representatives of Queen's last night ought to do much for the cause of education everywhere and especially at the Kingston institution.

A TOP LINER MUSICAL PLAY

"The Smart Set" With S.H. Dudley the Celebrated Colored Comedian and a Brilliant Cast and a Big Chorus

A new three act musical comedy, "His Honor the Barber," presented by the "Smart Set," one of the most popular and withal expensive colored shows on the circuit, is underlined as the next attraction at the Grand Opera House, next Thursday, Dec. 9th. At the head of the production is S. H. Dudley, a comedian of recognized scope and ability. Mr. Dudley will be seen as Raspberry Snow, a soldier of fortune who aspires to shave the President of the United States. The action is carried through seven scenes with the locale in the South. The first scene shows the Wellington White Race Horse Farm, Alexandria, Va.; the next the turnpike road, and the third the White House, Washington, D. C. The second act represents the Bayou of Mississippi and in the final act there is an excellent reproduction of the interior of the club house and the Pimlico Race Track.

In point of novelties, features and original song hits, electrical and mechanical effects the offering can compare favorably with any Broadway production. The methods employed in evoking wholesome laughter are not on the familiar lines that one is accustomed to, especially in plays of its kind. On the other hand there is a direct departure and the fun is incessant and spontaneous throughout. Mr. Dudley has plenty to do and does all that he is called on to do uncommonly well.

The action is spirited, the music infectious and the comedy of the excruciating kind and of the better sort. There is not a stale joke or situation in the attraction which should argue well for its enduring success. The supporting company is composed of sixty people, including one of the best dancing and singing choruses in America. The entire production is under the direction of Messrs. Barton and Wiswell, the well-known New York managers.

TO BUILD A RESIDENCE FOR OFFICERS

It is the intention of the Peterborough corps of the Salvation Army to erect a residence for the officer in charge of the work here. A TRIP WITH CAPT. BERNIER TO THE FROZEN NORTHLAND

Large Crowd Boarded Northbound "Arctic" Last Night and Went for Voyage to the Country of Snow and Ice—The Captain Proved an Interesting and Cheerful Host—The Guests Delighted With the Fascinating Trip.

One of Canada's most talked of citizens and her most distinguished and resourceful Arctic explorer, Captain Bernier, told a large and greatly interested audience at the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall last night a story of unusual appeal. To hear the personal experiences of such a far-famed traveller of the north is a distinct privilege, especially in view of the fact that Capt. Bernier with his staunch little "Arctic" came the nearest to the magnetic North Pole of any explorers of history with the exeetpion of Cook and Peary. And when he saw the shining waters of the north west passage—the passage that had been sought for for three hundred years—he was confident that he could have claimed "the top of the wrold" for Canada and the British Empire—but he had his orders and to the sailor his orders are as respected as the officer's commands are by the soldier.

Capt. Bernier has accomplished more in the white north than the average citizen, and in fact in many cases the specially interested citizen, has knowledge of. Newspaper reports and despatches comprehensive as some of them are, fail to convey the full details of the captain's magnificent work and about the only way, or at any rate, one of the very best ways to get a proper idea of what he has done is to go with him on his trip to the frozen north.

That's what the audience at the Collegiate auditorium did last night. Of course they didn't make the actual voyage but they were on the long trip in sentiment and next to a real passage on the "Arctic" this is the most interesting and realistic passage to take. And Captain Bernier by reason of his long years of conscientious exploration of that comparatively little known north is the best equipped of skippers that one could wish for. He tells you the name of every channel, island or peninsula of importance and calls your attention to any significance they have or anything of historical value or interest connected with them; he also introduces you, in a general sense, to the peculiar residents of the vast country of ice and snow—the Esquimalt, and tells you of their characteristics and habits of life and of what conscientious missionaries are doing for them; he tells you of the seal fishing, the hunting of four-footed and winged game and describes countless other things of great and incidental importance and interest.

The skipper always keeps his guests in good spirits, too. He has a rare fund of humor and even under the most trying circumstances looks at the bright side of things and his optimist is justified, too, for doesn't he enjoy the best of health and don't he and his crew and all aboard return home thoroughly gratified with the success of the perilous but strangely attractive voyage after having established the ownership of the islands to the north for Canada and the British Empire.

At the opening of the preliminary procedure in connection with last night's lecture on "A Trip to the Frozen North," Rev. Dr. Marsh, president of the local centre of the Royal Astronomical Society, spoke of his great respect for the celebrated explorer and of his personal acquaintance with him. The captain was a man for whom he had the sincerest admiration.

An address of welcome was read by Mayor Rush and some eulogistic remarks with reference to Capt. Bernier were made by Mr. J. R. Stratton, the chairman.

Capt. Bernier was most cordially welcomed by the audience and during his address there were several outbursts of applause and the audience by its laughter also showed its appreciation of the speaker's droll remarks.

The captain dealt with all his different trips to the north and the lecture was illustrated by remarkably fine slides, which gave realistic views of the northland and embraced a wide range of life and conditions there in various phases.

The value of the resources of the north is not comprehended to the extent it should be and Capt. Bernier said the country offered more possibilities in this regard than was generally known, especially in fishing the field is a great one. The rivers are alive with one of the finest kinds of fish that swims—the salmon trout. All the tributaries of the Hudson are fairly teeming with them, and when better means of reaching the territory is established a highly profitable fishing grounds will be found there. To the hunter the north also offers a large and profitable field.

The Esquimault, the lecturer stated, were an excellent race in their simple way and possessed considerable native intelligence. It was the duty of the white man to Christianize and educate them and show them the way and advantages of civilization.

On motion of Mr. D. Hughes Charles and Rev. Dr. Marsh a hearty vote of thanks was given the speaker.

WARDEN SCOTT'S SERVICES APPRECIATED BY COUNTY COUNCIL

An Address Read and Presented to Retiring Official this Morning's Session. All Business Concluded and Council Adjourned.

During the session of the County Council this morning an address, in which was expressed the appreciation of the members of the services rendered by Warden Scott, who is retiring from municipal life, was read to him by Reeve Moher. The address was as follows;—

Peterborough, Dec. 4, 1909.
Mr. R. N. Scott, Warden of Peterborough County, and Reeve of Smith:

Dear Sir,—To-day marks the close of the last session of the County Council of Peterborough for 1909. Only a few days will elapse before you will retire from your honored position of Warden of the County; and as you have announced, from the arena of municipal politics. It is with regret that we view these things and with pleasure that we review the work of the past year. Under your leadership harmony has prevailed in the Council. We desire to place on record our appreciation of the unfailing courtesy with which you have treated each one of us during the year, and of the painstaking manner in which you have looked after the work entrusted to your care.

You have rendered the county excellent service during the past year, and also during the other years in which you have been a member of the County Council. We can assure you, sir, that the good work you have done while a member of the municipal council of the township of Smith and on the County Council of Peterborough is appreciated by all ratepayers, who so often have placed their trust in you.

We trust that you will be long spared to enjoy the best in the land, and hope that in the near future we may see you occupying higher offices than those you have so ably filled in the past.

Signed on behalf of the County Council of Peterborough.
Charles Coben, John Brown, William Hales, W. H. Comstock, A. Breault, Frank Moher, Robert Shaw, Wm. Tucker, A. J. Kidd, Michael Perdue, Chris. J. Larling, W. H. Stewart, Jas. Knox, Jas. W. Russell, Thos. H. Graham.

In reply, the Warden thanked the Council for their kind words towards him. He had always put forth his best efforts in the world before him, and he had been ably assisted by the members of the council, and would look back with pleasure to his associations with them.

After several other items of business had been dealt with, the Council adjourned, on motion of Reeve Moher.

Scene from "The Smart Set" in the musical comedy "His Honor the Barber," headed by S. H. Dudley, at "The Grand" next Thursday, Dec. 9. Plan opens Tuesday morning.

MAY BE THE INDIAN MEDICINE MAN WHO WAS HERE SEVERAL MONTHS

Is "Doctor" Whitecloud "Doctor" Blackcloud?

"Dr." Whitecloud is under arrest at Sudbury charged with killing a boy. The doctor is an Indian medicine man and was performing in a public hall at Sudbury on Wednesday night. He claims that he was disturbed by a number of small boys outside. Going to the door with his rifle he fired at one of them. The boy was seriously injured and has since died.

Dr. Blackcloud, an Indain medicine man, plied his trade several months in Peterborough, leaving here last spring. It is probable that he is the man under arrest at Sudbury.

WIDELY KNOWN EVANGELIST COMING TO PETERBOROUGH

One of the best evangelists who have ever visited Peterborough will open a mission in the Park street Baptist church on Sunday, January 2nd, to the 14th. Gipsy Hawkins comes to Canada highly recommended by such men as Rev. Evan Jones, president of the National Council of Evangelical Free Churches of England."

Mr. Jones says of Mr. Hawkins;—"He stands in the front rank of evangelists, who are being used of God in the work of evangelization among all classes, and is dearly loved by all."

Peter Will, the secretary of the Dundee United Evangelistic Association, says: "His preaching is thoroughly evangelical. He states the truth intelligently, faithfully, earnestly."

Rev. James Douglas, pastor of the Kensar Baptist church, of which Gipsy Hawkins is a member, says: — "His piety and consecration of spirit has been marked features in his character and his gift as a speaker impressed me greatly when he was but a lad."

Rev. John Wilson, pastor of the Woolwich Tabernacle, and ex-president of Baptist Union, says:—"He is well known to all the leaders of the Christian church in this country. He is in the front rank as an evangelist."

Allan Stewart, of Glasgow, himself a prominent worker for souls, says:—"Gipsy Hawkins possesses the three great qualities of Grace, Grit and Gumption, and any church may well be glad to have the opportunity of securing his help."

Mr. J. A. Smith, Director of Gordon Evangelistic Mission, of Aberdeen, says: "His Life Story is full of interesting incidents, the telling of which keeps the largest audience spellbound. To many of us the story he tells is not second to that of his brother Gipsy —Gipsy Smith."

Gipsy Hawkins will tell his life story the last night of the mission, entitled "From Gipsy Boy to Pulpit."

Norman MacPherson, minister of the Trinity United Free Church, Charlotte street, Glasgow, says of him, "Mr. John Hawkins is well known to me as an evangelist of great spiritual power. He knows his Bible thoroughly, believes it fully, preaches it freshly and faithfully and lives it consistently. He knows men and shows great tact in dealing with their spiritual condition."

Rev. Geo. H. Morrison, minister of Wellington Church, Glasgow, says: "There is no trace of cheap sensationalism in Gipsy Hawkins' methods, and yet he reached many of whom we had almost despaired. His character corresponds with his calling and profession."

These and many other kind things have been said about Gipsy Hawkins. The meetings are open to all, and all who attend this mission will undoubtedly be blessed.

REMARKABLE GROWTH OF THE SALVATION ARMY IN THIS CITY

Sunday School and Band Have Quadrupled Their Membership During the Past Eleven Years—Great Change Has Been Effected at the Temple on Simcoe Street—Dedication Services This Evening—Those in Charge of the Work.

Eleven years ago the Sunday school of the Salvation Army in Peterborough had a membership of forty or fifty, and the band consisted of ten musicians. To-day the Sunday school has over two hundred on its roll and the band, now one of the finest in the Army in Canada, has in the vicinity of forty talented musicians.

A pretty good record of growth one has to acknowledge.

To-night will witness the re-opening of the Salvation Army headquarters on Simcoe street—the Salvation Army Temple it will henceforth be called, for the old title of Salvation Army Barracks is to be left behind.

During the past two or three months carpenters, plumbers, furnace men and painters have been at work at the Temple. Their work is now finished and the time for the dedication services has come. Many alterations and improvements have been made, the primary object being to provide more room for this growing religious organization in this growing city. It was the rapid expansion of the Sunday school and the band that made it imperative to improve the quarters. In the past the residence of the officers at the head of the local corps has been located at the front of the building. These rooms have been removed, and in the future the officers will have another dwelling. The removal of the living quarters has made it possible to make many changes in the premises, and these have been effected. Probably the greatest alteration has been made in the basement, which will henceforth be given over almost entirely to the Sunday school, which now has over two hundred members. It is ninety feet in length, and fifty-five feet wide. Fifteen class rooms have been fitted up, and in the centre is a large auditorium capable of seating three hundred persons. In the basement there is also a library room, two furnace rooms and two lavatories.

Ample provision has also been made for the band. The bandsmen will have quarters of their own at the rear of the main auditorium upstairs. It has a separate entrance from the outside at the east of the building. At the west side of the platform at the rear of the main auditorium are the officers' rooms, which will also be used for holding business meetings, etc. The main hall will seat eight hundred people. New metallic ceilings have been put in the basement and the upstairs, giving both a handsome appearance. A new furnace has also been installed and the old one has been retained, so that two furnaces are now used for heating purposes. The building has been entirely repainted and many improvements made in addition to those mentioned. The platform has been rebuilt and made modern in every respect. A big change has also been made at the front of the building. The high steps have been done away with and the entrance constructed upon the most approved plans.

Mr. S. A. True had the contract for the carpentry work, Mr. J. J. Shadgett had charge of the painting and decorating, and the metallic ceiling was done by Adam Hall & Son, who also installed the new furnace. The electric lighting was done by Alexander & Miller, and the stone, brick and cement work was done by Mr. A. Heywood. All the contractors have done their work in a most satisfactory manner.

The architect was Ensign Stitt, of Toronto.

DEDICATION SERVICES

The dedicatory service of the Temple will take place this evening, starting at eight o'clock. Among the officers of the Army here for the event are: Lieut.-Col. Gaskin, Toronto, field secretary for Canada and Newfoundland; Brigadier Hargraves, divisional officer for Eastern Ontario and Quebec; S. A. Church, editor of the "Young Soldier," the Salvation Army Sunday School paper. The chair will be occupied to-night by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., and other prominent citizens will be present and deliver short addresses. There will be an admission fee of ten cents.

The services on Sunday will be as follows;

7 a.m.—Knee drill.
9.30 a.m.—Bible Class.
11 a.m.—Public meeting.
2 p.m.—Sunday School.
3 p.m.—Public meeting, with Mayor Rush in the chair.
7 p.m.—Public meeting, at which Col. Gaskin and Brigadier Hargraves will speak.

The band will be in attendance at all the meetings.

On Monday night a monster banquet will be held in the basement from five to eight o'clock. Complete arrangements have been made for this event. After the banquet a musical festival will be held in the main hall. The band will render a choice programme under the new leader, Bandmaster Peryer.

ABOUT THE ARMY HERE.

The Salvation Army was established in Peterborough twenty-seven years ago. Mr. Mark Spenceley and Mr. Henry Bacon were among the earliest converts and they are active in the cause to-day. Mr. Spenceley is an honorary member of the band and Mr. Bacon is treasurer of the corps. Captain Smith was the first officer of the Army in Peterborough and some of the others who have been in charge of the work here are; Staff Captain Boulton (now a colonel in the United States), Staff Captain Beatty, Capt. Pople, Capt. Gale, Capt. Steele, Capt. Alward, Capt. Coombs, Capt. Wiseman, Capt. McDonald, Captain Gibbs, Adjutant Wiggins, Staff Capt. The treasurer of the corps at the present time is Henry C. Bacon, the secretary is Henry Pearson and Mr. Whiffin is the sergeant-major.

The officers of the band are as follows;

Leader—Bandmaster Peryer.
Deputy—Deputy-Bandmaster Ford.
Sergeant—J. Thomas.

LEAGUE OF MERCY

This organization does splendid work in visiting the gaol and charitable institutions, looking after the sick, helping them with their work, assisting the poor, etc. Mrs. Lang is the leader of the League of Mercy and among her assistants are Mrs. C. S. Green, Mrs. R. C. Braund, Mrs. Jas. Richardson, Mrs. J. French, Mrs. A. E. Moynes, Mrs. H. English, Mrs. J. Boorman, Mrs. G. Blondon and Mrs. Walton.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Sunday School is one of the most important branches of the Army. It has a capable superintendent in Mr. R. C. Braund. The secretary is Miss Lucy Moynes and the treasurer Miss Ethel Payton. Other officers are as follows;

Record-sergeants — Harold Slighte, Herbert Leader, Stanley Richardson, Victor Boorman and Willie Trotter.

Teachers—Mrs. J. T. Braund, Mrs. R. Routly, Mrs. J. Meeks, Miss Ethel Card, Mr. S. A. True, Mrs. R. C. Braund, Mr. Henry Hedge, Mrs H. Hedge, Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. J. J. Shadgett, Miss Maud Naish, Miss Cecelia Simpson, Miss Pearl Payton, Miss Florence Whiffin, Miss Grace Whiffin, Mrs. R. A. Payne, Miss Millie Bacon, Mrs. C. S. Green and Mrs. T. Lang.

The membership of the Peterborough S. A. corps is about two hundred and the Sunday school two hundred. The congregation runs from four to five hundred.

The Army needs about a thousand dollars to complete the payments on the work done and another thousand will be required to put new seats in the main auditorium. This makes a rather large total but the members of the corps are optimistic and cheerily face the task of raising the amount. There is no doubt but that the citizens of Peterborough, irrespective of denomination, will assist them generously in the good work they are doing.

TWO NOTABLE SPEECHES BY PROMINENT PROFESSORS OF QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY

A Careful Study of Conditions in Canada—Racial and Religious Prejudices Should Be Subordinated to the General Good—A United Canada and a United Empire—"Sister Universities" Not on the Toast List.

An intensely interested audience of ladies and gentlemen listened to two "studies of Canada and the cause of higher education" last night at the banquet held by "Queen's men" at the Hotel National. Mr. Richard Lees was in the chair, and upon his right were Rev. Dr. Dyde, Mr. Hugh Waddell and Rev. J. G. Potter, and upon his left Ald. Gillespie, president of the Board of Trade; Rev. Prof. Laird, and Rev. Mr. Burns, (Lakefield.) At the close of an elaborate menu the chairman announced the purpose of the gathering, which was that of re-forming the local association of Queen's graduates, and to establish a centre of educational interest in Peterborough for "Queen's men," and for those more particularly interested in the work of that rapidly-developing and progressive university. After duly honouring "The King," the chairman called upon Rev. Mr. Burns to propose the toast of "Canada." Rev. Prof. Dyde, upon rising to respond, was greeted with prolonged applause. He was pleased to see some of the "Queen's men and Queen's women" of this city and district. It was desirable that no part of that broad domain should be without its local centre of activity in the interest of the Kingston University. He proposed to give a general retrospective and prospective view of Canada, in which he felt an especial interest, in view of the fact that he was a boy before "Canada" was born. He recalled the familiar figures upon the streets of his native Ottawa of Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. Edward Blake, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, Sir Charles Tupper and others of the great men who laid the foundation of a federated Canada. They loomed up larger and larger as he looked back at them now. He paid a tribute of great praise to Hon. Thos. D'Arcy McGee, who, the speaker said, was shot by a bigot of his own religious persuasion, because of his large-minded and broad, sincere spirit of toleration and common nationality. "And it is only in this spirit that Canada can proceed happily upon her way," exclaimed Dr. Dyde with emphasis. "Religious and racial bitterness and prejudices must be made minor to the desire for a common nationality, a common spirit of true Canadianism devoid of racial narrowness and religious unrest. We must not be French or Irish or Scotch or English or anything but Canadian, or else how can we be what we are striving so hard to be—a united Canada within a united empire. It is our destiny, and we must fulfil it."

"Canada is no longer a mere colony but a self-governing member of the empire, and especially at this time should those who love Canada be alive to the fact that Canada is either to continue as a colony or as a self-governing unit of the empire. Nobody talks nowadays of annexation. That form of aberration has passed away. Some, especially of the young men, had looked forward to 'independence,' but that ideal, too, may be said to have disappeared. Our destiny is to grow stronger and stronger within the empire. We must be prepared to accept larger responsibilities as we grow to be a nation. We are being told to think nationally, imperially and humanly. Let our motto be 'A United Canada, in a united empire for a united human race.' Canada, however, is not yet united, but we are improving—I think—and hope." said the speaker, with dramatic simplicity and hesitation. "Let the name Canadian mean but one sort of man. Canadians must keep their religious and linguistic differences subordinate.

Thos. D'Arcy McGee said: "This theory of race is something carried to excess. God has made of one blood all nations who dwell on the face of the earth."

"Public opinion," said the speaker, must be maintained powerful and upright. There is no room in this country for rival nationalities. Sir John A. Macdonald foresaw the dangers of the future and begged for a united Canada.

"Let Canadians 'chip-in' and do their part, and not leave upon the shoulders of the British workman the whole duty and burden of fitting out a fleet for the protection of the empire. As Joseph Howe said, quoting the ancient fable, "Is the pelican to shed her blood for her offspring, who when they outgrow her care, will fly away? Dr. Dyde was especially earnest and impressive when he placed vividly before his audience the history of Britain's sacrifices for Canada. "She has spent much in blood and treasure for us, to bring us on and to help us find our feet and to get our wings. Shall we now refuse to help her? Are we to extend our wings and fly away? " Every nation should live for mankind and not for itself. This is the larger patriotism. We must think "humanly." "What is it that makes nations great? Not material resources. It was not their material possessions that made Greece and Judaea great. It was their reserve-power, their self-restraint. It is that desire to understate rather than to overstate that has made Britain great. It is the power of being great minded, not shrinking from ideals and large ideas, achieving with all humility and a consciousness of a great responsibility to God that is the true white man's burden. Canadians must not be narrow nor parochial. They have much, very much, to learn. The individual must look to himself. Every Britisher is a small edition of all when united. Canada cannot rise above her people. If they are great she will be great, not otherwise.

The elaborate and impressive study of the history of Canada and Canadians was brought to a conclusion after a timely and eloquent reference to the present crisis. The speaker took his seat amidst the warmest applause.

Rev. Mr. Potter, on paying a well-deserved tribute to the great speech that had just been listened to with such interest, proposed the toast of "Our University," and asked Rev. Prof. Laird to reply.

Rev. Prof. Laird said that he bore to the assemblage the greetings of Principal Gordon. "Queens is doing well," said the speaker. "She has nothing to complain about. All honour, however, to the men of Toronto and McGill, who put their hands deep down in their pockets and helped the cause of higher education in helping Queen's when she needed it."

The speaker referred to the place Queen's held, in that she stood especially for freedom of thought and freedom of idea. She has progressed materially to a gratifying degree also. Where ten years ago there were 7 buildings at Queen's, now there are fifteen. The staff of professors and teachers has progressed in like proportion. The students numbered 600 ten years ago. To-day they number 1,500. Queen's has increased by 125 per cent. in one decade. Arts is the central point of Queen's work and life, and it is in this department that the increase has been greatest. He reminded his audience that although Queen's had a big revenue she was sorely in need of increased endowment.

In Dr. Watson, lately appointed to give the Gifford course of lectures, Queen's had one of the few great metaphysicians of the world, and the third on this continent ever to receive the honour referred to. "Queen's is above all things loyal to freedom and truth."

Mr. Horford proposed, and Mr. Lownie replied to the toast of "The Ladies."

Although the hour was late the chairman called the "Queen's men and sympathisers" together for a business meeting, and to re-form the old Association.

Carrie Nation wants to lecture in Fort William, but is not wanted.

PURITY FLOUR

And Its Keeping Qualities

SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.

There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that the careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage. That's "Purity."

"Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.

HUXLEY'S DEFENCE OF PROFESSOR DARWIN

The world has changed much in the fifty years that have elapsed since the publication of the "Origin of Species," and few now recall, as those who read it in those days can do, the immense sensation which it produced. Its effect in the field of humanistic learning, in history, end in the historical sciences generally has, I venture to think, been exaggerated. The idea of what are commonly called evolutionary processes was in those sciences no new idea; and though they, like every branch of study, was being affected by the progress of the science of nature, they had already for a long time before 1859 been pursued in a critical spirit and by critical and exact methods of investigation. But in all the branches of natural history and biology the effect was tremendous. Everybody who read anything serious read the "Origin"; everybody talked about natural selection. I was at the time an undergraduate at Oxford, and well remember how at breakfast-parties and wine-parties and on country walks we discussed the theory with the greatest ardor, and indeed with a positiveness that was often in inverse ratio to our knowledge. It was the same all over England. There was a good deal of alarm created by the book, especially in religions circles. The minds of thinking people had of course been long occupied by what used to be called "the conflict between Geology and Religion," so that the bearings of the new doctrine on the account of the Creation given in the Book of Genesis did not find them unprepared. Nevertheless, the shock on the ecclesiastical world at large was severe, and much of the debate that followed at scientific gatherings as well as in the press was hot, too hot for courtesy or for fairness. The most striking and dramatic combat between an ecclesiastic and a naturalist occurred at the Oxford meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in 1860. Dr. Samuel Wiberforce, then Bishop of Oxford, having been well primed with facts and arguments against the doctrine of Natural Science and Darwin's theory generally, came down to the battle. He was a man of remarkable oratorical powers, with a swift and flexible mind, witty as well as acute and persuasvie. He attacked Darwin's views with even more than his usual rhetorical skill, ridiculing them and their author, and specially ridiculing Professor Huxley, whose ardent championship of the Darwininian views was then raising him into fame. Turning to Huxley at the end of his speech, the Bishop asked whether it was on his grandfather's or his grandmother's side that the professor was descended from an ape. A burst of laughter and applause from his friends followed. Then Huxley rose to reply. After setting forth with all his energy and of course with ample knowledge the serious part of his argument, he observed that the Bishop had quizzed him on his supposed descent from an ape. For his own part, if he were obliged to choose between having for his ancestor an ape, or having for ancestor a man who enjoying a high position and a great reputation, possessing brilliant rhetorical gifts and a fund of sarcastic wit, were to use that position and those powers for the purpose of obstructing the investigation of truth, and pouring ridicule upon those who were patiently trying to discover it, "then, indeed," he proceeded, "if I were obliged to make that choice, I would—" At this he raised his voice and added. "But perhaps I had better go no further."—Ambassador Bryce in Harper's Magazine for December.

WRAP YOUR GIFTS DAINTILY

Make Your Gifts Attractive—Use Holly Cards, Tags and Seals

A large amount of pleasure in receiving a Christmas gift lies in the manner in which the gift is wrapped. If the parcel is daintily tied up, decorated with pretty holly seals and has a pretty card enclosed conveying the best wishes of the donor, the anticipation is sure to be greater than if the parcel is roughly tied in a careless manner, in perhaps, used wrappings.

So if you would have your gifts appreciated to the highest extent, see that they are wrapped up as nicely as possible. First you will need to supply yourself with some clear white paper; than you need some fancy cards, either small or large, in keeping with the gift; then some fancy tags for the outside and these may be had in two or three sizes and designs. After the parcel is tied up, a Christmas stamp may be put in one corner, and the openings sealed with holly seals, of which there are several designs.

If you do this your parcel will look very much nicer and the recipient of it is sure to enjoy receiving it much more. All these materials may be bought at the Review Office, and really are not expensive. Call and secure some of them before the supply is disposed of.

IMPROVEMENTS TO CANAL AT FENELON FALLS

The gradually increasing traffic on Colborne street, and the gradually increasing number of lockages through the canal, have combined to cause trouble at the canal bridge. While vessels are being locked through the upper lock, it has hitherto been necessary to keep the bridge swung, because it is about half way between the upper and middle set of gates, and there is not room for a vessel on either side. The consequence is that the street is blocked every time there is a lockage for the whole length of time it takes to put the vessel out of the way. This has caused a good deal of annoyance during the busy season in the summer, and everybody will be pleased at the prospect of a change in the arrangement of the locks that will put a stop to the blockade of traffic. We understand that it has been decided to raise the lower walls of the locks to the same height as the upper walls, ankd make the lower gates proportionately higher, making in effect one lock, which will be long enough to accommodate any vessel. The bridge will then have to remain swung only as long as it takes a boat to pass.

It is also practically settled that a wharf will be built at the upper end of the locks, where it is much needed, Other improvements will also be made, among them being the straightening and widening of the upper part of the canal.

Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal, was at the Falls on Friday, and was present at a joint meeting of the council and the Board of Trade, when these matters were talked over. At this meeting resolutions were unanimously passed expressing gratification at the manner in which work on the canal in this vicinity has been conducted.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

A CORDIAL TRIBUTE IS PAID TO REV. ROBT. POGUE

A very comprehensive and tasteful jubilee booklet has been issued by the Presbyterian church, Stayner, as a souvenir of its recent jubilee celebration. The booklet is profusely illustrated with interesting cuts and contains a history of the church. Rev. Robert Pogue, one of the former pastors and preacher at the jubilee services which were held last Sunday.

The following eulogy of Mr. Pogue is taken from the booklet;

"Christmas Day, 1892, gave burth to the young man's era. On that day Rev. R. Pogue, now of St. Paul's church, Peterborough, preached.

A born preacher, enthusiastic in his evangelistic zeal, fresh from the college halls, he thrilled his hearers with the might of his message. [illegible] any wonder that he was urged at the close of the college in April to preach till it opened in the fall? The request made of Presbytery for leave to suspend the rule governing vacancies was most unusual, irregular in fact, but elasticity of our form of government, and the wise decision of Presbytery was fully justified by subsequent events, for the "Poguites" (as one member of the congregation called them), became so numerous that they waited till his graduation in 1895, when their call was accepted.

With great executive ability he set about the re-organization work. Three new elders, Messrs. D. McTavish, Dr. McFaul and D. G. Bell were ordained, mission envelopes were introduced, the districts re-arranged, special services held, and in January, 1896, 172 enrolled from 93 families.

LANSDOWNE LODGE S. O. E. TWENTY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

Large Number of Members and Their Friends Spent an Enjoyable Evening. Interesting Address by Past Supreme President James Boxall.

One of those appetizing and well arranged for repasts, followed by a splendid address by Mr. James Boxall, Past Supreme President, and a choice programme, marked the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, held in the hall last night, at which a large number of the members and their friends were present and spent a very enjoyable time. Shortly after seven o'clock the gathering sat down to the tables, well laden with a splendid variety of edibles, and with music rendered by Halpany's orchestra, partook of the many good things in a manner creditable to themselves and the caterers, Messrs. Coleman Bros. At the conclusion of this part of the entertainment, the health of the King was proposed and enthusiastically responded to.

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

Past Supreme President Boxall, of Lindsay, in his opening remarks referred to the great pleasure he felt in being present to meet the members of Lansdowne Lodge, in whom, next to the old Lodge, he had always taken the greatest interest, either when they enjoyed good times or the reverse. He was glad to see so many young Englishmen present, who were not members, but should be. He was also pleased to see the ladies, whom he hoped were not sufferagettes, although he believed in woman sufferage, and thought that some women suffered too much. However, he hoped that their would be no bricks thrown at him. He believed that if women had the right to vote, they would use it possibly to better advantage than some of the men in attendance. Speaking to the young men, Mr. Boxall said that everyone should belong to some fraternal society, just as well as they should belong to some Christian church, and every young man ought to make some provision for those he loves as he goes through life, and he should not marry before he has stopped to reckon up for the future. Fraternal societies have made it so easy that he can carry an insurance of one or two thousand dollars, and this will allow him to place those left behind in a position that they will not be dependent on the charity of the world. It was well for the wife to have something when the husband was taken away and laid in the cold ground. By way of illustrating the benevolence of the society, the speaker told of a case where the husband was suddenly taken away, leaving his wife and three children destitute. The executive and others interested in her welfare worked together, the result was that her position was made pleasanter. Continuing, he stated that the society was a benefit as well as a fraternal organization. More money was paid for benefits than in any other fraternal society, and the insurance rates were the cheapest. Remarking on the benefits, Mr. Boxall said that the members should look at this department from a broader standpoint and think of the good to be done towards somebody else, and not only for themselves. In the payment of claims we try to live up to the spirit of the law instead of the letter of the law. One case he cited where a member had gone behind in his dues, just before his death, but it was found that the secretary was somewhat to blame. A test case was made of it, and although judgment was given against the widow, she received the amount of the claim, less part of the cost of the action. The speaker emphasized the fact that there should be a proper spirit shown amongst the members, and while there were bound to be differences in opinion, these should be met with a proper spirit, and this would make the society more pure and stronger. In his concluding remarks he touched on politics. I believe that every man should be given a chance to use his own franchise, he said, and although not mentioning the recent election protest case in the city some time ago, he stated that had he been the judge on the bench, some of the men who are at large today would be in the penitentiary. We may all stand up and sing Rule Britannia, but until we put it into practice, it will be as but sounding brass on tinkling silver.

SATURDAY, DEC. 4, 1909.

A COMMERCIAL ANOMALY

Canadian and British fire insurance companies put up security for due performance of their duties with the Dominion Government. They submit to inspection by the Insurance Department at Ottawa. They pay taxes for all their different offices and branches. Their agents live in Canada and assist in many ways in doing their share to keep things going. On the other hand American fire companies, which do most of the Canadian business are allowed in here without any restrictions. They have no branches here, at least the ones we refer to, and are not liable to any form of inspection. They pay no taxes in any form. Ought not the same fundamental reasons for inspection of British and Canadian companies to obtain with respect to American?

AN IMPORTANT AMENDMENT.

They rarely do things by halves in the United States. When it is considered desirable to have a thing done no stop is made to discuss the question of principle or a rule of ethics, or, for that matter, anything in the nature of a precedent, in law or out of it. When the process of law becomes so uncertain and exasperating as to be a nuisance and a danger, it is ignored and a lynching takes place with all its concomitant horrors. The public becomes its own executioners. Blythe would have been strung up in the west in much less time than it took him to beat his poor wife to death. However, the incident that attracts attention just now is that the Federal Government of the United States has introduced into its new penal code a provision which enables it to interfere with state rights in so far as to permit it to restrain the shipment of alcoholic liquor into "dry" states. This is especially important with respect to sparsely-populated districts of the "dry" states. Hereafter what it is, the quantity of it, and to whom, must be recorded on the outside of the package. This does away with the import trade of blind pigs. Although the optionists got a slight set back in Alabama the other day, British Columbia and other large areas have lately decided upon the severest restrictions. Under the new U. S. amendment carriers are held liable for infractions of the law. This is the most thoroughly prohibitory law we ever heard of. It shows the tendency of the people of the United States, who seem to be determined that alcohol, as a beverage, shall "go." Apart altogether from its effect on morals, it is being repudiated as the greatest handicap known of that "efficiency" which is the one great factor in modern business.

But the most deadly enemies of all reforms are often the reformers themselves, who, on a little pressure of circumstances, avail themselves of the usual common everyday back-door methods of accomplishing their objects. When pretexts are adopted in order that the end may be allowed to justify the means, and a subterfuge is enacted through dread of exposure or some similar reason, the old feeling of reaction rises in the popular breast and the reform is "sent back" or is given a six months' hoist. It is inconceivable that men with the best intentions do not know better. All their training and culture seems to go for naught, even when they know that the effect upon the popular mind of such doings will be of the most detrimental character, for of all injuries that a good cause can receive in the house of its friends, lack of candour respecting it and its methods is the most serious.

The finest example of doing the right thing in the right way is that of yielding up and consenting to lose a present advantage rather than make use of uncandid and doubtful ways for a future gain. We all know about these things, how desirable it is that we should not do so-and-so, and that we should do so-and-so, etc., but the principle that the end justifies the means is the most vicious in the whole world. There is nothing that cannot be excused on that ground, hence the importance of being circumspect in matters comparatively unimportant is patent. Do the right thing in the right way or don't do it at all, for it is infinitely better that it should not be done at all than that circumstances likely to affect it, or leading up to it, or connected with it should be made to serve a weak purpose. If we haven't outgrown this sort of thing it is high time that we have. If the actors in such a drama of real life saw the deservedly scornful sneer of the enemies of the Cause and how such action fortifies them in their selfish purpose, they might do otherwise. At any rate it is to be hoped so.

CHEERS FOR DEAKIN

Melbourne, Aus., Dec. 3.—Mr. Deakin, continuing his speech on the naval question in the House of Representatives, where the naval loan bill passed its second reading by 25 votes to 18, said:—"We in Australia have realized probably more than European countries that among the possibilities of failure in our defence would be, not merely the loss of the old flag or our place in the Empire, but also the destruction of every social, religious and political idea which we most cherish. We must put the question as to whether we to-day are prepared to take our share in the defence of Australia, which is one of the largest, least populated, and most distant Dominions of the Empire. We not only need our fleet unit, but we need it without delay. One thing above all others, which the richest nation in the world cannot buy when it is wanted, is naval strength. Rather than take the responsibility of neglecting Australian needs, he would be beaten at the elections." (Prolonged cheers.)

This Australian despatch sets out in definite terms the determination of Australia to remain part of the united empire. Such news as this is cheering in the face of the cold neutrality of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whose advocacy of separation is the issue in Canada to-day. What a wretched part we are playing! We who have the same ideals the Australian Premier so cherishes that he would rather retire into obscurity than fail to follow and uphold them!

ART DISCOVERIES

The French Revolution drove many articles of vertu to Canada. This is admitted, but did it drive Signorelli's "Supper at Emmaus," the original production of "The Fruit Garland," of Rubens and others of equal artistic value and renown? Quebec is stirred over the discoveries in Laval of what appear to be great works of art. "The Crucifixion" of Poussin was found in the cellars of the palace of Archbishop Begin. But how did it come that a Gainsborough and a Lawrence were found there too, unless they had been owned in France and brought over? But why to Canada and not to England? Salvator's Rosa's great painting of "Christ's Call to St. Peter," who walks towards him on the water, is another. Art circles are profoundedly stirred over these "discoveries." They will draw attention to art and the taste for art in Canada.

VERY SUGGESTIVE

"Close readers of Ottawa despatches will note that while the printed documents in connection with the naval conference have been laid on the table of the House it is admitted that there was a good deal of oral discussion that does not appear; also that the Canadian representatives confined themselves to oral statements, so that it is impossible to know just what sort of an ultimatum they presented to the Admiralty authorities. In a matter of such far-reaching importance one would have imagined that our representatives would have been anxious to have recorded in black and white their every official word."—Hamilton Spectator.

It was a most unheard-of thing that "Canada's views" concerning which there had been no real discussion, should have been laid before Great Britain, not in writing but by word-of-mouth. Now we can't find out what they were. There's something decidedly off-colour about such a proceeding. If Mr. Borden has been trapped, as some suggest, into acquiescing in a "Canadian navy" then some other Joshua will have to lead us to the promised land, for Canada will insist on acting in conjunction with the Imperial fleet.

HANDS COVERED WITH ECZEMA

"For three weeks I actually had to be fed like one feeds a baby, because my hands and arms were so covered with eczema that they had to be bound up all the time."

So says Miss V. McSorley, 75 Gore Street, Sault Ste. Marie, and adds: "From finger tips to elbows the disease spread, my finger nails came off and my flesh was one raw mass. The itching and the pain were almost excruciating. I had three months of this torture and at one time amputation was discussed.

"Zam-Buk alone saved my hands and arms. I persevered with it, and to-day I am cured completely of every trace of the dreaded eczema. I fervently hope sufferers may learn of the miracle Zam-Buk has worked in my case."

Zam-Buk is without equal for eczema, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, cracked hands, cold sores, chapped places, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Canada is behind the other dominions in contributions towards the defences of the empire." * * * *
—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto News talks of French Canada as if it read nothing of the daily literature of the people of that part of Canada with their separate racial aspirations.

Premier Deakin of Australia, speaking last night on the Naval Loan Bill, said that delay was unthinkable and that he would rather be defeated on this issue than consent to its postponement. Which only goes to show that what is unthinkable in one part of the British dominions is considered as very clever politics in another.—Montreal Star.

(From Hansard.)

"Grain Exports From Montreal.

Mr. J. D. Reid:

1. What quantity of grain of all kinds was exported from Montreal each year for the past ten years ending 1908?

2. What quantity of grain of all kinds was exported from Montreal during the year 1909 up to the present time?

Hon. Wm. Paterson:

1. The quantity of grain of all kinds exported from Montreal during the fiscal years from 1899 to 1908, inclusive, was as follows:

Years	Bushels.
1899	34,313,023
1900	28,644,850
1901	32,742,243
1902	22,078,575
1903	21,960,416
1904	22,253,248
1905	14,617,221
1906	25,266,716
1907 (9 months)	19,422,524
1908	27,071,531

This table will no doubt surprise readers who fancied that exports were increasing.

THAT DOUBLE CHIN

Every woman who is fat, and especially every woman (or man) who has a hog-like double chin, will welcome this news paragraph. Your night masks and sticking-plaster strips and strokings are at an end. A method of reducing double chins (also fat abdomens and hips, shoulders, ankles and neck), that really does reduce them, has been found.

And would you believe it, it is nothing more than a simple, harmless home receipt that any druggist will fill for you, viz.: 1-2 oz. Marmola, 3-4 oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 4 3-4 oz. Peppermint Water, a teaspoonful or which after each meal and at bedtime will take off up to a pound of fat a day. Try it—it is good for the stomach—strengthens that organ—so it turns the food into energy, bones, muscle, as it should, instead of into fat, as yours is doing now after each meal. Eat what you wish; drop exercising; be lazy even; this mixture will still trim up you figure. "And it will do it evenly, too, without causing wrinkles; removing the soggy fat, such as double chins and stout abdomens are made of, first.

THE STORY OF A SOCIETY GIRL

WHEREIN BARON DE BERENZIG RETURNS AND AMAZINGLY RESUMES HIS TENDER ATTENTIONS.

TOLD TO RITA WEIMAN.

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

MRS. DOLLY'S words that I had accidentally overheard on the night of Nella's dance troubled me far less than the veiled identity of her companion. "And now you see how I have succeeded," she had said. Well, she might have succeeded in dozens of things about which I knew nothing. Likewise her answer to the man of whom I had so unsatisfactory a glimpse—"They'll never know; how should they?"—represented merely the tantalizing fragment that invariably makes the eavesdropper strain for more.

But what man among those present—tall and American—could she know well enough to admit of a conversation that implied at least some hidden understanding? She had been among us so short a time, and on her arrival all had presumably been strangers to her—more strange, in fact, than many of them were to Nella and to me—for it is remarkable how few persons one really knows among the numbers one has to entertain.

I intended at the first opportunity to frankly confess to fair Dolly the part I had played involuntarily, and I felt sure some sort of explanation would be forthcoming. I don't know just why, for while she had reorganized into a trio the duet formed of Nella and myself there had during these few months been little time for confidences and none demanded.

One afternoon a few weeks after the dance Nella swept in on me as I was dressing for a ride with Captain Peddington. It happened to be one of the days on which my schedule had not been made out for me in advance. "Take off those togs, Black Eyes," she commanded, dropping on the chaise longue; "you've got to come to tea with us."

"With us?" I queried, knotting my ascot.

"Don't ask unnecessary questions. I'm too weary to answer." She tried to stretch her arms above her head. "I'd give half a month's income if I could comfortably get down at length and enjoy forty winks, but this dress won't let me."

"You looked lively enough when you came in," I retorted.

"Entrances, my dear." Nella waved them aside. "They're a matter of habit. You know very well if I dared to come into a room looking tired to-morrow I'd be heralded as passée and after that—finis. But I am tired—so worn out that I could scream."

She picked up a mirror and gazed ruefully into it.

"Don't I look it? And I can't even bury this awful face of mine in a pillow for fear the powder will come off."

The Masked Face.

In spite of my unsympathetic laugh I knew just how she felt—hysterical, irresponsible. More than once I've flung myself on the bed at four or five in the morning and tossed restlessly for an hour or two, only to be awakened, it seemed, the moment I dropped off to sleep. Then I've had to be fairly pushed into my clothes without life to move a limb unaided. Is it a cause for wonder that so many girls and women driving or motoring wear masks of paint and powder? I call it rather the brand on the brow of two classes of present day martyrs with a common cause in life—namely, exhibition, barter, sale. Whether it's a woman of the streets or of the salon, the stain seems to be the same.

"You can guess now why I want you to come with me," Nella went on, looking up at me with an appeal that would have driven a man to his knees; "to save my life. I've promised to have tea with Billy, and if he proposes to me again to-day I sha'n't have the energy to refuse him. I'm always in a yielding mood when I'm weary. You've simply got to come and protect me."

Billy Stewart's proposals to Helena Penning were as legion as they were proverbial. If he happened to be sad he proposed to Nella to marry him and make him happy. If he felt glad he proposed to her to come and give him something to worry about. It didn't much matter whether there was an audience about or not. Nella probably found his devotion deadly monotonous, but nobody else did—it was a source of constant amusement, and the one quality for which I respected or found Billy at all interesting. Everybody looked to see him eventually win—every one, that is, but Nella and myself.

To-day I felt a great deal more like a canter with Captain Peddington than witnessing Billy's inevitable avowal, and I said so. "Where is Dolly?" I asked.

"Motoring, I believe. She's not been in to see me and I haven't caught a glimpse of her all day. Telephone Captain Peddy, there's a dear, and have him come, too."

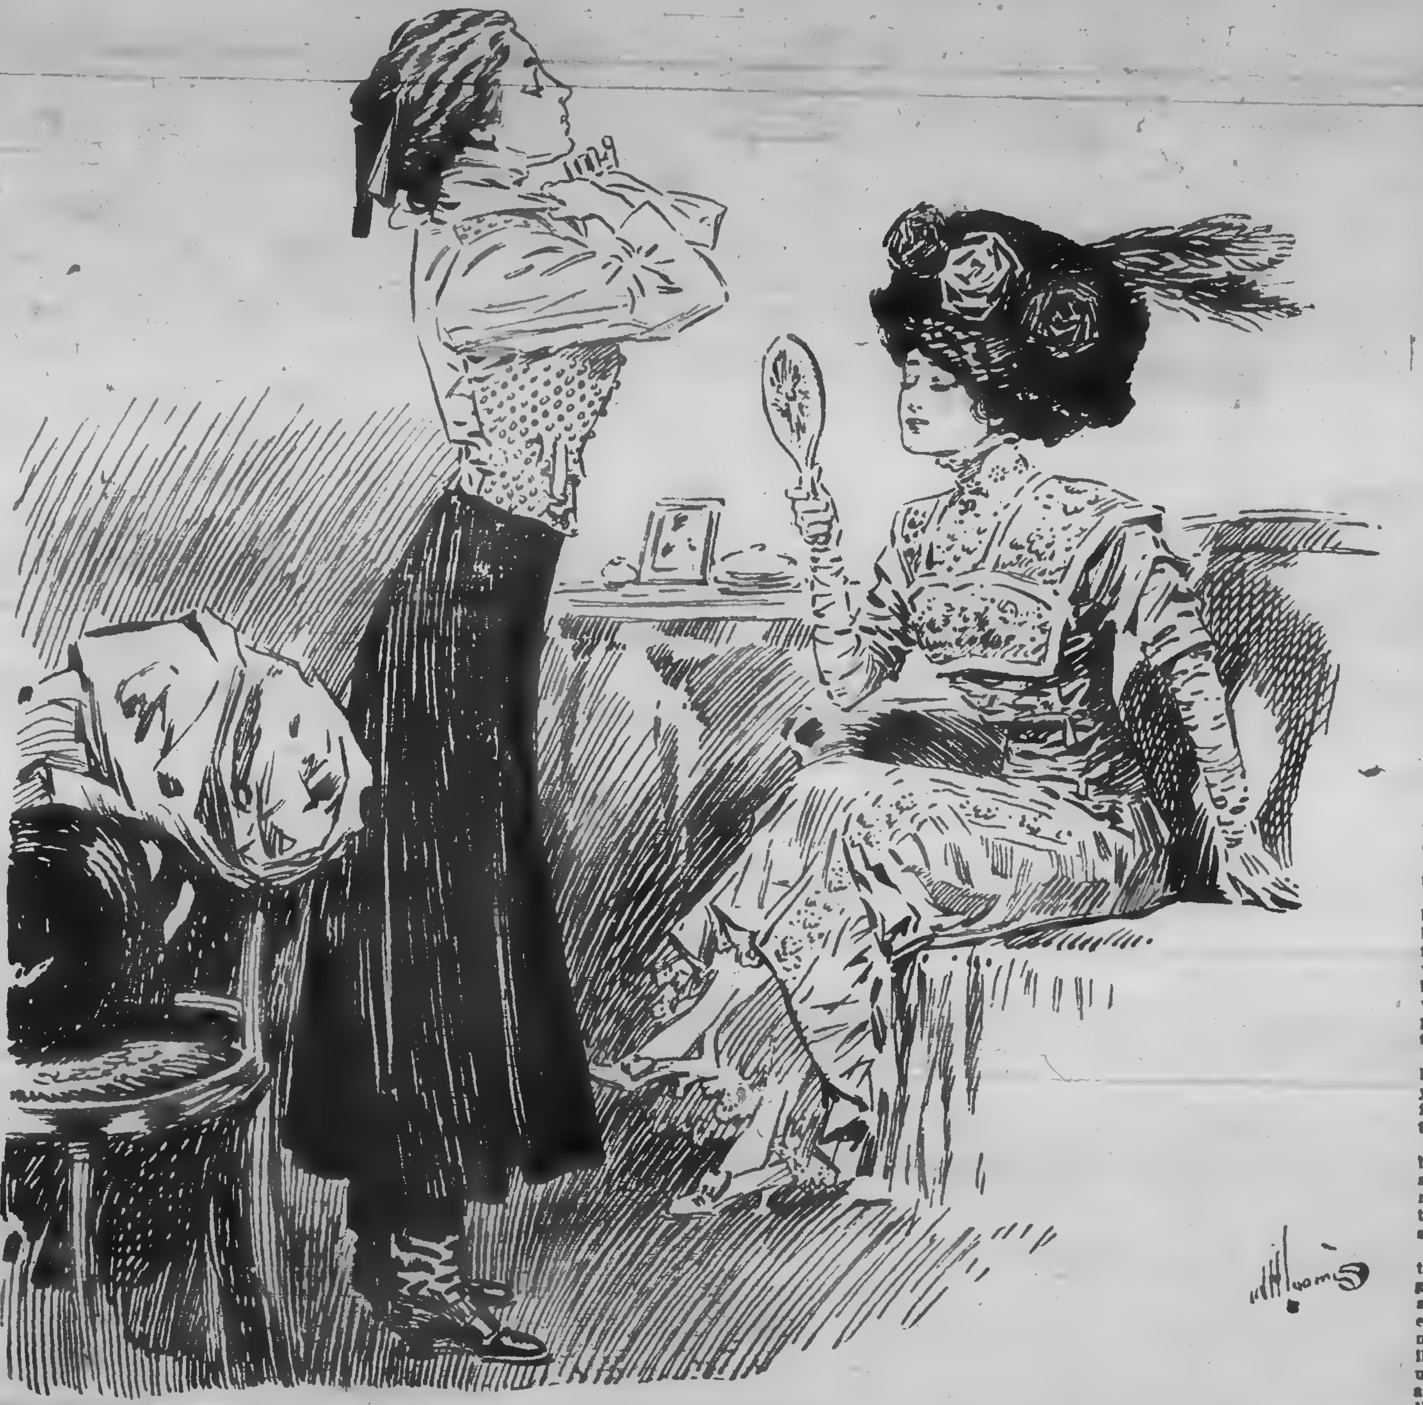
I almost think it was fear that in a rash moment Nella might be tempted to silence Billy by accepting him that drove me finally to inform Captain Peddington that it was to be tea instead of trot.

The Art of the Monocle.

However displeased he may have been, he appeared shortly after perfect in Prince Albert, boutonnière and eyeglass. He was the sort of Briton born with a glass in his eye, just as many Americans come into the world with gold spoons in their mouths, only that the Englishman seems to wear his birthright through life with far greater ease and comfort. Captain Peddington's was attached by neither cord nor string; it just stuck into his eye and stayed there with tantalizing disregard of the law of gravitation. I had seen his sister at their place in Sussex flying about the links with a glass pasted into her eye in precisely the same way; it was rather like a mark of identification extending throughout the family.

Billy, whose face was not quite so well trained as the Britisher's, looked bored and decidedly disappointed when Captain Peddington and I loomed up large on his horizon. We were, however, sweetly unconscious of the fact that we were de trop. All four of us squeezed into Billy's landaulet, which was obviously built for two, and we took a turn in the Park before dropping off at the St. Regis.

The palm room was just about half filled when we arrived, and we found a table with a beautiful view of every one coming in and going out. Evelyn Taghern-Steward sailed in, her Parisian banker still in tow, and Perry Willing, who passed us on his way to join Mrs. Hal Brakeman, stopped long enough to remark that "Taggy-Stew" had evidently found a new banker, judging by her increase in sables and chinchilla.



SHE PICKED UP A MIRROR AND GAZED RUEFULLY INTO IT.

Nella looked thoroughly disgusted and I felt it. We both took occasion to call Captain Peddington's attention to Janetta Miles, known among intimates as "Jason," because she was frankly in search of a golden fleece. She didn't look in need of one that day. Her interesting dull gold hair was surmounted by a hat all black willow plumes, and her gown of sapphire blue velvet might have graced the wardrobe of a queen. But every one knew, and Jason knew every one knew, that the house of Mme. Otillie, near Madison avenue, that looked more like a private residence than a dressmaking establishment, found Janetta Miles its best paying advertisement.

"Jason" was with Mrs. Algy Trane, a "young matron," long and lanky as a Shanghai, but who ranks in the newspapers as a beauty and fancy dancer, and is neither. They were joined presently by Everett Ringham, an old bachelor and new eligible—he had recently been on the "right side" of the street on several auspicious occasions—and his devotion to "Jason" might have indicated that her search was to be rewarded. Though Evvy was known to be unreliable.

Suddenly Nella stopped Billy in the middle of a eulogy on her appearance. "Just a minute, my dear boy," she said indifferently, "and then you can go on. "Gypsy," she leaned across the table and her eyes tried to tell me multitudes, "who do you think has just come in? Careful"——

Enter the Baron.

But I had glimpsed Baron de Berenzig at the moment he caught sight of me, and an ardent carmine that mounted straight to my head must have implied only one thing. I wished then and there that I might have had Evelyn Taghern-Steward's applied complexion to protect me, and prayed that hereafter blushing be relegated to the lost arts.

Captain Peddington leaned over me. "So that's the Ivory Jap chap!" he whispered.

"Hardly," I laughed. I rushed into banter to cover the confusion that had held me for a moment. "The man who gave me my little Jap is neither a butterfly attached to a monocle nor a good fence. If you're looking forward to a duel with him sharpen up your wits, Friend Captain, and he'll meet you on common ground."

Nella looked at me warningly, and a moment later I was permitting Baron de Berenzig to bend over my hand, quite as if his coming had caused me no emotion other than passing surprise. Though the color had not yet ebbed from my cheeks and I was choking an insane desire to ask after Mme. la Baronne, I wondered at the man's aplomb in returning to New York after his deception of the year before.

Billy invited him to join us, much to my inward discomfort and outward indifference, and he at once found a place between Captain Peddington and myself, precisely as if his had been the prior right. I could feel the stir of interest at the adjoining tables and knew that gossip was on the wing to busy itself again with our names. Nella's casual questions elicited the information that he had landed only the day before and was staying temporarily at the St. Regis; likewise that he had spent the summer abroad and had been disappointed not to meet us all in Carlsbad. He intended wintering in town, he said, with a visit to Palm Beach toward the middle of February, and at this sent me a look of inquiry that made my cheeks fly a danger flag again.

Nella must have felt my misery, for she made a move to leave long, I knew, before she wanted to be left alone to Billy's tender mercies. Billy carelessly asked the Baron to come with us—so long as he couldn't have Nella quite to himself it didn't matter how many there were in the party—and I was in dread lest his invitation be accepted. But Baron de Berenzig had to leave his card at any number of houses, and so declined with intense regret.

At the Opera.

When I arrived home I discovered that ours had been one of the houses on his list, though his call had been for my mother alone. They had met just as she was coming in from her drive, and though I asked no questions, his visit, judging from the manner in which the information was imparted to me, had not been unwelcome.

It was to be "Bohème" that night at the opera, and I looked to the music as balm to counteract the effect of a trying afternoon. I wished more than once that I had gone for that canter with my calm Englishman, who, whatever his lack of invigorating qualities, would at least have kept my nerves in a state of preservation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Obrien—the former's father, John Obrien, had been one of the earliest and luckiest of the forty-niners—were my mother's guests, and Fritsy Bigelow, who could be depended upon not to bore one with unnecessary conversation.

We arrived unusually early and I had an opportunity to look about before the curtain rose. The Hal Brakemans, in a box opposite ours, had with them something new in the way of a tall beauty destined to rank as an expert in evading creditors and attaching men. Mrs. Hal, having heard, no doubt, of the vogue of Dolly Brooke, had discovered the fair unknown, a Mrs. Richard Stannard, in Narragansett and hoped to make her beauty a means of penetrating the charmed circle that still remained closed to her.

Piquant Nita Lane was seated as usual with her back deliberately turned, and the only indication one had of a gown were the black velvet shoulder straps that must have been attached to something. With her was big, stolid, stodgy husband number two, and in a box but three removed sat husband number one, who, when their divorce was a thing accomplished, had paid her a quiet million to relinquish all claims to their child.

Each occupied box as I glanced around seemed to hold some "Jack" in it ready to spring daringly at you, with none of the modesty of the old fashioned family skeleton that at least had had shame enough to hide itself in the closet.

Less than a year ago all this would have slipped by me unnoticed—I wouldn't have known or thought about it. And now it was harder somehow to believe myself made for this world that was my sphere than to picture well fed Caruso and buxom Melba the starving artist and model of the scene before me.

When the house had darkened and everything but the red shaded lights of the boxes was resolved into gloom I heard my mother rise to greet some newcomer, and, turning, saw her in the light of the ante-room extending her hand to the Baron de Berenzig. For a moment I felt I must be the victim of some optical illusion; it seemed a play on her part too ridiculously unnecessary. To have as her guest at the opening of a new season the man who the year before had deliberately humiliated her daughter, and therefore herself, was carrying diplomacy to the point of absurdity. I had to add my welcome to hers, and the Baron took the chair directly back of mine.

I tried hard to listen to the music, but the singing in my ears drowned the voices of those on the stage. I closed my eyes hopelessly and wondered where this whirlpool in which I was impotent as a pebble would choose to carry me.

The Baron Again.

My intense cordiality to those who visited us between the acts must have revealed my distress of mind. I know I never longed so for a crowd about me. When we left the Opera House I was quite prepared for my mother's invitation to the Baron to join us on our way up town. The Jack O'Briens were taking Fritsy with them, and we were all to meet at a supper and dance at Mrs. Steve Craig's.

What I did not anticipate, however, was the sudden headache my mother developed as we neared our home. I thought it a splendid opportunity to stop off with her, but she protested as Haines helped her out of the automobile that the pain would be gone after a few moments' rest.

"You may send the car back for me at once, my dear," she said, and before I knew it the door was slammed and Baron de Berenzig and I were on our way up the avenue.

I had given up trying to analyze my mother's manoeuvres; her plans of campaign were always too complicated. But I knew this time I had been chosen as a means to gain whatever end she had in view. Two things I noticed simultaneously—first, that the car was not going at its usual rate of speed, and, second, the smile of satisfaction that illumined the Baron's face.

"Fraulein," he said, after a silence I had determined not to break, "this is why I have come back to America."

"This," I questioned with a light laugh of disbelief, "a ride in a motor brougham? My dear Baron, you surprise me."

"You purposely misunderstand." He frowned. Then, "It is for you—to be with you—I have come back, my beautiful little American."

He leaned closer and I shrank far into my corner. But I could feel my eyes and cheeks blazing.

"Baron de Berenzig," I turned and met his look squarely, "long ago, I wanted to be honest and tell you frankly what I thought—what I still think—of your outrageous behavior of last winter. Circumstances over which I seem to have no control prevented my doing so. But now you leave me no alternative. I don't know just what sort of code of morality your country recognizes, but here your impertinence in forcing your attentions on me when you already happen to have a wife in Europe is nothing short of criminal."

The Baron was not in the least perturbed. He looked at me with ardor, distinctly Hungarian, lighting his eyes. "So that is it? My lovely one, 'nous avons changé tout cela,'" he laughed, catching my hand in both of his. "Why do you suppose I went abroad. Why have I returned? Why—because I have succeeded in divorcing my wife!"

The car rolled under the porte-cochère just then and Perry Willing, who had just stepped out of his cab, caught a satisfying glimpse of the Baron leaning over me, my hand clasped in his.

What he did not see—though I prayed he might—were the rage and disgust that held me trembling, too choked to utter the words that came tumbling to my lips.

IF HE ONLY KNEW THE COLD TRUTH!

FOR seven years a certain man has been in love with me. He proposed the first week we met and has been at it ever since.

I do not love him and never could. He is deadly uninteresting and doesn't realize it. How I long to tell him how to make himself attractive!

He is almost fifty and I am a young woman under thirty. All the more reason why he should get together and make himself, if not an acceptable sweetheart, at least an attractive visitor.

To begin with, he lacks schooling and a college education. He has lots of money and has made it all himself. He has a fine character and a good disposition. He is so generous with his money I dare say there are many women who would overlook the rest.

I am a good friend of his. I would like to see him interesting, entertaining, invited for his good company. I'm afraid it will never come to pass.

Every one says, "Poor thing! Why doesn't he take up something? He's so stupid!"

That's the trouble. He has not travelled, he has not read; he has no fad, no accomplishment. He doesn't engage in a single manly sport. He is of medium height, skinny as a skeleton, and his face is fissured with deep lines. He is hopelessly bald. We used to think no one could help his looks, but every one knows better now.

If he would build up his physique—plump out his face and stand up straight—he would look forty. Mere ugliness and baldness are lost sight of when a man has a hearty voice, a firm hand, a healthy body.

If I say, "Camp out one summer, work out of doors, you would come back strong and brown," "Oh, no, he doesn't need it; he's so healthy, he will live forever."

Now just say he couldn't get better looking; people would forgive him even then for his personality. But he doesn't possess one.

He drags along to the opera and suffers it because I hang on every note.

He took up riding once to please me. I believe he went about three times. Once when I took a jumping lesson I made him go over the bars. He was frightened. He fell on the horse's neck, and I wished to heaven he'd fallen clean off. Ridicule might make him determined to conquer, thought I. He never went again.

We went for a row. Good for his chest and shoulders, said I to myself. He kept his shirt sleeves down until I made him roll them up, and, to my horror, asked for a pair of gloves to protect his hands.

He never swims; he doesn't care for golf, knows nothing about cards, hasn't even a time honored story to trot out.

In a company—at the dinner table—all he can do is to cling to me like a drowning man, remain sepulchrally silent and pay the bill.

He bores me so I get simply frantic. What is worse, he bores all my friends, and they poke fun at him.

Now, I am not responsible for his well appearing in society; I'm not engaged to him—but I wish he could one day see himself in a strong white light—as we all see him.

He has three good qualities; he is usually generous, most considerate and immaculate about his person and his clothes.

But he can't see why a young, rather attractive girl isn't willing to marry him. It isn't his age, because the most attractive men to me are those from thirty-five to forty-five.

What is worse, the very way he shows his devotion makes every one laugh at him. He lets every one see it. They're all in the joke. He walks into my drawing room of an afternoon—when there are several younger fellows in for tea—with some flowers wrapped in tissue paper in his hand. If he would only let the maid bring them up it would look so much more dignified.

I stop in a large hotel. The hours he cannot see me he spends in selecting a wild rose, which makes its appearance in a glass of water in the hands of a grinning bellboy.

One wild rose in a glass of water! I threw it out of the window. Ungrateful? Yes. But he should have given it me himself, and not set all the lobby laughing.

He bombards me with telephone calls, notes and his perennial proposal.

But all for nothing. His money alone can't satisfy me or any up to date girl. His very attentions are foolish. It is a horrid thing to say, but his unswerving devotion could never impress me unless he himself appeared in a more manly guise, or his other attractions drew attention from an ungainly body.

Making Money On the Farm

XV.—Locating and Planting the Orchard

By C. V. GREGORY,
Author of "Home Course In Modern Agriculture"

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

EVERY farm should have at least a few fruit trees to provide fruit for home use. Where soil and climate are favorable and a good market can be secured fruit growing for market is a very profitable business.

The most important point in planning an orchard is selecting the location. The land should be naturally well drained if possible. If not, artificial drainage should be resorted to. A moderate northeast slope is the most desirable. Trees on a north slope do not start as quickly in the spring, and the danger of having the fruit buds nipped by an untimely frost is lessened. An orchard on such a slope also suffers less from sun scald and drought.

If the hill on which the farm buildings are placed is large enough the orchard can be located on the north slope and the buildings on the south. A windbreak of a double row of evergreens on the west and north will stop the snow in winter and help to keep the fruit from being blown off in summer. To complete this protection the windbreak will have to be extended all the way around, since in summer many of the heavy winds come from a southerly direction.

Air Drainage.

The question of air drainage is fully as important as that of water drainage. Cold air is heavy and drains rapidly into the hollows, while the air on the slopes is warm and dry. The difference of a few feet in elevation often makes a difference of several degrees in temperature. An orchard located on a rise of land will escape many of the frosts that cut down the profits in an orchard less favorably located. Trees on a hill are also less likely to be troubled with fungous diseases, since dry air is not favorable to them.

A soil too rich in nitrogen promotes leaf and wood growth at the expense of fruit. For this reason black prairie soil is not so well adapted to fruit growing as some other lands. Loamy clay soil underlaid with a porous subsoil makes an ideal foundation for an orchard. Cleared timberland is also very good.

You cannot expect success with an orchard if you plant the trees in a hole in the sod. The land should be put in to some cultivated crop for at least a year before setting out the trees. This gets the soil in good tilth, and the trees will have a fair chance from the start.

What to Plant.

Having decided on the location for the orchard, the next step is to select the kinds and varieties of fruit to be grown. The apple is the most widely grown tree fruit in this country. It has hardy varieties that can be grown well up into the northern sections, while other varieties are adapted to southern conditions. The plum is even more hardy than the apple, and some of the improved varieties give as delicious fruit as could be asked for. Cherries are also fairly hardy, and a few trees are a valuable addition to any orchard. In the milder sections peaches and pears can be added to the list.

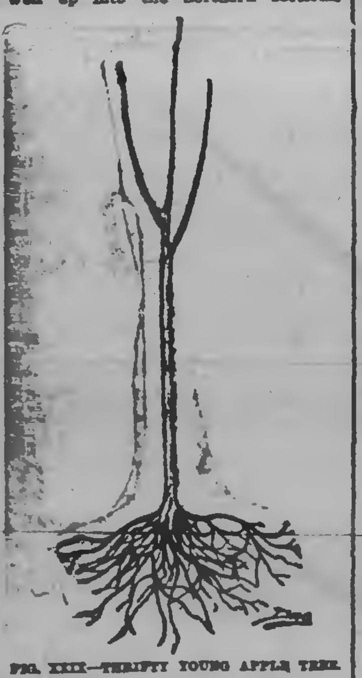

FIG. XXIX.—THRIFTY YOUNG APPLE TREE.

The question of variety is one that must be answered for individual conditions. The old standard varieties are the most reliable. Varieties that are already doing well in your locality can be depended on. Your state experiment station or horticultural society will gladly furnish you a list of the varieties that are adapted to your locality. One mistake often made in setting out an apple orchard is in planting too many summer and fall varieties. These are of little value for market; they do not keep well and are largely wasted unless they can be canned or dried. Since the development of cold storage some of the better keeping varieties, such as Wealthy, can be kept nearly all winter. Not all farmers have ice or are located within reach of a storage warehouse, however.

It will generally pay to put a large part of the orchard into reliable winter varieties. For home use apples are appreciated more along toward spring and will bring a higher price.

An important point to consider in selecting varieties is quality. This is especially important in those grown for home use. When the fruit is to be shipped any considerable distance shipping and keeping qualities are of first importance, and the eating and cooking qualities take a secondary place. Yield is also important.

Buy at the Home Nursery.

In buying fruit trees it is best to steer clear of agents with plausible stories of wonderful quality and yield. Some nursery agents are honest and conscientious, but so many are not that it is difficult to separate the sheep from the goats. The best way is to make your selection of varieties and then get the trees of some reliable nurseryman in your own locality. If you can go to the nursery and buy them of the nurseryman himself so much the better. In that case you can select the trees yourself and be sure of getting good ones. Thrifty one or two year old trees, with well developed root systems, stand transplanting better and are cheaper than larger ones.

As soon as the trees are received from the nursery they should be "heeled in." This is done by digging a trench and covering the roots and about half of the tops with dirt. When the trees have been shipped for some distance it sometimes happens that they are frozen when received. In this case they should be placed in some outbuilding, covered with straw and left to thaw out gradually. In this way little harm will be done.

Preparation For Planting.

The land should be deeply plowed before planting and well disked and harrowed. It is a good practice to make the back furrows where the rows are to be and the dead furrows between the rows. The dead furrows will thus serve as ditches to carry off surplus water. It is better to do this plowing in the fall if the preceding crop can be got off the land in time. In the south the planting may be done in the fall also, but in sections where the ground freezes to any depth it is safer to plant in the spring. Fall planted trees are liable to root killing during the winter. In the drier parts of the country, too, the roots do not get sufficient moisture to supply the trunk and branches, and the tree is so badly dried out during the winter that it is killed.

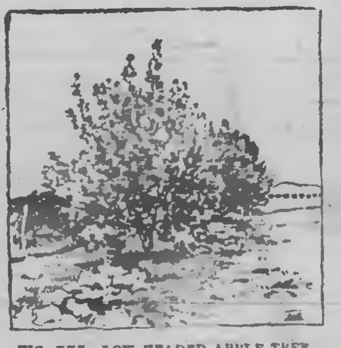

FIG. XXI—LOW HEADED APPLE TREE

In lands with a stiff subsoil running a subsoil plow down the row before planting is practiced with good results In extremely hard soils a little dynamite exploded in the bottom of the hole loosens up the subsoil considerably. The hole should be dug larger than the roots of the tree and fine soil thrown in around the roots The roots should be well spread out and the tree set three or four inches deeper than it is to be finally. By taking hold of the top and churning it up and down after the roots have been covered with dirt the soil will be thoroughly worked in around the roots As the tree is worked up and down it is gradually raised to the proper height

Part of the top should be cut off before planting. The top is dependent on the roots for its moisture supply. A considerable part of the root system has been lost in transplanting, and the top should be cut back to match In planting one or two-year-old trees known as "whips," this cutting back serves a double purpose by causing the tree to throw out branches just below where it is cut off. In trees of this kind the cut should be a few inches above where the first branches are to be.

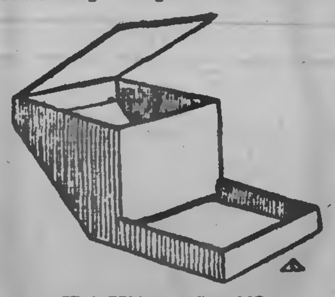
There is considerable difference of opinion concerning the proper height to head apple trees. Low headed trees are much less liable to sun scald since the branches shade the trunk. They are easier to spray, and the apples can be more easily gathered. There is also much less damage from large branches being broken off by the wind. The chief objection to low heading is that it is difficult to get near the tree when cultivating the orchard. This objection, however, is hardly enough to outweigh the advantages of low heading

If the soil is firmly packed there is little need of using water in the hole when planting trees. The dirt should be packed very firmly around the roots. Get in with both feet and pack it as hard as possible. It is a good plan to lean the trees a little to the south in order that the branches may shade the trunk better and also because the hardest winds in summer are usually from a southerly direction

The standard distance apart for apple trees is thirty-two to forty feet each way. Plum and cherry trees may be as close as twenty feet. Apple trees are often planted 16 by 32 feet, the alternate rows being of some early bearing, short lived variety When the latter trees come into bearing these fillers should be cut out.

Feeding Hopper For Horse.

A practical farmer with a mechanical turn says: If your horse has the habit of bolting his feed you can remedy it by making a self feeder on his feed box. The accompanying drawing shows how a feeder may be made similar to a poultry feed hopper. The contrivance may be made of inch boards large enough to hold one feed.



SELF FEEDER FOR HORSE.

The horse can get the grain only in small quantities and so cannot eat it more rapidly than he should. The bottom must be made with enough slant to insure the feed coming out in the trough.

Corset Ancient Armor.

A French historian of women's dress states that the corset was worn by the ancient Egyptians. This assertion is borne out by the figures carved on the tombs of women, who are invariably represented as wearing a garment strongly resembling the modern corset. There does not appear to be any representation extant of Cleopatra VI., the beloved of Antony, but in one of the temples there is a figure of her predecessor, Cleopatra II., in which the sculptor has endowed her with a corset cut on the lines of those worn today. Whalebone was probably unknown to the Egyptians, but a nation capable of constructing pyramids without steam cranes would probably find no difficulty in making stays without busks.—London Chronicle.

At Lockport, N.Y., a 5 cent theatre was allowed to run on Sunday for the first time in the history of the city.

DAIRY WISDOM.

Attention to Details Sure to Bring the Best Results.

Give the dairy utensils a good sun bath each day.

The stingy feeder cheats himself as well as the cow.

Oilmeal is good for the cows. It will prove a pay ration.

Insufficient feed and poor shelter will ruin the most promising heifer.

Fresh, clean water is important with every animal on the farm in the summer time, but above all others with the cows.

A sour feed pail has wrought havoc among the calves on the farm. The time spent in scalding the pails is well spent.

Pasture the cows at night and keep in the barn during the heat of the day. Needless to say the barn should be screened.

Garget, or congested udder, can be generally relieved by hot applications and vigorous rubbing and kneading of the affected part.

As compared with the old pan method of raising cream, the separator is as far ahead of the old method as the thrasher is ahead of the old flail method of thrashing grain.

No trees in the pasture? Then make shade for the cows by putting up some posts and throwing over them a thatched roof. It is a shame to keep cows under the hot rays of the sun all day

JUST CURED HIM THAT WAS ALL

What Dodd's Kidney Pills Did for Thomas Moon

Doctors Could Not Cure His Dropsy but Dodd's Kidney Pills Cleared it Out Completely

Maidstone, Sask., Dec. 3.—(Special)—"Cured me completely. That's what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for me." Such is the statement made by Thomas Moon, a well-known resident of this place who for years suffered with Dropsical Swellings brought on by diseased Kidneys.

"I had pains in the small of my back," Mr. Moon continues, "and across the loins. The swelling commenced first in my legs and gradually got to my body. I tried different doctors but kept getting worse every day until I was swollen up to an awful size.

"One doctor sent me to the hospital where I got a little benefit, but the swelling soon came back.

"Then I used Dodd's Kidney Pills and as I said before they cured me completely."

Dropsical Swellings are caused by diseased Kidneys failing to take the surplus water out of the blood. Cure the Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills and the Dropsy naturally cures itself.

Dairies of Holland.

The dairies of Holland support on an average one cow to the acre, which makes such a piece of land worth from $600 to $2,000. Here in the alfalfa country many thousands of acres can support two cows to the acre, and in numbers of instances cattle are kept in this way without the fertilizing, cultivating, soiling and other means the plodding Holland farmer must adopt to obtain the results he does. Instead just straight alfalfa growing does the work here. All a man need do is see that he has a good stand, that it is not abused, give it water, and it goes on producing for years.

Milk Cement Paint.

Skimmilk paint has recently been going the rounds of the agricultural press, says the American Cultivator. Skimmilk will make a fairly good paint or wash, but whole milk paint is much better, since the grease in the milk is what sets the paint. Mix a couple of pounds of standard portland cement in a gallon of milk—sweet or sour—and add colored paint powder to suit. The cement is heavy and will constantly sink, so keep stirring with every brushful, since it is the cement which makes the paint a preservative.

BRITAIN IS IN A TURMOIL OVER THE ELECTION CONTEST

One Member of Parliament Says the House of Lords Will be Strangled—Wild Meeting is Held in Trafalgar Square—Peers Are Rebels.

London, Dec. 6.—The whole of Great Britain is immersed in the political campaign. The country is divided into two great camps, composed of those who support the Lords' action in refusing to consent to the budget and those who contend that the House of Commons must have absolute control of the finances of the nation. There were, of course, many other issues, such as tariff reform versus free trade, but these are being pushed into the background by the conflict between the two Houses.

The dates of the chief political events of the next two months are now definitely known. Dissolution is on Jan. 8, the first borough elections Jan. 18, the first county elections Jan. 19, and the elections Jan. 31. The first meeting of the new Parliament is on Feb 14.

While the local organizations are busy selecting candidates, the leaders of the great parties are carrying on a general campaign. The Radicals, who had long foreseen the fate of their finance bill, are not allowing the grass to grow under their feet.

In London Saturday afternoon, one of their organizations, the National Democratic League, held in protest against the action of the Lords, one of the most notable demonstrations ever seen in the metropolis. Fully 20,000 persons, mostly the laboring and artizan classes, gathered in Trafalgar Square, and cheered the Radical speakers, who condemned in unmeasured terms the members of the Upper Chamber.

The early divergent note here, as elsewhere, came from the suffragists, who after a term of comparative quiet again started to indulge in attempts to break up the Radical meetings. The Trafalgar Square crowd, however, was too great for their efforts to have any effect. They were more successful at Southport, where by climbing to a roof and shouting through the skylight, they succeeded in interrupting Winston Spencer Churchill's meeting, and at Leith, where, aided by roughs, they created a diversion by attempting to storm a meeting, which Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, was addressing.

Foiled by the Leith police, who charged the crowd with batons, the women got their revenge by hurling bricks through the windows of the public buildings. Secretary Grey, whose speech was not interrupted to any extent, spoke strongly for the reformation of the Upper Chamber.

Mr. Churchill was able to conclude his speech, and, undaunted by this experience, held a meeting at Liverpool in the evening, in continuation of his Lancashire campaign. He ridiculed the idea that the old-age pensions and the navy could be paid for by the adoption of tariff reform, and referred to Mr. Balfour's offer to assist cotton-growing in the empire as very old, in view of the fact that the Unionists when in power, although asked to do something in this direction, took no action.

In the course of his speech Mr. Churchill said: "We are face to face with a period when parties necessarily are grouped on violent lines, when brute force and class hatred, instead of forbearance and public spirit, are becoming the characteristics of British political life."

Lewis Harcourt compared the present issues with those of the time of Cromwell and the French revolution.

Sir Edward Grey, in his address at Leith, said that he was glad that the House of Lords was barred from retreat, and that there would be no opportunity for repentance.

The Liberal peer, Lord Lyvedon, described the Lords as rebels against the crown.

The speeches by men like the Foreign Secretary, who has hitherto been regarded as representing the staidest Whiggism, and Lewis Harcourt, whose immaculate attire has earned for him the reputation of "Dandy of the House of Commons," indicate the nature of the political fight, which has now begun, and is reflected in the speeches of the demonstrators in Trafalgar Square as published in the Sunday papers.

The Trafalgar Square speeches were quite equal to the wildest utterances of any socialist demonstrations in that historic spot. Dr. Clifford, the revered leader of the free church, hoped that the peers would be drowned in the Red Sea as was Pharoah.

William P. Byles, member of the House of Commons from Salforth North, said: "We have got the Lords by the throat and are going to strangle them. If the men of England have the same spirit as they had three hundred years ago they will be ready for civil war."

The favorite emblem of the demonstrators was a turnip carved to represent an imbecile face stuck on a pole and surmounted by a coronet, with the words beneath: "The first born."

The crowds made a hostile demonstration before the Constitutional Club and cheered at Premier Asquith's residence. They then made for the Lansdowne house, which was guarded by the police and broke up quietly.

The Conservative Sunday Times describing the scenes in Trafalgar Square, says that there is no use attempting to belittle the demonstration. The fifty speakers included a dozen of the members of the House of Commons. The size of the gathering, which was arranged at short notice says the paper, was surprising. It was unmistakably the most notable and most effective demonstration in recent years.

The turnip emblem was tossed about by the mob and torn to pieces, and it looked like a head on a pike in the twilight.

RUSHING WHEAT FROM THE WEST

Port Arthur, Dec. 6.—The rushing out of wheat continues. Over a million bushels were shipped from Port Arthur elevator plant in three steamers Saturday and Sunday.

Yesterday a wire was received from Sault Ste. Marie that the Poe lock in the American Canal will be closed Wednesday to facilitate the widening of the locks. The Canadian locks will be open until the last boat leaves Lake Superior. About forty boats are now on the upper lakes.

MAIL CARRIERS GO THROUGH ICE

Atlin, B.C., Dec. 6.—On Dec. 1 a mail boat was frozen in on Lake Atlin, the earliest date on record. Carrying mail from the steamer across the ice, Dan Holland and Fred Taylor broke through, and they and the mail were only saved with great difficulty by companions. Wet through the men had to tramp several miles to the nearest miners' cabin. Holland's feet were frozen and Taylor's hands also.

CIVIL SERVANTS ARE REQUESTING MORE MONEY

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—Deputations representing the Civil Service Federation of Canada, the other the Civil Service Association of Ottawa, waited on Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Sydney Fisher on Saturday. The representatives of the Civil Service Federation presented to the Minister a memorandum urging the Government to extend the provisions of the Civil Service Act to the outside service, to increase the scale of pay, and to inaugurate a system of superannuation for the benefit of the outside service.

The inside civil service presented a memorial asking for an improvement in the sanitary conditions of some of the buildings in which the civil servants work, and that the superannuation of the civil servants be re-established.

The Ministers said that the matter of the extension of the Civil Service Act to the outside service was engaging the attention of the Government. The desirability of a scheme of superannuation being applied to the service was also recognised.

OLD MAN KILLED IN AN ELEVATOR

Brantford, Dec. 6.—Joseph Hurley, aged 75 years, was killed at the Massey-Harris works Saturday morning. For a month he had been running the elevator. About 8 o'clock, while the elevator was at the second floor, someone below released it and it shot up. As it rose to the third floor Hurley was caught between the elevator and the gate which descended to protect the opening. He was fatally crushed.

TO PROTECT POLICYHOLDERS

Albany, N.Y., Dec. 6.—J. Pierpont Morgan's single purpose in acquiring the majority control of the stock of the Equitable Life Assurance Society was to safeguard the interests of the policyholders by preventing its sale to different individuals. This in substance was Mr. Morgan's reply to a personal enquiry made recently by Supt. Hotchkiss of the State Department of Insurance, as to what his intentions were concerning the stock. Mr. Morgan, it was said, intends to take up with the insurance department soon the matter of placing the control of the stock as to avoid the dangers which might arise in an individual holding.

BARRIE WITNESS HAS TURNED UP

Barrie, Dec. 6.—Herbert McDougall, a much-sought witness in the Guthrie fire inquest, which closed last Thursday, turned up Saturday on the afternoon train from Toronto.

"I heard I was wanted and thought I had better come back," said McDougall, but having previously been spoken to by the crown attorney, he was rather reticent. He said he had been working with a former employer, Fred Pluard, at Hattsbridge, since leaving the employ of Guthrie.

In the meantime Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie have not yet returned from their little journey out of town, and Miss Guthrie is still in custody.

SIR CHAS. TUPPER SENDS OPEN LETTER TO OPPOSITION LEADER

Veteran Statesman Says He Cannot Understand Demand for Dreadnaughts in View of Conference's Declaration in Favor of a Fleet Unit.

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—The following letter has been addressed by Sir Chas. Tupper, who is in England, to R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition, in which he discusses the question of the Canadian navy:

"My dear Mr. Borden,—I have read with much interest the communication of the Canadian correspondent of The Times on naval defence in today's issue of that paper. I regard that question as more important than any mere party issue and am glad to learn that you are resolved to maintain the patriotic attitude of the Conservative party assumed last session.

"A few years ago, when Canada was struggling to open up for British settlement, the great granary of the world, a few gentlemen here raised the question of a Canadian contribution to the imperial navy. I joined issue with them and was sustained by the press and public opinion. It was admitted that Canada was not only no burden to the Mother Country, but with her harbors and coal mines on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts England would require a larger navy.

"Contrast the progress of Canada, Australia and New Zealand under imperial management and since it was relinquished, and it will be seen to whom their present importance is due.

"In an evil hour for the British Empire Cobdenism was allowed to sweep away the protection policy which had made England mistress of the manufactures of the world and place all her colonies in the position of foreigners.

"Read the result in The Times of Oct. 3, 1849: 'The reversal of the ancient policy of Great Britain, whereby she withdrew from the colonies their wonted protection in her markets, has produced the most disastrous effects upon Canada. In surveying the actual condition of the country what but ruin or rapid decay meets the eye? * * * While the adjoining states are covered with a network of thriving railways, Canada possesses but three lines, which, together scarcely exceed fifty miles in length, and the stock in two of which is held at a depreciation of from 50 to 80 per cent., a fatal symptom of the terror overspreading the land.'

"The confederation of Canada, which has resulted in such gigantic progress, was the work of Canadians, and regarded by many English statesmen as a prelude to getting rid of responsibility." Regarding as I do British institutions as giving greater security to life, property and liberty than any other form of Government, I have devoted more than half a century to unceasing efforts to preserve the connection of Canada and the crown.

"When Great Britain was involved in the struggle in the Transvaal I led the van in forcing the Canadian Government to send aid. But I did not believe then, and I do not believe now, in taxation without representation. The demand which will soon be made by some that Canada should contribute to the imperial navy in proportion to population, I regard as preposterous and dangerous. I read with pleasure the resolution passed unanimously by the House of Commons, which pledged Parliament to proceed vigorously with the construction of the Canadian navy and to support England in every emergency and all that, in my opinion is required, is to hold the Government of the day bound to carry that out honestly.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER.

"I do not forget that all parties in the United States agree in the desire to obtain possession of Canada. Under existing circumstances it is of immense importance to have Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party committed to the policy which secured the unanimous consent of the House of Commons on a question of such vital importance and a great responsibility will rest upon those who disturb that compact.

"I cannot understand the demand for Dreadnoughts in the face of the fact that the Admiralty and British Government have determined that it was not the best mode of maintaining the security of the Empire and arranged with Canada and Australia (the latter of whom had offered one or two Dreadnoughts) for the construction of local navies to keep open the trade routes in case of war.

"All difficulty as to the question of autonomy is now removed, as it is fully recognized that the great outlying portions of the Empire are sister nations, and that means are adopted to secure uniformity in the naval forces of the Empire, in the design and construction of the ships, and the training of the officers and men. They are also to be interchangeable, and thus secure uniformity in every respect, so as to act as effective units with the British navy.

"Of course, the Government of the day will be held accountable for carrying out the policy thus agreed upon in a thoroughly effective manner, but I cannot avoid thinking that a fearful responsibility will rest upon those who disturb or destroy the compact entered into on this vitally important question. Yours faithfully,

"Charles Tupper."

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

His Excellency Earl Grey is on a visit to Nova Scotia.

The Australian Legislature has voted $200,000 for assisted passages for emigrants.

Wm. Golding of 67 East Queen street, Toronto, was found dead in his room at 6 p.m. yesterday, from asphyxiation.

A snow and sleet storm tied up railway traffic and obstructed telegraphic communication on Saturday night in some parts of the province.

Jack Dawson, a trapper of Vanwinkle, Northern Caribou, has not returned from a hunting trip, and it is feared has perished from starvation.

In a fight between native fanatics and constabulary in the Minano group of the Philippine Islands, five of the police and twenty of the natives were killed.

A false report emanating from Paris and to the effect that one-half of the City of Baltimore, Maryland, was in ashes, was printed widely in Germany Saturday. The loss was estimated at $60,000,000.

Near Orrville, Ohio, on his first hunting expedition, W. S. Evans, aged 60, a former editor, was killed. It is supposed that his gun was discharged as he was climbing a fence, over which his body was found hanging.

Andrew Carnegie's chauffeur on Saturday near New York exceeded the speed law, and the party were stopped by the police. At court Mr. Carnegie regretted that he had no money with him, but pledged his Fifth avenue residence on the chauffeur's bail bond.

DAVIS GETS BIG CONTRACT

Montreal, Dec. 6.—It is understood that M. P. Davis of Ottawa, has been awarded the contract for building the substructure of the Quebec bridge, the plan calling for more extensive work.

It is stated, for instance, that the granite substructure which Mr Davis will undertake in the spring is to cost about $2,500,000, as against $1,500,000, the price of the previous contract, as the first piers will have to be taken down.

The firm of M. P. & J. T. Davis has already built fifty miles of the transcontinental railway west of the bridge in question, and are now actively at work on a two-hundred-mile section east of the Levis shore.

HOSPITAL IS SLANDERED

Brantford, Dec. 6.—Ald. Geo. A. Ward appeared before the hospital board Saturday to substantiate certain charges he had made in the City Council of a general nature against the medical profession of this city in connection with operations at the hospital.

The alderman refused to make a specific charge or to give the name of his informer, and the board passed a resolution regretting that the hospital had been slandered without cause.

THE KING OF SWEDEN IS LOOKING INTO LABOR TROUBLES

He Works as a Dock Laborer for a Day in Disguise to Find Out Just What it is Like, and Says He Has Learned Many Things.

Stockholm, Dec. 6.—King Gustave on Saturday inaugurated a new departure for sovereigns. Disguised as a stevedore, he spent most of the day carrying sacks of coal from a lighter.

In an interview, after it was all over, the King said that this was only the beginning. He intended to mix with all classes of laborers, so that he might ascertain their opinions and wishes.

Already, he added, he had obtained many valuable hints from the men with whom he worked.

The determination of King Gustave to learn of the conditions of the workingmen by taking part in their labors, resulted from the recent great tie-up of business life of the country by a general strike. King Gustave intervened last August, in an endeavor to secure a compromise, but without avail.

The strike continued for months and involved thousands of men, the employers' association paying $40,000 daily to support its weaker members. [illegible] trades unions and other workingmen's associations exhausted their entire funds to keep the strikers from starving.

Eventually arbitration was undertaken by the Swedish Government to settle the dispute, and in the interim many of the workmen returned to their tasks, although the number of unemployed remained very great. King Gustave, the Queen and other members of the royal family, as well as the Cabinet Ministers, contributed to a national fund, which was raised by subscription for the purpose of providing loans to the working classes. Homesteads have already been apportioned among the unemployed, but conditions remained such as to cause His Majesty and his Government grave anxiety.

The King found difficulty in ascertaining the real facts, and during the past week or two has made arrangements to join various craftsmen and laborers at their work, and in such a guise that they would not recognize him.

THRILLING STORIES OF WRECKS ARE RECEIVED FROM NEWFOUNDLAND

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 6.—A vivid idea of the disaster wrought by what the oldest residents along the west shore assert as Newfoundland's greatest storm, which has driven scores of fine schooners ashore, among the three hailing from Gloucester, Mass., the fishermen Clintonia, Henry M. Stanley and Mabel R. Hines, is given in late despatches from Birchy Cove.

The Clintonia is fast ashore at Woods' Island, where she is pounding heavily. When the ship's anchor had parted, Capt. Norman Ross and his crew made their perilous way ashore through surf flung masthigh from the cliffs.

After a terrific struggle with the tempest, the Stanley, Capt. Arsenault, was driven ashore at North Arm, Bay of Islands, where she is fast breaking up. For hours her crew were forced to cling to the hull, at the mercy of wind and wave, the tremendous seas making it impossible to launch a boat. Finally, during a lull in the storm, they were taken off by heroic volunteers from the shore and were taken to Birchy Cove by the cruiser Fiona.

The Mabel B. Hines went ashore at nearly the same place and now lies on her beam ends, with great seas continually breaking over her. Her captain and crew managed to reach the beach in their own boat. The entire western coast is littered with wreckage from the uncounted Newfoundland schooners breaking up in the arms and coves along the coast.

Reports from the south coast also indicate great losses in shipping.

BURIED UNDER TONS OF WIRE

Hamilton, Dec. 6.—Coroner Balfe will hold an inquest on the death of Leo Barry, a young man who went down when the city dock gave away, being buried under tons of wire, which was being unloaded from the Mutual Steamship Co.'s boat, the City of Montreal. The city officials claim that the city was in no way responsible for the damage, as it has an agreement with the steamship company, which says that the company is liable for all damages.

SUICIDE NEAR FRIEND'S BODY

Vancouver, B.C., Dec. 6.—An unusual tragedy happened in an undertaker's morgue yesterday. A well-dressed Japanese, speaking good English, named Hamomoto, called and asked to see the unidentified victims of last Sunday's accident at Kilby, when twenty Japanese laborers were killed.

Hamomoto evidently recognized one of the dead, and asked to see the effects of the dead man. These were produced, including a loaded revolver. Without a word, his face torn by grief, the man picked up his dead friend's gun, and placing the muzzle in his mouth fired, and died instantly beside his dead comrade.

JOHN DILLON GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—John Dillon, alias Smith, who was sentenced to death at Montreal for the killing of a policeman, and was himself badly wounded, will escape the death penalty. Alienists appointed by the Government have declared him insane, and by order-in-council his sentence has been commuted to imprisonment for life.

Child Killed by Train.

BISHOP GOODSELL HAS PASSED AWAY

New York, Dec. 6.—Rev. Dr. David Ayers Goodsell, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died yesterday at his residence in this city. Bishop Goodsell had been ill several weeks, and death followed an operation for a carbuncle, from which he had suffered greatly.

Dr. Goodsell was born at Newburgh, New York, in 1840, and entered the ministry in 1859. From 1880 to 1888 he was literary editor for The Christian Advocate. In the latter year he was elected bishop by the general conference, three years ago was appointed resident bishop of New York City, to succeed the late Bishop Fowler. He celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the ministry last year.

CARVELL SEES KIDNAPPED KELLEY

Portland, Me., Dec. 6.—F. B. Carvell, M.P., of Woodstock, N.B., is here to-day seeing Kelley, an alleged New Brunswick smuggler, who claims he was kidnapped by police after being lured closed to the U. S. border.

Carvell conferred with the U. S. district attorney on the matter, which may become one of international controversy.

In the House of Commons last week, Carvell brought the matter to the attention of the Government.

FIRST TRAIN OVER NEW C.N.R. ROUTE

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—The first train over the newly-completed section of the Canadian Northern Railroad between Quebec and Ottawa, arrived yesterday with 500 on board. This new route is twenty-six miles shorter than the C.P.R. or G.T.R. A beautiful stretch of country along the Ottawa River, hitherto, almost unknown, is thus opened up. The depot on the banks of the Rideau River is only temporary.

"No. 300" Is Closed.

New York, Dec. 6—No. 300 Mulberry street, officially passed into history yesterday when the police department deserted the famous old building to occupy its new $8,000,000 home in Centre street. With the possible exception of Scotland Yard, No. 300 Mulberry street was the pulsating centre of more great crime mysteries than any other spot in the world.

Killed in a Duel.

La Paz, Bolivia, Dec. 6.—Senator Fernades Molinao, was shot yesterday in a duel with Senator Adolofo Trigo Acha. The men quarreled during a discussion of the promotion of the ex-President of Bolivia, Col. Ismael Montes, to general. They fought at an early hour yesterday morning with revolvers and Acha's bullet struck his adversary in the head. Molinao died instantly.

KEEPING A STRING ON IT

The Laurier navy policy has for its chief characteristic Sir Wilfrid Laurier's very emphatic pronouncement that on no account is our future navy to take part in a war for the empire's defence unless the Parliament of Canada so decides. We know what this means. It means that in no war of an imperial character will the Canadian independent navy take part since so large a part of Canada's population is opposed to any idea of a united empire that it will make any such assistance or participation an impossibility.

A LIVE ISSUE

Woman-suffrage has become woman-suffragism. It has reached the stage of a theory and a philosophy. Rev. Dr. Parkhurst maintains that men and women become more separate and distinct in nature and aspiration the higher up in the scale of humanity. It is to be hoped that this objection exists between some men and others also. If so it is not any reason for refusing women the franchise on the ground of difference, physiological or otherwise. At the present moment women are showing too much of the resentment that has been stored up in their "chests" for so long, regarding their political rights and wrongs. They fight not wisely but too well. The hand that wields the mop shall not rule the world. At the same time the "issue" is not only live, it is positively lively. If only it can be prevented from becoming ridiculous. Ridicule will kill the whole question if more discretion is not observed. That seems to be the general impression.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Peers of Great Britain own 30,000,000 acres, most of which is underassessed. It is this feature of the Budget that has provoked so much mutual irritation.

Mr. Stratton gave his blessing to the Salvation Army work at the opening of the new temple on Saturday night in a long speech. Some men have no sense of shame.

The banquet of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at Montreal was notable for the overwhelming prominence of the navy issue. There was much difference of opinion respecting it.

Mr. A. R. Bradwin, a well-known newspaperman, formerly of Galt, has purchased the "North Star," a progressive weekly paper, published at Parry Sound, Ont. Mr. Bradwin is a clever writer and a good business man and will no doubt meet with much success.

Captain Bernier "has been and gone." His good ship the "Arctic," made in Germany, was inspected just before sailing by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Robertson, of this city, who remarked that she was "loaded to the gunwale" with luxuries and dainties, as well as necessaries in preparation for her long and arduous voyage, for which the gallant captain fortunately looks none the worse.

By section 265 of the Dominion Controverted Election Act it is open to any person knowing of a case of bribery to have both briber and bribed indicted and punished by 4 months' imprisonment and a fine of $200.00. As the procedure is by indictment it is a Crown process and entails no expense whatever upon the party laying the information.

"Our humorists have been trying to find a suitable name for the French craze over aeroplaning, which almost amounts to a disease. One suggests 'aerosipelas,' another 'Tyfold fever,' and still another 'inflewenza.' Well, gentlemen, to contribute our share, what is the matter with 'skyatica'?"—Boston Transcript.

What about "Ornithitis?"

Exports of cheese from Montreal up to the second week of November were 1,790,000 boxes, as against 1,896,000 a year previous. This fine increase is somewhat modified by the decline in exports of butter, which this season have only been 40,000 boxes, against 95,000 in 1908. However, taken in conjunction with the increase of home consumption, and recent development of an export cream business, the net showing is quite encouraging.—Farmer's Advocate.

OF INTEREST

The Gorilla

London Times.

Of all the existing man apes the gorilla is beyond question the most formidable, a large male standing not infrequently over five feet six inches in height, and bones being known of one which apparently measured in life no less than six feet, two inches. It is not, we now know from experience in the gardens and elsewhere, always when young, quite so "utterly untameable a beast" and "entirely and constantly an enemy of man" as Du Chaillu represented; but it is savage and morose enough.

It is still uncertain whether in a wild state, except in the immediate moment of attack, it ever actually walks erect without either resting its knuckles on the ground or supporting itself by a branch overhead, but that it does beat its fists upon its breast when enraged (Du Chaillu says that he hears the noise "like a great bass drum" at a distance of a mile) is established; and when the male gorilla turns, as seemingly it does, to confront man fearlessly when attacked, with its huge size, its great, hairy limbs, and hideous head set almost down into its shoulder, we can believe that "no description can exceed the horror of its appearance." Add that the gorilla usually lives in the depth of forests where the light is so dim that it is difficult to see any object clearly at a distance of more than a few yards, and it is not to be wondered at that the natives have invested it with attributes even more horrific than those which it possesses.

Many believe the gorilla to be human; others hold that, though itself a beast, it is often informed with the transmigrated spirits of the human dead. It is said to be in wait crouched on the lower branches of trees overhanging a path, and when a human being passes to drop one of its long hind limbs and, clutching the victim by the throat so suddenly and in so terrible a grip that hardly a sob is heard, to drag it—man or woman—up to its lurking place. It is credited with capturing and stealing women and carrying them off to keep them in the forests, and, armed with clubs, is said to attack and beat off elephants. The formidableness of the great apes, as compared with other beasts, however, is not an easy matter to pass upon. In Africa it is noteworthy that the lion and the gorilla do not occur together, and it has been conjectured both that the lion has exterminated the gorilla within its territory and that the gorilla has driven out the lion.

In Borneo the most serious neighbors of the orang are the python and the crocodile, and the natives say that the ape overcomes them both, the python by seizing and biting, and the crocodile by leaping on its back, clutching it by the upper jaw and by sheer main strength, tearing it open. The name "orang" is in itself a title of honor, meaning roughly "wise one," the Malays giving it alike to their chiefs, to elephants and to the "wild men." Perhaps, however, no native myth or story eclipses in wonder the statement of Emin Pasha, made seriously, that in the Mbongwe forest the chimpanzees used to come to rob the banana plantations in troops, bearing torches to light them on the way! "Had I not witnessed this extraordinary spectacle personally," he is reported as saying, "I should not have believed it."

"BLIND PIGS" AT OMEMEE?

Inspectors Visit Village and Developements Will Follow

Lindsay, Dec. 6.—For some time it has been suspected that a sprinkling of "blind pigs" were in operation in the local option village of Omemee. The hotel there has a good reputation but rumors that whiskey was being retailed in various parts of the village reached the ears of the License Department and Provincial Inspector Ayearst and License Inspector Thornbury visited that village yesterday and conducted an inspection. It was ascertained this morning that developments will follow, but nothing definite is known as yet concerning the probability of charges being laid.

TORTURED BY PILES

Could Not Rest! Could Not Work! Could Not Play!

How Zam-Buk Brouhgt Relief

Mr. Julius Glacier of Denbigh, Ont., says:—"I was so tortured by piles that I could not get ease whether lying down, sitting, or standing. The ailment robbed me of strength, of appetite, and of all desire to live! I had suffered so long and so acutely that I came to think there was no ease for me, but one day I found out that I was wrong!

"I was told that Zam-Buk cured piles, and that this balm was altogether different to ordinary ointments, scores of which I had proved useless for so bad a case as mine was. I got a supply of Zam-Buk, and began to use it regularly.

"Without going into unnecessary detail in a few weeks I found myself cured. I owe my cure to Zam-Buk entirely, and I trust my experience will be the means of leading other sufferers to try this great herbal balm."

Nothing need be added to this plain, powerful testimony save one question—if you suffer like Mr. Glacier did, why not get relief from the same source as he did!

Zam-Buk—as he truly says — is "something different" to the ordinary ointments and salves. It is a powerful combination of healing and soothing herbal essences. No mineral astringents or poisons; no impure animal fats.

It is a proved cure for inflamed areas (as in piles) erysipelas, eczema, ulcers, sores, abscesses, cold cracks, chapped hands, burns, cuts, scalp sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. It is the most reliable balm for children's rashes. All Druggists and Stores at 50c. box or post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

THE HEAVIEST DAMAGE DONE

In Orangeville, Harriston, Lindsay and Peterboro' Districts

The Toronto Star says:—It is hoped that all the long-distance telephone lines which were put out of commission by the recent severe storm of the night of November 22 will be in working order by the end of this week.

In addition to fifteen gangs and a large force of section men assembled from the Ontario department, the Eastern department has sent a large number of men into the territory to assist in repairs. The interruption of the service has been a serious matter for business men, and entails not only a heavy loss in revenue, but a big bill of expense to the company.

The territory affected extended from Stratford on the west to Belleville on the front, and thence up to the Ottawa Valley, as far east as Winchester, Ont., also a large district north of Toronto. In this territory practically the only long-distance telephone lines left working were the main routes from Toronto through the Niagara Peninsula and west to London and Windsor. Orangeville, Harriston, Lindsay and Peterborough districts were mostly affected.

RICH RED BLOOD

You Will Never Have it as Long as You Have Dyspepsia

Just as long as you have dyspepsia your food will not properly digest, and the nutritious elements in the food will not be extracted or absorbed, and impoverished or watery blood will follow.

This condition may not be apparent at first, but it will come just as sure as the sun will rise again.

Any stomach ailment, including all forms of indigestion, can be promptly cured by using Mi-o-na tablets, a scientific treatment unsurpassed.

It stops fermentation, belching of gas and taste of sour food almost at once.

The mighty power of Mi-o-na to invigorate and restore the stomach to perfect condition is known everywhere.

Mi-o-na cures by building up—by banishing the cause. For thin people it is a great flesh builder, because it causes the stomach to give more and purer nutrition to the blood. It cures sea and car sickness and vomiting of pregnancy almost immediately. Wm. Madill, the druggist, sells Mi-o-na for 50 cents a large box, and guarantees to cure or money back.

STORMY WEATHER FOR CHRISTMAS

So Says Reverend Weather Prophet, I. Hicks for Month of December

In his forecast of December weather Rev. Irl. R. Hicks says that from the 11th to the 14th violent winter storms will sweep eastwardly across the country. Fierce gales and high tides will prevail on the Atlantic Ocean generally, at this and following December periods. Blizzards from the northwest, followed by a cold wave and high barometer that will reach far into the south, from the 13th to 15th.

A regular storm period, central on the 22nd, covers the 20th to 25th. This period is at the centre of the winter solstice. In all reason it will bring heavy winter storms on land and sea. The Mercury period begins at this time, and will increase the intensity and prolong the existance of storm conditions. This means hardship and danger to unprotected live stock and unwatchful men. These storms are apt to continue over the limits of the period in consequence of the Mercury disturbance and the opposition of the moon on the 26th.

For the balance of the month we are promised storms of sleet and snow, blizzard winds and very cold.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circularsm free.

HOW EDMONTON WILL LINE UP

Claim That Team will be Stronger Than Last Year

Winnipeg, December 3.—While he would not give out the line-up, Geo. B. McLeod, president of the Edmonton Hockey Club, admitted that Albertans will be as strong, if not stronger, than last season, when they made their bid for the Stanley Cup. McLeod is in the city on his way to Ottawa. While east he will look into the hockey situation with a view of arranging Stanley Cup series. The Edmonton hockey team will likely be composed of the following; — Goal, Winchester; point, Lester Patrick; cover-point, Hugh Ross; rover, Whitcroft; centre, K. Ditton; right wing, Miller; left wing, Borlton.

Information for Senders of Parcels To Most Important Places Abroad

At this time of the year questions are continually being asked of the Post Office authorities. Practically everyone is sending parcels, and the number who have friends in foreign countries whom they wish to remember is remarkable. Already a number of parcels have been sent to China and Japan, but the rush to the other countries is only beginning.

These are the rates charged for parcels to some of the most important countries;

Australia, 24 cents for the first pound, and a similar sum for every additional pound.

Bahamas, 12 cents a pound.

Bermudas, 16 cents for the first pound, and 12 cents for each succeeding pound to the limit of 11.

Cape Colony, 28 cents for the first pound, two pounds for 54 cents, three pounds for 80 cents, and four pounds for $1.06.

China, 16 cents for the first pound, and 12 cents for each additional pound.

Cuba, 58 cents for the first pound, 66 cents for a two-pound parcel, three pounds for $1.74.

France, 42 cents for the first pound, 8 cents additional for the next two pounds, and 76 cents for a four-pound parcel.

Germany, first pound 34 cents, 8 cents additional for the second and third pounds, while the four-pound parcel requires 70 cents postage.

Parcels within Canada carried at the rate of a cent an ounce, which reveals the peculiar fact that a five-pound parcel can be sent from Toronto to Hong Kong for 64 cents, while to send the same package from here to Hamilton would cost 80 cents. Small parcels weighing a few ounces are at the present time accepted in nearly all foreign countries except the United States, on the regular letter rates, providing they do not contain anything coming on the prohibited list of the country to which they are addressed. Such parcels are subject to examination at the customs offices.

Without Being Put on Blacklist—Girl Allowed Liberty on Remand

After some hesitation, John Mulhall promised Police Magistrate Dumble that he would quit drinking. Mulhall was arraigned on the charge of being drunk and disorderly, for which he was assessed $2 with the generally-granted ten days' grace.

The magistrate discussed the idea of putting the defendant on the black list, and P.C. Newhall testified that he was "a very bad man" when drunk. Mulhall baulked at the black list proposition, and promised to let it alone.

The unfortunate girl, Rosie Roach, who was arrested a week ago on the charge of vagrancy, was remanded for another week, being allowed her liberty in the meantime. Rev. Canon Davidson pleaded for the girl, stating she was hard working and honest, and that boys and young men who followed her and annoyed her were responsible for the undue attention she attracted on George street. He suggested that she be sent out of town to relatives, and his Worship enlarged the case to consider the best way to deal with her.

One of the girl's relatives told the magistrate that the accused had been arrested without cause, and told P. C. Newhall that he should be there instead of her.

DESIRE BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

A deputation from Woodville interviewed the Board of Railway Commissioners at Toronto this week in connection with improved train service from those points. The Gleaner says;

At 7.50 p.m. in the city hall a conference was arranged with Mr. Tiffin, Mr. Cowan of the Grand Trunk Railroad. Mr. T. A. Wilson presented Cannington's case, while Messrs. A. Stabeck and H. Purvis spoke on behalf of Woodville and Brock, all urging the necessity of an early train to Toronto. The other members of the delegation all spoke on the matter. The result was a mutual understanding between the Grand Trunk Railway System and the delegation that the railway company would put forth and effort to establish an early train between Orillia and Blackwater sometime next summer whereby connections can be made with the early train from Peterborough.

THEATRICAL

"The Wishing Ring," which has been in Chicago for four weeks, is closing a brief career. Marguerite Clark is going back to musical comedy.

Mrs. Pat Campbell has a neat little playlet in which she manages to trap the jail governor who killed her sweetheart. She taunts him awhile and then plunges a dagger into his villainous bosom.

A play on world peace is "The Man of Iron," which Israel Zangwill has just completed. It will be produced by Liebler & Co. this season.

Charles Frohman will send on the road two "Dollar Princess" companies. The original will remain all season in New York.

Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow," has just given Vienna a new operetta, "The Count of Luxembourg." Its melodies created great enthusiasm.

Lena Abarbanell, who was seen last season as the "Merry Widow," was to have been starred by George W. Lederer, but her "angel," Jules Altman, withdrew his financial backing because Lederer sleeps every day until 8 p.m. He says he won't risk his money with such a man.

IMPURITY THE GREATEST EVIL OF THE PRESENT DAY

Even Worse Than Its Contributing Cause, Intemperance, Says Financial Secretary of Y. M. C. A. in Virile and Interesting Address to Men—The Meanest Man and Some of the Things That Constitute His Meanness.

"Who is the meanest man in Peterborough" might give rise to a large and varied range of answers, and when it was announced that International Secretary Drum of the Y. M. C. A. would speak in answer to that question there was naturally considerable speculation as to what his answer would be. Yesterday afternoon before a large mass meeting of men at the Grand Opera House he gave it in direct and impressive language and in his very convincing and earnest manner gave some advice of a most invaluable character.

Mr. Drum spoke against the drink habit in strongest terms and said the people of the city were to be congratulated for what they were doing to blot out the traffic. Referring to the point so often advanced of a man being unwilling to be deprived of his glass of beer by restrictive measures he said that any should be willing to sacrifice his glass to save mankind. In the religion of Christ personal sacrifice was called for.

The speaker left no doubt as to his disgust of the liquor traffic but in referring to its bearing, in relation to the men engaged in it, to the subject of the address, stated that the bartender, the saloonkeeper, or the men who went there were not necessarily the meanest men.

There was a greater evil in the world than drink. That was impurity. This awful sin is tearing at our vitality. While it was a great evil than drink there was no doubt that drink contributed toward it.

With his marked sincerity of manner and in outspoken terms he told of the awfulness of impurity and of the trail of sorrow and misery it left in its wake. If men were the only sufferers it would not be so bad, but the shame of it was that innocent ones had to suffer also for the impurity and viciousness of husbands and fathers. It was the products of impurity and intemperance that filled our asylums and alm houses. The speaker made a very significant remark when he said;

"If the doctors diagnosed the diseases of women properly there would be more divorce cases than there were to-day."

Mr. Drum dealt with various forms of impurity and condemned them all in the most unsparing fashion, speaking scathingly of the common but altogether erroneous saying that "A man must sow his wild oats." Vile and impure stories, especially told in the presence of young boys, were included in the category, and the speaker said if he had his way he would isolate the tellers of such tales as beings unfit to be received in decent society. "If any man defileth the temple of God him shall God destroy," and the image of God dwelt in us all.

The answer to 'who is the meanest man?' was "the man who rejected the cure for sin, the belief in Jesus Christ." The reason men went to hell was because they would not accept God's plan of salvation.

THIS FELLOW BALKED AT THE MENTION OF WORK

Called on the Relief Officer for Ticket to Kingston, But Was Shown Up by a Lady Who Wanted Some Wood Cut.

Relief Officer Miller had a caller recently, and an incident in connection with the visit is worth relating.

He was a big, strong-looking man about thirty-five years of age, and to all appearances, well able to make an honest living and have a little to spare, with which to help others less fortunate than himself, as far as physical capabilities go. He stated to the officer that he had been given assistance in Port Hope by means of which he was enabled to come to this city, and as it was his wish to reach Kingston as soon as possible, he asked for transportation. It was while he was telling his hard luck story that a lady entered, and in the course of a short conversation, asked Mr. Miller if he could find her a man who would cut some wood for her. A side glance at the tramp visitor showed the countenance of that individual to have assumed one of deep disgust. He was caught. Asked if he would undertake the work, he refused, giving as his reason for so doing that he was in a hurry to get to Kingston and did not have time to chop wood. Shortly afterwards he made his exit, and if he wishes to remove from this city he will have to travel in his usual way—by means of the side-door Pullman.

REPORT THAT JUNCTION POINT OF GRAIN ROUTE WILL BE NEAR KENDRY

Lindsay, Dec. 4.—There is every likelihood of the C.P.R. commencing operations on its grain route from Coldwater to the main line next spring. The survey for the route from that point to this town has been filed at the local registry office, and it is understood that the company has decided to tap the main line near Kendry, about five miles from Peterborough. Their original intention to cross the river at Carew's mill will be carried out, and the line will run in an easterly course through Emily township, touching close to Bethany.

The bridge to be erected across the river will be a splendid structure, and of sufficient height to allow steamboats to pass under it.

The survey, which has been made along the west bank of the river from Carew's mill to Flavelles, is, it is said, for the purpose of providing the company with switch communication with the industries situated on the route.

There is no doubt but that Lindsay will become a prominent and important centre when this line is completed. The C.P.R. is now extensively advertising the Kawartha Lakes and this means a great influx of tourists in the future. The company, it is safe to say, will not confine the route to the handling of grain alone, but will also put on an excellent passenger service.

The building of this line means great things for this town, and it cannot be much longer delayed. The huge elevators at Victoria Harbor are about completed, and it would not be surprising if the dawn of the new year would see some important developments in connection with this great undertaking.

WAS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL AT PRELIMINARY HEARING

The preliminary hearing of P. J. Carroll, charged with perjury as result of his evidence in a recent case against a local hotel charged with selling liquor after hours was concluded at the Police Court this morning when the accused was committed for trial. He was granted bail this afternoon by Judge Huycke.

The prosecution produced four witnesses, Chief Roszel, P. C. Newhall, P. C. Meharry and W. J. Johnston. The evidence of P. C. Newhall was the chief testimony of the hearing and was along similar lines to that given at the case in which the charge against the hotel was tried.

The witness said he was on duty Friday night, the 19th of November. He kept watch on the hotel bar from 11 p.m. to 1.20 a.m., he said, and saw what was going on over the curtain, which had been lowered in accordance with the law, and by means of standing on a box in the doorway, looked into the fanlight and stated he could see all over the bar and what was going on in it. He saw the reflection of a couple of men drinking against the frosted glass of the double door at the south end of the bar and said he recognized them. The officer swore he saw the accused hand out drinks to a bellboy with a tray on a couple or three occasions.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, the counsel for the defence, put the witness through a long cross examination.

The evidence of P. C. Meharry was of a corroborative character.

The testimony was all submitted about 12.30 and the Magistrate committed the accused for trial.

COMPLIMENT FOR MISS G. SEWARD

Flattering Tribute to Her Ability From Harry M. Field

Harry M. Field, the celebrated pianist, of Dresden, Germany, who will have charge of the development of the musical career of Miss Gladys Seward, of this city, evidently has a very high opinion of the ability of Peterborough's brilliant young artist.

Writing to a Peterborough lady he says: "Miss Gladys Seward has great talent, and will be a credit to her native town."

NO INTERRUPTION IN FUTURE

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons wish to have it known that in future no interruptions of the speakers at meetings in the Grand Opera House will be tolerated. This sort of thing has gone too far already.

Greater Interest in Good Music Brought About by Edison Records

It is a notable fact that more people are to-day taking far greater interest in the better class of music than ever before; and it is also true that this development is almost wholly due to the far-reaching and elevating effects of the Edison Phonograph and Edison Records.

Among the new Amberol Records is "The Garden of Dreams," a song duet of the same rich old-fashioned beauty as "Oh, Promise Me"; also 'Bach's Air,' rendered by Victor Herbert and His Orchestra, which every one should hear. Victor Herbert's orchestra also renders the famous Mendelssohn "Spring Song," for the Edison Standard (2 minute) Records. And there are 44 other new Records on the list, none of which you should miss. They comprise recitations, vaudeville selections and music of every character.

The J. M. Greene Music Co., Limited, Grand Opera House, George street, have a complete line of Edison Phonographs, and a large and well assorted stock of Records. To hear them is to enjoy them. 3d

THE SONG HITS A BIG FEATURE

Of "The Smart Set" Says the Montreal Herald—The Chorus Above the Average

The Montreal Herald of last Tuesday, November 30th, says:—By his antics in the role of Raspberry Snow, a colored barber who "sure must shave de President ob de United States," S. H. Dudley, of the Smart Set, earned the applause of a large audience last night, kept it laughing most of the time he was on the stage, and sent it home in good humor.

The show introduced some fifteen or sixteen song numbers, all of which are new and of the "catchy" type, giving the chorus, which is above the average, a chance to show what it can do. Aline Cassels, as the Merry Widow Brown, who has a good voice; Jennie Pearl, as Lily White, and Andrew Tribble, as Babe White, all caught on well with the audience, and S. H. Dudley's last song "Come After Breakfast and Bring Your Lunch," proved to be very popular.

THAT WATCH OF YOURS

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch. You put it in your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker, and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time-keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones call around and see us.

A STARTLING INNOVATION

The Laurier Government Militia Council has brought in a report deciding that no attention shall be paid to an Imperial military staff oficer by the military authorities of Canada, except when they are so disposed. This is on a parity with the independent navy scheme.

Instead of welcoming Great Britain's requests that we agree to unite in an understanding in matters of the naval and military defence of the Empire, the Laurier Government has decided upon precisely the reverse. The Mother Country is notified that neither in military nor naval affairs can the Empire count on Canadian co-operation. We are being as surely cut off from British connection in any real sense as if we were independent altogether. That the aim is to become independent when Canada gets just a little bigger and stronger, and more French, there can be no doubt. If not, why emphasize independence in matters of defence? One would think that in such a case we would be only too glad to welcome co-operation. It is to be hoped that before long a Canadian government will assure Great Britain that the Empire can count upon Canada as it now can count upon Australia, South Africa, etc. There is something decidedly invidious in the present state of our affairs, which, however, seems to please French Canada mightily.

TWO CHILDREN SLIDE TO DEATH

Special to the Review.

Tweed, Ont., Dec. 6.—The two sons, aged five and seven years, of Edward Kehoe of Actinolite, about five miles from Tweed, were drowned Sunday afternoon while riding down the bank of the river on a sled. The ice not being strong broke and both boys were drowned before help could reach them.

DEPUTATION WELL PLEASED

With Hospitality of the Peterboro County Council

Lindsay Dec. 6th.—The members of the Victoria County Council who visited Peterborough yesterday and conferred with the Peterborough County Council with reference to the appointment of a new Public School Inspector, cannot speak too highly of the courteous treatment extended to them by Warden Scott and the Peterborough County Councillors. The Victoria Councillors were driven around the city in hacks and shown every point of interest. Warden Scott accompanied them and also took them to the Normal School. This excellent building was inspected throughout.

"They have a grand building with beautiful grounds and excellent equipment," Warden Jordan said this morning.

Mr. G. A. Cornish, science master, a former Lindsay citizen, was pleased to see the Victoria County Council and welcomed them cordially.

"We were treated in a hospitable and cordial manner, and Warden Scott and the rest of the Peterborough County Council were exceedingly courteous to us," said Warden Jordan.

Mayor Begg and Mr. J. Carew, of town, were also with the deputation and speak highly of the kindly treatment.

PERSONAL

Mr. T. H. Ardiel, of the Dominion Bank, Toronto, was in the city over Sunday, visiting friends.

Mr. R. Giddon, conductor of the 57th Regimental Band, will attend the concerts by Sousa's Band at Massey Hall to-morrow afternoon and evening.

Fire Brigade Calls

A false alarm from box 41 gave the fire brigade a run to the corner of Park and London streets on Saturday night about 8.30 o'clock. Last night Mr. Harper, of the George Matthews Co., noticed smoke issuing from the new Adelphi Chambers on George street. The fire department was notified, and it was found that a furnace draught out of order was responsible for the smoke.

A DEFIANCE FROM MR. LASTER

He Argues That He is Not Getting a Fair Show in the Present Discussion.

Note.—The communication following, and which appears over the signature of Mr. B. Laster, is offered for publication by him, independent of the wishes and objects of either side in the local option campaign, and without approval or endorsement by either party. The space occupied is paid for by Mr. Laster, and it is on these conditions that the communication appears.

To the Editor of the Review.

After reading the matter of the local option campaign, under the heading of "Last Minute Arguments" which says: "If one thing has been more clearly shown than another in the present campaign it has been the fact that the opponents of local option do not believe in the potency of any arguments that they may have to advance against its adoption. Notwithstanding invitations in this column and the frequently expressed desire on the part of many private citizens that they should give the public, either through the press or otherwise, the benefit of any light they may have, they have resolutely abstained from doing so. There can be but one conclusion, that they have nothing to present to the public that will carry weight or that cannot be effectually replied to. This is a point for the public to keep clearly in mind. Anything that will not stand the test of fair discussion is of no value, and should be so treated."

Have they not been asked and challenged for a fair discussion? Has not Rev. Mr. Potter stated publicly that he will answer my questions, although senseless as he took them, in due time? He made an excuse, "I could not read them." Have I not published those questions in plain English, and in the face of this, has he the audacity to publish such a letter in the public papers? He did publish the challenge to blindfold the public to think that they are not afraid of any free controversy, and one of their own supporters has stated in a speaker's address that the town has only $5,000 from the hotelkeepers. Then I stood up and told him, with the exception of about $142,000 in wages. The speaker asked me who paid that sum. I answered him "the employers, for their honest work," and when I asked him who paid in Warsaw, which is a local option town, for over 300 barrels of beer, they send for the chief and expel me from the meeting. In the first place, I ask the chief, after their challenge openly in the papers in Saturday's issue, and as the speaker asked me voluntarily the question on his own accord, who pays for them, by what authority did he act in expelling me from the meeting, that is a public meeting and everybody invited to argue through the press or otherwise? What does that mean? Is that not open fraud and misrepresentation? Instead, they should have arrested the whole bunch on the platform for open misrepresentation and suspended the meeting. He just expelled me, although I was in full right to ask and argue with them according to their advertisement. For this, Mr. Chief Rossel, you will have to answer in the proper place. I will not let even you take my right from me, and I hope that in the near future we will have laws in the city so that not even a chief should be allowed to go farther than the law allows him, and to obey the law with everybody, rich or poor. Then I ask the general public: "Will you stand for such a bluffing as is going on during this campaign?" Why, they had advertised this great speaker and were on the platform themselves, and after challenging the people in general to argue with them, at the first question they run for the police for protection. Is this the gospel that they are preaching? If they only take the lecture which has been given to the young men by Mr. Drum, which I must say was a very true and good one in regard to morality, then all you temperance workers should have been gone long ago to the hot place for trying to bring local option here, and and forcing the poor people to the temptation of perjury, immorality and drunkenness a hundred times more than they are when the laws would be strictly enforced. Well, you think by expelling me from the meeting you won a great victory. Now I say that I proved to the people in general that you are wrong and I will tell you one thing, that I begin to feel in me the fighting spirit of old, when it refers for the benefit of the poor, and therefore I am taking the fight single-handed. You cannot face me on the platform in a fair discussion and let me tell you that I will find you with my pen just as hard if not harder. So long as I can help I will not let the poor class of people be robbed of their privileges and their rights which have been given to them by the constitution and the government as every one should be equal by law not with your hypocritical ways as presenting yourselves as saviours of the poor people and letting every rich man who can afford it have intoxicating drinks in clubs or private houses at wholesale prices, while the poor man when he should need a drop of whiskey for his health or a bottle of ale or porter for his sick wife must go to the drug store and pay not as they are paying now 5c, but 50c because that will be medicine. I see all your tricks in the game and be sure the people will be fully advised before the third of January.

Now, about the atrocity of that preacher. He said himself no body knows where and at what the temperance men of the day is aiming. In their greed they let themselves be carried away farther than they should. He had the cheek to make a lie before the whole audience when he could not give an answer to my question, that I was paid by the hotel men for my writing and my supporting them. Let me tell him that while he might sell even his speeches for money. I defy anybody. I will give nobody right to make such statements that I am getting paid for what I am doing although indirectly the hotel keeper will benefit by my opposing the local option. But my aim is not the hotel keeper but the poor man in general. The real state of affairs in the loss to the city in manual labour and financially will come in the next letter.

HOW IS THIS FOR LATE CROP?

Taking in Hay on December 2nd —This Seems a Record.

Making hay while the sun shines applies as a rule to the run of the regular hay season. Quite a departure from the conventional in this regard was noticed by Mr. D. H. Moore, of the Sun Life, as he was driving through the country about three miles west of Pefferlaw on Thursday last, December 2nd.

Here he saw a farmer taking in his second crop of hay—mixed timothy and clover. This, in the opinion of Mr. Moore, and of the agricultural editor of the Review, establishes a precedent for late hay-making, and to use an expression of Mr. Moore's, "is quite a boost for our 'Lady of the Snows'"

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION HAD A MEETING

The Ministerial Association held a regular meeting at the Y M C A this morning with President Rev. E. A. Pearson in the chair. The feature of the meeting was a paper by Rev. J. R. It was a very interesting paper and elicited considerable discussion.

A BEAUTIFUL FUNERAL DESIGN

"The Empty Chariot"—Of White Chrysanthemum and Roses of Delicate Pink.

"The Empty Chariot," a beautiful design of a funeral floral tribute, is to be seen in the window of Mason's flower store, George street. The chariot is represented as being drawn by six white doves with another one driving them, and the driver has departed. The chariot is of white chrysanthemums and roses, and is lined with white silk and tulle. The only relief to the pure white is the delicate pink of the roses.

Building Permits.

Mr. M. McIntyre has taken out a building permit for a brick house on Mark street, the estimated cost being $1,500.

The Peterborough Hardware Company have taken out a permit for their new warehouse on George street. The walls will be of concrete and the building will be 55 feet long and 44 feet wide. The estimated cost is $800.

W. Arbuckle, H. Horris and one Macafie were almost asphyxiated while making a gas connection at a London house.

CONSERVATIVES WILL CONVENE AT WINNIPEG

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—The Conservative sub-committee appointed to make a recommendation as to place of holding big party convention next year will report to the party caucus to-morrow in favor of Winnipeg in July next. If the convention was to be held in winter, Ottawa would be favored, but the idea is to have the convention at Winnipeg during fair week in July.

OTONABEE LODGE TO HAVE A BIG NIGHT

Otonabee Lodge, I O O F, will have a big night to-night. It is the anniversary of the lodge and extensive preparations have been made for the event. Prominent officers of the order will be here, among them Senator Dan Derbyshire, of Brockville, Grand Master, Past Grand Master Johnston, of Toronto, and Past Grand Master (Dr.) Bell, of Toronto. The latter will be presented with a past grand master's jewel. A good programme has been prepared and there will be a large turnout fo the members.

EASILY EXPLAINED

You have heard of the case where a woman ran a needle into her thumb and after 20 years it worked itself out at her big toe. Well, Walkerton has a case that has that one beat a mile, says the Bruce Times. Last year one of our young ladies made the mistake of pinning her belt with a needle, and the needle ran into her and could not be found. Just the other day, it is said to have been found coming out of the arm of one of our young men. We don't know how the needle was recognized as the same, unless by the expression of its eye. How it got from the young lady's waist to this young man's arm is a mystery that baffles science.

OLD TIMERS ARE DAZZLED BY THE IMMENSE PURSE

They Offered for the Jeffries-Johnson Fight—Who Ever Thought Anything Would Command Big Offer of $100,000?—Jeffries For Home Soon.

The smoke of the battle is blowing over. We're beginning to get our breath again. Those big bids had us gasping. Who ever thought of seeing a prize-fight pull down a purse of over $100,000. It is enough to make old John L. Sullivan weep tears because he was born twenty years too soon. Think of the great battles, the desperate battles of the olden time, that didn't draw a tenth of one per cent. of that money—yes, the championships, too.

In the old bare fist, London prize-ring days, men fought almost to the death for a "couple of quid," $10 or so. And even in more modern times, when the ring was really beginning to pay, championships often went for a thousand or two. Take even the greatest of modern championship fights, that between the great Jim Corbett and the great Bob Fitzsimmons in '97—that was fought for a purse of $15,000. Yes, and it was the winner take all. Jim Corbett lost a share of the small purse, and not only that but Jim and all his family lost a great pile of money in the betting.

Bob Fitzsimmons lost, too. Bob, being anxious to "take a chance" and show what a business man he was, pooled interests with Dan Stuart, the promoter, and as the fight was a losing proposition financially, Bob's purse went in to help pay the bills. Bob didn't earn enough out of the whole thing to buy a box of biscuit.

Fitzsimmons and Corbett did make money later on, of course, through their moving pictures. These were the most successful ever taken. It is claimed that Lou Houseman, who had the privilege of exhibiting in Illinois State alone, turned over $105,000 to the fighters as their share of the profits. It was from this wad of easy money that Bob Fitzsimmons drew down the $80,000 that he lost in Wall street, trying to manipulate the copper market. These were great days for Fitzsimmons. He thought that even if he did run down as a fighting machine the moving pictures of that one great fight at Carson would run on forever. They did run for many years, at that.

What the picture rights of this stupendous fight will amount to not even the promoters can dream. Tex Rickard told me yesterday that Jimmy Coffroth hasn't a share of any kind in his enterprise, even in the pictures.

"I'll bet $5,000, or any other amount, that Coffroth isn't in it in any way," said Rickard. "I'll give any odds any one wants, for I know. We have the whole thing tied up. We will make the terms. I will be satisfied to run this fight for glory, if need be, and depend upon the gate money, for it's going to be a tremendous success. But the pictures will be velvet, and I haven't been able to figure out yet how much they'll bring in.'

If the Corbett-Fitzsimmons pictures earned $105,000 in Illinois State alone, what did they draw in the whole United States? No one but the owners of the pictures can tell, and they aren't giving away state secrets. These Jeffries-Johnson pictures will be in demand all over the world. France is fight-mad now. England has the fever, for in slow old England, where purses have always been small, they have risen to a height of a $50,000 offer for a fight between Langford and Johnson.

The whole world seems to be fight-mad and money-mad all at once. In Australia the pictures will be better than a private mint, especially if Jeffries wins within ten or fifteen rounds. Johnson is cordially hated in Australia, and every one would turn out to see him whipped, even on canvas.

That's the one question about the pictures: "Who'll win?" If Jeffries wins they'll no doubt be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars more than if Johnson retains the championship title.

Jim Jeffries isn't going on a long theatrical tour, as reported. Jim is signed up for a "homeward tour." He starts from New York and plays city after city, winding up in Los Angeles on Jan. 15. From that time on he will train. That leaves him a little over four and a half solid months.

No one will have any complaint to make about his efforts, for Jeffries means business. He'll take no chance. He'll shirk no work, however hard it may be. And he always was a slasher at training. Even now he works for a couple of hours a day, which accounts for the almost incredible improvement in his condition.

SOME FIGHTS THAT WERE STAGED TO BIG BUSINESS

The Jeffries-Johnson fight, it is expected, will draw the biggest house that ever witnessed a fistic mill. This forthcoming battle calls to mind other big fistic attractions where the receipts amounted to an enormous sum.

When Johnson whipped Burns in Australia last winter for a $35,000 purse of which Burns received $30,000, it is claimed the gross receipts were nearly $150,000, although Promoter McIntosh never gave out the official figures. Next to this affair the Corbett-McCoy fake fight in Madison Square Garden is supposed to have drawn the biggest gate, but there is some doubt even about that. While it is generally thought that 75,000 was taken in at the box offices, it is stated semi-officially that $57,000 was the real amount.

Aside from this affair, the largest purse ever fought for in this country was $69,715, the result of the first Gans-Nelson battle at Goldfield, Nevada. Jeffries and Sharkey fought for $67,000 at Coney Island, while Jeff and Fitzsimmons mixed it up for $63,000 at the same place. Corbett and Jeffries drew $62,340 in Frisco, a record for the Earthquake City, where other fights have drawn big money, as follows:—Nelson-Britt (1905), $43,311; Gans-Britt, $36,000; Britt-Young Corbett, $32,266; Jeffries-Fitzsimmons, $31,800; Jeffries-Ruhlin, $31,487; Britt-Nelson Nelson (1904), $26,900; Burns-Squires, $25,250; Johnson-Ketchel, $17,000; O'Brien-Fitzsimmons, $16,407; Young Corbett-Nelson, (1904), $16,407; Young Corbett-Nelson (1905), $11,368.

In New York City, under the Horton law Corbett and Sharkey drew $48,000 at the Lenox A.C. Fitzsimmons and Ruhlin fought for $45,000 in Madison Square Garden. Sharkey and Ruhlin proved a magnet for $40,000 at Coney Island, while Sharkey and McCoy drew $37,000 at the Lenox A.C. The Jeffries-Corbett battle at the Island netted $35,000, and the McGovern-Erne bout in the Garden produced $32,000. Sharkey and Fitzsimmons attracted $25,000. McGovern and Dixon got $20,000, and Choynski and McCoy split up $20,000.

Gans and Herman battled for $30,705 at Tonopah, Nevada, and when Nelson and McGovern hooked up for six rounds in Philadelphia there was almost $25,000 in the house. Ketchel and O'Brien drew $20,000 for 10 rounds in New York City during last winter, and about the same amount for six rounds in Philadelphia. The O'Brien-Johnson six-round bout in Quakerville netted about $17,000, and the Driscoll-Attell 10-round bout in New York drew $18,000.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons, together with the late Dan A. Stuart, who managed their fight at Carson City, cut up $22,000 after all expenses had been paid. The Corbett-Sullivan fight at New Orleans in 1892 was for a $25,000 purse and a $10,000 side bet, which was considered big money in those days.

HICKEY WILL PLAY IN LOWELL

Fred Hickey, the successful local pitcher who is easily the best twirler in Ontario, signed a contract yesterday to play ball next season with the Lowell (Mass.) Club of the New England League.

Hickey will report for duty on the 15th of April.

The manager of the Lowell team is John Smith, who thinks he has a prize in Hickey.—Toronto Star.

HOCKEY

LINDSAY PREPARING

Outside hockey centres have been gleefully laughing up their sleeves because the impression has been going round that Lindsay will not defend the intermediate trophy won after a hard struggle last year!

But they won't laugh long!

A team from this town will be right in line when the ice freezes and if the cup goes, well, there'll be some hockey played first.

It would have been a sad tarnish on the sporting public of Lindsay if the cup was allowed to go undefended. Such a thing is almost unknown of in hockey, the team having possession of a trophy always making a hard fight to keep it, anyway.

The team suggested in this paper last night has created enthusiasm in town. Followers of the game are greatly tickled over the proposed team and with a proper management behind it there will be some good hockey furnished in Lindsay this winter.

"What's Goosie Taylor doing in goal?" was asked. The question is a natural one for Taylor has always been a forward player. But anyone who has followed the game closely in Lindsay will tell you that Taylor is one of the smoothest goal tenders going, but his services have always been too valuable elsewhere to place him there when another man was available.

Newton has dropped out of hockey for good, he says, and so Taylor will be between the nets.

Leo Cote will likely be seen along right wing this winter. The boy played good hockey for the Midgets when the Stratford Midgets took the championship of the junior series a few years ago, and he showed rare ability against the all-star Stratford team.

Kenny Randall will spend the winter here and Frank Cote is a fixture in town. Billy Stoddard is another invaluable man. This maps out a complete forward line. Green and Beatty are two men proposed for the defence.

The men behind the team are quietly going about arranging matters and will have everything ready by the time ice arrives.—Lindsay Warder.

Lindsay Warder.—The management of the Lindsay junior O.H.A. hockey team have now everything in readiness for a fast team this winter, and when Jack Frost puts in an appearance over twenty players will be out for practice. Lindsay has a number of fast promising juniors and with a good trainer and lost of practice a fast team will represent the town in the O.H.A.

Some of the players who will turn out are:—McMahon, Connors, Heatly, Greer, Newton, Gray, Stewart, Hickingbottom, McEvoy, Parrington, Beecroft, Hovey, Callaghan, McConnell, Mercer, Wilson, Dennison.

A meeting of all those interested in the formation of a Mercantile Hockey League will be held at the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow evening at eight o'clock.

BOWLING

A meeting of the Peterborough Bowling Club will be held to-night at the P. B. C. alleys at 7.30 o'clock.

BASKET BALL AT THE Y.W.C.A.

Considerable interest is being taken in the young ladies' basketball match at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium on Friday evening, December 10th. There will be interesting fancy drills also.

WIFE MUST STAND TRIAL

A Tragedy of Color in Louisiana—A Cousin of Von Bullow—One Drop of Black Blood Fatal.

New Orleans, Dec. 4.—The pathetic suicide of Edward von Buelow, first cousin of Prince von Buelow, former Chancellor of Germany, has stirred up a tremendous amount of public sentiment against the "miscegenation law," which prohibits a white person marrying another having a trace of negro blood, no matter how faint it may be.

That law killed Von Buelow, a brilliant, popular, lovable man. He drowned himself, rather than stand trial for having violated it. His wife, as white-skinned as the proudest Southern belle in this city, was an octoroon.

Business enemies of the man found this out and in revenge for a coup he played upon them in the cotton market, they first ruined him financially, then exposed his wife's secret (though it was no secret to him) and caused his arrest.

HER FATHER WAS A JUDGE.

A tragic feature of the Von Buelow affair is that the widow, who is a beautiful and cultured woman, is of a splendid line on her father's side. Her father was a judge bearing an old and honored name. He educated and provided for her while he lived and loved her as much if not more than the children whom he openly recognized.

Von Buelow, adventure seeking, gave up a life of luxury and rank in Germany 20 years ago, when he was about 22 years old, and came to America. He joined the navy, and after winning his way to an officership, resigned and settled in this city in 1902.

He was in constant communication with Prince von Buelow, his cousin, and often spoke of their kinship, although he did not boast of it. He was accepted in good society and, engaging in the cotton business, soon made a comfortable fortune. Then he married.

The girl told him about her parentage when he asked her to be his wife. She said it was impossible for them to marry, that she was of the inferior race, that if her friends knew of the trace of negro blood in her veins they would never speak to her or look at her again.

Von Buelow replied that the Germans were as proud as the Southerners, but that he did not care about her parentage; he cared about herself and he persuaded her that no one need ever know their secret.

NO TRACE OF CHILDREN.

They had only one apprehension after their marriage. That was about their children. It was possible they felt that there might be a reversion to the negro blood, as sometimes happens. But their son, now six years old, proved to be a flaxen-haired, blue-eyed little tot, and their happiness was complete. The daughter, born a couple of years later, was likewise a dainty little bit of the fatherland.

A few months ago Von Buelow incurred the ill-will of a certain group of cotton speculators. They vowed to have revenge upon him and they led him into a speculative trap in which he lost everything he had—his home and about $100,000. Then in some manner they learned of his wife's mulatto mother and they had him arrested.

Von Buelow's real friends went to his aid and gave bail for him and promised to stand by him in his troubles, but he was heart-broken. His wife was "cut," as she had predicted. His children were mocked.

Long Canals.

The Grand Canal of China is the longest entirely artificial waterway in the world, extending as it does from Hangchau to Pekin, a distance of almost 700 miles. The part between the Yellow River and the Yangtze is said to have been constructed 500 years before Christ. The remaining portions were built separately at later dates, and Kublai-Khan, whose rule began in 1280, united them and made the continuous canal, which is still used. Much longer continuous waterways, partially natural and for the remainder of their extent artificial, exist elsewhere. Of these the longest reaches from the Chinese frontier to St. Petersburg. It measure 4,472 miles. Another, running from Astrakham to St. Petersburg, is 1,434 miles. Both these were projected and commenced by Peter the Great.

His Nose For News.

A cub reporter on a big daily paper was sent out by the city editor to get a story on the marriage of a young society girl and a man well known in the city.

The "cub" was gone about an hour and then returned and went aimlessly over to his desk, by which he sat down. Shortly afterward the city editor noticed his presence and his evident idleness.

"Here, kid!" shouted the superior. "Why aren't you at work on that wedding?"

"Nothin' doing," replied the boy.

"Nothing doing! What do you mean? Didn't the wedding take place?"

"Nope. The bridegroom never showed up, so there ain't nothin' to write."

The Nebulae.

The discovery of the gaseous nature of the nebulae came about largely through the use of the spectroscope and spectrum analysis. Fraunhofer proved that the spectrum of an ignited gaseous body is "noncontinuous, with interrupting lines," and J. W. Draper demonstrated that the spectrum of an ignited solid is always continuous, with no interrupting lines. In this way it was proved that many of the nebulae are gaseous, illustrating the process of development actually going on.

Canada's revenue is increasing $15,000,000 per year.

TOO MUCH DEVOTION.

The Average Child Is Killed With Kindness.

No doubt ten children suffer from neglect in their upbringing where one suffers from too much attention. A great deal is said about the ten neglected ones. There are institutions and hospitals and organized charities to care for them. But it never occurs to any one to enter a protest on behalf of the child who is killed with kindness, though the killing process is just as fatal in one case as in the other and the victim just as deserving of commiseration.

One wouldnt expect much from a little plant that was pulled up by the roots every day to see how it was growing, and yet that is pretty much the way some women watch and tend their children. They are never out of the range of the watchful mother eye and never out of hearing of that admonishing voice which says, "Now, do be careful."

It is pretty well for a mother to know about a child's play as well as his eating and sleeping, what his companions are like and what kind of games he plays; but, aside from that, there is such a thing as an overdose of watchfulness.

It probably never occurs to such a mother that she is actually harming her child by her continued watchfulness, but the truth is that she is making him self conscious and lacking in assurance and developing in him a sort of repression and timidity which are positively harmful to him, both physically and mentally.

The devotion of modern mothers comes in for a word of criticism in a recent issue of Harper's Bazar. The following dialogue illustrates the case in point:

"Reggie, where are you?"

"Just here."

"What are you doing?"

"Nothing."

"Now, Reggie, don't try to deceive me. Tell me this minute what are you doing?"

"Nothing, mother; just playing with my blocks."

"Well, be careful."

"I'm being it."

And it seems that this boy was frail. Suppose you had to live through days of that sort of thing, wouldn't you be rather frail?

The verdict of the doctor who was called in to prescribe for this frail boy was "too much watching."

"Let him alone," he said. "There is a sort of psychological influence which is hard to explain that works on the child who is always watched and which takes the life out of him." And the doctor is quoted as saying further.

"The care you take of the child is nine parts selfish. You are really less concerned about him than you are about yourself. You don't want to have to worry about something that may happen to him. That is what is frightening you."

The doctor's analysis of the mother's concern seems a little harsh, but it does suggest that a more truly unselfish spirit would be one which would risk a few tumbles and bruises and even a broken bone or two rather than to worry and harass her small son into a state of semi-invalidism.

HOUSEWIFE'S HINTS.

A crust of bread helps to clean out a sticky bread pan.

Petroleum ointment-stains are obstinate, and the best thing for them is to soak them in kerosene.

If you accidentally spill ice cream on a silk waist try using alcohol to remove the grease blemish. It also removes a candy or gum blemish.

If your furniture has grown dull and streaked try rubbing up with a flannel dipped in equal parts of turpentine and coal oil. It polishes quickly and much more cheaply than expensive polishes.

Put a good sized lump of salt into a cup of vinegar and put into the vessel that is discolored and let it stand for half a day. Wash well with warm water and soap and the sediment will come off easily.

The dishwasher who would get through quickly invests in a soap shaker and a chain for cleaning pots and pans. She also has on hand over the sink a box of borax and a bottle of ammonia for cutting grease.

Always empty a teakettle after using and before filling again with fresh water rinse thoroughly. In that way you avoid boiling possible germs over and over and also keep sediment from forming on the bottom of the kettle.

"Red" meats are less liable to contamination than fish or chicken. The latter should not be eaten if there is the least suspicion of odor about them. Beef slightly tainted, though disagreeable, will not produce ptomaine poisoning.

A loaf of bread will keep fresh much longer if placed in a covered stone crock. Wrap in a large cloth to exclude air and keep the crock in a cool place. It is nicer than a tin vessel and much better than keeping the bread in the refrigerator.

Instead of passing hours of labor cleaning a greasy sink, especially one of glazed ware, put a little paraffin oil upon a piece of flannel and rub sink. It will remove all grease. Then wash with hot water and soap and flush with cold water. It also cleanses the pipes at the same time.

To Keep Olives.

An easy way to keep a partially used bottle of olives in good condition is to put in the bottle a teaspoonful of pure olive oil or enough to cover the top of the liquid left in the bottle. This will keep the olives from becoming flat and stale.

Victory Lodge, S.O.E., of St. Catharines, will erect and equip a cottage for the local tuberculosis hospital.

Cures For Insomnia.

Sufferers from insomnia, says one who has had some experience with this trouble, should avoid sweet desserts at night as well as tea, coffee and greasy foods. Whether it is better to retire with an empty or partly full stomach can be determined only by experiment in each individual case. One of the best ways, says the same authority, to draw the blood from the brain before retiring is to take a moderately swift walk, and if there is still difficulty in getting to sleep a tepid bath and a gentle rub will bring the blood from the brain to the surface of the body. If the cause of sleeplessness is susceptibility to sound, stuffing ears with medicated cotton will be useful.

GALA TIME FOR SALVATION ARMY AT THE RE-OPENING OF NEW HEADQUARTERS

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P., Presided at Meeting on Saturday Night—Mayor Rush, Several Aldermen, Chief Roszel and Chief Howard Prominent at the Sunday Meetings — Leading Officers of the Army Here.

The Peterborough Salvation Army corps has had a busy time ever since Saturday night, the occasion being the dedication services of the temple on Simcoe street. So many changes have been made that one would hardly recognize the premises and the large number of citizens who were present Saturday evening and yesterday were loud in their praise of the new quarters. The first of the re-opening meetings was held on Saturday night when the principal speaker was Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P. The prominent officers of the Army here for the services were Lieut.-Col. Gaskin, Field Secretary for Canada, and Newfoundland; Brigadier Hargraves, divisional officer for Eastern Ontario, and Quebec, and S. A. Church, editor of "The Young Soldier." All the meetings were largely attended and there were generous contributions to the funds of the Army. The main auditorium was well filled on Saturday evening. The band was present in full force and gave a number of fine selections.

Mr. Stratton received a hearty reception when he was called upon and arose to speak. He commented on the large number of ladies present and stated that if it were not for the ladies there would not be a church in the land, as the men did not have the same opportunity to do the work. "I have been called upon to preside at many church gatherings," Mr. Stratton said, "but no where have I presided where I esteemed it a higher honor than at the gatherings of the Salvation Army in Peterborough. I have watched the progress of the Army since its organization in this city and believe that it has done more good according to its number, than any of the other churches. You have done that portion of the work that the other churches have been unable to, through not having the same opportunities. I believe the Salvation Army in Peterborough has made many drunken men sober, to the great benefit of mothers and wives, and many homes have been reached and made happier. More moral wrecks have been reclaimed by the Salvation Army than by any other organization I know of; families have been fed, the naked have been clothed and the fallen raised, and in doing this the true spirit of Christianity had been shown."

The present building was now better equipped to carry on the good work with more success than ever before, and Mr. Stratton paid a high tribute to Staff Captain Walton, who had by his own efforts, raised two of the three thousand dollars needed. There were still others who have not been reached, but who would be willing to help and he had no hesitancy in saying that the full amount needed by the Salvation Army would be forthcoming. He did not believe the building was as large as necessary and hoped to see the time when there would be a further extension and all that was needed was a little more energy and the results would be brought about. He had always found it necessary in political life to have some point from which to carry on the work and the same could be said of the church. Some place was required where the friends and members could meet one another to discuss ways and means of going about the work. He was also glad to see that the basement had been arranged for the Sunday School. It could be easily seen that the children were not being neglected. The teacher should be given an opportunity to accomplish her work in their interests as it was a labor of love for her to instruct the children and persuade them to follow in the footsteps of those who had preceded them.

"I congratulate the Salvation Army and the citizens of Peterborough in having such a building," Mr. Stratton said. "It is a good thing for the city. She cannot have too many of this kind. I hope to see another building erected in some other portion of the city where the people may meet In the carrying on of its work the Army is showing an example of perseverance and self-denial to the country and I hope that they will meet with greater success in the future."

In conclusion Mr. Stratton thanked the Army for the opportunity to be present on the occasion and wished them God-speed in the work.

Other speakers were Mrs. Gaskin, Col. Gaskins and Judge Huycke, all of whom congratulated the officers and members of the Peterborough corps of the Salvation Army, on the dedication of the temple.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon the chair was occupied by his Worship Mayor Rush and among those on the platform were Aldermen Morgan, Metheral, Morrow and Gillespie and Chief Roszel and Fire Chief Howard. A splendid address was given by Colonel Gaskin, who is a speaker of much ability and a humorist in many ways. He was given a most enthusiastic reception. The band furnished music and there were short speeches from the aldermen present. At the conclusion of the speeches Fire Chief Howard, at the request of the officers of the Army moved a vote of thanks to Col. Gaskin for so ably assisting in the dedication of the temple, more especially when it was taken into consideration that the colonel came to Peterborough under considerable difficulty, not being in the best of health for some time. Chief Howard coupled the name of Mrs. Gaskin in the motion and asked the audience, in which there were many representative citizens, to join in the response.

Chief Roszel seconded the motion and in doing so made some feeling remarks about the work of the Salvation Army and also gave some interesting reminiscences of the early days of the Army in Peterborough. The motion was put by his Worship the Mayor and was carried with enthusiasm. Col. Gaskin has apparently endeared himself to the large congregations that attended the services.

The meeting last night was largely attended and the addresses of Brigadier Hargraves and Col. Gaskin were followed with deep interest.

SAM SMALL OUTSPOKEN AGAINST LIQUOR TRAFFIC AT OPERA HOUSE MEETING

"I was once a captive of the galling strains of strong drink, but when I came out of the midst of it and found the rock of salvation, in gratitude to God, I wanted to release the many sterling youths and the strong men who were yet within its grasp," said Rev. Sam Small last night to a crowded Opera House. His lecture on "Personal Liberty" in connection with the local option campaign proved decidedly interesting, and in dealing with the liquor question showed that he was well acquainted with it, admitting that for a number of years in his early life he had been a victim to its curse. He speaks in most outspoken, unmistakable words, and, being a man of much personal magnetism, holds the undivided attention of his hearers.

After the singing of a number of hymns, Mr. H. P. Kennedy, who occupied the chair, gave some reasons why he intended, as a business man, to vote for local option. He had travelled a great deal and had seen much of the evil of strong drink. He knew of business men who owed their ruin and downfall to drinking.

DR. SMALL'S ADDRESS.

The speaker of the evening at the outset, stated that it was his intention to give some good and sufficient reasons why the liquor traffic should be abolished, not only in Peterborough, but throughout this great Dominion, and he began by giving a very apt illustration. "Into the market place of an Oriental city one day," he said, "there strolled a stranger. He saw a number of gilded cages, each of which contained a bird, that to him seemed to flutter about in vainless effort to be free. The stranger purchased the cages, opening them one by one, until all the winged creatures had their freedom. The stranger had once been a captive himself and knew what it was to be free." The speaker said that it was the same way with the liquor evil. It was their duty to release the hundreds of men who were held in the throes of strong drink.

"I do not deliver temperance lectures," Dr. Small continued. "One never knows which way a temperance man is going. I remember being in Sandusky, Ohio, at one time when the National Brewers' Congress was meeting there. They passed a resolution to this effect: 'Be it therefore resolved that we stand as the 'apostles of temperance.' The makers of the evil were standing as examples of temperance. There is a good deal of ignorance and prejudice in regard to the reform movement. The liquor man doesn't see why his business should be interfered with. The sale of liquor is a licensed evil and not a business. The liquor traffic has always been run under special statutes. The man who sells shoes gives something for value received. The hotelman leaves his customer nothing but a craving appetite. I sympathize with the man that has that awful appetite. There are men who say, "I don't give much for the one who can't take a drink and leave it alone." These are the ones who never leave it alone. I drank until my little children shrank from a staggering father.

The drunkard carries home to his wife and family misery, hunger and disgrace. That is what he gets in exchange for what he leaves at the "booze foundry." Hotelkeepers live under a special privilege from the people. They can't vote themselves in. They are simply licensed purveyors. (The liquor shops belong to the people, the keepers being nothing more than volunteers who look after the citizens' places. Everyone that holds a license is as much an official as your mayor or council. The city allows these places for $5,000 a year. Is there not common sense enough in the town to drive out the devil and his gang?"

At this juncture Mr. B. Lastar broke in on the speaker and told him that $49,000 in wages, to two hundred and thirty employees was spent in Peterborough.

"Whose money is it and where do you get it?" asked Dr. Small.

"It is money earned," Mr. Lastar answered.

Mr. Lastar questioned the speaker as to who was carrying the large quantities of liquor to a small place like Warsaw, where local option was in force, to which Rev. Mr. Small replied that there was always a certain number of "lawless devils" who defied the law made for their own protection.

Prohibition prohibited, he remarked, where the officers of the law were faithful to their oath.

The speaker took occasion to refer to the attitude of the newspapers in regard to local option. "You can't depend on them," he said. "I know they don't always stick to the truth because I edited one myself for twenty years."

In conclusion Dr. Small pointed out that the liquor traffic must go, and urged everyone on the third of January to mark their ballots for local option.

LOCAL BANKS ARE SHIPPING BACK AMERICAN COINS

Local banking institutions are now making shipments of American silver coins back to Uncle Sam's treasury department. This is being done according to an agreement made in September last between the Dominion Government and the Canadian Bankers' association, in which all Canadian banks were to ship over the border all American silver which in the course of business came into their possession.

Mr. J. H. Ferguson, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, discussing the question to-day, stated that all the local banks were now making shipments of American coin. Each bank, he explained, sent their own shipments direct to the United States Treasury Department, and in presenting proper certificates to the Dominion Government were given credit for the amount. The object of the agreement, he continued, was to put in circulation as much as possible of Canadian coin.

No attempt is made to keep the American coin from coming in over the line but the fact that such large quantities are being shipped back is already making a noticeable difference in the amount of Canadian coin in circulation.

The Government refunds all express charges to the banks and also pays them a small commission for the work of separating and shipping back the coin.

DEVELOPMENTS IN MAYORALTY SITUATION EXPECTED TO-NIGHT

Developments in the mayoralty situation are expected at the meeting of the City Council to-night. Several of the prospective candidates are slated for two years in the City Council, and if they are going to enter the fight in reality they will likely hand in their resignations this evening, so that they can be accepted by the council. The aldermen spoken of in this connection are Ald. Morgan, Ald. Morrow and Ald. Butler.

In several western cities the mayoralty candidates have already announced themselves and have placed their cards in the newspapers. Such is not the case in Peterborough. Here it is as hard to get a statement from a prospective candidate as it is to find the North Pole without using gum drops.

AN EXPEDITION OF RELIEF

Will be Sent to Island of Tiburon to Rescue Men From Cannibals

Special to the Review.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—A relief expedition will be sent to the Island of Tiburon in the Gulf of California, where eight Arizonas and fifty Mexican soldiers are believed to have fallen into the hands of the cannibals that inhabit the island. It was on this island, which is owned by Mrs. Blinn, of this city, that Prof. Grindel was killed several years ago, while leading an exploration party.

The missing party went to explore the island.

MAY ENLARGE THEIR PREMISES

It is understood that W. J. Hopwood & Sons, wholesale manufacturers' agents, corner Water and Simcoe streets, have plans on foot to enlarge their premises. It is probable that they will take over the premises now occupied by M. T. Butcher. Improvements to the building are also contemplated.

BAND REHEARSAL THIS EVENING

A special rehearsal of the 57th Band for the concert on Friday evening will be held in the band room of the armories this evening. Every member of the band is expected to be present at the practice this evening.

An ancient grave found at Muskegon, Mich., is believed to the tomb of the explorer, Du Bois.

MR. LASTER WANTS A PUBLIC MEETING

Entreats the Mayor and Council to Afford Means of Ample-publicity

To the Mayor and Council of the City of Peterborough:—

Gentleman,—Having been a citizen and property owner of the city for about seven years and as I would like to see the city and its inhabitants prosper, and as you know what interest I am taking in the present local option campaign which was instigated by a small number of irresponsible citizens. As they have every Saturday in their literature challenged everybody to come and ask any questions which they will in the interest of the public answer, and prove their right cause, I have challenged them at my own expense and asked permission in the interest of the people of the city. I was at first ignored and even last week they have made a statement before the public that they will answer in due time, and as they have only last Saturday again in their literature in the public papers to say and try to blindfold the people in saying that no anti-local man has dared, although they have invited them through the press, and by private ways and challenge anyone to come forward and argue with them in the interest of the public, I therefore took it for granted what they said was true and as I only made a remark, although led by one of their own men at first, I was with the help of the police expelled.

I therefore appeal to you, gentlemen, men who were intrusted by all the citizens to look after the welfare of the city and whatever your opinion about local option may be, you are the men to look after the welfare of the city without partiality to any party and as yourselves in conjunction with the Board of Trade had a meeting lately and came to the conclusion that it would pay to spent $5,000 a year if you could only succeed in getting one manufacturing concern in two years which would pay the city only for the reason of seeing the city larger and prosper better, and here at the same time are a small number of people trying to take the bread of 230 working people and about 265 who are dependent on them to make their living under the excuse that they will save the poor people they are actually forcing the poor as experience has shown us to more drunkenness, immoral life and perjury at a time if they only wanted to be sensible and really help the poor they could try what has already been proved a success, namely the T. A. S., without any inconvience to anybody. I therefore ask you, not in favor of any hotel keeper, but in the name of the majority of all the working class of people to call a meeting presided over by the mayor, in whom we all have the fullest confidence of impartiality. Let all your aldermen give their ideas without fear that they may lose a few votes by expressing their opinion. Call a few speakers who are favoring local option and who know Peterborough and a few who are against it and let us discuss the matter from both sides, and whatever the opinion will be given by the speakers the people of Peterborough will be given a chance to see both sides of the question and will act accordingly.

Hoping that you will see the matter in the same light.

Yours truly,
B. LASTAR.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION IS DISCUSSED IN THE HOUSE

Member for South Wellington Introduces a Resolution Into the Commons Favoring an Extensive Campaign—One of the Nation's Most Pressing Needs.

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Hugh Guthrie (Liberal, South Wellington) moved: "That in the opinion of this House it is advisable that a commission of enquiry be forthwith appointed to investigate the needs of Canada in respect to technical education, and to report on ways and means by which these needs may be best met."

Then two remarkable things happened, the Liberal majority fell to 33, which is the lowest since 1896, and the strongest Opposition to the Government since the days of Mr. Bourassa came from within its own party.

Hon. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, opposed the resolution, after a wordy speech, and dissertation upon the needs of technical education. Incidentally he made a bad break, having forgotten that the Premier himself had told the Trades and Labor Congress that the appointment of such a commission was under consideration of the Government.

But the Government rose to his rescut, and while many Liberals had supported Mr. Guthrie in their speeches, only two had the courage to vote for him.

Mr. Guthrie introduced the resolution, he said, at the request of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. The C.M.A. had taken the question up with the Boards of Trade, the heads of the higher institutions of education and the provincial Premiers. All were in favor of Government action, and the Premiers of the provinces agreed that something could be done by the Dominion without in any way trespassing upon the constitutional rights of the provinces to deal with matters of education.

Mr. Guthrie quoted from various resolutions to show that the demand was not local, or sectional, but national in its character. It had been so regarded by Germany, the United States and Switzerland, where much headway had been made.

Technical education was desired by the workman because it gave him an opportunity to improve his condition, and by the manufacturers because it would enable them to compete successfully with countries where a large portion of the population consisted of citizens who had been technically instructed.

The chief objection would no doubt be the constitutional one, that under the terms of section 93 of the B.N.A. Act, the matter of education was placed entirely under the control of the Provincial Governments. But there were many things the Federal Government might do to encourage technical education without infringing upon the rights of the provinces. The fathers of Confederation had no conception of the problem of technical education, which did not exist in their day. A technical education could be more properly described as "industrial training," and it had little to do with the system of scholastic training contemplated when the B.N.A. Act was framed.

"It is a matter," said Mr. Guthrie, "of economics rather than culture, of dollars and cents, rather than of scholarships and refinement."

Some of the subjects were now taught in our colleges, because the colleges had found it necessary to include them in the curriculum. The colleges, however, did not meet the demand from the sons of the artisan classes who desired to be technically educated.

The Federal Government would be justified in doing something for this branch of education under section 91, of the B.N.A. Act, which gave the Federal Government control of trade and commerce. At Kingston, in the Royal Military College, the Government was carrying on tuition as an adjunct of military training, why should it not therefore go into industrial training, as an adjunct of trade and commerce?

Mr. Guthrie's suggestions included an inquiry into electrical smelting and pulp wood situation and the establishment of experimental stations for machinery and grants to Provincial Governments. He suggested that the commission might visit the United States and the continent. Even if the Government did nothing in the way of establishing schools, etc., the information so gained would be of value to the provinces.

Mr. Haggart (Winnipeg) said that a trained industrial people was one of the best assets of a country, and he did not think that the people would consider this Parliament was exceeding its jurisdiction in providing for technical education.

Ralph Smith (Nanaimo) considered that the Government should take up and control the technical education of the country. Labor men ought to stand for any system or any principle that would help the masses of the people.

No country in the world was suffering from so great a disadvantage as Canada in the supply of skilled labor. The greatest percentage of accidents in the world in operating coal mines was in Canada, and British Columbia was the worst of the provinces in this respect. Men without training had been imported into these enterprises, there being a difficulty in getting skilled men.

Oliver J. Wilcox, the recently-elected member for North Middlesex, was introduced to the House yesterday by R. L. Borden and J. R. Armstrong.

Hon. Mr. Fielding intimated his intention of bringing down the budget on Thursday, but to oblige Mr. Foster, who said he could not be present on that day the Minister of Finance said he would delay it, probably until to-day week.

VETERANS ASK DELAY

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—A deputation consisting of Lieut.-Col. Hurdman, Maj. Woodside, Maj. Winter and Andrew Miller waited upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Frank Oliver on behalf of the South African Veterans' Association to apply for a two-years' extension of time on which to locate land grants.

They claimed that to force the men to take action within the present year would be playing into the hands of the speculators, as most of the men would be forced to sell their rights, not having had time to make the necessary arrangements to take up a farm for themselves. It was also requested that the veterans be allowed to make applications for grants and locations at the Winnipeg land office.

CAR ROBBERS ARE SENT TO PRISON

Welland, Dec. 7.—Judge Wells yesterday sentenced the four young men who were implicated in the car robberies at the Michigan Central yards at Bridgeburg. Chester Lawson was sent to Central prison for nine months, John Kee and Robert Garvin for 14 months and Maurice Woodlee for 23 months. They are members of the most respected families in Bridgeburg and none of them had ever before appeared in a court.

CONGRESS IS OPENED AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Dec. 7.—The two Houses of Congress convened yesterday for the first regular session of the 61st Congress, but practically no business was transacted. The President's message is not expected for ten days or so.

Representative Mann introduced a bill to make it a crime for any person to aid, entice or force any female to go from one state to another for immoral purposes, whether with or without her consent; with a penalty of five years' imprisonment or a fine of $5,000. If the girl be under the age of 18 years the penalty is doubled.

AN UNKNOWN IS KILLED

Toronto, Dec. 7.—Run down by Dundas street car No. 1,036, driven by Motorman No. 1,336, an unknown man was almost instantly killed shortly before 7 o'clock last night in front of the City Hall. He died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital.

Deceased was about 65 years of age, and weighed about 160 pounds. He was bald on top of his head, wore a grey beard and moustache and was clad in a blue flannel shirt, grey tie, cardinal jacket, striped vest, dark trousers and a blue overcoat.

NEW HOSPITAL FOR ST. KITT'S

St. Catharines, Dec. 7.—Council last night decided to submit a bylaw to the ratepayers at the January election to authorise a grant of $15,000 to the trustees of the General Marine Hospital towards the erection of a new $75,000 hospital. A request for $10,000 for repairs to the Collegiate Institute was again laid over.

SEVERAL CARS GO THROUGH BRIDGE

New Liskeard, Dec. 7.—An accident occurred on the T. & N. O. at Uno Park, about six miles north of here, when the van and two cars of a northbound freight went through the large bridge.

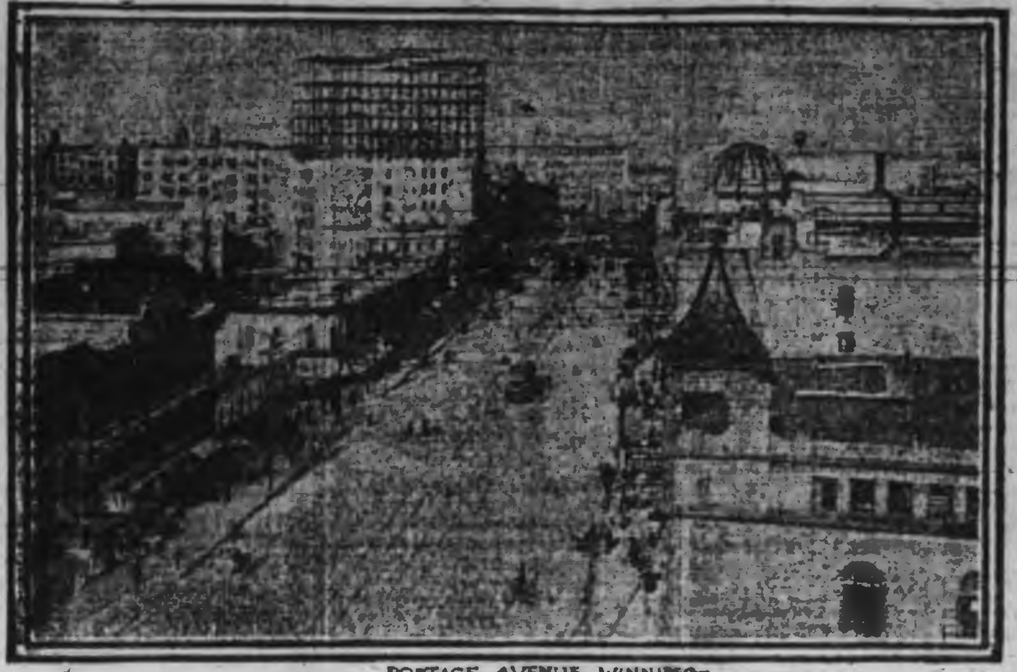
Luckily the van was unoccupied, but a car of pulp was lost in the river, and the van was destroyed by fire.

Traffic north of here is completely blocked, but the railway officials affirm trains will be running in a few days.

THREE BODIES ARE EXHUMED

Wyoming, Dec. 7.—Dr. A. J. Harrington of Toronto, accompanied by Inspector Greer, yesterday exhumed the bodies of Mrs. A. R. McLachlan and her two little boys, for the purpose of obtaining evidence as to poison at the trial of A. R. McLachlan, now in Whitby jail, charged with their murder.

FINE STREET VISTA IN WINNIPEG, MANITOBA



PORTAGE AVENUE—WINNIPEG

Thousands of citizens of the United States this year have invaded the great Canadian North-west which has been opened up by the Grand Trunk Pacific pushing its lines through to the Pacific Ocean and opening up a territory which heretofore has been considered a wilderness and too cold to produce the ordinary crops raised throughout the States. But when it comes to a grain country, especially wheat, the Canadian Northwest now ranks with the producing countries of the globe. Winnipeg, the metropolis of Western Canada, has probably made greater strides in the last ten years than any other city on the American continent, surely greater than any city in Canada. It to-day compares favorably with such cities in the States as St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Buffalo, with its wide avenues, excellent streets, car service and fine office buildings.

ATLANTIC FLEET OF THE C.N.R.

New Departure for the Railway is Confirmed—Two Vessels Already Purchased.

Montreal, Dec. 7.—Official confirmation was last evening given to the report that the Canadian Northern had concluded arrangements to start an Atlantic fleet of steamships, the story being agreed to by Mr. E. Mackay Edgar, of the London banking firm of Sperling & Co. Mr. Edgar stated that arrangements had been made to finance the nucleus of the future fleet, whose vessels will sail between Montreal, Quebec and Liverpool, in connection with the C.N.R.'s growing transcontinental system.

It is regarded as quite possible that the incursion of the Canadian Northern into the Atlantic steamship business may be responsible for the recent activity of the C.P.R. in that direction.

Two steamers have been purchased, according to President Mackenzie, the Cairo and Heliopolis, which have been engaged in the Mediterranean trade between Marseilles and Alexandria, and upon which the company has for some time had an option.

FELL INTO HOPPER OF THE FURNACE

Sydney, N.S., Dec. 7.—James Costello, an employe of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co. met death last night while at work at the top of No. 1 blast furnace, 100 feet from the ground. He was overcome by gas while attending the hopper of the furnace and fell in.

Sylvanus Broughton, another employe, was killed by being run over by a locomotive.

IS LIABLE FOR FULL DAMAGE

Chicago, Dec. 7.—The Appellate Court of the first Illinois district yesterday, declared that an express company is liable for the full value of goods destroyed in transit through the negligence of the carrier, rather than the arbitrary value of $50 placed on all express packages, where the value is not specifically stated by the shipper when the consignment is made.

Last night the enquiry into the death of Alonzo Lane, a boy who died following an illness said to have been caused by eating three cream puffs, was concluded when the coroner's jury decided he died through exhaustion caused by an ulcerated stomach, brought about by having taken some caustic fluid, administered by a person unknown.

CAPT. BROWN GETS A ROAST

Montreal, Dec. 7.—A scathing indictment was pronounced yesterday by Capt. L. T. Demers in his judgment on the grounding of the steamship Athabaska on Oct. 13 at Flower Pot Island.

"The captain does not seem to understand the working of the compass," says the judgment. "And the only way he assured himself that his compass was correct was when in sight of ranges. He was ignorant of the name of the makers of the compass, although he had been master of the Athabaska for three years. He does not seem to have taken the most common precaution to avoid danger. His log was written in pencil and the spelling was execrable. It was both farcical and valueless."

The court suspended the ticket as master of Capt. Alex. Brown for nine months.

ALLAN LINE SALE COMES UP AGAIN

Montreal, Dec. 7.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's sudden departure for England has again revived the story of the sale of the Allan Line to the Canadian Pacific. Although Sir Thomas states that he goes abroad for the benefit of his health, Sir Montagu Allan saw him off, and it is still believed that the president of the C.P.R. will while away complete the purchase of the stock belonging to the Allans of Glasgow, thus bringing the fleet under the control of the C.P.R.

CONSERVATIVE SUCCESSFUL IN NORTH MIDDLESEX

Seat Left Vacant by Duncan C. Ross, Who Went to the Dominion House, is Won by J. W. Doyle With a Majority of 96 Over W. J. Mitchell.

Strathroy, Dec. 7.—J. W. Doyle, Conservative, was elected as member for North Middlesex for the Provincial Legislature with a majority of 96 over W. J. Mitchell of Parkhill, Liberal.

The campaign was carried on almost completely by canvassing on both sides. Both men are well known, and Mr. Doyle was assisted by Hon. W. J. Hanna and J. S. Carstairs, the party organizer, while the Liberal candidate was assisted by Hon. A. G. MacKay, leader of the Opposition, and by F. G. Inwood, organizer.

The election was the result of the resignation of Duncan C. Ross, who entered Dominion politics and was recently elected in West Middlesex. When he was elected a year ago his majority was 109 over C. M. Hodgins, former member.

The greatest increase for the Conservatives was in Strathroy, where although the Liberal candidate still had a majority, it was only the quarter of what it was a year ago. In Parkhill, the Liberal candidate's home, the Conservative majority was cut, but only by about 10. In McGillivray Township, where Doyle resides, the Conservative majority was nearly doubled, while there is still one sub-division to hear from. In Lucan, the Conservatives gained about 50, while in Ailsa Craig the vote remained about the same. In Adelaide the Liberal majority was nearly doubled, but the Conservatives gained about 70 in Metcalf. In East and West Williams and in Biddulph the vote from a year ago was changed but little.

Because of a severe cold Mr. Doyle was unable to appear here last night, but his brother, Michael, spoke to the crowds.

NINETEEN THOUSAND TO BUILD AND EQUIP THE ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Nineteen thousand dollars is the amount the ratepayers of Peterborough are asked to approve for the new Isolation Hospital. The by-law will be submitted to the ratepayers on January 3rd, being given its second reading by the city council last night. When the by-law was introduced Ald. Morrow thought the amount was too large. He considered the hospital could be built for $15,000 or $16,000, and he was not in favor of the sum specified in the by-law.

Ald. Metheral thought the amount was too large. He was of the same opinion as Ald. Morrow.

"What will we do if they turn it down?" some one asked.

"We can build a $15,000 one then. We have the right to do that without going to the people," another remarked.

"Better stay with the tents," Ald. Buller chimed in.

Ald. Bradburn said considerable money would be required to level the grounds, provide sewage and water, build a roadway, fence the property, etc. The equipment would cost more than had been estimated.

After some more discussion it was decided to submit the by-law for $19,000.

SHEEP RAISING

The sheep and wool industry has gone down to almost nothing. The Canadian section of the Society of Chemical Industry deprecated the continued falling away of sheep and wool raising at its recent meeting in Montreal and the purchase of shoddy. The reference to the visit of the Scotch delegates who came out to Canada is particularly referred to. The Scotchmen were amazed at the failure in this direction. They regarded sheep as the greatest asset a country can have.

FREE TRADE PROTECTION

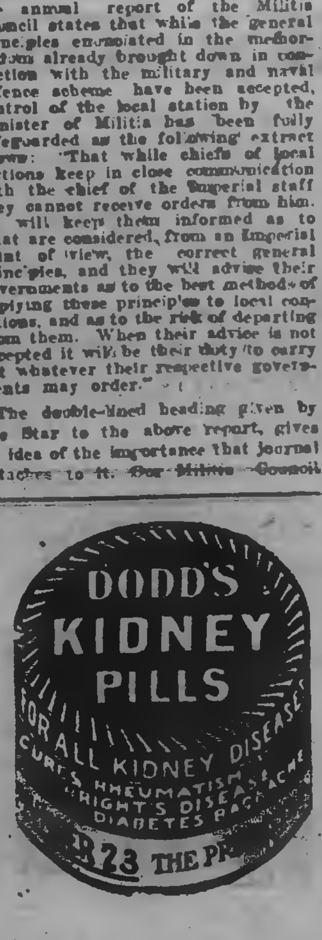
"The Reviewer is even constrained to show that the plea that protection increases the price of living is not established, and to do this, he makes a quotation from Lord Morley's Life of Cobden, which shows that the price of a loaf of bread in Britain, in the year 1845, was 5 1-2d. And yet it is also shown, in a Board of Trade return dated April 1st, 1909, that the mean price of bread for the whole of Great Britain was 5.9d. The highest prices were 7d. in the northern counties and Scotland, while meat rose from 4d. before the repeal of the corn law, to 11 1-3d. in 1909, butter from 6d. to 14 5-6d. and cheese from 3 1-2d to 6 1-2d. The Westminster Reviewer, having noticed that to-day, in that highly-protected country, Germany, the loaf price is less than in Britain, proceeds to show that almost 2,000,000 in Britain are unemployed, four times as many in proportion as in Germany, whilst the average level of industrial wages in the United States is one and a half times that of the United Kingdom. Further, the lack of protection for the agriculturist has produced most fearfully depressing conditions, there now being, in spite of the increase of population 1,000,000 fewer persons engaged in agricultural pursuits than in the year 1851."—Trade Review.

STILL MAKING FOR INDEPENDENCE

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—With reference to the establishment in Canada of a section of the Imperial General staff, the annual report of the Militia Council states that while the general principles enunciated in the memorandum already brought down in connection with the military and naval defence scheme have been accepted, control of the local station by the Minister of Militia has been fully safeguarded as the following extract shows: "That while chiefs of local sections keep in close communication with the chief of the Imperial staff they cannot receive orders from him. He will keep them informed as to what are considered, from an Imperial point of view, the correct general principles, and they will advise their governments as to the best methods of applying these principles to local conditions, and as to the risk of departing from them. When their advice is not accepted it will be their duty to carry out whatever their respective governments may order."

The double-lined heading given by the Star to the above report, gives an idea of the importance that journal attaches to it. Our Militia Council has thus rejected the overtures for Imperial solidarity in naval and military matters. This report puts Canada on the same footing with regard to military matters as in naval. The Laurier Government reserves the right to say, not now, but as the occasion arises, what Canada is to do. Does anybody think Great Britain will take any notice of such a slender thread of union as this? British connection is rapidly fading away. British Canadians are being outgeneralled by the others. The French-Canadian ideal is being reached with amazing speed and completeness.



EDITORIAL NOTES

Guelph has a winter fair with low railway rates. What is the matter with Peterborough?

Sir Charles Tupper doesn't seem to know that Sir Wilfrid Laurier refused to allow Canada's fleet to be a fleet-unit.

As the Chicago News remarks, the British House of Lords is possibly as far out of touch with the spirit of the people as it is supposed to represent as is the American Senate.—Manitoba Free Press.

The Montreal Star has a whole page in the Montreal Gazette advertising the Star's immense service for reporting the election in Great Britain, which it calls a crisis of the first magnitude.

We can see no justification for a legislative house founded on mere birth as in Great Britain, nor for one founded on mere political partizanship as in Canada, nor for one founded on mere money, as in the U.S.

To the enthusiastic burst of the Kingston Whig that school children fifty years hence will read in their school books Sir Wilfrid Laurier's recent speech on the naval question, the Peterborough Review sourly remarks that the school books are the right place for it, as it is only fit for children.—Ottawa Journal.

In British Columbia the temperance people claim that they have carried a local option plebiscite by a majority of something like three thousand. If the British Columbia government is anything like some other governments on this question, it will not find it a difficult matter, with such a close vote, to withhold the passing of local option law.—Hamilton Spectator.

Le Canada treats the Toronto News to a scornful editorial rebuke for the News's "Dreadnoughtism." It endorses the Laurier Navy idea and pictures the Conservative party on a rock, where its navy policy has put it, ragged, solitary and distraught. The Laurier policy is no doubt thoroughly representative of Quebec opinion, but Ontario will have something to say.

The Montreal Herald explains that the reason our butter export trade has fallen off so considerably is because the producers can get more money for their product in the home market. But this is by no means a conclusive answer. The export business is there to be done, and while Canada is not doing it other countries are. Unless we are prepared to admit that it is impossible for us to produce the product cheaply enough to profitably compete with other countries our disappearance from the export market stamps us as lacking in enterprise and business ability. We have been educated to believe that Canada is a great dairy country. It will be a difficult matter to get outsiders to believe it when they scan the records and find that this country does not figure as an exporter of dairy products.—Hamilton Spectator.

"In explaining what led up to the poem, Watson tells of a visit he made to the Asquith home last June, when he was surprised to hear Miss Asquith say that a man named Nash, one of her father's secretaries, was the man "who used to write C. B.'s speeches for him."

By C.B., she meant the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Premier Asquith's predecessor, and probably the best loved of English premiers since the days of Gladstone. Continuing, Miss Asquith said, according to Watson:

"Do you know, I have often wondered whether some of those phrases of C.B.'s that caught on so much, such as 'methods of barbarism,' and that sort of nonsense, really came from C. B., or from Nash."

These expressions by Miss Asquith it is practically certain, will be taken as reflecting the sentiments of the present premier and cause a storm of criticism of Mr. Asquith."

Special Correspondence to the Manitoba Free Press.

Kansas City, Kansas.—With no saloons and only a state line separating this city from its larger neighbor, which is a Missouri city of the same name, which has hundreds of saloons, it is surely the place above all others where merchants should be able to say whether the absence of saloons in a community drives trade away to wet cities near at hand.

It is a fact that the Missouri city has the larger shopping district of the two cities. It has a much larger population, and it had always been that way. Before the illegal joints in Kansas City, Kansas, were closed, many people used to go over to the Missouri side to shop. They go yet, but there is a "trade at home" movement on foot on the Kansas side which is having a beneficial effect. Kansas City, Kansas, has an ever-growing business district, and in the past two or three years the district has progressed as never before in its history. This has happened despite the absence of saloons. Business men seem to be strikingly unanimous in the opinion that prohibition, well enforced, has not hurt the city in a business way, even with another and a larger city close at hand with open saloons.

You hear much from Kansas City business men about the clean-up which followed the closing of the saloons, and the phenomenal progress of the city in the past few years without saloons and the improvement in the business district since saloons were removed from it. Nor do they forget to tell you about the improved civic government since the old illegal system of collecting fines from saloon men has been abolished. Things have improved steadily along this latter line, and how they have decided to adopt the commission form of administration.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

CONSTRUCTION TO COMMENCE SOON

Agreement Reached Between C.P.R. and Town of Orillia

It is understood that the agreement between the town of Orillia and the Canadian Pacific Railway, which deals with the right of way across the park, lake front, and other matters, will be ready for signature within a few days, and provides that the line shall be running through Orillia within three years, and as it is fair to assume that it will require about two years to build the line from Victoria Harbor to Peterborough, it necessarily follows that work of construction must be commenced before very long.—Midland Argus.

HOW TO BE AN ACTOR

By Frank Daniels

You hear a lot about the hard work, the terrible strain of the actor. I don't mind telling you I think it's a pudding.

He paused to make plums of his eyes, and then repeated: "It's a pudding. All that a comedian has to do is to keep himself in condition. He's a good deal like a fighter. If he feels well he can do well. When I don't feel well I go to bed in the afternoon and sleep for two or three hours. Then I get up and take a cold shower. I keep in training that's all there is to it. I hustle down to the theatre and have as much fun as the audience. It isn't work at all. On the road, of course, it isn't so easy to keep in condition. Long railroad rides take the fun out of you."

Receipts light; prices firm at $3 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Four hundred and thirty-eight sheep and lambs were readily bought up at higher prices. Export ewes, $4 to $4.25 per cwt.; culls and rams, $3 per cwt.; lambs sold at from $5.85 to $6.25 per cwt.

Hogs.

There were about as many different prices quoted as there were hogs on the market. We heard of $7.40, $7.50 and $7.60, yes, and $7.65, being paid farmers at different points in Ontario, but we would judge $7.50 to $7.60 f.o.b. cars at country points, and $7.75 to $7.80 fed and watered, will not be far wrong.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 6.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, receipts for last week were 3306 cattle, 1500 sheep and lambs, 2200 hogs and 631 calves. Offerings this morning consisted of 1800 cattle, 750 sheep and lambs, 1525 hogs and 250 calves. Cattle prices since this day week show a decline of ¼c per pound, due to increased offerings and unseasonably mild weather. Fifteen carloads of northwest ranch steers, cows and heifers of fine quality met with a ready sale. Top quality steers sold at 5¼c; good at 4¾c to 5c; fair at 4¼c to 4½c; medium at 3¾c to 4c, and common at 3c to 3½c per pound. Supplies of canning stock were very large and demand good from packers, with prices 1¼c to 1½c for cows, and at 2½c to 2¾c per pound for bulls. Prices for sheep advanced ½c to 1c, and for lambs ¼c to ½c per pound, attributed to smaller supplies and continued good demand from butchers. Sheep sold at 4¼c to 4¾c, and lambs at 6c to 6¼c per pound. Calves were scarce, with good demand, at from $3 to $12 each. Hog prices showed an advance since last Wednesday of 15c to 20c per cwt, due to increased scarcity of stock, and, as packers wanted more than usual, sales of selected lots from west of Toronto were made at $8.75, and from east of Toronto at $8.50, weighed off cars.

At the Canadian Pacific live stock market receipts of live stock for last week were 2750 cattle for export account and 1973 cattle, 2200 sheep and lambs, 1432 hogs and 230 calves for local consumption. The supply this morning for sale consisted of 750 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 673 hogs and 300 calves. Prices for cows and bulls advanced 15c to 35c per 100 lbs.

SMALLPOX BILL IS NOT YET SETTLED

City Council Sends it Back to Finance Committee With Power to Act—Council Has Busy Session—Little Bit of Everything on the Programme.

The last regular meeting of the City Council for 1909 was held last night with all the members present except Ald. Turner, who is on a trip to the Pacific coast. The aldermen will meet again, however, before the year is out, as it was stated last night that a special meeting would be called. It was a busy night for the city's civic solons as the session lasted from eight o'clock till nearly midnight. A good deal of the work was routine, being preparatory to the municipal election, but several special matters were introduced.

The Council first met in Committee of the whole. Mr. R. E. Wood was present on behalf of Mrs. Rogers in connection with the application for a deed from the city for a portion of land on the river-front between Sherbrooke and King streets. Mrs. Rogers purchased the property from the trustees of the Peterborough Boating Club and the patent was to be secured from the city when the corporation secured the river-front.

City Solicitor Hall stated that according to a by-law passed a number of years ago the city had no option but to hand over the patent as requested by Mr. Wood. The property for which the patent is asked is under water at the present time.

Ald. Phelan moved that the matter be referred to the Property Committee to report upon.

Ald. Morrow seconded the motion.

"Wasn't this referred to the Property Committee two months ago?" Mr. Wood asked.

"It was," Ald. Bradburn said, "and we referred it to the City Solicitor, who has reported on it to-night."

The motion carried without further discussion.

A recommendation was received from the Board of Health that Dr. MacPherson be paid $1,000 for services rendered at the time of the smallpox epidemic. The bill had been before the Finance Committee and they referred it to the council. Mayor Rush, who is a member of the Board of Health, thought Dr. MacPherson should have the amount recommended by the Health Board. He had done splendid work, and had prevented the outbreak from becoming serious. This work was outside the duties he had been hired to perform, and should be compensated for them. The epidemic lasted for four months. The mayor believed that $1,000 was a reasonable amount.

Ald. Hicks moved that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

Ald. Metheral seconded the motion.

Ald. Hicks said he was willing to leave it to the judgment of the mayor. He did not know what the services rendered by Dr. MacPherson were worth.

Ald. Bradburn and Ald. Buller thought the bill was too large.

Ald. Duffus said Dr. MacPherson should bring in an itemized account.

Ald. Morrow said the health account was $2,600 overdrawn now.

Someone jocularly suggested that the city engage an expert to find out what the services rendered by Dr. MacPherson were worth.

The motion to leave the question with the Finance Committee was carried.

The council then went into regular session and the following communications were read:

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Ald. Morrow presented the following account from the Finance Committee;

3. That in making the assessment for the local improvements of this year the City Engineer be instructed that the rate of interest for the debentures will be 4 1-2 per cent. and that the rate of which the sinking fund will be calculated will be 4 per cent.

4. That the payment for the land required for widening Benson avenue be made out of the funds provided by the by-law for extending and opening streets, the City Solicitor having given an opinion that the terms of the by-law would cover this payment.

The report was adopted.

The report of the Property committee was presented by Ald. Bradburn. The most important item was the awarding of the contract for the lighting of the new public library to F. R. J. MacPherson & Co. Ald Duncan seconded the motion to adopt the report after getting some information on one point.

In reference to the letter from Rev. Father McColl requesting the city to assist in the maintenance of several persons at the House of Providence. Ald Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Hicks that the matter be referred to the Finance committee with power to act

Ald. Morrow moved and Ald. Bradburn seconded that Mr. Best's claim for $1,000 for expropriation of land go to the city solicitor.

This was carried.

Ald. Bradburn moved and Ald. Phelan seconded that the mayor be appointed to look after the advertising of the legislation to be asked from the Ontario Legislature.—Carried.

Ald. Metheral drew attention to the fact that there was no appropriation in the Finance committee's report for the Peterborough Poultry Association. Ald. Morrow stated that owing to the lack of funds it had been decided to leave this grant to the Finance Committee of 1910.

By-law No. 1488 to authorize the constitution of a sewer on Waterford street from McDonnel street to a point 125 feet north was passed.

Several other by-laws were also passed, one of them providing for a short sewer on Antrim street asked for by Mr. S. Clegg.

It was decided to pay the account of F. L. Robinson for damages to vehicle by colliding with a stump on Gladstone Ave.

THE LOCAL OPTION MOVEMENT IN THE CITY

The Matter Appearing in This Department is Furnished by the Peterboroug Temperance and Moral Reform League Which Has Arranged for its Publication.

INFORMATION WANTED

The Executive of the City Temperance League is endeavoring to secure as full information as possible about the parties whose names have been added to the voter's list by the interests represented by the open bar. About 190 names appear on the list. A careful scrutiny of the list reveals the fact that there are a number of names on the list of persons about whom it is going to be a difficult matter to gather information, in time to lay it before the judge when this list is scrutinized next week. With the object of gathering all possible information, the executive of the City Temperance League is planning to publish this list in the daily papers within a few days. Citizens who can give any information about the parties whose names appear on the list, as to their standing, and their right to vote, will greatly oblige the executive by doing so. This information can be telephoned to phone 260, or left at the committee rooms, 173 Simcoe st.

The list will not be published in full. The names of a number of people whom it is known are going to vote for local option appear on the list. These names will be omitted when the list is published, As it is possible that there are others, who intend to vote for local option and whose names were put on the list by the liquor interests, these names will not be published, if these parties will make their wishes known to the temperance league and show that they are qualified to vote, so that their names can be omitted from the list.

Apparently a number of people who are not properly qualified, have had their names placed on their list. These men are are liable to be fined heavily if their names are allowed to remain on the list. Others apparently have had their names put on, who do not know that they will be supposed to pay taxes next year. Full particulars about these who are qualified to vote will be given when the lists are published. Watch for the list.

Altogether between here and Smith Falls there was a total of 1643 poles brought to the ground, many of them being very badly broken.

They had a long tiresome expedition and were coming home empty handed when they espied a flock of turkey, the temptation was great and very soon, one of three turkeys which they extracted from the flock was being nicely roasted. About this time the owner of the fowl appeared on the scene and the hunters left in a hurry to parts unknown leaving their horse tied to a tree to take the full fury of the farmer. COLD BROUGHT ON KIDNEY DISEASE

Brantford Lady Suffered till Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. A.H. Thompson Had Heart Disease, Lumbago and Rheumatism, and Tells How She Was Restored to Health

Brantford, Ont., Dec. 6.—(Special)—How Colds, LaGrippe and other minor ills settle on the Kidneys and develop Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Bright's Disease, and other terribly dangerous ailments; and how any and all of them are cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills is fully shown in the case of Mrs. A. H. Thomson, whose home is at 48 Albion street, this city.

Mrs. Thomson was, some years ago, taken with Cold and LaGrippe, and Straining, which affected her Kidneys, and the result was Backache, Lumbago, Rheumatism and Heart Disease, which caused both her and her friends grave anxiety.

She had suffered some years when she heard of cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and bought a box, which she used with such splendid results that she continued to take them till she was cured. Since then she has used Dodd's Kidney Pills in her own family and recommended them widely to her friends, all of whom have warm words of praise for the standard Canadian Kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Bright's Disease are all Kidney Diseases or are caused by diseased Kidneys. You can't have any of them if you keep your Kidneys sound and your blood pure. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidneys sound. Sound Kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood.

Why not give your lady friend who has a large calling list one of these Visiting Lists They are very useful and she will appreciate one very much. Only 50 cents, on sale at all the bookstores, and at the Review Office.

WRAP YOUR GIFTS DAINTILY

Make Your Gifts Attractive—Use Holly Cards, Tags and Seals

A large amount of pleasure in receiving a Christmas gift lies in the manner in which the gift is wrapped. If the parcel is daintily tied up, decorated with pretty holly seals and has a pretty card enclosed conveying the best wishes of the donor, the anticipation is sure to be greater than if the parcel is roughly tied in a careless manner, in perhaps, used wrappings.

So if you would have your gifts appreciated to the highest extent, see that they are wrapped up as nicely as possible. First you will need to supply yourself with some clear white paper; than you need some fancy cards, either small or large, in keeping with the gift; then some fancy tags for the outside and these may be had in two or three sizes and designs. After the parcel is tied up, a Christmas stamp may be put in one corner, and the openings sealed with holly seals, of which there are several designs.

If you do this your parcel will look very much nicer and the recipient of it is sure to enjoy receiving it much more. All these materials may be bought at the Review Office, and really are not expensive. Call and secure some of them before the supply is disposed of.

HITCH IN TAKING OVER NEW STREET

Council Does Not Like Idea of Having King Edward St. Forty-Six Feet Wide

A hitch has arisen in connection with the taking over by the city of King Edward street, which Mr. D. W. Dumble has presented to Peterborough. Mr. Dumble wishes to retain twenty feet along the south side but he has given an undertaking that it will never be built upon but on the contrary that it will be kept as a small park. When the by-law to take over the street came up in the council last night some of the aldermen objected to Mr. Dumble retaining the title of twenty feet when two feet will serve his purpose just as well.

There was considerable opposition to taking over a forty-six foot street and it was decided to have the Board of Works take up the question with Mr. Dumble.

PERMANENT ASSESSOR WILL LIKELY BE APPOINTED

And Mr. T. B. McGrath is the Man Mentioned for the Position—Motion Introduced in Council Came as Surprise and Was Referred to a Committee.

A permanent assessor for Peterborough is a probability of the near future, and judging by opinions expressed by the aldermen last night Mr. T. B. McGrath is the man who will get the position. What his salary shall be, and whether or not he shall have an assistant, are matters that have been left with a committee to work out. It is likely that the matter will go through this year, as the committee have been instructed to have a report on the question for a special meeting of the council that will be held before the first of the year.

It was plain that the proposition to have a permanent assessor came as a surprise to the majority of the aldermen. Some of them stated that they had heard about it during the day, while others did not even hear of it that much in advance.

Ald. McIntyre introduced the motion and Ald. Duffus was the seconder. Aldermen McIntyre, Duffus and Phelan were in favor of settling the matter last night, but the majority thought it should be put in more definite form before the by-law was introduced.

Thos. B. McGrath applied for the position of assessor for 1910.

When the application was read Ald. McIntyre said he had supported Mr. McGrath in past years, as he considered him an excellent man for the position.

He moved that Mr. McGrath be appointed assessor by the city of Peterborough at a yearly salary, and that a by-law be prepared to this effect.

Ald. Duffus seconded the motion. It would be better to have a permanent assessor than hiring one each year. He was well satisfied with Mr. McGrath's work.

Ald. Morgan said he had not supported Mr. McGrath last year. He recognized that Mr. McGrath knew the city as well or better than any other man. He approved of the motion.

Ald. Hicks was in favor of the idea but it should be considered that an assistant is required. Provision should be made for this. Ald Hicks was well satisfied with Mr. McGrath's work.

Ald. Gillespie thought the matter should be referred to a committee to go into fully. The salary should be stipulated.

Ald. Morrow said there was the question of whether the city was going to employ one assessor or two. If one assessor was going to be appointed his duties and salary should be clearly defined.

Ald. Gillespie moved that a special committee be appointed to arrange the details. The mayor named the following committee: McIntyre, Gillespie, Morgan, Duffus and Hicks.

Ald. Bradburn was among the first named, but he requested to be left off.

Ald. Bradburn said he was going to oppose the appointment of a permanent official at this late date. Personally he recognized Mr. McGrath as a good man for the position. It was a matter for the incoming council.

"Let's settle the matter here to-night," Ald. Phelan said.

Ald. Metheral, while he considered Mr. McGrath a good man, and the proposition a good one, did not feel like supporting the matter at the end of the year. It was his last sitting in the council this year, and he did not feel like tieing up the new council.

Ald. Morgan said the aldermen should be able to deal better with a question at the end of the year than at the beginning of it.

Ald. Duffus agreed with this sentiment and Ald. Hicks was of the same mind.

In response to a question the clerk stated that the salaries of the officials last year were: Mr. McGrath $600, Mr. McGregor $500.

It was decided to let the committee take up the matter. Ald. McIntyre was appointed convenor.

OPPORTUNITY TO EXPRESS VIEWS ON WARD SYSTEM

Will be Afforded Rateyayers on January 3rd—Mayor and Five Aldermen Were in Favor of Leaving Matter Over Till Later Date.

Peterborough ratepayers will have the opportunity of saying at the municipal election on January 3rd whether or not they wish to return to the ward system of electing the aldermen. If they decide in favor of the ward system they will have to stay there, as there is no provision for returning to the general vote system again. It will be remembered that a petition asking the ratepayers be given an opportunity of returning to the ward system if they so desired, was presented to the city council late last year, and the matter was left over until 1909. Several months ago Ald. Morgan fathered a by-law to have a vote taken on the question at the municipal election, and the final settlement on the matter was made at the meeting of the council last night. By a vote of six to five it was decided to have the question submitted to the people.

In view of the fact that Peterborough secured special legislation from the Ontario Legislature only two years ago to give the two year system of electing aldermen a trial, some of the aldermen thought it would look foolish for Peterborough to return to the ward system before they had given the two year method a fair trial. It was feared that such an action would give the impression that Peterborough was of a capricious frame of mind, and the ratepayers did not really know what they did want. As a result the city might find it a difficult matter to secure legislation that they wanted from the Ontario Legislature when it meets in January. Ald. Hicks brought the matter up, and there was a lively debate before it was settled. Both sides put up a strong fight and the vote was in doubt right to the end.

Ald. Hicks said he had opposed the two year term when it was introduced, but now he was in favor of giving it a fair trial. "We have not tried it out, and I think the by-law should not be voted on," said Ald Hicks.

Ald. Bradburn said the people vote on it, and their wishes should be carried out.

Ald. Metheral was of the same opinion as Ald Bradburn.

Ald. McIntyre said he was in favor of putting the question to the people in view of the position.

Mayor Rush was strongly in favor of giving the two year term a fair trial especially as a reversion to the ward system just after securing special legislation at Toronto to try the two year method might make it harder for the city to get certain legislation which will be asked for at the next session.

Ald. Morgan and Ald. Duncan favored submitting the by-law to the people.

When it was moved that the by-law be read a third time, Ald. Hicks and Ald Morrow moved in amendment that it be left over. When the vote was taken it was five all and Mayor Rush voted for the amendment.

Ald. Metheral asked for the "yeas" and "nays," and it was then found that one alderman had not voted before. The yeas and nays were as follows:—

Yeas—Ald. Phelan, Morrow, Gillespie, Duffus, Hicks—5.

Nays—Ald McIntyre, Metheral, Bradburn, Buller, Duncan, Morgan—6.

YOUNG BRAKEMAN MET WITH PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Melville Parcell, a brakeman on the Grand Trunk Railway, received painful injuries last night about ten o'clock as a result of falling from the top of a freight car to the hard ground. The accident occurred at Keene. The young man was walking along the top of a number of cars of a freight train without using a lantern. At the end of one car he tripped and lost his balance, and in his fall sustained a broken nose, a dislocation of the right wrist, and both arms were broken. He was brought to this city and taken to Nichols Hospital in the Dan Spence Ambulance, and his injuries were attended to by Dr. McClennan. Reports from the hospital to-day state that his condition is as favorable as might be expected under the circumstances.

AN IMPORTANT OCCASION FOR PETERBORO' ODDFELLOWS

Presentation of Past Grand Master's Jewel to Dr. Bell—Able Responses by Distinguished Oddfellows—An Attractive Toast List.

One of the most representative and significant gatherings of Oddfellows ever assembled in Peterborough was the meeting held last night in the I. O.O.F. Hall, when the feature of the assembly was the presentation of the Past Grand Master's jewel to Past Grand Master Dr. Bell, of Toronto, and formerly Grand Master of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, Peterborough, under whose auspices the affair was given. Senator Derbyshire, Grand Master for Ontario, made the presentation, coupling with it some gracious and appropriate remarks. Dr. Bell replied briefly in a neatly worded speech, and thanked Otonabee Lodge and Grand Master Derbyshire for the honor conferred upon him. Bro. M. Brackenridge was also presented with his commission as District Deputy G. M. for Otonabee District No. 30.

The occasion was further distinguished by the presence of Bro. Johnston, P.G.M., for Ontario.

Degrees were conferred upon two new members, and both Senator Derbyshire and P.G.M. Johnston took occasion to compliment the lodge on the beautiful manner in which the offices in this respect were performed.

At the conclusion of the regular and special business the meeting adjourned to the large banquet hall, where a handsomely spread table of tempting viands awaited the lodge members and their guests, among whom were numbered the representatives of all the lodges in the district. The toast list was a most interesting one, and brought forth eloquent and enthusiastic proposals and responses. D.D. G.M. Brackenridge asted as toastmaster.

In conjunction with the banquet a very pleasing musical programme was given. Messrs. Frith and King sang a duet "Larboard, Watch Ahoy," most effectively. F. J. Ekitch gave, in excellent voice, "The Boys of the Old Brigade." This was followed by the bass solo. "Drinking," for which the vocalist, Mr. John King, was cordially encored and responded with "Mona," which he sang with fine expression. A novelty in the way of a contribution to the programme, was furnished by R. Beach, who gave an interesting and roundly applauded snare drum "monologue."

SOVEREIGN GRAND LODGE

After "The King" had been honored the next toast was that to the Grand Lodge. It was proposed by Bro. W. E. Harding in an appropriately worded speech which was received with hearty applause.

Past Grand Master Johnston in replying said he never heard an idea coupled with the Sovereign Grand Lodge in a more effective manner than the one had been by Bro. Harding. The speaker was gratified at the handsome manner in which the toast had been proposed and the very enthusiastic way it had been honored. He had very great pleasure on behalf of the Sovereign Lodge and himself for the manner in which the toast had been received.

The speaker dwelt on the institution and progress of the Sovereign Grand Lodge and reviewed at length the splendid growth and magnitude of the work done by the Oddfellows' lodges including for a large measure of praise the Rebekah lodges.

There were no paid workers in Oddfellowship. It was all inspired missionary endeavor on the part of the organisers. Bro. Johnston spoke reminiscently along these lines in an interesting manner.

He then discussed the great educational advantages of the order from the red school house, so to speak, to the university of the order. By facts and figures the wonderful growth of Oddfellowship throughout the world was shown. From the rugged shores of the Atlantic to the balmy breezes of the Pacific the order was doing a uniformally good work. The Oddfellow order was the grandest and best fraternal institution in the world to-day.

THE GRAND LODGE.

This toast was proposed by P. G M Robinson in a neat speech and was honored first by Col. Miller, P D G M., who aroused the laughter of the assembly by his original and entertaining remarks.

Grand Master Derbyshire was given a flattering ovation when he arose to respond to the toast. He made an eloquent and impressive address in which he extolled the incomparable work being accomplished by the Oddfellows. He was particularly pleased with the work he had seen in the lodge in the conferring of the degrees to the two new members. It had been perfectly executed and was a distinct credit to the local officers and members. He was sure that those from outside lodges would be very much impressed with what they had seen. Senator Derbyshire spoke in congratulatory terms of the musical programme which was superior to that usually given at most lodges.

The duty of the lodges to the young men formed an important part of the speaker's remarks. A serious responsibility in this respect rested on the older members.

Senator Derbyshire said he was delighted with the prospects of making the ensuing year the banner year of the good work of Oddfellowship in the Province of Ontario.

OTHER TOASTS

"Sister Lodges" was happily proposed by Bro. Jno. Nugent and brought forth appreciative responses from Messrs. Fowler, Kirn, Collier and Reason.

"The Old Guard" was the last toast. It was nicely proposed by Bro. George Kearns and feelingly responded to by Brothers Dr. Bell, M. Mowry and J. Mathieson.

THAT WATCH OF YOURS

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and t is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch. You put it in your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker, and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time-keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones call around and see us.

THE QUESTION OF POWER

The question of power has been the question most to the front, this year, in Peterborough. But, strange to say, there has been no answer to it. The last meeting of the City Council for the year has been held, and not one thing has been done to develop and mature a power policy for Peterborough. Is this wise? We hear a great deal about manufactories and how they are to be brought here But it ends there. One factory would consume the 1,000 h.p. offered by the Peterborough Hydraulic Co. at $20.00. There is a lack of enterprise about us somewhere. A whole year has gone by, and apart from the causal administration of the city's affairs, which seems to have been satisfactory enough, nothing out of the commonest ordinary has been done or even foreshadowed. At one time, we at least talked about what we were going to do. But for some reason even "talk" has been shut down.

We are marking time. There can be no question but that is all we are doing. What's the reason? Its all very well to be discreet. To be quiet, circumspect and discreet is all very good—when one has nothing better to do. It may suffice to keep what we have, but will it get anything else? It has been Port Hope's policy for 30 years. Let us get a move on.

Some people may say, "Well! What would you do?" This is a fair question, and we will give an answer.

Some time ago a certain dam now withdrawn from sale to the city, was offered to the city at a figure which meant taking everything into consideration, a paying investment for the city, in addition to giving to the city from 800 to 1000 h.p., which it could retail at not more than $12.00 per h.p. The retail price of power offered to the city at present is $20.00. That is the best we can offer to manufactories. Is this business?

THE NAVY

Liberal journals are everywhere hastening to the assistance of the Laurier Government. They are aware that a crisis is at hand respecting the condition of Canada's relations to Great Britain and the empire. Sir Wilfrid Laurier brought on this crisis when to the amazement of the whole Defence Conference in London he refused to vote for a resolution affirming the principle of a united empire. There is no getting over that fact. It is set down in the official records of the Conference.

In proceeding to "discuss" this resolution it was pointed out by Britain's experts that nothing would be of any value in the naval defence of the empire but a union of fleet units arrayed under one capable head and ready for action at a moment's notice. Sir Wilfrid alone of all the delegates refused to support or even discuss the resolution. He would not even conclude a treaty of alliance with the Mother Country or indeed any understanding whatever. He maintained that Canada must have her own navy, that when a crisis arose it would be time enough to say whether she would join in the defence of the empire or not. And now he has added our military establishment to the "independent" list. He declines to come to any understanding that in the event of war Canada shall help in the defence of the empire. He will not go as far as a wholly independent ally such as France might go and no doubt has gone. There is but one inference. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is against the idea of a united empire. His chief supporters are of that mind also. The Globe et al may draw all the herrings they choose. The facts are plain and the issue likewise. It is not a question of any precise form of our contribution. That is not insisted on. But it is a question of whether we shall bind ourselves or not as a unit of a united empire to help in the defence of that empire. No amount of by-play or jollying can obscure this simple issue. Are we any longer to cry "One King, one flag, one empire!" or has the fond illusion wholly vanished at the bidding of Quebec?

EVIDENCE OF OFFICERS CONTRADICTED BY DEFENCE

Proprietor of Hotel in Police Court Charged with Selling in Prohibited Hours—Police Officers Tell of Many Sales by the Proprietor.

EVIDENCE OF OFFICERS.

Charged with selling liquor in prohibited hours, between November 20, and 22, the proprietor of the Oriental Hotel appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning. Previous to court being opened a telegram was received by his Worship and Chief Rozzel from Mr. Haverson, of Toronto, asking that there be an enlargement of the case until Friday morning. The Chief objected to this procedure on the grounds that he had been notified in sufficient time to allow him to appear on behalf of his client.

The Magistrate decided in favor of the case being proceeded with, the court waited until the accused had secured Mr. G. N. Gordon to act for him.

On going to press, witnesses for the defence were being examined.

THE EVIDENCE.

P. C. Newhall was first called and said:

"I was on duty on the night of November 20, 21 and 22. On Sunday night about 11.55, Graham and two men were talking in the rotunda. Graham went into the bar and struck a match and served two glasses of beer, one to each of the two men who followed him. Graham worked the cash register and then went out. Another man named Lawrence came into the hotel and shortly afterwards he was served with something from a bottle by the accused. The 'bus from the midnight brought seven or eight passengers who, on entering the hotel, went to the office and appeared to be registering. Most of them afterwards went to the bar door and some more drinks were served to them. The bell boy, John Brown, came in and he was given some liquor on a tray. He took it away and by P.C. Meharry and myself changing positions we could see a man upstairs drinking and eating. The bell boy returned. Lawrence came to the bar again and was given something from a bottle on the shelf. This was after twelve o'clock."

To Mr. Gordon—"I have watched on many occasions and have seen illegal selling each time with the exception of Saturday night. I watched the proceedings going on inside from the bar window and from positions across the street."

Mr. Gordon asked for an enlargement to give him an opportunity to secure witnesses who had been named, but the magistrate was not willing.

The inspector would get as the sal-

P. C. Meharry was called. His evidence was similar to that of P. C. Newhall, but added that he had seen the proprietor in the bar thirteen times, and the cash register had been operated six or seven times.

This closed the evidence for the prosecution.

For the defence, the proprietor was called. He denied having given any liquor, as it was impossible on account of the air pressure being turned off.

Two bartenders gave evidence relative to the air pressure system. Both stated it had been turned off.

LARGE SUM REALIZED FROM SALVATION ARMY BANQUET

The Salvation Army banquet and musical festival last night was a most gratifying success, between four and five hundred being present. The banquet was held in the Sunday school department, and was a thoroughly satisfactory affair in every respect. A musical festival of a high order was given in the meeting room of the temple after the banquet by the band and individual contributors to the programme. Judge Huycke presided and made the chairman's address. Speeches were also made by Rev. W. C. Riddiford and Col. Gaskins.

The numbers of the band were played excellently and the other selections contributed were given a cordial reception. There were recitations by Mr. Fred Grey, vocal solo by Mr. Fred Ganby, "Way Over Yonder on the Hilltop," with full band accompaniment, and a trombone solo by Bandsman Meynes.

Col. Gaskins read a letter from the chief secretary of Canada, saying that he was very sorry that he could not be present and commending the Army for the splendid work they were doing in Peterborough.

The ladies of the Army to whom the success of the banquet is to a large measure due, are deserving of great credit for their energetic efforts.

The staff captain, the officers and members of the local corps, wish to express their sincere thanks for the generous support to the banquet by assisting members of all denominations of the city. If they missed anyone who had promised to contribute, they are very sorry for having done so, but it was very difficult to cover all the ground, so numerous were those who expressed their willingness to contribute.

Over $100 was realized from the banquet.

Mr. Cranby passed away a few days ago and the legal firm have withdrawn the claim for $1,000 and put in a new one for $2,000. The matter has been referred to the Legal Committee.

OPINION ON BIG FIGHT OF A COUPLE OF EXPERTS

Joe Gans, the former lightweight champion, was a witness to the signing of articles for the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Gans says that Johnson will be the winner, and bases his opinion on the belief that Jeffries has seen his best days.

"Jeffries was a world beater in his prime," said Gans, "but like myself he can never come back.

"Johnson is the cleverest big man in the world. He is even more scientific than Jim Corbett and he is a harder hitter. There isn't any doubt that Johnson is the best man that has ever faced Jeffries in the ring. I think he will tire Jeffries out in a long fight and will be the winner in at least twenty-five rounds.

Gans may have a hand in the training and handling of Johnson, and it seems certain that a better choice by the heavyweight could not be made.

Billy Roche, the San Francisco referee, says that Johnson and Jeffries may go to the limit in their fight.

"Johnson never takes a chance with an opponent," said Roche yesterday. "He is the greatest staller in the ring. He believes in taking his own time, and never indulges in an exchange of swings. If he blocks a blow and finds an opening for a quick right-hand counter he drives it in, and generally reaches a vital point.

"I predict that Johnson and Jeffries will put up a long fight. Jeff was never an aggressive fighter and all the men he whipped were coming to him. He'll find Johnson and his defensive tactics a far different proposition. Jeff will have to have a world of endurance, therefore, to wear the negro down."

Two men robbed W. R. Williams' stores in Lewisville, N.B., by covering the clerks with revolvers.

HOCKEY

The wintry air and the stir about the rink to-day makes one commence to think about hockey. It has been definitely decided to enter a junior team in the O.H.A., and there is no reason why a first-class intermediate team could not be gathered together. Let the intermediates get busy and enter a team, and the grand old game will once more boom in Port Hope as it did in the days of the open air rink. The entrance fee must be in by Saturday next.—Port Hope Guide.

It is expected that all those interested in the reorganization of the Mercantile Hockey League will be present at meeting to-night in the Y.M.C.A., which is called for 7.30

The Church League hockey teams are getting busy to prepare for the coming season. A meeting will be held on Thursday night to discuss the prospects of the league.

PETERBOROUGH ON RACING CIRCUIT

Comes in Between Lindsay and Ottawa—Popular Winter Sport

Canadian Sportsman: In this country the owners of trotters and pacers have for many years raced their horses on the ice with no bad effects arising therefrom, and many horses that afterwards became famous on turf made their initial bows to the racing game on the ice. In certain sections there is a strong prejudice against winter racing for harness horses, but in this it is more a case of "sour grapes" than legitimate objection, for the opponents of ice racing are mostly located at points where there is no ice and they are, therefore, unfamiliar with the merits of the winter sport that is fast becoming extremely popular in this country.

During the coming winter there will be meetings at many prominent places in this country. The season opens in this city, when the Toronto Driving Club will put on a three days' meeting, Dec. 25-29, and Jan. 1st. Then comes Port Perry, Lindsay, Peterborough and Ottawa in the order named, which, with the number of other places where ice races will be held in Ontario makes a chain of racing points attractive enough to the owners of light harness horses.

SPORTING NOTES

Bruce Ridpath has accepted an offer of $1,000 for the season's work made by the Ottawa hockey club.

The Hamilton Tigers and the Rough Riders of Ottawa, will play in New York on Saturday.

Baltimore is making a big effort to sign Jack Thoney for next season.

BREAKFAST.

It Should Be a Substantial Meal, Says a Physician.

It is customary to make the first meal of the day slightly the lightest and distinctly the plainest and simplest of the three. If there be any deficiency of the appetite breakfast is the meal at which this is most likely to show itself. But this lack of appetite is in nine cases out of ten clearly traceable to sleeping in an unventilated room or to late hours in foul air the night before or to insufficient exercise the preceding day and is no indication that the body really requires less food at this time. Perfectly healthy men who sleep with their windows open and go to bed at a reasonable hour will tell you that they enjoy their breakfast as well as any other meal of the day, and many even call it their best meal.

Another popular delusion in regard to the lightness and unimportance of the breakfast is that widespread subterfuge, the "continental breakfast," consisting of a cup of coffee and some fruit or a single roll. This is a very pretty breakfast as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far, and the sole basis for its adoption on the continent is that it is only intended as a temporary tide-over until the real breakfast of meat, eggs, fish, etc., which is taken at about 10 or 11 o'clock, like a very early luncheon. If you haven't got a good appetite for breakfast make it your business to go and get one instead of allowing yourself to be blinded in this morbid state of affairs and deciding that all you really need is a cup of coffee and a roll or an orange.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Woman's Home Companion.

Kidney Troubles Attack Peterboro Men and Women Old and Young

Kidney ills seize young and old,
Come quickly with little warning.
Children suffer in their early years—
Can't control the kidney secretions.
Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.
Women worry, can't do daily work.
Men have lame and aching backs.
The cure for man, woman or child.
Is to cure the cause—the kidneys.
Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys—
Cure all forms of kidney suffering.
Peterborough testimony proves it

Mrs. A. Graham, of 547 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., says:

"My back was so weak and tender that I could not turn in bed. A heavy, dull pain had settled across the small of it and caused me almost constant suffering. I became weak and languid. I was run down generally and had little ambition to move around. Headaches were frequent and often accompanied by spells of dizziness. Spots would dazzle before my eyes and I would be unable to see. I had tried numerous remedies without getting results. Booth's Kidney Pills were advertised at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy, which I tried and soon found relief. The kidneys were quickly regulated and each and every symptom of kidney trouble was quickly cured. I am glad to recommend Booth's Kidney Pills as I believe them to be the best and most reliable of all kidney remedies.

Long Canals.

The Grand Canal of China is the longest entirely artificial waterway in the world, extending as it does from Hangchau to Pekin, a distance of almost 700 miles. The part between the Yellow River and the Yangtze is said to have been constructed 500 years before Christ. The remaining portions were built separately at later dates, and Kublai-Khan, whose rule began in 1280, united them and made the continuous canal, which is still used. Much longer continuous waterways, partially natural and for the remainder of their extent artificial, exist elsewhere. Of these the longest reaches from the Chinese frontier to St. Petersburg. It measure 4,472 miles. Another, running from Astrakham to St. Petersburg, is 1,434 miles. Both these were projected and commenced by Peter the Great.

WOODEN HOOPED STAVE SILOS

A practical farmer communicating with the Farm and Ranch concerning the stave silos says: This silo consists of the requisite number of staves to make the desired size, bound together, similar to a mammoth tank or cistern, with iron hoops, which can be loosened or tightened as desired. Silos of this type made by different manufacturers differ from one another mainly in the style of door frame and door or the fastening for the same, on which there may be a patent. There is no patent, however, on the stave silo, and any one is at liberty to erect one if he desires to do so.

Any of the various manufacturers will sell the door frame, doors and hoops separately if desired, and the staves can be purchased from a local lumber dealer. If possible it is best to have the staves six inches wide and tongued and grooved. If it is impossible to get these made up in this way 2 by 4 can be used if they are jointed on both edges, but they should not be beveled, as the inside edges will close more tightly if left square.

Where 2 by 4 are used a 40d spike should be driven through each stave into the one next to it every four or five feet to keep them in position should the hoops loosen during the dry weather of summer when the silo is empty. A shallow hole should be bored where each nail is driven to countersink the head.

These silos should be placed on a circular wall the same as the other type of silos mentioned above.

For a silo of this character fourteen feet in diameter and thirty feet high, with a capacity to hold ninety tons, the following bill of materials is suggested by the United States department of agriculture:

Foundation. — Three and three-fourths cubic yards crushed stone or gravel, two cubic yards of sand, four and one-fourth barrels portland cement.

Silo Staves.—One hundred and thirty-three pieces 2 by 4, sixteen feet; 133 pieces 2 by 4, fourteen feet.

Hardware.—Eight rods three-fourth inch, eleven feet six inches long; eight rods five-eighth inch, eleven feet six inches long; twenty rods one-half inch, eleven feet six inches long; eighteen malleable lugs, fifty pounds 40d spikes, sixty-four bolts three-eighths by four, 133 pieces galvanized steel two inches wide, four by one-fourth long.

STAVE SILOS.

Roof.—Twenty-two pieces 1 by 12, ten feet long; four pieces 2 by 4, ten feet long; one center pole eight inches in diameter, four feet long.

The pieces of galvanized steel are provided to fasten the ends of the 2 by 4 inch staves together, a slit being sawed in the end of each. The iron rods should be threaded for about eight inches on each end and loose fitting nuts provided. These rods make the bands or hoops with which to compress the staves together.

The twelve inch boards for the roof should be split diagonally, leaving the pointed end not over one-half an inch in width. Erect the center pole between the four rafters, making a one-third pitch, and build the roof in the form of a cone, resting the narrow end of the board against the center pole. Make a plate on the inside of the top of the staves by bending around the inside two thicknesses of one-half by six boards and nailing them firmly to each stave.

Anchor the silo to the ground by putting three eye bolts through this plate and running four strands of No 9 galvanized wire from them to a solid stick or rock buried in the ground not over three feet distant from the foundation. Use three of these anchor cables.

Paralysis In Swine.

Paralysis in swine most often follows overfeeding of rich nitrogenous foods to animals that are closely confined. Pigs do best when allowed a considerable range and not fed too highly. As this affection involves the spinal cord, it is not only liable to prove fatal, but is not, as a rule, satisfactorily treated. First remove the cause. Cut down feed and allow plenty of range, and if not fed too liberally they will forage about and get exercise. Young pigs only partially paralyzed will often come right treated as above advised. Old animals will not often respond to any form of treatment.

Overfeeding Cattle.

It is argued by those who feed at the corn cattle will consume, swine following at the same time in the pastures, that the hogs will take care of all that is not digested. It is true that the swine will gather all the corn in the voidings, but it is also true that cattle when fed very heavily will consume and digest more food than can be assimilated by the system, so that neither the animal to which the grain is fed nor the swine will get the full benefit of the same.

The Trackless Trolley.

The trackless trolley is under discussion in street railroad circles, and it is quite possible it will be tried in the United States in the near future. It originated in France, but is much in use in many parts of the continent. It is used on suburban routes. It is an omnibus run by an electric motor, getting its power from a trolley wire. As it uses no track it does not interfere in the slightest with the operation of other street traffic, and the line can be constructed quickly and cheaply. In places arrangements are made by persons operating private electric vehicles to use the power of the trackless trolley line, and private automobiles with trolley attachment are not a novelty in France.—New Orleans Picayune.

FIRST SESSION OF WEST PETERBOROUGH FARMERS' INSTITUTE WINTER MEETINGS

Able and Instructive Addresses on Subjects of Great Importance to Farmers at Ennismore Town Hall—Much Interest Shown in the Proceedings of Afternoon and Evening Sessions.

The first of the regular meetings of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute was held in the town hall at Ennismore Monday and while the afternoon session was only fairly well attended, the hall was packed to the doors in the evening and much interest was shown in the proceedings. The addresses were all listened to with the best of attention and the many facts related and the numerous points of benefit to those in attendance, brought out by the speakers during the meeting, should and will no doubt bring good results. The speakers for the day were, the President, Mr. J. H. Garbutt: Mr. W. C. Shearer, of Bright, Ont.; Mr. H. C. Duff, B.S.A., Norwood, Mr. H. B. Cowan, editor of the Farm and Dairy, and Miss S. Campbell, of Brampton.

MORNING SESSION.

The morning session was opened by a few remarks by the president, after which he introduced the first speaker, Mr. Shearer, who spoke on the "Production and care of Milk and Pasteurizing of Whey."

Mr. Shearer is a practical farmer and owns and operates a large and moderaly equipped farm in Oxford County. In his opening remarks on the subject of production and care of milk. He spoke about the difference among cows as milk producers and the variance in the profit to the farmer. To meet with success, however, it was necessary to start right, and to do this it was most important to secure a good bull, which would result in good calves being obtained. Dairying was a hard job with poor cows, but on the other hand, if they were good ones it was comparatively easy. He emphasized the fact that they should be easy milkers, and then the milk should be tested through the Milk Test Association. Then pick out the ones which are fit to raise heifers from. The next thing was to find out how to feed them as cheaply as possible, and in doing this the farmer should figure out how to transact his sales of grain with the miller. In feeding the heifers for the first time the correct manner was very important. They should be given the milk by the hand and not allowed to follow the cow. Take them away from her at the start, but don't neglect the cow. Feed her and see that she is kept warm and pay particular attention to the udder. Rub it lightly at first and try not to hurt her. Two weeks after she has calved, the fill allowance of food may be given to her. In teaching the calf to drink in most cases only two feeds were necessary to accomplish this. Let it feed twice a day, starting it at a quart and in about three weeks it would be able to take a gallon. Change from the new milk in ten days or two weeks and do not feed any grain until it is four weeks old, but after that time give it the best you can secure, and at the end of three or four months you will have big, fine, healthy calves. A good food which he advised was a mixture composed of 100 lbs. of ground white oil cake, 25 lbs. of pure ground flax, and 100 lbs. of low grade flour. A most important thing was that at the start, too much skim milk should not be given to them nor should there be too quick a change in feed. Some farmers make the mistake of feeding the calves well at the start and then quit. This results in having poor ones in the fall. Speaking of the dehorning process he stated his plan was to saw off the horns and it had been found that this way had not set them back at all.

In some cases when a heifer calves, it is affected with a caked udder. This should be given treatment in as quiet and careful a manner as possible. Start to get the milk out and be particular to do it without hurting the heifer, and be sure to get it all out. He had found out that it paid better to give the heifer a few extra months when coming in. Some farmers gave it ten, but his rule was to give it twelve and sometimes more.

The matter of providing for in case of a drought was one which should be impressed on the farmer. He advised a plan which had given good results on his farm. This was the building of a silo. It was frequently twelve feet in diameter and 22 ft. high, with a roof on it. It was filled with corn, which was kept wholesome by the working together of its own properties and it made fine food for the cows. In the care of the milk for the cheese factory, one thing in which the farmers should be careful of was to see that no feed was given to the cows that would make the milk taste of a strong flavor. The milk should be examined every morning. If there was anything wrong the reason of it should be found out at once. Don't wait for the cheesemaker to find it out. It would be of benefit and would also astonish some farmers if they were to visit the factory and smell some of the milk which is brought there. The morning and night milk should not be mixed. It was better to buy more cans if necessary. Mr. Shearer explained how he kept his milk. He got a long box, and in it placed five cans, each of which held from 30 to 40 lbs. of milk. The milk after it had been strained, was put into the cans which were then placed in the box, partly filled with water. A quantity of ice was then placed in the box and around the cans, and the milk stirred up for 15 or 20 minutes. Then the lid was put on and the milk left undisturbed until morning when it was stirred again.

PASTEURIZING OF WHEY.

In dealing with this subject, Mr. Shearer, first commented on the custom of some of the farmers of Eastern Ontario, who skimmed their whey and made whey butter, securing 1 1-2 lbs. from 1,000 lbs. of whey. There was considerable expense about this and it was more profitable to keep the whey and feed it to the hogs and calves.

He had been pleased with the results obtained since he had used it for feed, and he explained his way of curing it by means of steam. The question of carrying the whey for the farmers was one to be easily answered. In Oxford a man has been engaged for this purpose, and had been given $500 for the year. The next year competition brought the amount down to $200, and the last year it was carried for nothing. By making use of the whey as feed, the farmer would be able to clear from $8 to $10 on each cow.

UNDERDRAINAGE

Mr. Duff was next introduced by the president. The subject of his address was "Underdrainage and Weeds," and he took up the former first. It was a question, he said, that was interesting the farmers all over the country. In the fight against weeds it was necessary. The results would more than pay for the cost of having it put in. In low lands, which become filled with water, very little room is left for air, and air is important. He spoke about the different kinds of soil, and how the roots are affected when there is no drainage, and how they are benefitted by underdrainage. It was most important that when the drains were put in that the work be done well. Many that are put in are not working, or else doing about half what they should. Up to the present the government had been taking levels for the drains free of cost, but in the future the farmer would have to pay the necessary expenses to bring a man to do it. Should a number of farmers wish to have levels taken at any time, all they would have to do would be to notify the department, and someone would be sent. By a number combining, the cost would be very little to each one. Mr. Duff explained how the drain was dug and the tile placed in position. The government had a draining machine which would do all the work at a cost of 35 cents per yard, where there was good soil.

WEEDS.

It was impossible to ascertain the cost of weeds to the farmer. They are always an expense, and there was no better way to get rid of them than by systematic alternation of crops. Have a change for three or four years and then go back to the first crop. But the question of whether the farmer could afford it or not was likely to arise, but he thought it was rather a question of just the opposite. Another thing was that the farmer did not use the fanning mill quite enough. The cleaning of the grain was often left to stand until within a few days before sowing, and then it was only cleaned probably once. The work should be done in the winter time, when the farmer is not so busy, and all the wild oats blown out. The fight against weeds could not be fought successfully in small fields. Then again there are not enough sheep raised in the County of Peterborough. They are excellent weed exterminators, and there is scarcely a weed that they will not nip off. Mr. Duff advised the use of the weeder, and explained fully how it worked, and the results to be obtained.

At the conclusion of Mr. Duff's address the afternoon meeting was brought to a close.

EVENING SESSION.

During the evening a number of vocal and instrumental selections were given and heartily applauded by the large audience. In opening the meeting, the president remarked on the large and representative gathering present, and said he was much pleased. The first speaker introduced was Mr. Shearer. His subject for the night was "Successful Agriculture." He stated that the remarks he would make were mainly for the young farmers, to whom he wished to give a few helpful thoughts and some pointers to study out for themselves. To meet with success in agriculture to-day all the education which could be obtained was necessary, but the fathers and mothers should not make the mistake of being partial to one boy in giving him an education and neglect the other. The boy who is going to stay on the farm should get just as good an education as his brothers who intended to follow other pursuits in life. The young farmers of to-day should be methodical and economical. By having a method, results would be doubled. Farmers do not economize enough. Coming to Ennismore he had seen a large number of small fields. This should not be. The fences should be taken down and the soil utilized.

In laying off a field, make it twice as long as it is wide and cultivate the long way. Again, farmers are working with dairy cows which are not paying for their board, and the same could be said of bacon hogs. The secret was to know how to mix the right kind of food for the cattle, with the least expense. The young farmer should study up the weed question, attend the Farmers' Institute and the meetings, get the reports and read them over. All over Canada the farmers are bettering their condition in the way of homes and taking care of the stock. It has been found more profitable to do so. The secret of farming was to study it up and find out how.

THE IDEAL HOME.

Miss Campbell in dealing with this subject emphasized the necessity of truthfulness, honesty and purity in the home life where the character of the young is molded. The boy should be taught the elements of manhood so that when it became time for him to face the world he would say, "I will play fair and be a manly man," and the woman who could accomplish this did more for the future of the Dominion than the one who was taking the platform, and mixing in politics. In the splendid country that God has given us, there should be ideal homes. Fine farms, the best of cattle or big crops did not make them. It was rather the spirit shown in the home. It has been said that men derive their wisdom from the cultivated minds of women. How careful then, should the women be. To-day we have the homes which our forefathers moulded out of the forests for us. They had done the work through the influence of the women. Let us have pure atmosphere in the home and the spirit of co-operation between the husband and wife. Another thing necessary was cheerfulness. It was unpleasant to meet grumblers, while it was just the reverse to come in contact and associate with those of a cheerful disposition. Around the festive board, have something pleasant to say and act with the same spirit when there are visitors. It make an impression for good every time. By all means cultivate the cheerful disposition. In the ideal home we must have truthfulness, honesty and uprightness. It takes a long while to build character, and too much care cannot be taken in the case of the young, who are ever alert and can readily see through any untruthfulness. Don't use hard words, but be sympathetic. Profanity should never enter the ideal home. Just consider that it does not give any expression to what we have to say, but rather takes it away. It is the result of habit, and it does not fit us for this world, and unfits us for the next. Young ladies should not use slang if they desire to become ladies in the proper sense of the word. What is needed in the home is cultivation and education. Teach the boys and the girls to have a purpose in life again. Do not do so much work again that it becomes a drudgery. God gave us our bodies to use for other purposes besides work. The sphere of the woman is in the home, and there is no other place where she has such an influence towards the future of the nation. Try to have the ideal home with its pure atmosphere, and remember that the boys and girls of to-day are the country's greatest assets.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

Mr. Duff gave an address on this subject. He referred to the necessity of education for the farmer of to-day. One drawback in the public schools was that the boys were not given an agricultural education. He would advocate the forming of Farmers' Clubs. The Institutes were all right, but they were useless unless the boy became interested. This could be done by means of a club. Questions of interest could be discussed, and it would have a great deal to do towards setting off the disadvantages in which the young farmers are placed.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, editor of the Farm and Dairy, gave a very interesting address on matters of importance to the farmer. He advised them to become better organized, as the future of the young farmer would be wrapped up in keen competition, and the speaker explained clearly how this would be brought about, and dwelt interestingly on the competition between Canada and the other countries as it is to-day. The questions of rural mail and taxation as they affected the farmer were also ably handled by Mr. Cowan, and he suggested that Farmers' Clubs be organised, so that these matters could be discussed and all the information secured as far as possible. In concluding he expressed his pleasure at the success of the meeting and the good hearing that had been given the speakers.

The last speaker was Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, who was called upon by the chairman to say a few words. The reverend gentleman referred to the different addresses by the speakers of the evening as being very interesting and instructive, and the points brought out of benefit to every farmer and should be acted upon.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

YOUR BLOOD IS POISONED

If You Suffer From Headaches or Neuralgia.

Frequent attacks of Headaches or Neuralgia are Nature's warnings of Blood Poisoning. The pain is due simply to the tortured nerves, inflamed by the blood being overloaded with impurities, because of inactive bowels, kidneys or skin.

There is usually chronic Constipation and the foul matter, instead of passing from the body, is absorbed by the blood. The kidneys are not as strong as they should be and fail to filter from the the blood, the necessary amount of impure matter.

Instead of the skin throwing off one and a half pounds of waste matter every day, it becomes inactive and does only half its work, leaving three quarters of a pound of this waste to poison the body. Headache powders and pain killers simply numb the nerves and have no helpful action on the organs causing this poisoning of the blood. To cure Headaches and Neuralgia, the blood must be purified, which can be done only by making the kidneys, bowels and skin healthy and active.

"Fruit-a-tives", made from concentrated and intensified fruit juice, is the greatest blood purifying medicine.

"Fruit-a-tives", or "Fruit Liver Tablets", is a scientific cure for Headaches and Neuralgia, and never fails to cure because "Fruit-a-tives" stops the cause of these troubles.

A Northwest Item

A Calgary real estate firm is advertising lots in Copper City at the junction of the Copper River with the Skeena River, British Columbia, 100 miles east of Prince Rupert. This is legitimate up to the statement that Copper City is "in the centre of the only fruit raising belt on the line from Prince Rupert to the east."

This latter statement is neither fair to the Grand Trunk Pacific, nor to prospective upurchasers. It may be that fruit will grow on the Copper River, but certainly no better than it has grown about Fort George and will grow in the Bulkley and Nechaco Valleys, British Columbia land sharks are slippery fish.

One of the physicians in Watrous, Sask., is responsible for the statement that as soon as the new sanitarium which is being built there is ready, he has forty patients from different parts of the country waiting to enter same.

Prince Rupert, B. C., is ambitious. Her leading citizens are agitating for a Board of Control and are asking for a charter similar to the charter under which Edmonton has prospered so splendidly.

Greater Interest in Good Music Brought About by Edison Records

It is a notable fact that more people are to-day taking far greater interest in the better class of music than ever before; and it is also true that this development is almost wholly due to the far-reaching and elevating effects of the Edison Phonograph and Edison Records.

Among the new Amberol Records is "The Garden of Dreams," a song duet of the same rich old-fashioned beauty as "Oh, Promise Me"; also 'Bach's Air,' rendered by Victor Herbert and His Orchestra, which every one should hear. Victor Herbert's orchestra also renders the famous Mendelssohn "Spring Song," for the Edison Standard (2 minute) Records. And there are 44 other new Records on the list, none of which you should miss. They comprise recitations, vaudeville selections and music of every character.

The J. M. Greene Music Co., Limited, Grand Opera House, George street, have a complete line of Edison Phonographs, and a large and well assorted stock of Records. To hear them is to enjoy them. 3d

Information for Senders of Parcels To Most Important Places Abroad

At this time of the year questions are continually being asked of the Post Office authorities. Practically everyone is sending parcels, and the number who have friends in foreign countries whom they wish to remember is remarkable. Already a number of parcels have been sent to China and Japan, but the rush to the other countries is only beginning.

These are the rates charged for parcels to some of the most important countries;

Australia, 24 cents for the first pound, and a similar sum for every additional pound.

Bahamas, 12 cents a pound.

Bermudas, 16 cents for the first pound, and 12 cents for each succeeding pound to the limit of 11.

Cape Colony, 28 cents for the first pound, two pounds for 54 cents, three pounds for 80 cents, and four pounds for $1.06.

China, 16 cents for the first pound, and 12 cents for each additional pound.

Cuba, 28 cents for the first pound, 66 cents for a two-pound parcel, three pounds for $1.74.

France, 42 cents for the first pound, 8 cents additional for the next two pounds, and 76 cents for a four-pound parcel.

Germany, first pound 34 cents, 8 cents additional for the second and third pounds, while the four-pound parcel requires 70 cents postage.

Parcels within Canada carried at the the rate of a cent an ounce, which reveals the peculiar fact that a five-pound parcel can be sent from Toronto to Hong Kong for 64 cents, while to send the same package from here to Hamilton would cost 80 cents. Small parcels weighing a few ounces are at the present time accepted in nearly all foreign countries except the United States, on the regular letter rates, providing they do not contain anything coming on the prohibited list of the country to which they are addressed. Such parcels are subject to examination at the customs offices.

UNIONISTS NOW PROPOSE TO TO PUT DUTIES ON FOOD THAT IS MANUFACTURED

Foreign Wheat, Flour, Bacon and Maize Would be Taken From Free List—Object, Says Birmingham Post, is to Encourage the Home Producer.

London, Dec. 8.—The Birmingham Daily Post publishes an article from inspired sources, outlining the tariff reform which is likely to be proposed by the Unionist Government, if the Unionists are successful at the elections, prefacing it with the remark that the country's financial necessities are much greater than they were in 1905, when Joseph Chamberlain started the movement. The article proceeds:

"It is proposed to establish a general tariff, placing duties on practically all goods that are not deemed raw material, with the object, first, of raising revenue; second, of assisting the home producer against foreign competition; third, of giving preference to colonies; fourth, of securing better terms from foreign countries, and, finally, of mitigating unemployment by encouraging the home producer.

"The tariff will be of the simplest possible form, not protective in the sense that it is understood in Germany and the United States. There is no intention of having multifarious rates, which would throw open the door to Parliamentary intrigue. The plan favored is to allow few materials duty free and to impose a five per cent. duty on completed and 15 per cent. on completely manufactured goods. There may possibly be a slightly lower duty in favor of the colonies and a slightly higher tariff against countries seeking unduly to penalize British goods.

"Foreign wheat will be liable to a duty of two shillings per quarter, with preference to the colonies, but not the removal of the whole duty. Flour will pay a higher rate in order to encourage home grinding, while bacon and maize will be excluded from the free list. Important raw materials, such as cotton and wool, will enter free.

"A tariff framed thus, it is estimated would produce a revenue of from sixteen to twenty million pounds. If the Unionists are returned, every possible effort will be made to embody the new duties in the budget of 1910, or at the latest 1911, but the maximum duties will be withheld for two years, in order to give time to negotiate commercial agreements with foreign countries."

Right Hon. George Wyndham, member of the House of Commons for Dover, speaking in London last night, also intimated the intention of the Unionists to propose a 10 per cent. duty on manufactured articles and two shillings on wheat.

AN IMMENSE CROWD AT THE WINTER FAIR AT GUELPH

Three Thousand Persons Are Present at Fat Stock Exhibition on the First Day—West is Prevented From Exhibiting by Directors.

Guelph, Dec. 8.—Anticipation of splendid accommodation for the best of Ontario's live stock has almost congested the shipping facilities of the Royal City, in the rush of fat stock and breeding animals to the 26th annual Ontario Winter Fair. From the stampede of Tamworth swine on Sunday night, to the belated arrivals of sheep and horses yesterday, there has been a constant inflow of domestic animals, till the new $60,000 additional buildings are overflowed and 100 horses, a carload of sheep and lots of poultry could not find a friendly shelter within the grey limstone walls.

Usually the visitors do not crowd the first day, but this year, already sees fully 3,000 people here. The new galleries were soon filled and the aisles overburdened with spectators, so that the directors are up against the old problem of room, and are forced to conjecture on future additions. The swine are still in their old miserable quarters, and it will be a wonder if the hog breeders do not protest loudly.

The big arena came in for criticism. It is not well lighted. The accoustics are all bad. Were it not for big John Bright's stentorian tones, many would only guess the speech from the facial manoeuvres.

The fame of this show has spread to the western provinces, whose progressiveness is largely due to the sterling character of old Ontario settlers. A move from Edmonton and Calgary to draw still more of these to the big west was prevented by the refusal of the directors to allow exhibits of these cities a place within the halls. Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, arrived last night and will be a guest of honor.

The Experimental Union continued its regular sitting in Massey Hall. The chief discussions centred around the fertilizer experiments and control of commercial feeding stuffs to prevent Fort William screenings and tailings "from poisoning Ontario's fair areas," as one speaker forcibly expressed it.

The usual faces are present in the horse ring, along with several new breeders of western Ontario. The entries are away ahead of anything hitherto. Comparisons here with Toronto meetings are being made constantly. Criticisms of Toronto's slowness in not erecting a big arena, thereby to have located the horse show and founded a big fat stock show at the Junction, were freely indulged in, generally to Toronto's disadvantage. Many think yet that there is not enough room here to expand, while the success of yesterday's show jubilates the devotees of Guelph's location. The judges in heavy horses were Job White, Ontario County; Jas. Torrance, York County, and Andrew Russell of Carrville. In ponies A. E. Major of Ontario County began his work Monday night. Hackney ribbons were placed by Dr. Campbell of Berlin and B. Rothwell of Ottawa. Dr. Rutledge of Lambeth judged the standard breeds, and S. B. Fuller of Woodstock, the thoroughbreds.

MRS. GUTHRIE ESCAPED IN MEN'S CLOTHES

Barrie, Dec. 8.—A story which probably explains Mrs. Guthrie's recent disappearance, is current to-day, to the effect that Conductor McLennan, in charge of the midnight train on Wednesday last, says that a woman attired in man's clothes, with a lumberman's cap pulled down on her head to conceal her hair, boarded the train at Orillia. She locked herself in the lavatory for some time before taking a seat in the car. After enquiring as to the best place to connect with the C.P.R., she bought a ticket for North Bay, displaying a bulky roll of bills.

Later McLennan discovered her mask, and thinking she was an escaped lunatic from Orillia Asylum, engaged her in conversation. She resented enquiries and jumped off the train as it pulled out of Burk's Falls

CANAL TUG WAS DESTROYED BY THE FLAMES

St. Catharines, Dec. 8.—The tug Augusta was totally destroyed by fire at Port Dalhousie last night. She had been laid up for the winter above Lock One, old canal, near Muir's drydock. The fire was discovered by some of the crew on the steamer Lakeside, laying up close by.

The Augusta was built in St. Catharines about 30 years ago and was the largest tug in the canal business. She was owned jointly by Capt. D. McGrath of Port Dalhousie and Capt. T. Lannon of Port Colborne. Some men had been working on the tug during the day, taking the machinery apart.

MR. MERNIER DROPS SUIT AGAINST RATZ

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 8.—The Merner-Ratz suit turned out to be a complete fizzle. The court-room yesterday was filled with curious ones, whose expectant looks turned to surprise, and in some cases to disappointment when J. E. Jones, acting with Clement & Clement for Senator Ratz, informed Chief Justice Falconbridge that the case had been settled out of court, each to pay his own costs.

An agreement was drawn up, signed by the principals, for the benefit of the public. Here it is:

"The parties hereto agree that there has been a misunderstanding as to the matters in question in this action. The plaintiff was not present at any time when there was any conversation between the late Senator Merner and the defendant. After a full examination into the evidence now available and examination for discovery, the plaintiff is satisfied that he cannot establish any cause of action and the defendant is content that each party should pay his own costs, to which the plaintiff agree."

BILL IS INTRODUCED TO EXTEND THE INTERCOLONIAL

Minister of Railways Says He Has no Particular Roads in View and the Conservative Members Fail to Elicit a Statement From Him.

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—The principal of public ownership was endorsed by the Government yesterday as a result of the discussion upon Hon. Geo. P. Graham's bill to acquire or lease branch lines in connection with the Intercolonial Railway. The principle was admitted by Mr. Graham, in that by his proposal will be extended the ramifications of the Government railways.

This gave an opportunity to W. F. Maclean (South York), to put in a plea for still further extension of the people's system.

"There is a declaration to-day in favor of the extension of the principle of Government ownership of railways to the wide extent of taking in all or most of the local lines in the provinces where the I.C.R. now runs," said Mr. Maclean. "But if they are to be taken in, they must be taken in on business terms, and on reasonable values, and when taken in the roads so acquired, and the I.C.R. itself, must be administered from the point of view of business and efficiency, and must be absolutely separated from politics.

"I believe that if public ownership is attempted in this country on these lines, it will succeed, and I hope that not only the I.C.R. be widened and broadened in the Maritime Provinces, but I think the day is near at hand when this state-owned road, which to-day is Canada's greatest asset, will be extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

Hon. Mr. Graham explained his bill, which is destined to give the Government power to acquire or lease branch lines in connection with the Intercolonial Railway. There was the stipulation in the bill that these lines must be in good order and possessed of safe provisions for accommodation, also not without approval of Parliament.

Hon. John Haggart asked why it was necessary to get authority to lease branch lines when that authority already existed. He asked the Minister to state what definite proposal he was likely to put forward.

Mr. Graham replied that he had no particular line or lines in view.

Dr. Sproule said the Minister ought to be able to say whether the Government had any definite idea of extending Government ownership. It seemed to him also that the Government possessed the power, without legislating further, to acquire branch lines.

Mr. Graham stated that he was not prepared to announce any policy as to the enlargement of Government ownership. The Government was liable to own the Intercolonial for some time yet.

Mr. Crockett asked what the reason was for the bill. Had the Government power now, or had it not? Mr. Graham replied that the reason for the bill was simply that the I.C.R. management would start under the approval of the principle of acquiring branch railways.

R. L. Borden objected to the term Government ownership. It was "public ownership." The railway was the property of the people. The sooner the Minister of Railways got rid of the idea that the road was Government-owned the better it would be for the railway and the people.

J. B. Black (Liberal member for Hants) said he would like to know if it was intended to acquire branch lines in New Brunswick, which had never paid and never would pay, or similar lines in Quebec. Referring to the Dominion Atlantic Railway, he remarked, "anything managed from London hardly ever prospers in Canada."

Col. Talbot (Liberal) said he was opposed now to any further Government-ownership of railways, and would oppose is for many years to come.

Mr. Henderson (Conservative) declared that this bill would simply create an open door for good speculation. The bonds of some railways in New Brunswick would jump up. There was something rather dark about this bill, for it merely gave to the Minister power he already had.

Hon. W. S. Fielding affirmed that the bill was simply an expression of the principle that where there were branch lines and it was in the interests of economy and good management to acquire them, this should be done, if it could be done fairly and reasonably. One clause in the bill saved the Minister of Railways, for it stipulated that the railway to be acquired must be in a safe and good condition.

Hon. George E. Foster suggested that Hon. H. R. Emmerson, the former Minister of Railways, and "a bothersome man," was at the bottom of this bill. He criticized the Minister for not indicating how far he means to go. The principle of it could be applied to all the railways in Canada.

E. M. Macdonald (Lib.) supported the principle of the bill. Samuel Barker (Con.) pointed out that in the bill there was no mention of approval of terms. Mr. Graham said his sincere desire was to make the best possible use out of the Government railways. He had intended to include approval of terms in the bill, and would do so.

E. B. Osler (Con.) thought the taking over of branch lines would be a good thing for the I.C.R. and the country, but he reminded the House that branch lines were often taken in as feeders and remained as suckers.

The bill was then given a second reading and passed through the committee stage.

PLANS FOR CONVENTION

Conservatives Draw up Programme of Preparation – Report Adopted by Caucus.

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—The report of the special committee appointed by R. L. Borden at the request of the caucus for the purpose of taking into consideration matters connected with the approaching convention of the Liberal Conservative party, recommends:

(1) That a committee of fifty, of whom not more than twenty shall be members of Parliament, to be known as the committee on preliminary arrangements for the Dominion convention of the Liberal Conservative party, be appointed by our leader.

(2) That the said committee be called together at Ottawa, for their first meeting, on some day in the month of January, 1910, to decide on the best way of getting the whole party throughout the Dominion to join heartily in the said convention, and to arrange the system of obtaining delegates for the convention, and all other matters connected with the same.

(3) That, while it is the opinion of this committee that the Dominion convention should be held in the city of Winnipeg two or three days previous to the Winnipeg exhibition, which will be early in July.

(4) Your committee further recommends that each member of Parliament and the defeated Conservative candidates be requested to consult the executive of the association for his electoral division, with the object of obtaining their views, and that the whips of the respective provinces be requested to transmit immediately to each defeated Conservative candidate a copy of this recommendation.

The above report was unanimously concurred in and adopted by the Conservative caucus yesterday.

WHITE LIGHT LURE GOES

Pittsburg, Dec. 8.—The "lure of the white light" by the side of railroads will no longer be held responsible for railroad wrecks. The white light as the signal for a clear track is to go. On Wednesday of next week the yellow light will be substituted for the white light on the Pittsburg & Lake Erie road. The entire New York Central System is said to be preparing to adopt the plan at an early date.

Engineers of fast trains have often been confused by white lights in dwellings and other places along the right of way and have passed colored lights which were set.

TEXT BOOK IS UNIQUE

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 8.—A text book exploiting the principles of Christian government for pupils in the American public schools was proposed yesterday at the opening session of the annual convention of the National Reform Association.

The book will be unique, containing abstracts of the laws against blasphemy, Sabbath desecration, profanity and immorality, with court decisions sustaining these laws.

Another feature was a discussion of an amendment to the federal constitution declaring Christ to be the Divine ruler of nations.

LEGISLATURE TO OPEN ON JANUARY 18?

Toronto, Dec. 8.—Tuesday, Jan. 18, is the date favored by those who are in a position to prognosticate when the Ontario Legislature will again take up the task of law-making.

Hon. A. J. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, stated yesterday that the public accounts would be ready by the 15th. Sir James Whitney is understood to favor an early session.

TO ASSIST IN FARM DRAINAGE

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 8.—The Department of Agriculture of Nova Scotia has under consideration a drainage scheme to assist the farmers of the province. Under its provisions a farmer will be able to get his land scientifically drained by paying the Government 7 per cent. on the cost for about 25 years. At the end of this period the principal would be paid by the sinking funds. The Government could borrow the capital at at about 4 per cent.

Conmee Must Give Guarantee.

Port Arthur, Dec. 8.—James Conmee will submit his power proposition to council to-day, and it and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission's agreement, in the form of bylaws, will be submitted at the municipal election. Conmee will be asked to provide a guarantee that he can carry out his offer.

MECHANICAL EDUCATION

The resolution recently introduced into the House of Commons favouring the appointment of a commission to meet the demand for the better education of mechanics and artisans should have met with immediate endorsement. For some reason the Minister of Labour did not seem to favour it. Of all things for which Germany is famous, and to which she owes most of her industrial efficiency and happiness the technical school is the chief. The U.S. and Great Britain have already recognized this. Why do we lag in Canada?

SCRAP BOOKS

There have just been "turned out" of the Review bookbindery two volumes, 2 ft. 6 inches by 2 feet and 8 inches thick, which contain more information of a pictorial character than we have ever seen in a like space before. These two huge red books have some really valuable prints and constitute a complete record of the lives, times, fashions, customs, fads, foibles, habits, occupations, idiosyncrasies, sports, appearance, etc., of everything and everybody worth recording during the life of a grandfather, father and son. The books belong to Mr. T. A. S. Hay, the city engineer. They do not constitute so much a hotch-potch as a high-class record of good things well done. It is in every sense a mine of information, and as a source of instruction as to old customs, &c., it is beyond price. The custom of keeping scrap-books is a good one. There is none better. There is a vast deal of invaluable information of a fleeting, journalistic character, not fixed in books. A scrapbook places before "the scrapper" in a moment the whole history of his musings and investigations. It is a hobby of a most attractive character and of infinite use, and often beauty.

WHAT NEXT?

The virus of money-spending has so saturated the system of the present truly Liberal Government at Ottawa as to render it immune to criticism or even prayers. No one really thought that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, of course, is merely the stalking-house for Sir Robert Perks, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. George Graham and a host of "enterprising" contractors, intended to build the canal at least in this decade. But the recent declaration of Sir Wilfrid that the Georgian Bay canal is to be begun at once is borne out by the following suggestive account of what's coming from the Manchester Guardian which is no doubt inspired by Sir Robert Perks himself. The Province of Ontario is bearing a tremendous burden. However, excursions can be run up north to the line of the canal and we can at least see for ourselves what it is to be going it strong.

"Many indications go to show that a start in the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal—Canada's next great national task," as Sir W. Laurier has described it—cannot be much longer delayed," says the Manchester Guardian. "Last spring the Ottawa Government resolved that as soon as their finances permitted the scheme would be put in hand. Few people realize what an enormous undertaking this canal will be.

Sir Robert Parks, M.P., is said to be the master mind behind this scheme.

(THE WORLD'S LONGEST SHIP CANAL.

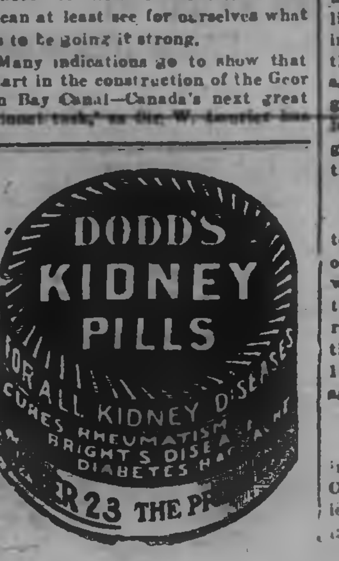
"In the first place it will be the longest ship canal in the world. Its total length will be 440 miles. The Suez Canal is nearly 100 miles long, of which 25 is through shallow lakes; of the isthmian canals, the Panama route is 54 miles long and the Nicaraguan 170 miles, of which 121 miles is free navigation through the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua. The cost of constructing the Georgian Bay Canal is a natural waterway, over 1,000 miles long, consisting of the St. Lawrence River and an unbroken chain of huge inland seas in the following order:—From east to west—Lake Ontario, Lake Erie, Lake Huron, and Lake Superior. Lake Michigan does not form part of the chain, but is rather a southern arm of Lake Huron.

"Unfortunately this natural waterway does not run direct to the sea, but takes a huge bend to the south around the Ontario Peninsula. If a ruler be laid across the map, however, from Duluth or Port Arthur, at the head of the lakes, to Montreal, on the St. Lawrence it will be found that except for the four hundred and odd miles between Montreal and Georgian Bay on Lake Huron the line drawn roughly east and west would pass over water the whole of the distance. In other words, the proposed canal would provide a water route of almost geometrical straightness from the heart of the grain country to Montreal, the most important of the Canadian ocean ports.

NOT AN OCEAN STEAMER CANAL.

"From a voluminous report just published by the Ottawa Government we find that the canal will not be a ship canal in the sense of the Manchester Ship Canal. Nor, on the other hand, will it be a barge canal. The peculiar condition of navigation on the Great Lakes have developed a special type of steamer. These boats are limited to 20 feet draught, as even the largest lake harbours are not much deeper than this. Their maximum length scarcely exceeds 600 ft. and the maximum tonnage is, roughly 12,000. These vessels are quite unfitted for ocean passages. The engines are in the stern and not in the centre, as in ocean-going craft, while the bow is reserved for the wheel-house and officers' quarters. Thus the whole midships section is one immense box, 500 ft. long, 60 ft. wide, and 25 ft. deep. The deck is practically one big hatch, so that a boat lying along a wharf ready to unload resembles a box with the lid off.

"It is only when the canal is regarded from an engineering point of view that the real difficulties become apparent. Of the 440 miles from Montreal to Georgian Bay only 28 would be actual excavation, and the remaining 412 miles follow the course of some river or lake. But the total difference of level is no less than 697 feet—559 ft. from Montreal to summit level, and then a drop from summit level to Georgian Bay of 98 ft.—necessitating the construction of 27 or 28 locks, with lifts varying from five to fifty feet. The highest single lift would be fifty feet, but there would be several others of from 30 to 35 fttr."



EDITORIAL NOTES

Our trade with Japan is decreasing.

This is the era of big canals and big prise-fights and it is hard to say just now which is the leerier.

How is it that the U. S. is developing at a wholly unprecedented rate while Great Britain has 2,000,000 idle men.

Hogs are considerably higher in the U. S. than in Canada. Without protection the U. S. farmer would lose millions. Who says protection can't benefit the farmer?

Dr. Frederick informs us that stovaine has been made use of in eight or ten surgical operations in Peterborough, showing that the profession here is thoroughly up-to-date.

What is the effect of the liquor traffic on the standard of living of the people? Is there any influence gone out from the saloon that has helped to make men and women better?—John B. Lennon, Treasurer Federation of Labor.

There are so-called combines existing in Canada to-day in certain lines of business that have no dealings with the tariff at all. How would the Globe deal with such combines as these? On the subject of the suggestion sent out by the Hamilton board of trade, the chief reform organ is surely entitled to a second thought.—Hamilton Spectator.

The Toronto Star has a long leader to the effect that if Canada had stood out for a preference in Britain she would now be allied with the party that is fighting for the Lords. This reasoning is a good deal like that of the Irishman who argued that since 1 drink was good ten were ten times as good.

"What a lack of ability to speak in public prevails among educated Canadians!" says the Canadian Courier. "When there is a public gathering of any kind in churches, Canadian clubs, boards of trade, business banquets or social dinners, almost the only speakers are the politicians and the lawyers. One seldom hears an address from a university professor, a high school headmaster or inspector, a doctor, a dentist, a journalist, a banker, a broker, or a manufacturer. Yet all these men have, on the average, as much education as the politician and the lawyer. Even the preacher is seldom heard in lay meetings; when he leaves the pulpit he seems to lose his power of making addresses."—Public Opinion (Eng.)

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrah, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

CELEBRATION OF SEVEN DAYS

Jewish Festival Begins To-day Greatest Epoch in Jewish History

To-day the Hebrew people in Peterborough and all over the world will begin their celebration of the anniversary of the greatest epoch in Jewish History. The festivities, which are known as Hanucah will continue for seven days, being the anniversary of the death of Hannah and her seven sons, and of the triumphant march of Judas Maccabeus and his troops into Jerusalem. The celebration is very similar to the Christmas of the Gentiles, being characterized by the giving of presents to friends, alms and entertainment to the poor.

It is 2,160 years since Seleucus was succeeded on the Syrian throne by his brother Antiochus, surnamed by his flatterers, Epiphanes, The Illustrious. One of his first acts was to lead an expedition against Egypt, but this was defeated by Rome. Seeing that the geographical position of Judea would make her a valuable possession to Rome, Antiochus decided to get rid of the Jews. Besides this, the disputes and riots in Jerusalem over the priesthood were making the Jews and their religion personally unpleasant to Antiochus.

He entered the capital, put to death many of the inhabitants, set up heathen idols in the Samaritan Temple, as well as in Jerusalem. A mother and her seven sons were separately tempted to renounce Judaism, but the brave woman retorted; "I can better bear to see them all die than for one of them to live as a coward," which has come to be one of the most sacred mottoes of the Jewish Faith.

WRAP YOUR GIFTS DAINTILY

Make Your Gifts Attractive—Use Holly Cards, Tags and Seals

A large amount of pleasure in receiving a Christmas gift lies in the manner in which the gift is wrapped. If the parcel is daintily tied up, decorated with pretty holly seals and has a pretty card enclosed conveying the best wishes of the donor, the anticipation is sure to be greater than if the parcel is roughly tied in a careless manner, in perhaps, used wrappings.

So if you would have your gifts appreciated to the highest extent, see that they are wrapped up as nicely as possible. First you will need to supply yourself with some clear white paper; than you need some fancy cards, either small or large, in keeping with the gift; then some fancy tags for the outside and these may be had in two or three sizes and designs. After the parcel is tied up, a Christmas stamp may be put in one corner, and the openings sealed with holly seals, of which there are several designs.

If you do this your parcel will look very much nicer and the recipient of it is sure to enjoy receiving it much more. All these materials may be bought at the Review Office, and really are not expensive. Call and secure some of them before the supply is disposed of.

THE LOCAL OPTION MOVEMENT IN THE CITY

The Matter Appearing in This Department is Furnished by the Peterboroug Temperance and Moral Reform League Which Has Arranged for its Publication.

INFORMATION WANTED

The Executive of the City Temperance League is endeavoring to secure as full information as possible about the parties whose names have been added to the voter's list by the interests represented by the open bar. About 190 names appear on the list. A careful scrutiny of the list reveals the fact that there are a number of names on the list of persons about whom it is going to be a difficult matter to gather information, in time to lay it before the judge when this list is scrutinized next week. With the object of gathering all possible information, the executive of the City Temperance League is planning to publish this list in the daily papers within a few days. Citizens who can give any information about the parties whose names appear on the list, as to their standing, and their right to vote, will greatly oblige the executive by doing so. This information can be telephoned to phone 280, or left at the committee rooms, 173 Simcoe st.

The list will not be published in full. The names of a number of people whom it is known are going to vote for local option appear on the list. These names will be omitted when the list is published. As it is possible that there are others, who intend to vote for local option and whose names were put on the list by the liquor interests, these names will not be published, if these parties will make their wishes known to the temperance league and show that they are qualified to vote, so that their names can be omitted from the list.

Apparently a number of people who are not properly qualified, have had their names placed on their list. These men are are liable to be fined heavily if their names are allowed to remain on the list. Others apparently have had their names put on, who do not know that they will be supposed to pay taxes next year. Full particulars about these who are qualified to vote will be given when the lists are published. Watch for the list.

HELL DOESN'T BOTHER THEM

Can't Threaten Poverty Stricken With Threats Says Toronto Pastor

"You cannot frighten these poor people with threats of hell, for they are there already."

This is the way Rev. Dr. Rose described the condition of people living in the lower grades of society, in his sermon in Sherbourne street Methodist church on Sunday. Dr. Rose was discussing the question of the church's relation to the world, and he had a number of very plain opinions to express regarding the Church's shortcomings.

"The church has always been too timid," he declared. "It was meant to be a leading power, instead of which it too often follows. By its treatment of Galileo, the great astronomer, it lost its leadership in science; that the Salvation Army is doing the the work to-day which the Methodist it is fast losing its leadership in scholarship, and its ability to defend this Book," laying his hand on the Bible, "and now 'social reform' is knocking at its door, asking it to come forth and lead it. But it has always been fearful, instead of being brave. It is because of this timidity that the Salvation Army is doing the work to-day which the Methodist Church should be doing.

WHAT CHURCH IS FOR.

"But, the Church," continued the speaker, "which was called into being to oppose the world, has too often allied itself with those very influences which it should combat. Of Christ it was said that 'The common people heard Him gladly.' Sometimes it looks as if the Church doesn't want the common people. It is too often the slave of the rich. There is nothing better to be seen than rich men and women devoting their means to the uses of the Church,' but the Church loses its power when it allows the rich to fasten themselves upon it, and make themselves necessary for its welfare."

Speaking of the Church's attitude to social reform, Dr. Rose declared that it was like offering a drowning sailor a tract. "Or like a band of workers going through the slums with illuminated banners bearing the legend, 'God is Love,' while poor wretches are trodden down into the mire and mud, starving to death. You cannot frighten these poor people with threats of hell, for they are already there," concluded the doctor, emphatically. "What they need first is a little food to eat, and some land to till, then offer them religion."

WHITE MEN'S MAGIC.

Indian Chief Terrified by an Experiment With a Hand Glass.

A curious device is known as the hand glass. This glass is open at top and bottom, but the top is smaller than the bottom and can easily be covered by the palm of the hand. The lower rim is ground smooth, so as to fit perfectly tight when attached to the plate of the air pump. Then if a person places his hand over the top of the glass while the air is exhausted by the pump he will suddenly find himself unable to remove his hand. The air, pressing down, will hold it firmly attached to the glass. No wonder the Indian chief of the Pottawatomie tribe was terrified when the white men made this experiment on him.

The story is told that the chief, with other warriors, made a delegation to Washington. They were anxious to find out if the white men knew any magic. The chief was asked to place his hand over one of these glasses and told that he would be unable to move as much as a finger. The Indian, with great contempt for persons who could believe such a thing, placed his palm over the glass, and when the air was exhausted he was terrified to find that he could not get away. All his braves were ready to tomahawk their white brothers for casting spells on their chief.—Chicago News.

FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS.

Any Number May Play This Interesting and Instructive Game.

This game is played by any number of persons, who sit in a row or circle. One begins by repeating some familiar quotation, either prose or poetry, and the next must then give one the first word of which begins with the same letter as the last word of the quotation just given. The game goes on thus as long as the players choose.

Any one who does not give his quotation in one minute or any other time agreed upon before the game begins pays a forfeit, or instead of a forfeit be may be required to leave the game, and it may be thus continued till there is only one player left, who, of course, is declared the winner.

The following examples show how the quotations may follow each other:

Know ye the land where the cypress and myrtle?—Byron.

Man never is, but always to be, blest.—Pope.

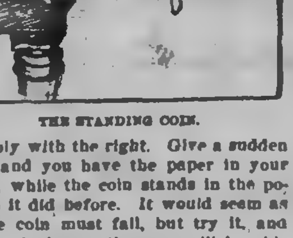
Belgium's capital had gathered then
Her beauty and her chivalry.
—Byron.

Come and walk with us, the walrus did beseech.—Carroll.

By torch and trumpet fast arrayed,
Each horseman drew his battle blade.
—Campbell.

The Standing Coin.

Take a long, narrow strip of paper and upon it place a five cent piece in an upright position, as shown in the picture. Take the end of the paper in the left hand and strike it rapidly and forcibly with the right. Give a sudden pull, and you have the paper in your hand, while the coin stands in the position it did before. It would seem as if the coin must fall, but try it, and with a little practice you will be able to accomplish the trick.



THE STANDING COIN.

I Sell My City of Rome.

All the players sit in a circle. The leader says the first sentence, and the rest repeat it in turn. The leader then adds another, and both are repeated till the whole is complete. Players who blunder are put out.

The sentences run in this way:

"I sell you my city of Rome. In this city there is a street; in this street there is a house; in this house there is a court; in this court there is a garden; in this garden there is a staircase; at the top of this staircase there is a room; in this room there is a bed; near this bed there is a table; on this table there is a cloth; on this cloth there is a cage; in this cage there is a bird.

"The bird says, I am in a cage. The cage says, I am on a table. The table says, I am near a bed. The bed says, I am in a room. The room says, I am at the top of the staircase. The staircase says, I am in a garden. The garden says, I am in a court. The court says, I am in a house. The house says, I am in a street—and here is my city of Rome sold!"

MARRYING OF TITLES.

Mrs. Post Gives Reasons For Unhappy Marriages.

Mrs. Emily Post, author of "The Title Market" and other novels dealing with society people, asserted in an interview that American girls must regard marriage as Europeans do before they can be happy as the wives of titled personages. She said:

"Of course not all marriages of American girls to foreign titles prove unhappy, but when they are not it only proves that one of our countrywomen has successfully curbed her natural tendencies—has attained the European manner of regarding matrimony. It is hard, but it can be done, and it has been done.

"But the effort, I think, can best be likened to the effort that is necessary in speaking a foreign tongue when you are sick and tired. The American girl who marries a foreigner must learn to put her thoughts into his language as well as her words.

"Many of the unhappy international marriages are the fault of the girl's mother. The American mother's place is to see that her daughter is not marrying a good-for-nothing creature, devoid of even the social position that she fancies she is attaining. American mothers are blinded by the gallantry with which the European man treats them. They fancy that the superficial chivalry displayed toward them is the quality upon which to found a happy future for the daughter. They are nansed to attention and understudy courtesies. In America everything is the American girl. Our men do not have time to be gallant to our mothers.

"Then the American mothers are at fault, too, in the training they give their daughters. If a girl were brought up properly she would not submit to selling herself for a title. But the society girl of America is educated only to be an ornament and is taught that the most desirable attainment is social position. When she goes abroad she falls an easier victim to the title mania than does her mother.

"The European man's God is his family. The woman upon whom he has bestowed his title must be treated with respect in public at least. One of the vilest little titled men of France always treated his wife with the utmost deference in public. Maybe he scratched her eyes out when they were alone, but in society his behavior was the acme of courtesy. In America, you see, a man treats his wife as well or as badly as he loves her. His love regulates his attentions. In Europe there are years and years of tradition respecting what is due the lady of the castle.

"The European man, speaking generally, does not care for the woman of the stage. He prefers women in his own social sphere. In most cases the wife entertains unknowingly the object of her husband's attentions. It may be more degrading, but it is at least less crude."

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Women afraid of being struck by lightning should lie, if possible, on a brass or iron bed, the head of which has a projection for supporting curtains. Such a bedstead forms the most complete lightning protector that can be devised, says an eminent electrician.

Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, is only fourteen years old, but she is said to be familiar with public questions, about which she can talk intelligently. She goes to the Friends' school in Washington and is described as a very intelligent young woman.

Ines Bower is the name of a twelve-year-old girl of Los Angeles who is preaching sermons in the west. She was "converted at five" and has been delivering sermons to adults for nearly four years. These are described as "clear, logical and as convincing as many a minister of mature age can deliver."

Mrs. George Keppel, who has had much notoriety because of the friendship for her of King Edward, has won that monarch's displeasure, it seems, as the list of persons whom he will be pleased to meet, which he edits himself, does not contain that lady's name, much to the surprise of society people in London.

Miss Nellie G. Robinson of Cincinnati and two women of Columbus, O., all three attorneys, are conferring for the purpose of organising an Ohio woman's bar association. The association will be formed in Columbus in September. Women attorneys at Springfield, Toledo, Cleveland and Sandusky will be eligible and no doubt will join.

Miss Belle Kinney of Nashville, Tenn., the designer of the monument to the women of the "lost cause," is only twenty-two years old, and her work has been much commended. The central figure is the goddess of fame, and at her right is the reclining figure representing the sacrificing southern women of the war. Miss Kinney was awarded the contract for twenty Igorotte figures at the Field museum.

Coverlets de Luxe.

The newest thing in coverlets de luxe is a combination of esprit net with flounces and incrustations of cluny lace interrun with a broadcloth ribbon to form a center. Less costly, but equally charming in their way, are the hemstitched and hand embroidered "spreads" of plain white linen, some of them supplemented with insertions, motifs and edgings of cluny lace, others a mass of delicate white embroidery. Then there are the printed cotton spreads, with Indian, flower or conventional designs in fresh, bright colorings, which always add to the cheerful appearance of a room.

A TELEGRAPH JOKER.

He Knew What the Crowd Wanted and Delivered the Goods.

ELECTION RETURNS TO SUIT.

Swung States and National Chairmen Into Line In His Reports and Gave the Boys of the Mining Camp the Time of Their Lives.

A funny incident happened on the night of the national election of 1896 in a little camp tucked away in the mountains of southwestern Colorado, where the only means of quick communication with the world were a single uncertain telegraph wire and a single more uncertain telegraph operator. Naturally only the merest scraps of election news reached the camp, but before the certain news of McKinley's election could have been got the uncertain operator had fallen a victim to his favorite vice and, further, had fallen beneath the table.

The only other person who knew anything about telegraphy was "Shorty," the local wit and humorist, who volunteered to write out the election returns as they clicked off from the telegraph instrument. Political sentiment was aflame for Bryan. News of his election was not only sought, but demanded, for the average American miner is as sanguine concerning the uncertainties of politics as he is concerning the uncertainties of mining. The volunteer telegrapher was noted for an obliging disposition. He was the "genial" of the camp.

The "boys" had placed stores of giant powder at various points. They had cleaned and oiled their six shooters and refilled their cartridge belts. Bonfires were ready to be lighted on the hillsides, and natural enthusiasm had been stimulated at the Metropole, the Cosmopolitan, the Fashion, the Trocadero and less pretentiously named oases in the desert of mining camp existence—in fact, every preliminary to the grandest celebration the San Juan country ever had known.

Shorty was not the man to neglect an opportunity like that. The first bulletin he handed to the waiting crowd stated that New York and Indiana were in doubt and it looked like a close election, with the chances favoring Bryan. That whetted the crowd's keen appetite for returns to razor edge. The second bulletin sent their spirits up with a leap. "Bryan has carried Kansas, and the Democrats are claiming Iowa."

"Whoopee!" from the crowd.

Shorty bent his ear to the clicking sounder and inscribed "Bulletin No. 3—Illinois joins the Bryan column with 50,000 majority. Indiana certain; New York very close."

When the deafening chorus had died down a young member of the party asked the leader, "Hadn't we better begin to set off the giant?"

Before the leader could answer Shorty reproved him by word and look. "Don't go off half cocked," he said. "It's always best to wait until you are sure. You can't be too conservative in a case like this."

After a long pause, in which the crowd displayed much impatience, the imperturbable and conservative Shorty transcribed bulletin No. 4, but before passing it out he said:

"Now, boys, don't do anything rash. Wait for the actual returns."

Bulletin No. 4 read, "Senator Jones claims Ohio and Pennsylvania for Bryan."

Under ordinary circumstances a doubt might have been expressed concerning the probability of such states reversing their political records, but the crowd was convinced of an impending landslide for their favorite and yelled with delight. "Now we are beginning to get the news," remarked Shorty when the cheering ceased, and he began to write bulletin No. 5 as follows:

"New York gives Bryan 100,000 plurality; Indiana, 40,000. Returns from Wisconsin and Minnesota indicate large Democratic gains."

The crowd heard only the first sentence. Shouting, cheering, yelling, screaming, it broke for the street.

"Hold on!" called Shorty. "Here's another."

Bulletin No. 6, "Quay concedes Pennsylvania to Bryan."

Another fragment broke from the crowd and ran down the street shouting the news. The new operator's pencil was traveling rapidly over the paper, while his friends and fellow citizens crowded closely upon him and read as he wrote bulletin No. 7, "Mark Hanna has locked up Republican headquarters and gone home."

The roar of the crowd was drowned by the roar of exploding giant powder. Buildings shook, windows rattled, accompanied by the crash of broken glass. The celebration was on, and Shorty McIntyre was alone.

The celebration lasted for two days. The morning after election the regular operator had recovered sufficiently to transcribe messages announcing McKinley's victory. Those who were sober enough to understand them didn't believe them. After several warnings of what would happen to him if he didn't quit "trying to fool people" the operator desisted and joined in the general jubilation. Not until the arrival of the Denver papers on the second day did that camp awake to a realization of the outcome of the election, and then there was not sufficient energy left to vent even indignation upon Shorty, much less to take revenge. On the third day the volunteer operator was more popular than ever, for all admitted he had given them the time of their lives.

SCHOOLS RE-OPEN ON JANUARY 4.

Teachers and Scholars From Outside Points May Spend New Years at Their Homes

The Public schools and the Collegiate Institute will reopen after the Christmas holidays on Tuesday morning, January 4th. This was decided on at the meeting of the Board of Education last night, after Inspector Mowat had, on behalf of a number of the teachers, whose homes are in outside points, requested the Board to extend the holidays to Tuesday morning, so that they would be able to spend New Years at home. The members decided that many of the pupils and students would also be benefitted, and on motion of Messrs. W. H. Hill and W. F. Nelson, the reopening was put for Tuesday morning.

TEACHERS WILL RECEIVE THEIR SHARE OF SPECIAL GRANT

Committee on Appointments Recommend That Grant be Paid to the Teachers Entitled to Receive Same for the Year Ending June 30, 1909.

The report of the committee on appointments as read by the chairman, Mr. W. H. Hill, at the regular meeting of the Board of Education last night, shows that the Board is pursuing a policy by which the teachers will be fairly dealt with. The report was as follows:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education;

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report and recommend as follows;

As instructed your committee advertised for a specialist for the Collegiate Institute to teach English and History with the classical option, and after careful consideration recommend that Mr. G. A. Ferguson of Perth be appointed at the minimum salary of $1400.00. Duties to commence January 3rd next.

Your committee also advertised for a teacher to fill the vacancy on the Public School staff caused by the resignation of Miss Dawson, and recommend that Miss Mirtie M. Cadwell of Arnprior be appointed to the position at the minimum salary of $400.00. Duties to commence January 3rd next. Miss Cadwell is the holder of a Second Class Professional Certificate, and is highly recommended.

Regarding the matter of the disposition of the special government grant, based on the qualification and teaching experience of teachers, which was referred to this committee, we recommend that as requested by the Department this grant be paid to the teacher entitled to receive the same, for the year ending June 30, 1909, and that the Secretary-Treasurer be authorized to issue cheques therefor in accordance with a detailed report to be submitted by the Inspector, but in view of the fact that the payment of this grant was not included in this year's estimates, we recommend that the same be not paid until January next.

The policy of this Board has always been to deal fairly and liberally with its teachers, and the best means of showing its appreciation of the good work being done by them.

Respectfully submitted,
W. H. Hill,
Chairman.

$10,000 FIRE ON GEORGE STREET

Stock in McGregor & Reid's Store Totally Destroyed---Household Effects a Wreck--Loss Only Half Covered by Insurance.

A fire that undoubtedly would not have been as serious as it turned out to be had it not been for an unfortunate chain of circumstances delaying the sending in of the alarm, occurred yesterday afternoon at the premises of McGregor & Reid, plumbers and electrical supplies, George street. The blaze gained remarkable headway once it was started, and the smoke, thick, black and suffocating rolled out of the building in dense clouds, and it looked to the spectators assembled as though a large portion of the block would be destroyed. But although the damage was very heavy—the total loss is placed at $10,000.00—the brigade did very efficient work, and the merchants next door to the scene of the conflagration are very thankful that the blaze was effectually prevented from reaching their quarters, as are also the residents of the upper floors of the adjoining buildings. The fire was due, it is supposed, to spontaneous combustion, that had its origin in a case of electrical goods that was being unpacked in the rear of the front shop. The packing in the box was straw and excelsior.

PRECIOUS TIME LOST.

Mr. McGregor went out to the rear of the shop shortly before the fire started to direct some workmen who were cutting pipes there. He came back to see if there was anybody in the front of the store, and it was then he discovered the blaze. He attempted to communicate with the fire hall, but a customer had gotten 'phone connection with the store. Mr. McPherson asked him to shut off quickly as the store was on fire, but the gentleman on the other end of the line apparently thought that Mr. McGregor asked him to shut off else didn't understand him, and did not ring off. The former attempted to rush out of the front door, but the heavy smoke prevented him from doing so, and he ran out of the rear door and tried to gain entrance to the neighboring stores by the back doors. These he found locked, however. He then ran to the corner of Brock and George streets, expecting to find an alarm box there, but there is none at that corner. The flames in the meantime had gained great headway, and clouds of smoke were issuing from the doorway and second storey windows. Arthur Metheral, who was standing looking at the blaze, came to the conclusion that no alarm had beeen sent in, and rang one in from box 23, at the corner of George and Hunter streets. This was at 4.35, and the brigade had reached the fire a couple of minutes or so after.

LINES TO FRONT AND REAR.

Chief Howard was in the Mayor's office at the time the alarm was rung and made a dash for the fire, and reached the premises before the men arrived, and was in a position, therefore, to direct them to quick advantage. A crowd of large proportions had gathered and were treated to the spectacular exhibition of one of the firemen leaping off the rear of the hose waggon while it was on the fly and keeping hold of the hose and attaching it to the hydrant about the middle of the block between Hunter and Brock streets. A second line was laid to the hydrant at the corner of Brock and George streets, and the former was played on the store downstairs and the latter upstairs. Two lines from the Brock street hydrant were also laid to the rear of the stores. At 5.45 the fire was under control and the firemen left the building at 7.30 o'clock.

THE DAMAGE.

Most of the damage was done on the ground floor, but the loss on the second floor, which, with the third flat, is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. McGregor as dwelling apartments, is also heavy. There is a stairway leading from the ground floor to the one that the fire swept up with serious results. A hole was also burned in the ceiling of the first floor ceiling.

To the Review to-day Mr. McGregor stated that it was hard to place the loss at any definite figure, though it was gained by the reporter from what he said that it would probably be about $10,000, as mentioned above.

The firm had just received a shipment of new electrical fixtures, and these, with the old stock, were rendered useless by the fire. In the upper apartment, where he lived, the furniture was so damaged by fire, smoke and water, that none of it, Mr. McGregor states, will be hardly worth taking out.

The loss to the building, stock and dwelling apartments, with contents, is included in the $10,000, and the policies will only cover about half the amount.

ANOTHER CALL.

While the brigade was busy at the fire another call came at 7.05, from the residence of L. Campanaro, 553 Elm street. A section was despatched to the second fire, which was soon extinguished by chemicals. It was a chimney blaze.

OTHER BUSINESS.

The annual grant was made to each of the representatives of the press, on motion of Messrs. John Crane and R. Fair.

A room in the old Collegiate Institute occupied by Miss Moore and her class, will be repainted during the holidays. The Property Committee will see that the work is done.

Mr. R. J. Wolstenholme will receive $1,200 on account. The subject of poor coal was discussed, but no reflection was made against Mr. Wolstenholme on account of the quality not being up to the standard this year.

Dr. Morrison pointed out that the Board was getting it 45 cents a ton cheaper this year.

It was the opinion of the members that the question was one which was a hard one to remedy.

THAT WATCH OF YOURS

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch. You put it in your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker, and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time-keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones call around and see us.

THE TEMPERATURE OF OUR SCHOOLS

In Great Britain the temperature of school-rooms is kept at an even 60. That is about ten degrees less than Canadians keep their houses. The consequence is we enjoy almost a monopoly of colds. In the U.S. the temperature has been cut down to 68 and possibly later on it will be brought still lower. Our public buildings are like bake-ovens. It is a great mistake and accounts for a multitude of ills.

WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING?

Under the above heading one of the chief French-Canadian journals, La Presse, has for the leading editorial of its issue of the 7th, a dissertation on the future of Canada. It begins by laughing at an English-speaking confrere for asking what the actions of Sir Wilfrid Laurier are tending toward, and then continues as follows: "It is enough to say that far from being scandalized, as our contemporary above referred to, is, we heartily approve of all the government is doing to correct so illogical a situation. But it appears that Sir Wilfrid Laurier went farther still when he thought of establishing a direct medium of communication between Canada and other countries for all sorts of business that especially concerns us, and when he even thinks of establishing a Canadian embassy at Washington, which will co-operate with that of Great Britain almost in the same way as the United States itself does. This tendency, which appears to us legitimate, is making some minds uneasy. It is compared with several things already accomplished, the withdrawal of the English garrisons, the appointment of a Canadian officer to be head of the Canadian militia, the creation, if not begun, at least arranged for, of a Canadian navy under the sole control of the government of Canada—and after all that it is asked: 'Whither are we drifting?' The answer is quite simple. We are going whither our destiny leads us."

LINDSAY MAN IS SENT BACK FROM TORONTO

Toronto, Dec. 7.—David Jordan, of Lindsay, arrived in Toronto yesterday and applied for admission to the City Hospital. His doctor at Lindsay recommended that he go to the hospital and the Mayor of Lindsay gave him transportation to Toronto. He was refused admission and furnished transportation home. If the town of Lindsay will foot the bill Jordan may return here and will be admitted to the hospital. Toronto's officials think this city has enough poor of its own to attend to without assisting the needy of other municipalities.

NARROW ESCAPE

In Chicago of M. J. Sullivan A Peterboro Traveller—Life Saved by Derby Hat

A Chicago dispatch says:—A driver and a passenger were hurled from the top of a Parmalee bus and badly hurt, narrowly escaping electrocution; four women and one man were thrown from their seats and bruised, and the lives of hundreds of pedestrians were imperiled to-day, when a live feed wire snapped at Randolph and La Salle streets.

The frightened horses on the bus dashed ahead driverless, and only the heroism of Crossing Policeman James Fredericks saved the lives of the terror-stricken occupants.

The injured:—

M. J. Sullivan, travelling man, 247 Aylmer street, Peterborough, Ont.; hurled by the shock from his seat when the wire brushed his hat off; badly bruised and cut.

Edward Bues, 80 Center street, driver; hurled to the pavement by the shock and cut and bruised about the hands and face.

The four fashionably dressed women and the man passenger who were thrown from their seats, refused to give their names to the police. They hurried from the scene of the accident.

LIFE SAVED BY HAT.

Sullivan's life was saved by his derby hat. As the bus passed under the wires at the crossing the wire snapped and struck against the hat. The felt broke the current, but the wearer was hurled with terrific force to the pavement.

In an instant the bus presented a pyrotechnic display. The wire sputtered and flashed and snapped on the tops and sides, and a shower of sparks flew from the wheels. Every passenger felt the electrical current.

The horses plunged toward the temporary walling around the new City Hall.

Policeman Fredericks, at the peril of his own life, seized the maddened horses and brought them to a standstill.

A wrecking crew soon repaired the break and the delayed street car traffic was resumed.

HAVE KEPT WITHIN THE APPROPRIATIONS

Health Committee Account is the Only One Overdrawn—Others Will Likely Finish the Year on the Right Side.

When a business house spends more money during the year than was taken in, it is plain that there is something wrong. The same rule applies to the management of a city, town, or village. If there are overdrafts at the end of the year, under normal conditions, it is evident that there has been bad management. Fortunately the City Council of Peterborough for 1909 can show a pretty good record in connection with keeping the expenditures within the appropriations made at the beginning of the year. The year is nearly over now, and with the majority of the accounts in, one can get a pretty good deal of what the financial standing of the city will be on December 31st. At the city treasurer's office the Review learned to-day that with one exception the committees have all kept within their appropriations. The exception is the Health Committee, the account of which is $2,600 overdrawn on account of the smallpox epidemic. The Fire, Water and Light Committee, Board of Works, and Property Committee, unless something unusual happens in the meantime, will all be within their appropriations at the end of the year.

The receipts of the city for the eleven months ending Nov. 30th, were $192,744.92, and the payments were $124,309.26.

DELIGHTFULLY REALISTIC LECTURE AT THE Y. W. C. A.

Friends of the Y W C A who availed themselves of the opportunity to take the stereopticon "Rambles Through Rome" last evening were undoubtedly well repaid. Rev. E. A. Pearson is an able lecturer and his address was listened to with the closest attention by an intelligent and appreciative audience. Rev. Mr. Pearson graphically depicted his visits to the many places of deep interest because of their historic associations as well as their architectural beauty.

By means of his beautiful canvas pictures and vivid word sketches one might very readily imagine they were indeed in that old historic city actually visiting such places of ancient renown as the Capuchin, Pantheon Forum, Vatican, Colosseum, St. Peter's, the Appean Way and the Catacombs. Those who were unable to meet at the Y W C A last evening missed a treat.

His Honor Judge Huycke kindly presided and in a very pleasing way introduced those taking part.

Miss Kathleen Wallis delighted everyone with her rich, full-toned violin solo and Miss Florence Scott sang very sweetly.

Rev. J. G. Potter moved a vote of thanks to the soloists, the lecturer and Mr. H. O. Fisk, who operated the lantern. The Young Women's Christian Association are to be congratulated on their successful evening.

LONGBOAT AND SHERRING IN TEN MILE RACE ON SATURDAY

The Peterborough fans will be given an opportunity to see what ought to be the best stepping ever witnessed here when Tom Longboat, the Onondaga Mercury, and Bill Sherring, the winner of the most famous marathon outside of ancient history fixture, will meet in a ten-mile race. Neither have been seen in a race in Peterborough although Longboat gave an exhibition of his wonderful running ability at the last Harriers' meet. A lot of interest is centered in the event and there will no doubt be an exceedingly large crowd to see the duel between the two celebrated marathon era. The race will be for the heavy percentage end of the gate receipts, winner to take all.

There will be skating as usual up to 9.30 and the main fixture will be preceded by a three mile open roller skating race that should be interesting.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE OPENS THIS EVENING

To-night the City Basket Ball League starts and the Normal School boys are going to start the ball rolling with the Business College. There is a nice big cup for the winning team in the league, and a medal for each member of the team. The game will start promptly at 8.15 p.m. and the doors are open to the public.

Players of any team in the league will kindly look over there schedule, and instead of the Normal School playing the Collegiate Institute on Feb. 9th, just put the Collegiate Institute vs. George street Methodist Church for Feb. 9th, 1910.

Be on hand to-night for the usual fun.

SPORTING NOTES

The Executive of the O.H.A. has been completed and the first meeting will be held on Monday next.

How is this for hot air! Renfrew has offered Marty Walsh $2,500 for the season, $200 bonus when the season is over, and a $1,200 a year situation.

Jack Johnson will appear in Toronto during the week of January 24th.

Tom Longboat and Sherring will run five miles in London on Tuesday night.

Jim Harrison is thinking of walking to Montreal and back. Square heel and toe, Jim!

The Toronto News picks Tigers to win in New York Saturday. As a result Ottawa's chances appear much brighter.

It looks like Peterborough, Lindsay, Belleville and Oshawa for this district of the intermediate O.H.A. And may the best team win, Lindsay not accepted.

If the rumor that the Johnson-Jeffries fight is a frame-up gains credence in Canada, the people in this country will lose all interest in the affair. It would seem that a serious mistake was made when the press men were barred from the conference in Hoboken when the articles were signed. If everything was fair and above board why were the newspaper representatives kept out? Were two sets of articles signed, one for those on the inside and one for the public's deception?

Everything may be fair and square in connection with the arrangements and Johnson and Jeff may be such terrible enemies that Jeff will try to knock the nigger's block off, and redeem the title for the white race, and reclaim the championship honors again and all that. But there are a great many people who have been stung so often on athletic frame-ups that it takes very little to arouse their suspicions, especially when there is so much involved that there is a possibility of easy thousands.

And this talk of redeeming the championship for the white race is growing very monotonous, and may be now placed on the shelf as a crisp, stale joke. While Jeff will "redeem the title for the white race" if he wins, his primary object is to get as much money as possible for Mr. Jas. J. Jeffries and the main dazzle is always the point to keep in view to the greatest extent.

The articles for the Jeffries-Johnson fight may have been drawn up all O.K., and everything in connection with the fight may be quite proper—but there is a whole lot of people who can be convinced, and if the impression becomes general that the bout is going to be a fake, the promoters will have a hard time to collect the public's money to make up that mammoth purse.

GAME AT THE Y.M.C.A. GYM.

The basketball match and fancy drills under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A. will be held at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium on Friday evening and not at the Y.W.C.A. as announced in error by the Review the other evening.

BOWLING LEAGUE FORMED

The Peterborough Bowling League was organized for the season at a meeting held at the P.B.C. alleys last night. The following officers were elected;

There will be eight teams in the league, as follows;—Examiner, B. A. C., Iroquois, Macks, C.G.E., Armouries, McIlroy's and Fitz's.

A meeting of the Executive will be held to-morrow evening to draw up the schedule and make other arrangements.

RHEUMATISM!

ZAM-BUK ENDS ITS AGONY.

The aching and the agony of rheumatism is relieved as soon as Zam-Buk's soothing ingredients reach the seat of the trouble. Just rub Zam-Buk well in over the muscles affected and get ease!

Mr. P. C. Wels, of 332 Ogden street, Fort William, says:

"I had rheumatism in both knees and in my left arm and shoulder. The pain got so bad that I could no longer work and was under the doctor on three different occasions for several weeks.

"I seemed to get little, if any, better, no matter what I tried, and this was my state when Zam-Buk was recommended to me. I laid in a supply and, to my great joy, it began to cure me. I rubbed it well in, every night, and when a few boxes had been used, found I was free from the pain and stiffness of rheumatism."

Zam-Buk is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, etc. When used as a balm it need not be rubbed in, but just applied. It heals cold sores, cuts, ulcers, abscesses, eczema, and all skin injuries and diseases. Fifty cents, all Druggists and Stores or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

How To Make Friends

The story goes, three men of kin
Went forth one day new friends to win.
One took with him (says the legend old)
A massy bag of shining gold!
Another (lost is now his name)
Carried with him his worldly fame.
The third of this peculiar band
Went empty—save a helping hand!
The first, as long as he had gold,
Had friends, not few, but manifold;
But soon as he his wealth had spent,
Friendless to his home he went!
The second somewhere lost his fame—
No friend then had he to his name!
The third, who'd neither fame nor gold,
Had friendships more than could be told.
He won, and held them, understand—
With nothing but a helping hand!
—A. F. Caldwell, in Farm Journal.

WAR SCARES.

The Ease With Which They Develop in European Nations.

Germany has just had a scare, and it appears that a British cruiser is the innocent cause. During the recent Baltic cruise of the Cornwall the captain intimated his intention of paying a visit to Kiel.

A dense mist prevailed at the time and the harbor authorities did not expect her to put in an appearance before morning. When day broke, however, the official world of Kiel was staggered to find the Cornwall moored in her assigned position and apparently quite at home.

She had navigated the difficult Kiel fiord in the darkness and mist without a pilot on board, and not only that, but investigation showed that she had done the same thing at Danzig and Swinemunde.

A German newspaper immediately lashed its readers into a panic. "What would happen in the event of a sudden outbreak of war with England?" it screamed. "They would not have the slightest difficulty in bottling up the high seas in Kiel or elsewhere!"

One Belgian newspaper kept its readers awake for several nights on account of a discovery it made in a German geography book. The book, the use of which was said to be obligatory in most schools, contained this passage: "Belgium, Switzerland, Lichtenstein, Holland, Luxemburg and Denmark are considered as forming part of Germany, because they are mostly situated inside her natural boundaries." Then Denmark and Switzerland and the others began to scream.

Switzerland had another "scare" all on its own account. Not very long ago several battalions of Italian Alpine troops on skees appeared on the Theodule pass, above Zermatt, and had the town practically at their mercy.

The incident raised a storm of excitement in the Swiss press. Where, they demanded, were the twelve battalions of mountain troops and artillery for which money was voted in the Swiss parliament?

A few weeks ago the Parisian boulevard press bubbled over with excitement. Four German balloons had descended in France within forty-eight hours, and one of the papers complained, "It is raining German balloons."

One little country mayor wrote up in a state of great agitation. He had seen a balloon driven over his village by a violent wind, and he had mounted his horse and pursued it till it came to earth.

The occupants, he reported, three men and two ladies, had with them "elaborate photographic apparatus of military appearance." The minister of war received a string of frantic telegrams from various parts of the country.

Russian newspapers have been pouring oil on the troubled waters of England's German "scare" by getting up some excitement over the Austro-German entente. In some quarters it has actually been advocated that the official archives should be removed from St. Petersburg because the capital is too much exposed to the possibility of capture by the armies of her western neighbors.—Pearson's Weekly.

Courage.

For cool courage the deed of a Bendigo gold miner named Davis would be hard to beat. He and two others were sinking a shaft, and after putting in two charges of blasting powder they ascended to the plat above. One of them, Allen, slipped as he came to the surface and fell to the bottom. Instantly Davis rushed down after him, disregarding the fact that the charges were due to explode. He had dragged Allen about five feet before the first shot came. The debris luckily was carried in the opposite direction. Then he struggled on again and managed to reach a comparatively safe place for the second explosion. The two were found little the worse for their closeness to the bursting mass of rock, but Allen's leg had been broken by the fall. The Victorian government has recommended that Davis be awarded the Prince Albert medal for gallantry.—Melbourne Cor. San Francisco Bulletin.

Schoolboy Suicides.

Writing from Berlin, a correspondent of the Chicago News discussed the alarming number of child suicides in Germany. "Investigation proves that every week a schoolboy kills himself in Germany and that this average has been maintained for the last twenty-six years," says the correspondent. "Opinion is divided as to whether blame rests upon home conditions, such as the harshness and ambition of parents, or upon the school management. A case is cited in which a father said to his son on the eve of an examination, 'If you don't bring me your certificate of promotion I will not speak to you again.' The boy went into the examination more dead than alive and luckily got his certificate, but one investigator asks, 'What if he hadn't?'"

Kangaroo Money For Australians.

Sixpences and shillings displaying a kangaroo on one side are a probability of the early future. For a long time Australia has been clamoring for the right to coin silver, and the imperial mint authorities have at last consented. Sir John Forrest, the commonwealth treasurer, says the London Globe, will supervise the new departure, and he says it is likely the coins will have a kangaroo on one side and "some other typical Australian device on the other. There are three branches of the royal mint in Australia—Sydney Melbourne and Perth—but hitherto their operation has been restricted to gold.

Eleven industrial disputes affecting 68 firms and 1,361 employees took place during October.

HIGH GRADE SHEEP.

Blue Blood of Thoroughbreds Necessary For Keeping Up Standard.

A writer in Farm and Progress says: A mistaken idea that is very misleading and practiced by a great many farmers is in using a grade sire to grade up their herds or flock.

The use of a grade sire in breeding any class of live stock cannot be too strongly condemned, and I am sure if those who use grade sires would recognize the laws that govern breeding they would not use them.

The temptation to use grade sires, however, is invariably on account of the low price for which he can be secured and the resemblance he bears to the pure bred animal. In case he is one-half blood grade, mated with scrub breeding stock, there would be three parts of scrub blood to one part of improved blood, and in this event improvement would be impossible.

Take a grade sire, the product from a second cross, a three-fourths blood grade, mated with scrub breeding stock, there would be in this union five parts of scrub blood to three parts of improved blood. The work of improvement has made no progress.

OXFORD DOWN RAM.

Even with a grade sire from the third cross, a seven-eighths blood grade, mated with the scrub breeding stock, there would be nine parts of scrub blood to seven of improved blood, scrub blood still in the majority and improvement held back, as this scrub blood is wonderfully prepotent.

These facts should demonstrate the fallacy of using grade sires for improving or grading up our live stock, for in them breed, prepotency and characteristics have not been fully established and fixed. Therefore they do not possess that power to transmit the desired or breed qualities and improvement of their offspring.

On the other hand, in this process of grading up or improving our live stock the pure bred sire has that power from a long line of pure bred ancestry of transmitting to his offspring his breed, characteristics, traits and individual excellence with a remarkable degree of certainty, as breed, characteristics, uniformity of type, quality and production in live stock are the triumph of persistent and long line of straight breeding.

The use of a grade sire will only lead to degeneracy or scrubs, disappointment and failure.

Results From Separator.

To get the best results from the separator the Kansas experiment station urges observance of the three rules which follow: First—The speed of the bowl has an influence on the cream. A change in speed from one separation to another changes the per cent of fat to the cream. Second—The temperature of the milk affects the cream. If the milk is warm the cream will be thicker than if it is cold. Third—The amount separated per hour is another factor. This is especially important, for if the milk is unevenly fed into the bowl the thickness of the cream is vastly influenced. The amount of water or skimmilk used to flush out the bowl will affect the quality of the cream. All these things tend to show that the separator must be handled with care and good judgment.

Blending of Blood.

From blending together the blood of the Flemish Brabancon and Ardennais horses a distinct breed of draft horses has been formed in Belgium. The typical Belgian horse is blocky, wide, heavy, on short, clean legs. His neck often inclines to coarseness, and his croup is sloping, while his pasterns are apt to be upright. The old fashioned type was a soft, unattractive, fat horse of little value for mating with American mares. The newer pattern is a better one, its representatives being fast, free movers and greatly improved in the points just criticised.

Nobody Knows.

Professor Dietrich of the Illinois experiment station says that "nobody knows yet how to feed a hog." And he might have said the same thing about all other live stock. Nobody knows yet just how to make the most of the feed and the best of the animal, because this problem has been studied in a scientific way for a comparatively short time. It is a great problem.

The Cow's Udder.

It is not unusual for yellow, matter-like fluid to appear in the udder of a cow that is to come in soon. Usually after parturition and four or five milkings the milk will be all right. If lumps appear in the udder bathe every two or three hours with water as hot as the hand will bear, and between whiles rub it severely with camphorated oil.

Bath Academy Burned.

Bath, Ont., Dec. 8.—Fire at noon yesterday destroyed the academy. Pupils at lunch discovered the flames, but too late to head them off. A defective furnace is blamed. The building and school contents, including a library worth $300 were insured for $3,000.

The lodge rooms of the A.O.U.W., I.O.F., C.O.F., and C.O.C.F. were on the upper floors, and all the furnishings are destroyed.

Insurance Cancelled.

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., Dec. 8.—Following the recent cancellation of 30 insurance policies on property in this town, notice has been received that 38 more policies have been annulled. Most of these are risks on business property. The premiums paid on the policies for the balance of the time they would have run before expiry are being refunded. Several incendiary fires have occurred lately.

King Leopold's Illness.

Brussels, Dec. 8—It was reported last night that King Leopold's affliction—paralysis and rheumatism—is general and he is unable to walk. Within the last few days he has lost appetite and flesh, and his condition is regarded as serious, in view of his age.

Storm In West Delays Trains.

Winnipeg, Dec. 8—Owing to storms, all trains from the west were late arriving yesterday, the Toronto express being about four hours behind. With very cold weather prevailing after a heavy snow, the railways are operating with difficulty.

Child Dies Under Chloroform.

Port Hope, Dec. 8.—Eva, the seven-year-old daughter of William Embleton, is dead from the effects of chloroform, which had been administered by two local surgeons. She was to have undergone an operation for an affection of the throat and nose.

Pugsley to Go to Washington?

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—An explanation of the rapid rate at which the Public Works' estimates are being rushed through the House is afforded by a report to visit Washington on behalf of the Government in connection with the tariff.

Grand Duke to Rule Finland.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 8.—Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, second cousin of the Emperor, was yesterday designated to take full and direct charge of the affairs of Finland.

As commander of the military district of St. Petersburg and later as president of the council of the national defence, the grand duke exhibited an inclination and an ability to deal firmly with disturbing elements.

A half dozen attempts upon his life have been made by the revolutionists, and one such conspiracy resulted in the execution of seven alleged conspirators.

MARRIED AN ACTRESS AND IS DISINHERITED

Son of New York Millionaire Marries Chorus Girl Against Father's Wishes-Is Proud of Her Husband

New York, Dec. 5.—George H. Mulligan, jr., son of George H. Mulligan, sr., the millionaire contractor, who resides in the Richard A. McCurdy mansion at Morris Plains, N.J., has been disinherited by his father because of his marriage to Bessie Van Ness, a show girl, and to keep the wolf from the door he is driving a Fifth avenue auto stage.

For two days, from 7 o'clock in the morning until 6 at night. Mulligan who is twenty-two years old, has been driving the bus up and down the avenue where reside many whose holdings don't equal those of his own father, who is reputed worth $3,000,000.

PRETTY HARD LINES.

"Yes, it's pretty hard lines. But work's work, and, I guess it doesn't matter what kind a fellow does. Father, you know, was enraged at my marriage. At that time I was president of the New York Auto Company, No. 918 Broadway, and was making a lot of money on sight-seeing vehicles. Father held notes for the money with which the cars were purchased. When I married contrary to his wishes he called in the notes. I was ruined. Father owns the company now."

WIFE PROUD OF BRAVE HUSBAND

"Don't you think he is brave?" asked Mrs. Mulligan, smiling the smile that won her particular mention when she was a member of "The Beauty Spot" company.

"When George struggled along for weeks and weeks," she continued, "without work, I wanted to go back to the company, but he wouldn't let me. He's a dear."

Mr. Mulligan, sr., was so chargined at the marriage of his son to Miss Van Ness last August that he closed his city house, No. 124 East Seventy-first street, and moved to Morris Plains to live there permanently.

FATHER CAST HIM OUT.

When the father learned that his son met Miss Van Ness at an outing of "The Beauty Spot" company, followed her to Chicago, returning with her to Newark, N.J., where they were married by a Justice of the Peace, he vowed that he would never again recognize the young man.

Young Mulligan and his wife went to the home where the father is living with his only daughter. The butler who in days past had attended to every wish of the young man said:

"Mr. Mulligan is not home. He will not be home to you at any time."

GETS JOB ON THE AUTO BUS.

"Never mind, little girl; we'll get along," said young Mulligan, and he applied for a job on a Fifth avenue stage. Two days ago he was assigned as extra man.

"I hope to hold my job," said young Mulligan last night. "I can't blame dad for his attitude. I went contrary to his wishes. I do wish that we had just one of the countless servants that father has to help Bess with the housework."

THE SENATORS ON THEIR DIGNITY

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—The Senate took an hour off to-day to chastise the Auditor-General, and so thoroughly did their Honors finish their task that before the matter dropped the the country's watchdog was badly mauled. He was informed that, although a capable man, he should not assume that senators were his inferiors, while Sir Mackenzie Bowell voiced the opinion that if he did not know what his duties were, Parliament would have the unpleasant duty of educating him on the subject.

The trouble arose over the correspondence printed in the auditor's report as to the correctness of senatorial declarations made by certain senators as to their attendance last session. This correspondence, the Senate claimed, had conveyed the impression throughout the country, that some of its members had drawn indemnity for being present on days when in reality they were absent. Evidently the Auditor-General was asked to explain why this correspondence was printed, and to-day a letter was read from Mr. Fraser. "I can assure you," wrote the Auditor-General, "that I had no intention and and have not for a moment entertained the idea that these statutory declarations were not made with good faith. I hope I shall not be found so far wanting in respect for the honor and dignity of the Senate."

The Auditor-General then explained that he had noted a slight discrepancy between the number of days certain senators had declared themselves to have been in attendance and the record of attendance contained in the proceedings of the Senate. He had been informed by the clerk that the attendance in the records was not to be taken as absolutely accurate, but that the declarations were to be accepted. He understood that in the cases referred to there was an error in the declarations, owing to the fact that some senators had expected prorogation on May 18, whereas it had not taken place until a day later. When the attention of senators had been called to the discrepancy they had promptly made refunds covering their extra day's absence.

After this letter was read the chastisement of the official who had so injured the feelings of the Senate commenced. Senator Dandurand thought the Auditor-General was within his rights in instituting such inquiries as this one, but after receiving proper explanations it was not right for him to cast doubt publicly on the declarations of these senators by publishing that correspondence in his annual report.

Senator Landry wanted to know how the Auditor-General could include in a report supposed to be closed on the 31st of March a letter written in September.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said he could not understand how this could have been done by the Auditor-General, unless it was for the purpose of discrediting the declarations made by some members of the Senate. The publication of this correspondence by the Auditor-General was more remarkable after it had been explained to him that the declarations were the result of a mistake made by some senators in expecting prorogation would be on May 18th instead of the 19th. The Auditor-General should be informed, said Sir Mackenzie Bowell, by those who have any control over him, and they are Parliament, not the Government, that if he exceeds his duty Parliament will have to instruct him as to what his duties are.

Senator Gibson declared that the reflections on some senators has been inserted in spite of satisfactory explanations. The correspondence had been seized upon by to spread the report through Canada that certain senators had taken money to which they were not entitled. The Auditor-General had great authority and great responsibiltiy, but he should not assume that senators were his inferiors.

Sir Richard Cartwright said he had been given to understand by the Auditor-General that in future he proposed to take the declarations of senators for his guidance; therefore, there was no danger of this incident being repeated.

This ended the matter and the Senate turned to work on the bill ratifying the French Treaty, giving it the third reading before adjournment.—Montreal Gazette.

WHY THE COST OF LIVING HAS RISEN SO AND WHAT IT WILL MEAN TO THE WAGE-EARNER

Borrowing of Large Sums of Foreign Capital Means Undue Inflation—the Ultimate Result Will Be Prolonged Depression When Capital is Spent and Remains to be Repaid.

(From the Trade Review)

A suggestive and instructive address was given last Monday, before the Canadian Club, by Mr. Adam Shortt, of Queen's University, and now one of the Civil Service Commissioners. The subject was "The Relations of Capital and Labor, or the Problem of Wages in Relation to the Cost of Living," and Mr. Shortt dealt with the question in a purely academic manner, without making any clearly defined suggestion for a change in the direction of solving the intricacies which surround this much-controverted and conflicting issue. The speaker endeavored to demonstrate the fact, too well-known, unfortunately, that the prices of things in Canada had been increased to an enormously greater extent than they had in other countries, mainly owing to the great influx of foreign capital. This, he argues, could not last, as the capital would have to earn dividends, and Canada would have to find its level with other countries, with the result that unless great wisdom was exercised the present period of inflated prices and industrial activity might be succeeded by a period of great depression, as happened once before. For years past, he continued, general wages and the cost of living had been going up by leaps and bounds, to such an extent as to lead thoughtful men to wonder where it was all drifting to. If this was the consequence of prosperity, what prosperity was there in increase of wages with equal or greater increase on living cost, and who was getting the benefit of it? There were two phases of activity, one producing and the other developing the products of nature, and anything which increased production or economy of development increased wealth, and these were the legitimate methods of improving the country's position. But this was not generally understood, especially by laboring men, who lost sight of the relation between the value of what they did and the return they should get for their work, and tried to get more, not realizing that if they secured too much it could only be done by someone else getting too little. Thus by good organization, labor union might secure high wages, but only by taking it out of somebody else. During the past twelve or fifteen years most lines of labor had had their pay increased from 25 to 50 per cent., some as much as 100 per cent. In the better organized trades, the increases ran from 50 to 65 per cent. At the same time the cost of living had increased 40 to 50 per cent., so that only a small proportion of the increase of pay meant better position for the wage earners. At the same time the getting of more pay had bred more luxurious habits amongst workers, who demanded greater comforts, freer use of street cars, etc., and many other things, so that many of them found themselves really poorer though earning more money. The same thing applied to the capitalist end, and the moneyed men were demanding greater returns. The result was that prices of everything had increased, but the cost of production had increased at almost the same ratio—and who was going to fill in the gap? This was the crucial point, because the gap was being to-day filled by the enormous amounts of foreign capital coming here for investment. Canada was not living to-day on its savings or economies, but on foreign capital, and this capital would demand returns of both interest and principal. But if the cost of production and profits was so great that this capital could not later get its expected return, there would be a shrinkage, which would have serious results. This was no new thing. It had occurred before, with a general flattening out, as the history of the Grand Trunk showed. And the end of the flush days would bring greater difficulties, because it would be extremely hard to adjust prices and wages to flattering conditions, when labor was less plentiful; the unions would object to reductions, and no one would know where to start, while the influx of capital would be cut off, with the result of a recurrence of the hard times which had been known in Canada before. It was imperative for Canadians to see that capital does not get such another shock, and to take care that in this period of prosperity we are not simply living on capital instead of our own returns. Mr. Shortt specially noted the Grand Trunk Pacific, which was absorbing millions of foreign capital, whose repayment and returns would spread over a century or more, and the Government must look after it no matter what happens. Mr. Shortt remarked that one remedy for the apparent danger was that the labor interests and capital interests ceased fighting each other, and realized that there was only so much to be taken out of business, and that this must be fairly divided. That conditions in Canada required thought and were not what they should be was shown by the fact that prices of things in Canada had increased from 35 per cent. to 60 per cent., where the average increase on imported goods was only 5 per cent., and this must call for some adjustment.

GRAND MASTER FOR ONTARIO ADDRESSED THE REBEKAHS

Rebekah Lodge at its regular meeting last night was honored by the presence of the I.O.O.F. Grand Master for Ontario, Senator Daniel Derbyshire, of Brockville. Three new members were initiated the degree work being faultlessly performed. About twelve or fifteen representatives from the local I.O.O.F. lodges were in attendance.

At the conclusion of the regular business a banquet was held the principal feature of which was a very able and interesting address by the Grand Master. He gave statistics of the order and remarked on the splendid work it was accomplishing. He also highly complimented the lodge for the excellent manner in which the degree work was done.

Addresses were also given by Mrs. Jobbitt, of the Rebekah's, and Mr. Reason and Col. Miller, of Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F.

LAKEFIELD POST OFFICE HAS CLOSE SHAVE FROM DESTRUCTION BY FIRE

Special to the Review.

Lakefield, Dec. 7.—Dr. M. J. Gibson, dentist, has returned from Campbellford, where he was visiting his parents at the Gibson House.

The Presbyterian Sabbath school will give an entertainment in the town hall on New Year's night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bravender are visiting in Fullerton, Ont., where Mrs. Bravender formerly lived.

Mrs. Harry Sherin entertained a number of her lady friends at her residence on Regent street on Tuesday evening.

Mr. B. Everett, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with his friends here.

What would very likely have been a serious fire was prevented by the prompt action of Mr. Fred Amys, night operator for the Bell Telephone Co., here, on Sunday night, about 12.30. Mr. Amys went up to the post office to mail a letter, and when approaching the office was attracted by peculiar noises and vivid sparking from the telegraph wires within the post office building. It was immediately apparent that something was wrong inside, and an alarm of fire was given. On entering it was found that the electric light wires were crossed with the Telephone Co.'s wires. With the assistance of Mr. Duck, manager of the Traders' Bank, which is next door to the post office, the wires were cut by the use of an axe, and a few pails of water subdued the flames, which were getting nicely started on the walls of the room, and among the various papers which lay around. A few minutes more would have been too late to prevent a most disastrous blaze, as the buildings surrounding are all of wooden structure and close together, and would have been an easy prey to the flames. Mr. Casement being away, there was no one living on the premises at the time of the accident.

Mr. Lummis, president of the Cavendish Lumber Co., was in town Tuesday.

Mr. W. H. Casement is visiting friends in the State of Dakota.

The Lakefield stores are getting on their Christmas garb. The local merchants are looking forward to big business during the next three weeks and have laid in large supplies of new and attractive goods.

The Methodist Sunday school give an entertainment on Christmas night in the basement of the church building.

On Thursday of last week a "kitchen shower" was held at the Methodist parsonage for Miss Pearl Northey, whose marriage to Mr. Henry Little, of Hall Glen, takes place on Wednesday, 8th inst.

Mr. H. J. Bartlett, of Orillia, secretary-treasurer of the Cavendish Lumber Co., was in town on Tuesday last.

Mr. H. Soanes, of Peterborough, is at present in the village.

Mr. Harry Simpson, of the Traders' Bank. Toronto, is in town on a short visit to his friends before proceeding to Montreal, where he enters the new office that the bank is establishing there.

Mr. Leggott, of the Lakefield Light and Power Co., has purchased the old Griffin mill sight, and we understand he will use it eventually for power developing purposes.

Miss C. Kidd and Miss Burnett, of Peterborough, were in town on Tuesday calling on friends.

OTONABEE PIONEER IS DEAD

Special to the Review.

Keene, Dec. 7.—The death occurred Saturday evening, Dec. 4th, at the advanced age of eighty-three of one of oldest residents of the township in the person of the late Walter Renwick. The deceased has been ill for a number of years and has been confined to his bed for a long time. Mr. Renwick spent practically all his life in Otonabee, his father being one of the pioneer settlers. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and in politics a staunch Liberal. His wife predeceased him by several years. He leaves four sons, Walter, Zachariah and John, of Otonabee, and William, of Oregon, U.S.A., and one daughter, Mrs. Hugh McFarlane, Otonabee.

The funeral was held from the late residence Tuesday afternoon and was largely attended, evidencing the deep esteem in which the deceased was held in the community.

Rev. D. D. McDonald conducted the funeral ceremony both at the house and grave. Interment took place in Keene cemetery.

DANIEL RYAN'S FINEST EFFORT

As the Habitant in "The Fox"—A Drama of Unusual Human Interest

Readers of the great Canadian author, Dr. Drummond, will find something of unusual interest to them in the production of "The Fox," a thrilling French-Canadian play, which comes to the Grand Opera House on Saturday, December 11, matinee and night.

The characterization of L'Habitant as given by Mr. Daniel Ryan in this powerful play is said to be exceptional in dramatic strength, detail and vernacular technique.

"The Fox" deals with a dominating incident in the life of a hunter and trapper, one Jos. Laplante, who having been bitterly wronged, waits in the seclusion of his hut for twenty years for his revenge. As if some divinity prompted it at the crucial moment the opportunity comes to him in the arrival of what he believes his enemy. After a scene the like of which is seldom seen on the modern stage, he discovers that it is the son of his own daughter that he is about to slay.

Mr. Ryan's work is unequalled by any actor interpreting this style of character on the stage to-day and his company is specially selected for their individual fitness to the parts to which they are assigned.

Greater Interest in Good Music Brought About by Edison Records

It is a notable fact that more people are to-day taking far greater interest in the better class of music than ever before; and it is also true that this development is almost wholly due to the far-reaching and elevating effects of the Edison Phonograph and Edison Records.

Among the new Amberol Records is "The Garden of Dreams," a song duet of the same rich old-fashioned beauty as "Oh, Promise Me"; also 'Bach's Air,' rendered by Victor Herbert and His Orchestra, which every one should hear. Victor Herbert's orchestra also renders the famous Mendelssohn "Spring Song," for the Edison Standard (2 minute) Records. And there are 44 other new Records on the list, none of which you should miss. They comprise recitations, vaudeville selections and music of every character.

The J. M. Greene Music Co., Limited, Grand Opera House, George street, have a complete line of Edison Phonographs, and a large and well assorted stock of Records. To hear them is to enjoy them. 3d

CHRISTMAS TREE FOR THE CHILDREN OF THE FIREMEN

December 22nd should be a bright day for the firemen. There will be a Christmas tree at the fire hall on that date to which the citizens should contribute liberally, in view of the great public service the brigade does, and on account of the splendid way the firemen have worked to protect the public property by their commendable and well directed efforts at all the fires they have been called to attend.

The firemen are also going to have a hot supper spread for their wives and families, and any citizen who rings the bell at this stage will be blacklisted.

Already two or three citizens have promised contributions and the general response should be very generous.

ENGINEER OVERCOME

Unpleasant Experience of Engineer Lemoy of the Belleville Train---Gas in the Round House

Engineer Orville Lemoy, of the Belleville train, had an unpleasant experience this morning. After entering the round house at Belleville early this morning to put his engine in readiness for the run to this city, he became affected by the gas, a large amount of which had accumulated during the night, owing to the building being shut up as a result of the cold weather. He was assisted by other and taken out to the fresh air, but it was some time before he was able to resume his work, and he had not entirely recovered from the effects of his experience of the morning when the return run was made from this city this afternoon.

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD YOUTH TRIES TO KILL FOSTER MOTHER

Adopted Son of Toronto Real Estate Dealer Fires Three Shots at His Mother by Adoption, Then Goes Down Town and Kills Himself.

Toronto, Dec. 9.—Melancholia, induced by brooding over the fact that he was an adopted son, and that his identity was veiled in mystery, led to the suicide of James MacMath, foster child of ex-Alderman Hugh MacMath, real estate broker of 1,394 West Queen street, after he had severely wounded his foster mother but a hour before.

The young man returned from Buffalo about 6.30, went to his foster father's house, and after having supper was sitting in an upper room talking with Mrs. MacMath. He mentioned that he was thirsty, and his foster mother went to the kitchen to get him a drink. As she was filling a glass her attention was attracted by a slight sound immediately behind her and she turned to look into the muzzle of a revolver in the hands of the crazed youth. He said not a word, but, as she started toward him with a startled cry, opened fire.

Three shots were fired, and one taking effect in the woman's breast she stumbled forward, slamming the door and forcing the maniac from the room. He then quietly left the house, and was next noticed when he entered the public lavatory opposite the post-office at 7.40.

James Hagan, 147 George street, was within. The young man addressed him, saying that it was a bitter night outside, but cosy enough in there. As Hagan moved away he heard a shot and turned to see the young man lying upon the tessellated floor with blood oozing from a bullet hole in his right temple.

The janitor of the place, who was also there, hastened to the Court street police station and summoned aid. Detective Harry Armstrong hurried to the scene, where Dr. Edmund E. King, East Queen street, arrived a moment later, and the man was hurried to St. Michael's Hospital, where he died at 9.05 o'clock without regaining consciousness.

When eight-months-old MacMath was adopted. Ever since he was old enough to talk the boys have teased him about being an adopted child. Until six months ago he had been in ignorance of his birth. Since being told he had been morbid and morose.

Wednesday week he left home for Buffalo. Friday he came back, saying he had secured a position there. While home he remarked to Mrs. MacMath that he had nothing to live for. He went back and was not heard from until he walked into the house shortly before 7 o'clock Tuesday night and Mrs. MacMath tried to cheer him up by giving him a good welcome. After having his supper he said he wanted a glass of water. He said he would get it himself, but Mrs. MacMath would not let him, going herself. While drawing it in the unlighted kitchen the shots were fired at her.

Grabbing the door she forced it shut in his face, but not before he had fired three times. One of the bullets from the 32-calibre revolver entered her left breast. He tried to force the door open, but Mrs. MacMath held it. When he left she ran out of the back door to a neighbor's house. She was terribly frightened that he would follow her and she pounded frantically at the door until they came.

She was attended by Drs. G. G. Rowe, West Queen street; James Spence, Jameson avenue, and G. H. Clements, West King street. Her wound is not thought to be very serious.

The suicide's own name was Jas. Menzies. He was identified by his name being on the tag of his clothes. His address was found by consulting Hobberlin's books, the number of the suit being on file.

YOUNG PASTORS WANTED ONLY

London, Dec. 9.—Because some church committees on the lookout for a minister are prone to pass over a name because the man has been ordained many years, The London Presbytery yesterday passed a resolution recommending the removal from the assembly blue book the two columns containing the date of ordination and induction.

"Why should a man stand according to his years," said Dr. McDonald. "Some men are old and played out at fifty. Others are active and energetic at eighty.

"Last night I was talking with a Church of England clergyman in this city who declared the demand for young ministers only was nothing less than a scandal in the Church of England."

KEEP NAVIGATION OPEN LONGER

Fort William, Dec. 9.—The underwriters have decided to extend the lake marine insurance another two days, which will make it possible for small steamers to leave here until midnight Dec. 10.

CANADA READY FOR RECIPROCITY

New York, Dec. 9.—"Canada stands ready to consider any proposals which the U. S. Government by diplomatic channels or a commission cares to submit looking to the signing of a reciprocity treaty between the two countries. The Dominion will make no advances in this direction, but this does not mean that Ottawa is adverse to a trade protocal looking to the advancement of the commercial relations of the two countries."

This statement was made by Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy of Montreal, who left yesterday on the Lusitania for a two-months' stay in London and Paris.

GAS FAMINE IN TOPEKA, KAS.

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 9.—Gov. Stubbs yesterday instructed Attorney-General Jackson to investigate the natural gas situation, with a view of commencing injunction proceedings against the Kansas Natural Gas Co., to prevent the company from supplying Kansas City and St. Joseph, Md., with gas.

The Attorney-General proposes to ask for an injunction on the ground that the Missouri towns are supplied with sufficient gas, while Kansas towns are suffering from a shortage.

The Topeka situation grew serious yesterday afternoon. Hospitals are without fuel gas and stores are closed because of the lack of heat.

"PRINCESS MAY" WENT AGROUND

Vancouver, B.C., Dec. 9.—Bringing reports of the worst storm of the year raging on the northern coast, the steamer Princess May arrived yesterday from Skaguay and Prince Rupert.

Recent high tides and winds caused the water to rise to such a height that some of the outlying American salmon canneries in Alaska were flooded and some of the pack was damaged. The Princess May wallowed in the tremendous seas on the way south. When off Alert Bay she struck a rock, and was on for two hours, till the tide lifted. Seas were running high when the accident occurred at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, and the weather was so thick it was impossible to see ten feet ahead. Before the passengers were placed in boats, however, it was discovered the damage was not extensive.

STORM DAMAGE AT KINGSTON

Kingston, Dec. 9.—During the heavy gale Tuesday night, and yesterday morning, forty feet of the fence around the convent grounds was blown down.

Capt. Malone and the crew of the steamer Prince Rupert, from Fort William, had a exciting time making the port. The smokestack was washed away, and the deck strewn with articles. The velocity of the wind was 45 miles an hour.

Fire from an exploding lantern completely destroyed the fine bank barns of E. Service, near Burgessville, with the season's crops and some stock. The loss is over $3,000, covered by insurance.

SECOND CANAL IS PLANNED

Washington, Dec. 9.—The Government of the Republic of Colombia is contemplating the construction of a canal across the Isthmus of Panama, paralleling that of the United States, but at another point on the isthmus, and within Colombian territory. British capitalists are investigating the matter with reference to financing the enterprise. This is the startling news which has leaked out since the House Appropriations committee returned from its visit to the isthmus.

It is reported that the Rothschilds may finance the undertaking. Colombian officials are authority for the statement, alleging that the route for the competing canal has already been selected.

THE CITIZEN BUILDING

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 9.—The Dominion of Canada is well served by its newspapers. Generally speaking, the Canadian press combines the conservatism of the British with the enterprise of American journalism, striking what it is pleased to consider the happy medium.

Though the Dominion federation was only consummated in 1867, many of the leading papers were founded in the early part of the last century, years old. They vary in policy from and some are more than a hundred the steadfast partisan journal, which see no good in any party but its own, to the avowedly independent; but the large majority may be characterized as independent party organs which, while firmly maintaining allegiance to either of the "two historic parties," maintain the right to play the role of the candid friend on important points of policy.

Of the latter class is the Ottawa Citizen, the oldest newspaper at the Capital, which for nearly three score and ten years has advocated the principles of conservatism. It publishes morning, weekly and semi-weekly editions, and is the only morning daily between Montreal and Toronto. The Citizen is one of the string of Canadian daily newspapers controlled and published by Southam, Limited, of which Mr. William Southam is president. The active management of the Citizens is in the hands of Messrs. William and H. S. Southam, sons of the president.

The editor in chief is Lieutenant-Colonel Morrison, a well-known military man and journalist, who served with some distinction with the Canadian troops in the South African war, being mentioned in despatches by Lord Roberts and awarded the cross of the Distinguished Service.

Mr. T. B. Finn is managing news editor of the daily editions of the Citizen; Mr. Noakes is night editor of the Central Canada Citizen, the agricultural edition of the paper.

Mr. R. M. MacLeod, the Citizen's chief Parliamentary writer, is one of the most versatile and accomplished men who sit in the press gallery of the Dominion House of Commons. He is also the Canadian correspondent for Reuter's. Before he located in Canada Mr. MacLeod had been in Panama in the days of the old French Isthmian Canal enterprise, had engaged in a treasure hunt on Cocos Island and had taken part in other unusual adventures.

WOMAN CARRIED ON GOOD BUSINESS AS A BURGLAR

Washerwoman, Highly Respected, in B.C. Town is Sentenced to Three and a Half Years for Extensive Thefts From Houses of Patrons.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 9.—The arrest and conviction at Revelstoke of Mrs. Emma Skinner on a burglary charge rudely interrupted a promising criminal career. She has just begun serving a term of three and one-half years.

Without the shadow of suspicion being cast upon her, Mrs. Skinner plied her calling for years. She was sheltered behind a reputation won as a hard-working washerwoman. Everybody in town respected the middle-aged matron of pleasant mien, whose push-cart laden with bundles of washing could be seen on the streets in daytime, and often until late at night. The long hours she seemingly devoted to her duties only enhanced the good will entertained towards her.

Her downfall dates back to a recent midnight. Womanlike her tongue got the mastery when she was joked by a pedestrian who encountered her on a back street. Mrs. Skinner read the riot act. The man beat a hasty retreat but not without first observing that the tarpaulin over her two-wheeled cart contained a large refrigerator. The incident escaped his memory until a day or two later when he learned that his neighbor's cooling apparatus had mysteriously disappeared. The police at last secured a tangible clue.

A search of the upper floors of the washerwoman's house revealed the whereabouts of hundreds of articles stolen from the houses of a score of citizens. Not the least important find was the refrigerator, but in the minds of others it did not rank in importance with a revolver, a mask and a suit of masculine attire hidden away in a clothes closet. Did Mrs. Skinner, tired of burgling, contemplate engaging in the more exciting pastime of playing the role of bandit?

At the trial before Magistrate Foster the prisoner was the most unconcerned person in the court room. She exhibited a sullen reserve, but took her sentence without showing a trace of emotion. Only three charges were pressed. She pleaded guilty. The majority of the people robbed absolutely refused to lay formal charges, but half the town turned out to identify stolen articles. The upstairs assembled a departmental store bargain day. The upper rooms were literally filled to overflowing with loot including scores of articles of bric-a-brac, pictures, knives, forks and spoons, rags, carpets, chairs, glassware, chinaware, cooking utensils and a variety of furniture. There were washstands, baby cribs and most amazing of all, an oak wardrobe, with a plate-glass front. Other loot embraced a great number of wedding presents which were identified by the owners.

MAD DOG BITES MANY AT GALT

Galt, Dec. 9.—A supposed mad dog terrorized residents of Ward Four yesterday morning, biting several persons, snapping at others, and finally escaping in the direction of Blair. It was a small brown cocker spaniel. The injured are the little son of Coachman Smith, whose hand is severely torn; a lad named McKeown, bitten on the fingers, and a son of W. Jones, grocer; bitten on ankle, the teeth did not penetrate the flesh. The dog had a fight with a second dog, which was also bitten.

Smith, whose son is a victim, attacked it with a club, but it escaped. He then pursued it with a revolver.

Wilkes, whose name unexpectedly appeared on the mayoralty nominations sheet Tuesday, said yesterday morning he will begin an action against City Clerk Charles Brown for forgery, in that, he says, the latter put the name of "Ginger" Snooks, a well-known character and scavenger, upon his nomination paper.

Estimated expenditure out of general revenue fund, $300,000; leaving estimated surplus of $12,145. Estimated expenditure on capital account is $2,262,253.

BOAT BURNED IN LAKE ERIE

Detroit, Dec. 9.—A steamer was reported to be on fire last night in Lake Erie, about five miles off southeast shoal. The burning vessel is believed to be the 1,700 ton Anchor Line freight steamer Clarion of Buffalo, which left Detroit at noon yesterday for Erie, Pa., although she has not yet been positively identified. The Clarion carried a crew of 18 or 20 men. So far as known there were no passengers aboard.

The report of the fire was contained in a wireless message from the steamer.

BELLEVILLE TO HAVE SHIPYARD

Belleville, Dec. 9.—W. E. Redway of Toronto appeared before a public meeting here yesterday afternoon, and submitted a proposition looking to the establishment of a shipbuilding industry here. He wants a free site on Bay shore, $10,000 worth of dredging done by the city, a loan of $25,000 without interest to be repaid at the rate of $1,000 a year, and exemption from taxes other than school taxes. The matter was referred to a committee.

W. E. Redway was formerly with the firm of F. B. Polson & Co., but left about a year ago to enter business for himself as a naval architect.

FARM LABORER KILLED ON BRIDGE

Milton, Dec. 9.—George Kullham, a farm laborer, was struck by the G.T.R. express from Allandale about half a mile from Milton Tuesday night and instantly killed. Kullham, in company with three others, had been walking the tracks, and separated on reaching a bridge, two leaving the rails, and Kullham and another walking across. When near the centre the express was sighted. Kullham, frightened, hesitated, and was killed.

MEN SAY THEY PREPARED THE PROOFS FOR DR. COOK

New York Times Prints Sensational Story of George H. Dunkle and Capt. Loose That They Faked His Entire Observation for $4,000.

New York, Dec. 9.—The New York Times published to-day the remarkable narratives of two men, made under oath, declaring that they were employed by Dr. Frederick A. Cook to fabricate astronomical and other observations for submission to the University of Copenhagen, which is about to pass upon Dr. Cook's assertion that he discovered the North Pone on April 21, 1908. These men are George H. Dunkle, an insurance broker, of 31 Nassau street, New York, and Capt. August Wedel Loose, a sea captain, of 437 Thirteenth street Brooklyn. For their labors they were to have received jointly from Dr Cook $4,000, with an additional bonus of $500 to Capt. Loose upon the acceptance of the records by the University of Copenhagen. They say that Dr. Cook had paid them only $260 when he disappeared on the eve of the despatch of his "records" to Copenhagen, two weeks ago, and his failure to pay the sum remaining due them they freely acknowledge to be their motive for coming forward with the story.

Accompanying these narartives in The Times appeared copies of the affidavits of Capt. Loose and Mr. Dunkle affirming their accuracy, a facsimile of Dr. Cook's instructions to Copt. Loose, in Cook's handwriting, in possession of The Times, and the affidavit of Capt. Loose swearing to the accuracy of the same.

The translation of this memoranda by Dr. Cook is as follows: "Svartevaag, start March, 17-18; strong wind; hase."

"March 30.—Observations latitude and longitude; daily observations to April 23."

TRUSTS ARE NOT ALTOGETHER BAD

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 9.—Prof. Adam Shortt of Kingston addressed the Canadian Club yesterday afternoon on "The Regulation of Trusts." Combinations under certain conditions were not an evil, he said, but quite the contrary. All that was necessary was to have a power, the Railway Commission, for instance, to regulate and control them for the public good.

New York, Dec. 9.—George P. Sheldon, recently deposed as president of the Phoenix Fire Insurance Co. of Brooklyn, who is critically ill at his home in Greenwich, Conn., was indicted yesterday by the grand jury for grand larceny in connection with the alleged looting of the company's treasury to the extent of $1,000,000 or more. CAN'T CARE FOR CROWDS

Guelph Winter Fair Has the Biggest Show on Record —Many Prominent Men There.

Guelph, Dec. 9.—Tremendous crowds attended the Winter Fair yesterday, and moving about from one exhibit to another was rendered difficult. It is the horse show that is drawing the big crowds, and the directorate are facing the serious problem of increased accommodation.

Horse-judging continued during the afternoon. The best contested class of standard breeds that was ever entered at the horse show lined up. Magrazia, the beautiful brown stallion owned by Miss Wilks, carried off top honors. In Clydesdales (three-year-olds stallions), Grantham and Renfrew won out on Proud Chieftain, a grand colt bred by John Marr of Offermill, Scotland. Patterson Bros. of East Toronto carried off the red ribbon with Halfling, their well-known thoroughbred.

Lectures began in the old lecture room yesterday. Greater crowds than formerly attended. Mr. Hume of Menie discussed the type of Ayrshire milkers, and Mr. Stevenson of Ancaster the Holstein. Perhaps the most important and practical lecture was one given by Prof. W. H. Day, on drainage. A discussion on the use of the ditching machine took place. There is no more important work on the farm for the soils' productivity, all depends upon the character of the drainage.

Breed types of the different breeds of beef cattle were discussed by Robt. Miller, Stouffville, for Shorthorns, and Prof. G. E. Day for the other beef breeds. To-day's discussion on horses is being looked forward to by hundreds. Many western ranchers and breeders are here.

Notable in the extent of the movement and the record attendance is the Women's Institute. The delegates began their annual session yesterday and Massey Hall would not hold them.

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, and a former Ontario newspaper man, was a speaker at the directors' luncheon.

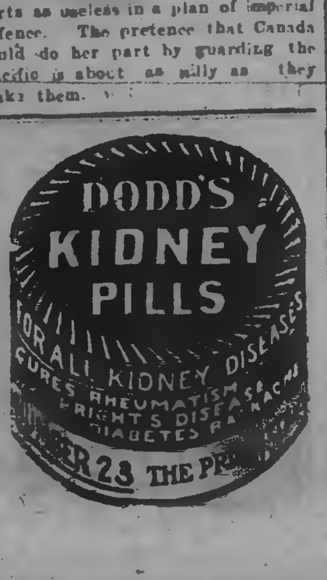
PETERBOROUGH RE NAVY

Objections have been taken to the form in which petitions declaring in favor of a referendum on the navy question have been presented to Parliament. It has been ruled by the clerk of the House of Commons that these should have been addressed to "The Honorable the House of Commons in Parliament assembled." It is also ruled that at least three names of signers should have been written on the same sheet as the petition itself. For these reasons the petitions sent to members at Ottawa have been ruled out of order.—The Farmer's Sun.

CANADA'S APPROACHING CRISIS

The Liberal caucus at Ottawa has formally expressed its approval of the action and conduct of the Government's delegates to the various defence conferences held in London. The delegates have been Hon. Mr. Brodeur, Sir Fred Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The prime minister has acted in the capacity of superintending adviser. In opening the proceedings of a preparatory conference one of the delegates from South Africa, it will be remembered, offered a resolution affirming the principle of the solidarity of the empire. Thereupon the kicking by Canada began. The other delegates, home and colonial, heartily approved of the resolution until at last Sir Wilfrid arose and in a heated speech declared that if the resolution were persisted in he would have to vote against it that was all. So it was withdrawn and the French-Canadian policy of independence has had its way. All that was necessary to complete Canada's isolation was to say that her fleet was to be no fleet-unit or any part of any other fleet. That it was to be wholly under Canadian control, &c. The other members of the empire tried to accommodate themselves to Sir Wilfrid's astounding position, but when it became plain what it really meant, viz.: the breaking-up of the empire, they announced their intention to stick closely to the policy of an imperial defence fleet. Canada, therefore, stands alone as refusing to become a part of the British empire. What do you think of it?

The Canadian fleet as proposed is a useless waste of money. Moreover, it was condemned by British naval experts as useless in a plan of imperial defence. The pretence that Canada could do her part by guarding the Pacific is about as silly as they make them.



EDITORIAL NOTES

Only the brave deserve the fair, so Guelph gets it and Peterborough doesn't.

If the Globe is really convinced that Protection is an injury why does it not attack the Laurier administration for attempting to ruin Canada?

The ordinary microscope can detect particles one-175,000th of an inch in diameter. The new ultra-microscope can detect particles 2,000 times smaller.

Although the Conservative-Unionist tariff for Britain will hit us here in Canada if it's for the welfare of the masses of Britain as it surely is we wish it godspeed.

It is said on reliable authority that there is plenty of kicking of a very decided character amongst Liberal members over the proposed Canadian navy. We don't wonder. Either let us have a fleet unit or nothing.

The Laurier policy is that of the girl to the rejected suitor, "I will be a sister to you." Formerly the motto was "Daughter am I in my mother's house." The Laurier naval policy is a revolutionary measure.

"Can anyone imagine a request from the British Admiralty for the presence of the Canadian fleet at a certain place at a certain time being ignored at Ottawa?"—The Globe.

The answer to this pointed question is as the Globe would say "quite simple." If we intend to act in partnership why so strenuously object to saying so?

The auditor-general certainly did give the idea to the country that some Senators made shy declarations and received pay for days they were not in attendance. It is all very well for the Senate to berate the auditor and then pretend that the honour of the Senate is satisfied. The honour and peace of mind of the country is not satisfied, however. Either the auditor-general or the senators be charged should get their walking-tickets.

Dr. Ruttan then referred to the folly of the 'water cure,' saying that the most important part of mineral waters was the water. The habitual drink of small quantities of water, between meals increased the volume of circulation, in the body, and could therefore, to a certain extent, be made to replace physical exercise, which tended to increase the rapidity of circulation. He strongly advised this rule for people of indolent or sedentary habits of life, as the regular bathing of the internal tissues of the body was as essential for their well-being as the external application of water for the healthy condition of the skin.—Montreal Witness.

Alabama has just passed through the most spectacular and exciting election campaign in the history of the State, and in very decided terms has declared against prohibition. To most people who have understood Alabama to be a strong anti-saloon State, the result was surprising, and seemed to indicate some such revulsion of feeling as was provoked in different counties of Ontario by the Scott Act many years ago. As a matter of fact, Alabama is a "dry" State, and has not voted to become "wet." She has voted against a bill that purposed making a constitutional amendment which would place Alabama in the same category as Maine. Alabama is now prohibition by local option and State enactment, but she has refused to amend the constitution in order to guarantee that no liquor shall be sold or drunk or kept in the State for private use.—The Mail and Empire.

WHAT APSLEY PEOPLE ARE TALKING ABOUT

Apsley, Dec. 7.—We are enjoying extremely fine weather for this season of the year.

To Mr. and Mrs. John Kilborn, on November 15th, a son.

We must say that the young men of Apsley have been making good use of the recent snow, and especially Archie's new cutter; it's a runner. Whoa George.

We were glad to see our former teacher, Mr. R. B. Brooks, of Peterborough, when he played a flying visit in our locality last week.

READS AND SEWS AT 98.

Winsted, Conn.—Her mind still bright and eyesight unimpaired, Mrs. Emeline Kellogg recently celebrated her ninety-eighth birthday. Aside from being a little deaf, Mrs. Kellogg is as well as she was half a century ago. Most of her time is spent in reading and sewing.

Old age should be a happy, healthy age. We all could grow old gracefully and probably live to be a hundred, did we jealously guard our most valuable possession—our health—in youth and middle age.

At the first sign of Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Kidney, Stomach or Skin Trouble, "Fruit-a-tives" should be taken. "Fruit-a-tives", or fruit juice tablets, not only cure the specific trouble, but also so strengthen and invigorate the entire system that there is a marked improvement in the general health.

A little care and "Fruit-a-tives", taken regularly, are all that is needed to bring most of us to a ripe old age.

50c. a box—6 for $2.50—or trial box, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrah, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

THE MINISTER WAS LATE FOR THE WEDDING

Fenelon Falls Preacher Got Mixed in Some Details and Arrived Three Hours Late

A minister at Fenelon Falls had a "marriage experience" the other day which caused a lot of mirth in the village, and gave him an anxious afternoon.

A man and a maid residing not a hundred miles from Fenelon Falls came to him to arrange for the tieing of the nuptial knot. They left the license with the reverend gentleman and told him the appointed time was three o'clock on a certain afternoon a few days later. They then returned to their homes.

By a co-incident a family living in the village of Fenelon Falls bore the same name as the bride-to-be and, not unnaturally, the minister made a mistake and thought he was to marry a Fenelon Falls young couple. He accordingly walked down to the house where he thought the marriage was to take place and astonished the family when his purpose was made known. Explanation followed, however, and a much-perturbed and surprised minister hurried back to his home. No, it couldn't have been a dream, he thought, for he had the marriage certificate. The thought of this document gave him an inspiration and he walked down to the issuer of marriage licenses. There he gleaned the information that the parties lived somewhere in the country surrounding. This was rather vague and the now excited clergyman wandered around the village until, by good luck, he ran across a couple going to the particular wedding at which he was to officiate. "Better late than never," looked a good motto, and he got his horse and followed.

Meanwhile there was a furore at the home where the wedding was to be. Where has the minister gone? was on every tongue. One proposition that the bride and groom should drive to Coboconk and there get the knot tied was knocked on the head because the Fenelon Falls minister had the license in his possession. Finally it was decided to wait, and their patience was rewarded when the belated minister arrived at about six o'clock, nearly three hours late.

The party were sitting down for supper when the minister walked in but the ceremony was happily performed a little later, after explanations had been made. The joke was on the sky pilot.

INTERESTING TALK TO FARMERS ON SINGLE TAX QUESTION

By H. B. Cowan, Editor of "Farm and Dairy"---Beneficial Meetings at Farmers' Institute—Meeting at Lakefield—Report of the Meetings.

Two profitable meetings of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute were held Wednesday in the Lakefield Town Hall. In the raising of his crops the farmer had to combat wind and weather, weeds and other natural enemies which threaten his roots and grains. Against frost he has little or no protection but by draining he can counteract too copious rainfall. Scientific methods at the present day teach him how to provide for prolonged drought but for the most part he is at the mercy of the elements. However, farming of the 20th century has made great advances and the agricultural schools are proving a great help in getting the most out of the land without leaving it impoverished for future crops. At the Institute meetings graduates of these schools and men of wide experience in agriculture give addresses on questions that are of interest to every farmer and thereby enables him to cope with conditions that may prove baffling. It is also a fact that the farmers themselves have worked out systems that are practical and successful and other valuable ideas are interchanged at the Institute meetings.

Mr. J. H. Garbutt, president of the West Peterborough Institute, presided at the two meetings yesterday.

The speakers were Messrs. W. C. Shearer of Bright, Ont., Mr. H. C. Duff of Norwood, Mr. H. B. Cowan, editor of Farm and Dairy, Peterborough and Miss S. Campbell of Brampton.

During the afternoon session, Mr. Wm. Collins, Secretary-treasurer of the Institute, announced that owing to Lakefield being moved to East Peterborough for electoral purposes, likewise it should be connected with the East Peterborough Institute. The question was practically left to the members themselves and on expressing their opinion yesterday it was unanimously decided to remain in West Peterborough.

MR. SHEARER'S ADDRESS

"Rotation of Crops and Selection of Seeds." was the subject of Mr. W. C. Shearer's afternoon address. He dealt with the three and five year rotations describing methods which he has found by experience to be most satisfactory. He closed by a discussion of the selection of seed, a question that is always of interest to the farmer. The subject of crop rotation is one of the most important to the farmers of Ontario. Wild oats and mustard are seeds that will remain in the ground for years, waiting a chance to sprout. The plan was to avoid turning them up before they had rotted. Mr. Shearer said that shallow cultivation was practically the best method of killing weeds, particularly when carried out with short rotation of crops. If you have a dirty farm you can let it lie in grass three or four years. The seed should be first of all the best that can be secured.

Mr. Shearer preferred the three year rotation. His plan was to grow hay the first year, corn the second and grain during the third, seeding again to hay and following the same rotation. He gave an example of one farmer after the third year ploughed too deeply turning up the weed seeds with the result that his farm was as bad as when he began with his first crop of hay. In dealing with mustard seed Mr. Shearer told of going through a field when the yellow flowers were in bloom and spending a couple of hours pulling them up. He followed a straight line up and down the field until he had entirely covered it. A few days more would blossom, and he kept constantly at it until he had eradicated the weed. In the second year of this rotation after the corn crop had been taken in he did fall plough the field, but worked it up shallow in the spring, seeding on top with grain and clover. Referring to the weed known as the buckhorn he said if allowed to grow it would soon choke everything. He allowed it to grow in the summer, and about the end of October, after the first frost the crown dropped, leaving the buckhorn. Then go up and down field with a knife and cut off the weed below the crown. "It is your lookout and mine to keep your farm free from weeds. If you do not know the new varieties find out what they are and combat them."

The five year rotation begun with a field of hay. In the second year it is given over to pasture and about the middle of October put on the plough with a little skimmer on it. We do not harrow that down. Leave the frost at it in the rough state. Grow oats and barley and flax mixed or with peas on that field. In the third year, sow about 5 pounds flax seed to the acre with one and a half bushels oats and one bushel barley mixed. Take out manure during the winter time. Get your crop in early if the field is underdrained and well dried, and you have sufficient horse power. I have seen a difference of 10 bushels of oats to the acre by getting an early start in the seeding. Take in the mixture dry. Let it stand in the field a day or two longer at harvest time if the weather is favorable.

In the fourth year corn is planted. Mr. Shearer in dealing with the method of harrowing the corn field dealt with it first before it began to sprout, and stated that in harrowing the horses should be sent along at a good pace as the weeds are then sent out flying, whereas when moving slowly the earth slips through the harrow. The cultivator is used several times over the field until the corn is about three feet high and the scuffler is last used.

After the corn is cut it should be placed in a silo. If you are working with dairy cows be sure and erect a summer silo. Mr. Shearer took time to dwell upon the importance of the silo to the farmer. After the corn crop we do not plough it. Never work up the land four or five inches deep in the spring with a cultivator. He gave an example of a man who worked up his land with a four horse machine and planted in barley. The result was a failure as far as the growth of the barley was concerned owing to the over deep sowing.

TWO OR THREE INCHES IS A SUFFICIENT DEPTH.

Mr. Shearer stated that two inch sowing was his favorite method. He believed that sow thistle seed came with alsike and he had stopped planting it. In the fifth year after the ground has been worked up shallow grain and seed was planted. This completed the rotation, going back to hay again.

CLEANING SEED.

Speaking of cleaning grain, Mr. Shearer stated that he cleaned it three times enough. Get it cleaned in March or April. Put finest screen in the bottom to get the weeds out.

Put the seed through slowly and bury the weed seed in the yard. Go over it twice more and what comes through is the best of seed. Treat the grain with the formaline to prevent smut getting into the farm.

Let it lie on the floor turning it over several times to let the moisture evaporate. In selecting grass seed, buy the seed man's best quality. Put on fewer pounds per acre, but have the best. In scuffling corn turn the earth towards it, not away.

He advised the farmers to test the seed corn. Plant a handful in pots in the house during winter and keep a record of the number that sprout. This may be taken as an example of how the corn will grow in the field and farmers should act according to these simple tests.

MR. H. B. COWAN.

Mr. Cowan, who followed Mr. Shearer, stated that he desired to talk on the Single tax. "If I told you that you were being robbed every day to the extent of three or four dollars you would be anxious to know how it was done." He told of the case of a farmer who had improved his farm and had expended considerable money and then the assessor came along and raised his assessment. This is the question that is agitating the farmers throughout the world and everywhere steps are being taken to remedy the injustice of the system. In Australia there is a law that exempts farm improvements which has proved very satisfactory. In Alberta and Manitoba farm improvements are exempted and a fixed rate is placed on the land. All the communications Mr. Cowan had received seemed when taken together to go back to Henry George's famous book on the principle of single tax. According to his principle the great problem is not how to make more wealth but how to distribute more evenly that which is made.

The country is making more money every year. The natural resources are being developed and yet the great mass of the people and the farmers included were not making much progress as a body. Mr. Cowan gave a few figures showing how great fortunes are being amassed by individuals. Had Rockefeller been born on the same day as Christ and lived up to the present making $100 a day he would have less money than he now possesses. Is it posible that he could he could have earned that amount of money? Twenty-four men in the United States control one-twelfth of the entire money of that country. Mr. Cowan said when he had considered the situation he almost felt socialistic but by personal enquiry he had found that the leading men of to-day are in favor of the single tax. The amassing of fortunes by individulas is resulting from two things, the creation of monopolies and the system of various articles was demonstrated by Mr. Cowan, monopolies that are affecting farmers to a very great extent, according to single tax, men who have made land valuable are entitled to a share of profits.

Farmers ask why the boys are anxious to leave the farm. The answer is that the farmers are not receiving a fair deal. They are not getting the proper returns for their money. One-third of the population of London is below the poverty rate, in other words they are not self-sustaining. Mr. Cowan dwelt upon the effect of what he termed the idle rich. This class had been a curse to Rome, and have been a curse to England, are showing themselves in large numbers in the United States, and are gaining ground in Canada. According to the single tax system, all land is taxed in proportion to its value. Peterborough is trying to secure factories and wants to see factories erected, and yet as soon as they are built they are taxed —for creating labor. If you want to get rid of dogs you put a high tax on them similarly with saloons. On the same system, if you do not want houses or factories put a tax on them.

The country is now dealing with the temperance problem. The next great problem is expected to be that of taxation and Mr. Cowan urged the farmers to consider it. He pointed out the good that could be gained by forming farmers' clubs and referred to the fact that the farmers have no representation and no combination for their own protection.

SERVED LUNCHEON.

After the afternoon session a very delectable and bounteous supper was served by the Ladies' Institute in the Foresters' Hall. It was heartily enjoyed by the men and greatly pleased the visitors. The ladies in point of hospitality and cuisine are inimitable and received many compliments upon the success of their Institute and also of their generosity and thoughtfulness. During the afternoon they held a special meeting at which the officers for the following year were elected as follows;—

President—Mrs. Peter Baptie.
Vice-President—Mrs. Avery.
Secretary—Mrs. Gerald Fitzgerald.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Alf. Higgins.

An address was given by Miss Campbell, who imported many new ideas to the ladies.

The Institute continues to flourish and it is hoped that interest in the work will not decrease.

THE EVENING MEETING.

Mr. Garbutt, according to the usual custom, asked Reeve Kidd, of Lakefield, to preside in the evening.

Reeve Kidd stated in his address as chairman that it was a pleasure to preside at a meeting which was held in the interests of the farmer. He esteemed no class higher than those who tilled the soil. His father had been a farmer and he had worked on the farm when methods were most primitive. He recalled the days of his youth when oxen were mostly the beasts of burden. He did not think that the young people of to-day enjoyed themselves to the same extent as the youth of his day. Canada has made great progress in every way, and it continues to go ahead in wonderful leaps and bounds. The past 30 years had witnessed wonderful improvements, and even in agriculture the changes have been wonderful. Reeve Kidd loosened a little joke incidentally. Talking of growing peas he knew a farmer who always planted peas in the season of the "Twins," as seen in Ayers almanac. The result was that instead of single peas in the pods they were twins and the farmers secured a double crop.

Mr. Shearer, who was the first speaker, selected as his subject, "Successful Agriculture." To accomplish the best in farming a good education is as necessary to gain the best results as in any other line of work. He emphasised the necessity of having a good trustee board and the best men in the community should come forward and present themselves for election. It was folly to try to conduct a school as cheaply as possible. This system would result in the ruining of the school as far as its real purpose of educating the pupils was concerned. Another necessity is to send the children to school every day. Every day they are kept at home makes it harder for the children to advance. They get behind tend to keep the others back and disturb the school methods. On a rainy day it is cheaper to drive them to school or have the hired man do it. Regularity and system is now appreciated by the farmers as essential and necessary to successful farming. Rotation of crops is recognized as invaluable in securing the best results from the fields. Keep down the cost of production. This is another factor that does not receive sufficient attention. Have the best implements. If you have to buy a new one get the best. Fields must be cleared of stones, fields cleaned of goods. Keep moving and moving quickly. Farmers should keep strict accounts of their farm business. With the most of us we have an ability for some particular thing and the individual farmer should devote his attention to those lines in which he is at his best. He should know what he is making from every department. The idea of the average cow now followed on all farms means a great deal to the farmer. He should have an account of the milk each cow produces. He will find that cows in the same field do not produce milk equally well. That should be particularly followed by farmers in dairy districts. A good rule to follow is not to keep any more stock than you can feed well and without any waste. If you find that you can feed more add to them. There are not many silos in this part of the country and they should be provided if the best results are to be gained.

Keep the boy on the farm if possible. Let him begin a small bank account. Once he gets a little "pile" to the good it will soon make a man of him.

Let him begin saving when young and he will develop the habit. The possession of the money will make him manly and confident.

In regard to boys leaving the farm they should know what they are going to take up. The man who tries to earn the money he receives will get along well at whatever business he enters. This motto holds good in every line. Shearer gave a few examples of the experiences of farm boys who had been successful in other lines, but they did not appreciate their farm conditions until they began to experience the hard knocks in other walks of life.

MR. COWAN'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Cowan first conveyed his thanks to the Women's Institute for the splendid banquet that had been provided to the men. He had been at many meetings, but nowhere had he been so hospitably treated. Speaking on the question of why boys leave the farms, Mr. Cowan drew two pictures. One was of Mr. R. R. Ness, of Howick, Que. He left his father's farm and went to work for his cousin at a salary of $200 a year and a small share in the profits. He soon had an opportunity to purchase the cousin's farm but he had only $200 saved. He was trusted with $4,000 by a bank and the cousin trusted him for the remaining $2,000. With the $200 he had saved, he purchased second-hand machines and second rate cattle. In the first year he suffered set backs, but he continued to persevere and has made a brilliant success of agriculture. He paid for his farm, purchased one adjoining at another $6,000 and has recently bought another. He went into the breeding of Ayrshire cattle and is famous throughout the country in that respect. All his neighbors are also breeding these cattle and the locality is one of the foremost as a centre for breeding Ayrshires. He has modern improvements in his barns and equipments throughout. He has about 60 head of cattle in his stable and to see them all down that alleyway is a delight. They are groomed every day. Mr. Ness believes that they feel better when clean and sleek, and will thrive better. He has a window behind each cow and even has flowers there. Everything about the place is similar to the stable in its detail.

Such is the success that one young farmer accomplished between his 19th and 35th year, and is now one of the most prominent agriculturists in the country. When he was only 21 years of age he married a school teacher and although some of the supposed wiseacres shook their heads, it was really the turning period for this young farmer. His wife seemed to be his inspiration and assisted very materially, particularly attending to the care of the finances and the records of everything connected with the farm.

THE OTHER BOY.

It is often heard from a boy, "Oh, I am going into the city. I can go to the theatres, and to dances and have a good time." This boy will meet with failure. It would be better if he never left the farm. He will not make a success, for he will soon meet with disappointment and will awaken to the real conditions, which he never expected. Mr. Cowan cited instances of the heartbreaking competition in cities to-day. The boys do not know the nature of the merciless driving in competition to secure business and hold positions.

Speaking of co-operation of farmers, Mr. Cowan stated that in the next 20 years there would be a vast change in this regard. In the past farmers did not have good roads, they did not have telephones, etc. They were unable to cope with other classes. Another reason is that the farmers are being driven to co-operation. They are conducting co-operative concerns with great success and will continue to do so.

PERMANENT ASSESSORS IS RECOMMENDATION OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

Advise That Mr. T. B. McGrath be Appointed Assessor at Salary of $700 Per Year and W. H. Thompson, Assistant-Assessor at $400 Per Year —Assessor Will Devote His Whole Time to the Work.

If the recommendation of the special committee appointed to consider the appointment of the city assessors on a permanent basis is adopted by the city council, Mr. Thomas B. McGrath will be assessor at a salary of $700 per year and Mr. W. H. Thompson, assistant assessor, at a salary of $400 per year. These are the men who did the assessing this year and the work was so well done that there were few appeals for the Court of Revision to consider. The duties of these two assessors were clearly defined in the resolution passed unanimously by the committee last night, which was as follows;

Moved by Ald. Morgan and seconded by Ald. Hicks:

"That T. B. McGrath be appointed assessor at a salary of $700 per year and W. H. Thompson assistant assessor at a salary of $400 per year, to date from January 1, 1910, the assessor to give his whole time to the work, or such other work as the council may direct, and the assistant to give his time to the work of assessing from February 1st, each year, till the work of making the assessment for the year is completed and the assessment rolls returned to the city clerk, the assessor and the assistant to sign the rolls before they are returned."

The convenor of the committee, Ald. McIntyre, was not able to be present, and the chair was occupied by Mayor Rush. The others present were Aldermen Morgan, Hicks, Duffus and Gillespie. Ald. Phelan, though not a member of the committee, was also present. A letter was read from Mr. W. H. Thompson, stating that he would accept the appointment of assistant assessor at a salary of $400 a year.

It was pointed out that the salaries of the assessors this year were: Mr. McGrath, $600; Mr. Thompson, $500. In 1908 the assessors each received $600.

In reply to a question the city clerk pointed out that he understood that this year the assessors started preparatory work for making the assessments about the first of February. A good deal of office work had to be done before the field work was commenced. The latter was commenced on the first of May, the date being specified in the statutes of the province. The rolls were returned on the first of October, and then the assessors had some work in connection with the Court of Revision. This year Mr. McGrath looked after the appeals that came before the Court of Revision, so that Mr. Thompson did not have any work to do after the first of October.

Ald. Hicks said the question was whether one or two assessors were to be appointed, and if two were appointed, would the council make both of them permanent appointments. To get the feeling of the committee, Ald. Hicks moved that an assessor and an assistant be appointed.

Ald. Gillespie was in favor of leaving the appointment to the new council. He saw no reason for making the appointment in the last stages of the present council. He wanted to see the salaries of the two incorporated in the motion made by Ald. Hicks.

Ald. Duffus was strongly of the opinion that the council was in a better position to make the appointment at the end of the year than at the beginning.

Ald. Morgan was of the same opinion as Ald. Hicks, namely, that the positions of assessor and assistant assessor should be made permanent appointments. He suggested that the salary of the assessor be $700 and of the assistant $400.

After some discussion, it was decided that Mr. McGrath and Mr. Thompson were the men who should be appointed to the respective positions.

Ald. Hicks said the basis of a proper assessment was uniformity. "We are all pretty well assessed," he said, "but if we are all assessed on an equal basis there is not much room for complaint."

Ald. Duffus said that Mr. McGrath had been assessing for twenty years and had the work down to a science.

There was considerable discussion on the point as to whether both the assessor and assistant should sign the rolls. It was decided that it would be better to make them both responsible. When it come to appeals before the Court of Revision, the opinion of the two would carry more weight than that of one.

"How about the salaries?" Ald. Duffus asked.

"Leave the total amount the same as last year," Ald. Morgan said. "If we increase it the proposition will get a black eye right on the start."

The point was brought out that in Windsor the assessor was paid $800 per year, and he was given $400 more for clerical assistance.

Ald. Duffus said he was satisfied to leave the salaries as had been specified.

The resolution was then put and carried unanimously. A special meeting of the council will be held to take up the report of the committee.

JUDGMENT RESERVED RE THE CHARGE OF ILLEGAL SELLING

A Warm Time at the Police Court During Proceedings To-day. Witness From Lindsay Swore There Was No Liquor Sold — Clash Between Mr. Gordon and P. C. Newhall.

Judgment was reserved till Monday morning in the case of illegal selling of liquor, against the proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, which was resumed at the Police Court this morning. The proceedings were much enlivened by hot shots directed at Chief Rossel and P. C. Newhall by Mr. G. N. Gordon acting for the defence. It was after P. C. Newhall had been recalled by Chief Rossel to identify the witness, Maunder, as the man who had been with Victor Fowler when the liquor was alleged to have been taken from the bar by the proprietor and served that the proceedings became interesting. The Magistrate was allowing the police officer to give his evidence without being first sworn.

Mr. Gordon objected to this being allowed, but the Magistrate overruled on the grounds that the witness had been sworn before during the progress of the same case and that it was not necessary.

I want Newhall sworn again, as I believe in these proceedings, some action is going to be taken, said Mr. Gordon.

P. C. Newhall was willing, but the Magistrate would not hear of it and the officer continued with his evidence, the latter part of which dealt with him notifying P. C. Adams to go out on the street to see if he could identify the man Maunder.

The officer concluded with the words "He will tell you the rest himself," meaning Adams.

"No doubt," said Mr. Gordon, "If he talked it over with you."

"Didn't Adams tell you afterwards that he had met them?"

"Yes he did."

"Didn't you talk to Adams about it?"

"Certainly, why wouldn't we?"

Maunder at this point left the court room and went down stairs. He was called back by the Chief.

He is just gone down to spit, put the preminent figure in the defence.

Witness and Mr. Gordon started again.

"Didn't you swear during the trial that a beer pump had been used," the witness was asked.

"I did not swear that there was a beer pump in the Oriental hotel," he replied.

"What did you say they had?" he was asked.

"I said that they had a pump arrangement. It is there yet and I saw it worked back and forward by the arm of Carroll."

"I intend to prefer a charge of perjury against Newhall," said Mr. Gordon.

THE EVIDENCE.

John T. Maunder, who was brought from Lindsay said:

I arrived at the Oriental hotel on Saturday night about 10.40 and was sitting in the rotunda on Sunday night. Mr. Graham and I were out for a walk and came into the hotel on Sunday night about 10.45, and I remained there till I went to my room at five o'clock in the morning. Graham and I were talking about chickens of the time. I did not get a drink from Graham that night or in the morning and I was not at the bar door during that time. Mr. Graham could not have been in the bar the number of times mentioned by other witnesses. I don't think he was out of the rotunda during the time between eleven and two o'clock. Neither Fowler or I secured liquor from Graham.

To Chief Rossel, witness stated that he and Mr. Graham did not go for a walk, further than the barns on Sunday morning.

Another witness called by Mr. Gordon stated that he was in the rotunda of the hotel between 11.10 and 11.45 on Sunday night. He didn't see any liquors during that time.

P. C. Newhall was recalled by the Chief. He said;—It was Maunder who had got up from the north-west corner of the rotunda at 11.55 and gone to the passageway at the south end of the bar.

Mr. Gordon objected to this evidence being given again but the Magistrate decided against him, and the witness continued. Maunder was the man who was with Graham and Victor Fowler when Graham went to the bar and drew two glasses of beer from the taps. The bar door was left open and the glasses were handed to the two men who stepped back and drank it. Maunder and Graham went out Monday morning about one o'clock and walked down Hunter street to Aylmer. Turning down Aylmer they went in to Mr. McGrath's yard and when they came out, walked down to the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer streets. I ran up to the police station and told P. C. Adams to go out on the street and watch them.

P. C. Adams when called identified Maunder as the man he had seen with Graham after doing as Newhall had told him.

P. C. Meharry was recalled and gave the same evidence as on the previous occasion.

Good Music on Edison Records

Quality and variety are the distinguishing features of the Edison Phonograph Record lists for December. In the four-minute list Sousa's Band is heard in "Manhattan Beach" and "El Capitan" marches (one cylinder); Victor Herbert's Orchestra renders 'Bach's Air;' Herbert L. Clarke, the famous cornetist, offers his solo. "The Bride of the Waves;" Harry Lauder sings three of his most popular numbers; and there are vocal and instrumental offerings by regular and special talent.

As is customary, a feature number is a specially arranged Christmas band selection, introducing a mixed quartette and chorus. There is a similarly arranged number in the two-minute list, in which list Herbert's Orchestra also interprets 'Mendelssohn's Spring Song;' Sousa's Band adds new life to 'The Yankee Shuffle;' Josie Sadler sings 'BL-ND and P.G;' Will Oakland, Manuel Romain, Grace Cameron and the other regular Edison staff of artists are heard in a variety of pleasing selections.

The twenty-eight Grand Opera Records, on sale December 1, are the best efforts of such operatic stars as Florencio Constantino; Leo Slezak, the Austro-German's tenor; Riccardo Martin, the American tenor; Blanche Arral and Adelina Agostinelli, sopranos; M. Duclos, tenor; Louis Nicelly, baritone and Gaston Dubois, tenor. The Italian Amberol Record list is augmented by two numbers and the standard by one.

The J. M. Greene Music Co., Ltd., are representatives for Edison Phonographs and Records. They carry at all times a complete line of machines and their record stock is large and well selected. You should visit their store and hear them. 3d

You put it in your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker, and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. WEDDING BELLS

LITTLE—NORTHEY

On Wednesday evening a very pleasant wedding took place at the home of Mr. James Northey, Queen street, Lakefield, when his daughter, Pearl B., was united in marriage to Mr. Henry A. Little, of Hall's Glen. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Bedford, in the presence of a few of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. They were attended only by Misses Myrtle and Ella Northey, sister and niece of the bride, as pretty little flower girls, while Miss Stella Northey played the wedding march. The bride was given away by her father and was charmingly attired in a beautiful gown of cream eolienne, over silk, embroidered with orange blossoms and pearls, wearing a tulle veil and carrying a shower bouquet of white roses. While congratulations were being extended, Mr. Ira Snelgrove, of St. Thomas, brother of the groom, sang "The Crown," by Rae, after which the wedding supper was served. The bride was the recipient of a large array of beautiful presents, the groom's present being a black Persian lamb coat, and bracelets to the flower girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Little will reside at Hall's Glen, where they will be followed by the best wishes of their many friends.

MacGregor & Reid wish to thank the Fire Brigade and their Chief for the excellent manner in which they controlled the fire on their late premises, George Street and wish to also state to their many friends and customers that they are still carrying on their contracts and any information will be gladly given to prospective customers at their Phone (895)

CASE OF ASSAULT

Accused Was Heavily Fined This Morning—Evidence in the Police Court.

For assaulting Charles Guy on the night of last Monday Samuel Long was fined $29.75 at the police court this morning. The magistrate decided that the accused was guilty of common assault. The amount was paid into court and the complainant will receive one half.

Guy showed the effects of the assault when he appeared in the court this morning. A bandage encircled his head and his face showed many cuts and scratches.

County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution.

COMPLAINANT'S EVIDENCE

Complainant said he was going home on the north side of Hunter street east on Monday night about eleven o'clock. While passing Lipsett's hotel prisoner, who was coming out of the door of the hotel, called him back and asked him if he had a dollar. Witness replied he did not, and then prisoner said that he was no good and then struck him twice. First between the eyes, knocking him down. As he was about to get up, prisoner caught him around the neck and struck him again on the face with his fist. Shortly afterwards he went to the police station.

P. C. Newhall, called, stated that he was in the police station when Guy arrived. He was badly battered up about the face.

The accused's version of the affair was that he was standing outside the Maple Leaf hotel on Monday night when Guy came up and said: "I owe you some money." He replied: "Yes, sir, you do, and if you have any money to spare give me a dollar to-night." Guy replied: "I haven't any to spare, but I paid your wife a dollar some time ago."

Both then became involved in an argument as to the amount given. Guy referred to witness' wife as being a liar.

Witness admitted striking Guy once, but stated that he must have received the injuries by falling. He was not intoxicated.

A witness who was present at the time of the alleged assault, told particulars of the affair with very little variation to the previous witness. He added that Guy was staggering as he came along the street.

Complainant, recalled, stated that he had only had two glasses of beer that night and was not intoxicated. He did not refer to anybody as being a liar.

PERJURY CHARGE

Preferred Against Witness Who Gave Evidence for Defence in Police Court.

Another charge of false swearing has been preferred by Chief Roszel. The accused is Victor Fowler, who gave evidence for the defence in the case against the proprietor of the Oriental Hotel.

At the police court this morning Mr. G. N. Gordon, who represented Fowler, did not plead or elect, when the charge was read by Magistrate Dumble.

The case will be heard on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. Bail to the amount of $500 was demanded and furnished in two sureties of $250 each.

THE TWO MOST WIDELY TALKED OF MARATHONERS

Billy Sherring, the famous Marathoner, is one of the most popular performers that ever donned a shoe and one of the best distance men, too that ever travelled over the 26 mile route. Longboat, who meets him here on Saturday night at the Brock st. rink, has also enjoyed a wide publicity and popularity and the appearance of the two in a ten mile race should be the means of attracting a big crowd.

There will be the usual skating up to 9.30 o'clock and a three mile roller skating race for which there promises to be a big field of entries will be a preliminary to the Longboat-Sherring race.

INJUNCTION RE LOCAL OPTION BY-LAW REFUSED

Chief Justice Meredith yesterday afternoon refused an injunction to restrain the town of Cobourg from proceeding further with a proposed local option by-law. The action was brought by Albert E. Wood, John Breen and Samuel D. Fitzgerald on behalf of themselves and other ratepayers, and they alleged that the petition asking for the submission of the by-law was not signed by the requisite 25 per cent. of bona fide electors, that some "repeaters" should be deducted, and that some withdrawals should be allowed. His Lordship was not satisfied on any of these grounds by the arguments of Mr. F. M. Field, who with Mr. J. F. Keith, appeared for the plaintiffs, thinking it not expedient at this stage to grant the injunction asked for, and without calling upon the Town Solicitor, Mr. H. F. Holland, who, with Mr. A. M. Peterson, defended the action, he dismissed the case, not pronouncing adversely, however, on any of the points argued, so that in the event of the by-law passing the plaintiffs might be unhampered in bringing any action on such grounds. Costs are to defendant in any event.

LINE-UP OF STANLEY CUP-HOLDERS IS COMPLETED

The only player about whom Ottawa had expressed the least doubt, Albert Kerr, who held down the left wing position in redoubtable style last season dropped into town last night from Brockville and signed papers to play again with the Ottawas.

The team can now be said to be complete. Percy Lesueur is a sure thing for the goal position, and Fred Lake and Fred Taylor will hold down the defence positions. Marty Walsh, though he has not yet signed, will be up from Kingston in a day or two, and will sign to play centre. Bruce Stuart is certain for the rover position and Kerr signed last night for the left wing. Bruce Ridpath also forwarded his papers last night.

That makes the team complete, and with an early start at practice, they will be able, in the opinion of the hockey fans, the executive and the team, to hold the Stanley Cup for another season at least.

Kenny Mallen, whose last address was Pittsburg, Penn., is now in the city and will try out with the Stanley Cup holders. Mallen has a great reputation, having made good with the Toronto pros., and the Pittsburg and Calumet teams in the International League. He played on the Pittsburg team, captained by the late Hod Stuart, in 1906, when they won the championship of the International League.—Ottawa League.

THE GAME OF BASKETBALL

AND HOW TO PLAY IT

Basketball is unique in that it is a product of necessity, having been invented about twenty years ago in the Young Men's Christian Association training school, Springfield (Mass.), to supply a definite need for competitive indoor winter work. The game requires speed, skill, aggressiveness, endurance and team work.

The picking of a team depends upon the available material. Every team needs a good centre, who should be rangy and a good jumper, for upon him depends the success of the team. The plays are built around the leaping ability of the centre. If he is a good jumper he can direct the ball to any member of his team on the jump off—an essential factor in the development of team play by signal. This is an advantage because it puts the opposition on the defensive.

On the centre falls the brunt of "chasing" the ball; now helping out the forwards and now the backs. This necessitates of the ideal centre accurate throwing and good guard qualities, as well as jumping ability. These qualities are seldom found in one man so plans are made to overcome the weakness. If the centre is a good jumper and a good back, but not aggressive in following the ball, he changes position immediately after the jump off with a defence man who possesses running and goal throwing abilities. Or, if he is a good goal thrower, the centre may change with one of the forwards, who excels him in running the floor. The change must be made smoothly and quickly, so as not to leave men unguarded. Practice will develop this shift, which may be used to trick the opposition.

Forwards must be quick starters and fast on their feet, so as not to escape from their guards and get the ball on the jump off. When the centre, in response to signal, bats the ball in a certain direction, a forward must be there to get the sphere and he must be able to pass accurately from any position necessary to assume, to escape his guard. At least one forward must be an accurate basket thrower. The other, if the centre can throw baskets, may be used as a "feeder," or, in other words, take the centre's place in running the floor, thus keeping the goal throwers supplied with the ball. In general, the best basket throwers should be chosen as forwards. They must be fast, as speed and the endurance to maintain it for forty minutes without a stop is what wins games.

Backs should be rangy and good jumpers. This makes them valuable in intercepting passes. Height is desirable, providing it does not interfere with speed, because the forward has a harder time breaking away from a tall guard for a try at goal. It is difficult to make a pass over a tall back's head. Of all men on a team, a back must not fumble the ball, for if he be weak in this department his errors may lose games. He is in the opponent's territory most of the time, and fumbles mean chances for baskets by the other fellows. A fast back is desirable for his ability to break up plays by quick rushing and intercepting passes. But a slow, careful back who uses his thinker often shows up well. I think a combination of a fast defence man to break up plays and one who stays back and works defensively most of the time is ideal.

In choosing men their ability for team work must be considered. Often a star is found who cannot master team play. His idea is to get baskets all of the time and to have the other four supply him with the ball. This type must be avoided unless he can be taught to act in concert with the others. For whenever the star is off on his goal-throwing the team is off in the air. Another good quality that must not be overlooked is aggressiveness. A player must not fear a collision, but must not foul wantonly. Aggressiveness, with skill to avoid fouling, cannot be valued too highly. Having selected the team, the next thing is to organise practice so the strong features may be developed and team work like a machine.

RENFREW HAS A LOT OF MONEY FOR PRO. HOCKEY

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—After the most bitter struggle for players that has ever been waged in professional hockey in been waged in professional hockey, the Ottawa Club tonight succeeded in retaining for the coming season the services of Fred Taylor, Fred Lake, Albert Kerr and Marty Walsh, their four star men whom the Renfrew Club tried to lure away.

The Creamery Town sports were backed by such wealthy and influential citizens as James Barnett, M. J. O'Brien, Ambrose O'Brien, Thomas Lowe, M.P., and others determined to get together a team capable of lifting the Stanley Cup. Last week they failed in their efforts to break up the Ottawa septette, but to-day they surpassed all previous marks and came within an ace of getting all four. They offered Kerr and Walsh each $6,000 for two seasons, and Lake and Taylor $5,000 fro one winter, the money to be deposited in the Merchants Bank at Renfrew. They also guaranteed each a situation worth $1,200 per annum. The men were on the verge of signing this morning at a local athletic goods store, when officers of the Ottawas broke in and spoiled Renfrew's big coup.

It is claimed that Taylor, who had given Ottawa his word to play here, wired news to the Ottawa headquarters of what was transpiring, thus letting Ottawa in on it. All day there was a fierce lot of bidding, but Ottawa eventually got them, the terms not being stated. Taylor was the first to cave in, and then Lake, Walsh and Kerr followed suit, when it looked as if Renfrew would get a team. Good positions in the civil service helped the Ottawas a lot. It is said that the Ottawas will give each man $2,000.

The Renfrew magnates left for home night, stating that they would send west for Lester Patrick and others, and that they would also break up some of the Montreal clubs in order to get the best in the market.

The Renfrew Club has $15,000 subscribed towards hockey. They have no hope of getting it back in gate receipts, but are willing to spend any amount in order to capture the Stanley. Money is no object, apparently, with Renfrew, the salaries which they offered Kerr, Lake, Taylor and Walsh to-day being larger in proportion to the work and time required than those received by the National and American Baseball League stars.

NORMAL SCHOOL WON FIRST GAME

Defeated Business College Basketball Team, 11-6

Were you in the crowd last night that saw the basketball game? Well, it was a game played in the good old-fashioned way, and everyone who was was there enjoyed it. It was a little rough in places, but that didn't seem to bother the spectators in the least, in fact they seemed to enjoy it more than the players. Leach, Normal School, scored the first point of the game, and Business College didn't like that a little bit, for they kicked things around. That stirred the Normal School up and up they went and played good basketball for a little while. The first half ended 4—1 in favor of the Normal School.

The second half started, and talk about excitement, well, it was simply great. You could hardly call it basketball, you know. It was half way between basketball and football. The spectators couldn't see where there was any fouling, but the referee saw all kinds of fouls, and he had to call some of them so as to give the players a little rest, or they would be in bed. McKone was the man with the good eye for the basket, and he did some shooting that was appreciated by the spectators. It was a hard fight, and the game ended 11—6 in favor of the Normal School.

The line-up was:

Normal School.		Business Col.
Grenzebach	R. F.	L. Stevens
Leach	L. F.	P. Billington
Lapp	C.	J. McKone
Montgomery	R. G.	L. Derocher
Sills	L. G.	H. Giroux

Officials—
Referee—H. A. McLaughlin.
Timer—Hol. Hall.
Scorer—R. Laing.

Be on hand for the game next Wednesday night.

SPORTING NOTES

One spectator at the six day bicycle race at New York dropped dead from excitement during the progress of a sprint.

A young fellow in Hamilton was fined $20 for assaulting a policeman during a football game on Saturday. The officer was keeping a big crowd in line when his assailant turned on him.

More than one team in the National Hockey Association is going to run up against a double loss in the way of players, by the looks of things at the present time.

The Stanley Cup, were it human, would probably be flattered by the attention being paid to it by the different hockey clubs throughout the country.

Harry Chandler, of Ottawa, has been presented by a number of friends with a bronze medal for his act of saving Harry Shore, the hockey player from being drowned.

Jim Jeffries has had several dreams that he beat Jack Johnson. The next one may be realistic and he may see stars.

Spare players of the Parkdale C.C. smoked cigarettes during the game on Saturday. Probably it will dawn on the minds of these players at a future date if it has not done so already, why they were not on the team.

A number of Peterborough boys at present in Detroit are organizing a hockey team.

Eddie Hiscock, who it was stated recently, would guard the nets for the Ottawa team, will play for Queen's senior seven of Kingston. He has enrolled as a student in the university.

Edmonton looks stronger than any of the other challenging teams. They have a great defence in Winchester, Patrick and Ross and a corking forward line in Whitcroft, Miller, Deeton and Boulton. They may move Ross up to cover, dropping Boulton and using Frank Patrick on the line.

Stratford will be represented in the O.H.A. by three teams, junior, intermediate and senior.

Alf. Gamble, of Port Hope, will guard the nets for the intermediate team of Lindsay this year.

Johnson's theatrical engagement calls for a salary of $3,000 per week and a percentage of the profits.

Port Hope has decided on a junior O.H.A. team, but an intermediate sever is doubtful.

Shrubb has challenged John D. Marsh and Acroose to a 12 mile race, for a $500 side bet, and 75 per cent. of the winners' end of the gate receipts.

HOCKEY

No meeting for the O.H.A. teams has been held yet and Saturday is gradually drawing nearer, there being only three more days before the close of the week. Some body will soon wake up, "when it is too late." Lindsay has the material and why are the teams not formed?—Lindsay Post.

THE RING

Pittsburg, Dec. 8.—Referring to the published interview with Tex Rickard that if the fight be held in Nevada there will likely be reserved seats for 5,000 women. Jeffries said:

"I don't think I would fancy that, nor do I think they mean to do this. This is going to be a fight, and I don't think I would want my wife, mother or sister to be there. They won't be, either, nor do I think those handling the fight will make special provision for the fair ones. It certainly will not be a matinee performance. Let the ladies who think they want to see the fight look at the pictures afterwards. What's the use of talking of Nevada or Utah anyway? California is the place you will see the fight held."

BOB EDGREN TALKS ON THE BIG FIGHT

I. Edgren writing in the New York World says:

The selection of "Big Tim" Sullivan as final stakeholder for the Jeffries-Johnson fight will put the fighters at ease. Nobody around these parts is strong enough to disturb the money while it rests in Big Tim's hands. It'll still be there when the time comes for the distribution after the fight. Moreover, as Big Tim will have to be among those present, it's a sure thing that Big Tim's following in New York will be on the battleground, too, and that means money at the gate.

There is quite a little talk about the referee for the fight, and candidates are cropping up everywhere. If the fight is held in San Francisco, a Californian will surely be selected to referee it. There's no more chance for an Easterner to "butt in" on a great event like this in San Francisco than there would be for a San Francisco referee to "butt in" on a big championship fight in New York.

Should the fight go to Salt Lake City an Eastern man may be chosen to officiate. Charlie White, who is known to be honest and a good judge of fights, looks like the best choice. White has had a lot of experience. I note that Bat Masterson would like the job. Not a chance for Bat. The West had one gun-fighter referee a fight years ago. Remember when Wyatt Earp refereed the Fitzsimmons-Sharkey fight and gave the fight to Sharkey "on a foul," after Fitzsimmons had fairly knocked him out with a solar plexus punch? Well, the West remembers it. I happened, more by accident than design, to stumble upon the inside workings of the Wyatt Earp proposition on the morning after the fight. I happened to hear Wyatt Earp say to ——, but that's another story. Some day I'll write a few interesting details in a "Famous Knockout." It will provide a line on gunfighter referees that will prove mighty entertaining.

I note that Tom O'Rourke, having been chased out of every other corner in New York with his boxing club during the past few years, is to open up Monday night at Sulzer's Harlem Casino, recently the home of a "club" run by the departed William Elmer. No, Elmer's return checks will not be honored. As for O'Rorke, his persistence deserves success. Hope he won't be "chased" again. Sulzer's is a great place to see scraps. O'Rourke's club is still the "National S. C. of America."

Tex Rickard, in explaining his desire to pull off the big fight in Salt Lake City, said:

"The merchants and business men of the place want that fight. I've talked it over with them. There are smelters, for instance, employing tens of thousands of men. I am assured that if the fight is held any other day than the fourth of July, which is a holiday anyhow, the smelters will close down for a day to give the men a chance to see the scrap. All these fellows make good money, and they'd pay good money for seats. The whole city would want to see the fight. While I haven't arranged anything with the Governor, I know that the business men of Salt Lake City will do everything in their power to have the fight come there, and they have a lot of influence."

FOOTBALL WILL BE EXCLUDED

From List of Games in Public Schools of Greater New York

New York, Dec. 8.—After Jan. 1, 1910 football is barred from the public schools of Greater New York. This was decided by resolution at a meeting of the Board of Education to-day, a member of the board and former President and now Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union. He fought hard for the retention of the game and was in favor of referring the matter to a committee on athletics, but he was voted down.

"This board won't trust the Rules Committee which is going to change the rules so as to make the game less dangerous," said Mr. Sullivan, with heat, "but it is to accept the recommendation of men who do not even know the name fo the game which they want to abolish."

Answering Mr. Sullivan, Frederick C. Coudert, a member of the board, told of the fatalities caused by the game during the season just closed, and added: "It is not the intention of of athletics to destroy but to develop physical faculties, and football is destructive. The college which has the largest attendance in the country—Columbia College—two years ago abolished the game. They did not do it without due consideration; experts were called and opinions were gathered, and after careful consideration it was decided to abolish the game,

SIR THOMAS SHAUGHNESSY IN NEW YORK

An Important Declaration --- Was it Inspired?---The Trend of Events.

New York, December 8.—"Canada stands ready to consider any proposals which the United States Government cares to submit looking to the signing of a reciprocity treaty between the two countries. The Dominion will make no advances in this direction, but this does not mean that Ottawa is adverse to a trade protocol looking to the advancement of the commercial relations of the two countries."

This statement was made last night by Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy, of Montreal, who will leave to-day on the Lusitania for a two months' stay in London and Paris.

Sir Thomas discussed trade relations between the United States and Canada; the proposed Dominion navy and the present prosperous business and agricultural conditions of Canada. He said that the relations are becoming more strongly cemented every day, and declared that "we are, in reality, one people with the same interests, although living under supposedly different, yet practically the same, forms of government."

CHRISTMAS TOYS ARE INTERESTING

All Thats Needed to Cheer Childish Hearts on Display

The Christmas toy display of this year has many original ideas, which will greatly please the childish heart. From large firms in the old land come a variety of ideas in the old-fashioned "crackers." Many are worked out in the same designs and pretty colors of a quarter of a century ago, but with the modern touch, introducing "the airship cracker" for instance. The "North Pole" idea is also one of pleasing design and greatly admired by both young and old. The "aeroplane toy," modelled on the kite plan, is shown in all sizes and made in several varieties to please the growing boy. Many local establishments have exhibits of this article: Miniature engines to be run by steam, with all the detail apparatus of belts and wheels, tiny phonographs, up-to-date ideas in military and naval sets, together with tin ships, in all sizes and beautiful colored and equipped form the larger part of the newest and most admired of the Christmas toy.

Duff, B.S.A., of Norwood, the representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in this part of the province.

Chicago In Grip of Storm.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Blinding clouds of snow, accompanied by lower temperature and a 35-mile wind swept over Chicago and surrounding territory yesterday. A laborer was found dead from cold and exposure, and two railroad switchmen, blinded by snow, were run over by engines.

Gave His Life For His Children.

St. Ignace, Mich., Dec. 8.—William McDermott and two of his small children were burned to death Monday night in their home at Carp River. The mother rescued a third child and the father died trying to save the two.

The Trackless Trolley.

The trackless trolley is under discussion in street railroad circles, and it is quite possible it will be tried in the United States in the near future. It originated in France, but is much in use in many parts of the continent. It is used on suburban routes. It is an omnibus run by an electric motor, getting its power from a trolley wire. As it uses no track it does not interfere in the slightest with the operation of other street traffic, and the line can be constructed quickly and cheaply. In places arrangements are made by persons operating private electric vehicles to use the power of the trackless trolley line, and private automobiles with trolley attachment are not a novelty in France.—New Orleans Picayune.

One Farthing's Damages.

Birmingham, Dec. 9.—Damages of one farthing were granted here to the heirs of Richard Cadbury, the millionaire chocolate manufacturer, in their suit for libel against The London Standard. The litigation grew out of charges relative to the use of alleged slave-grown cocoa from the island of St. Thomas, a possession of Portugal off the west coast of Africa.

New French Daily.

New York, Dec. 9.—Announcement is made of the establishment of a new French daily newspaper in New York. It is called Le Progres, and is designed to be a "representative organ of the French-speaking population in America." The first number is scheduled to appear to-day, and on Sundays there is to be an illustrated supplement.

Power From Barge Canal.

New York, Dec. 9.—The barge canal to be built between Lake Erie and the Hudson River, if constructed with a downward slope, could be made to produce $50,000,000 worth of power, said Edward R. Taylor, of Pennyan, N.Y., in a paper before the American Institute of Chemical Engineers here yesterday.

Poisoned Mother by Mistake.

Toledo, Ohio, Dec. 9.—Given carbolic acid by her daughter by mistake for brandy, Mrs. William Tate, ill with tuberculosis, died yesterday before medical aid could reach her.

Caught Feet In Switch.

Strathroy, Dec. 9.—The body of Jake Cutler, aged 70, was found at the east end crossing yesterday. Both legs were cut off and one foot was wedged in a switch.

At Nelson, B. C., a large electric smelter is now at work reducing mixed ores of lead and zinc. The ore is first crushed to the size of wheat grains and then roasted, by which process most of the sulphur is removed. From the roaster the ore goes to the electric furnace, which melts it into slag. The lead, sinking through the slag, passes into a crucible. The zinc takes the gaseous form and is led into condensers, from which it is ladled out into pigs.

Substitute For a Waitress.

It is a delight to be waited upon at the table by one who is deft and watchful and whose presence you feel merely in increased comfort. But if the attempt at waiting is made by a blunderer whose mistakes and intrusions absorb half one's attention then it is better, as they say in some localities, to "do your own reaching." This involves much passing of dishes from one person to another, and if there is any attempt at serving in courses it means that one person must rise and perform part of the duties of a waitress.

Various plans have been tried to substitute some method or mechanical device for waiting at table, but most of them bring the quick lunch counter too forcibly to mind. The most successful one came to my attention recently and is merely a set of shelves inclosed on one side and of the same height as the dining table. It is loaded in the kitchen with the whole meal and all the dishes needed for serving it, then as the affair is on easy rolling casters it is taken into the dining room with very little effort.

The hostess sits at one end of the table, the "waiter" at her side with its open shelves facing her and the back toward the other people. The dishes of one course are removed to a shelf without rising and the items of the next taken out. When the meal is finished the dishes and remnants of food are practically all in the waiter, and in a minute this is rolled into the kitchen, saving numberless steps.

Business and the Housekeeper.

It is a great mistake to suppose that the business woman makes a poor housewife. In many ways her business training stands her in good stead, and she is better equipped for her work than the girl who has spent all her time at home. It would take an ex-business girl surely to discover the comfort of using a typewriter chair at her sewing machine. The fact that it turns on a pivot makes it possible for her to turn to her cutting table without rising, and the fact that it can be adjusted to any height adds to comfort when running the machine.

Perhaps it is typical of the business woman any way that she is not content with old ways when newer and easier ways may be found. More business methods would save many an hour in the home.

Soft Ginger Cookies.

Put a level teaspoonful of soda in a measuring cup, add three tablespoonfuls of boiling water, one-quarter cupful of melted butter or lard, a saltspoonful of salt, a level teaspoonful of ginger and enough sifted pastry flour to make a dough as soft as can be handled. Shape small bits of dough, lay in the greased baking pan and press out half an inch thick. Bake carefully.

Three Fined $100 and Costs.

Welland, Dec. 9.—Reuben Upper, a licensed hotelkeeper at Allanburg, was fined $100 and costs for selling liquor on Sunday. It was his second offence. Fred Lanzi, an Italian of Welland, was fined $100 and $14.85 costs, and George Vasilivici, a Pole, was fined $100 and $16.10 costs for selling liquor without a license. They are both from the steel plant district.

Martial Law In Honduras.

Porto Cortez, Honduras, Dec. 9.—Martial law in Honduras was proclaimed Tuesday. A state of expectancy exists.

The proclamation is the result of a suspicion at the capital that General Manuel Bonilla will take advantage of the situation in Nicaragua to invade Honduras with a rebel band and regain the Presidency.

Carrie Nation Breaks Loose Again.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, who came here to keep her eye on Congress, went into the buffet of the Union Station yesterday afternoon and taking out her hatchet wielded it indiscriminately, smashing about $50 worth of bottled whiskies. She was at once arrested.

Every Bone Broken.

Fort William, Dec. 9.—While apparently oiling the main shaft at the C.P.R. coal dock plant, Fred Pattilli was drawn into the fly wheel and crushed to death, practically every bone in his body being broken.

Not Guilty of Graft.

Boston, Dec. 9.—Thirty-three American steel firms and individual agents for steel companies were found guilty of collusive bidding for city steel contracts in the Superior Court yesterday, after eleven weeks' trial.

Conmee Tells Names.

Port Arthur, Dec. 9.—Appearing before the City Council yesterday in support of his power proposition, Jas. Conmee gave the names of the principals in Ontario and Michigan Power Co. Those not hitherto made known are, J. C. Hunter of Duluth, Herman Finger of Port Arthur, D. C. Cameron and J. T. McArthur, of Winnipeg, and Mr. Sturgess of the Continental Loan Co., New York.

Temperance Candidate Likely.

Orangeville, Dec. 9.—A convention of the temperance and independent electors of the riding of Dufferin has been called for Dec. 14, when a candidate may be named to contest the bye-election. The Liberals are not expected to enter the contest.

Typhoid Epidemic In Montreal.

Montreal, Dec. 9.—There are 193 typhoid cases in the five city hospitals, and a great many cases cannot secure admission.

At Lockport, N.Y., a 5 cent theatre was allowed to run on Sunday for the first time in the history of the city.

THE SUPREME TEST.

What the Lovely Maiden Feared the Most.

"Stillingia," said the young man, his voice tremulous with suppressed emotion, "are you going to put me on the puzzle? Is this where I get off?"

Unshed tears were in the lovely maiden's eyes. If she had shed them they would not have been in her eyes. But let that pass.

"I have not said so, Geoffrey," reluctantly she answered, "in so many words. But"—

"Listen, Stillingia," he burst forth impetuously. "Is there any other guy that's got the inside track? Am I playing second fiddle to some snoozer with plastered hair, an ingrowing chin and a pull at the bank? If so"—

"No, Geoffrey, but"—

"Then why the Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego are you stalling me off? I may not be a pampered child of fashion, but I'm on the dead lev. I've never been caught with the goods. Girlie, ever since I was a kid you've been my one best bet, and you know it. I'm Old Faithful from Kleengourville. I've trailed along in your wake like a night police reporter on the track of a lovely holdup or a bug collector after a gorgeous butterfly. All my life I've been building bungalows in the air for you to move into some day. I'd rather look at your tintype than to eat four square meals. You are the niftiest, peachiest dream that ever"—

"Geoffrey," interrupted the beautiful girl, standing erect before him, pale but calm and resolute, "I know you love me, and I am touched as never before by your devotion, but somethin seems to tell me that we are not true mated"—

Here her voice faltered.

"Geoffrey," she said, recovering herself, "we must not make a mistake that will wreck our whole lives! I must ask you one question."

"Well?"

"Which side do you take in the north pole controversy?"—Chicago Tribune.

"Cheesty says that his boy is wonderfully smart."

"Yes, but Cheesty ought to know better than to build any experience on that. I can remember when Cheesty's father said the same thing about him."

Such a Mean Trick.

"Come home with me to dinner tonight, Gormley."

"Delighted."

"I want you to hear my youngest daughter play the piano."

"By Jove, I'm awfully sorry, old chap, but I have forgotten a most important engagement. Some other night, dear boy."

"Sorry about the engagement, Gormley. The fact is, I have neither a youngest daughter nor a piano."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

That is what early Christmas shopping is—a measure of mercy.

It is a measure of mercy to the over burdened servants of the public behind the shop customers. There is just about as much Christmas shopping to be done, and every bit of it that is done before the rush of the last few days is that much relief for the saleswomen and salesmen. It is that much less to be done in those terrible last days of the Christmas shopping season when nerves are worn to the breaking point, and when aching heads and weary hands and tired feet do their best to meet the demands of an eager and insatiable and thoughtless public. That early shopping tends to relieve the pressure of that awful last week is reason enough for it, but there are other and more selfish reasons.

It is a measure of mercy to yourself. Buying now, you get the pick of the stock, you have less competition for the attention and assistance of the clerks; you are crowded less and hurried less; you shop more comfortably and to better advantage.

Buying just before Christmas you get what wiser shoppers have left for you; you necessarily get less attention from the clerks because there are thousands of others pressing for their services; you submit yourself to a jam on the streets and in the shops; shopping then is a burden and a care and a dread; shopping now is a leisurely and comfortable pleasure.

The arguments are old, but they are always good. There is every reason for shopping now; no reason whatever for shopping at the last moment. As a measure of mercy to the people in the shops and to yourself, do your buying now.

AUSTRALASIA PLANS FOR ONE GREAT BRITISH IMPERIAL NAVY

Official Report of What Australia and New Zealand Intend to Do Has Just Come to Hand—Each of These Countries to Furnish a "Fleet-unit"—The Principle of Federation Thus Recognized.

The official British report of the Imperial Defence Conference has been received. It contains the correspondence between Great Britain and Australia and New Zealand which was not contained in the Canadian blue book.

It was provisionally arranged that Australia should provide a fleet unit to consist of:—

1. Armored Cruiser (New Indomitable type.)
3 Unarmoured Cruisers (Bristol class.)
6 Destroyers (River class.)
3 Submarines (C Class.)

These vessels are to be manned as far as possible by Australian officers and seamen. The numbers required to make up the full complement for immediate purpose should be sent by the Royal Navy. In peace time and while on the Australian station this fleet unit would be under the exclusive control of the Commonwealth government as regards their movements and general administration, but officers and men should be governed by regulations similar to the King's regulations, and be under naval discipline, and when with vessels of the Royal Navy, the senior officers should take command of the whole.

FINANCIAL PLANS.

The Australian fleet unit should form part of the Eastern fleet of the Empire to be composed of similar units of the Royal Navy to be known as the China and East Indies units respectively and the Australian unit. The initial cost of such a unit is placed at £3,000,000. The annual cost inclusive of all charges would be £600,000, and a further additional sum would have to be added in view of the higher rates of pay, etc., in Australia, making an estimated total of £750,000. Until such time as the Commonwealth take over the whole cost, the Imperial Government assist Australian government with an annual contribution of £250,000.

New Zealand's proposal is contained in letter from Sir Joseph Ward, in which he says, while discussing the fleet unit question. "If Canada found herself able also to come into this agreement, her contribution to the Pacific station would be a fourth unit."

ONE GREAT NAVY

"I favor," he continued, "one great Imperial navy, with all the overseas dominions contributing, either in ships or money, and with naval stations at the self-governing dominions supplied with ships by and under control of the Admiralty. I, however, realise the difficulties and recognise that Australia and Canada in this important matter are doing that which their respective governments consider to be best, but the fact remains that the alterations that will be brought about upon the establishment of an Australian unit will alter the present position with New Zealand."

Recognizing that New Zealand's interests will be represented by the Australian fleet unit, Sir Joseph says that while the most friendly feeling exists between the two countries, some provision should be made to have the direct contribution of New Zealand to the British Navy maintained in some concrete form. New Zealand will supply a Dreadnought to the British Navy, the ship to be under the complete control of the Admiralty. He considers it satisfactory that it is to be the flagship of the China-Pacific unit, and adds the opinion that a portion of that unit should remain in New Zealand waters. "I fully realise," he says, "that the creation of specific units, one in the East, one in Australia, and if possible, one in Canada, would be a great improvement upon the existing condition of affairs."

He desires to see the vessels stationed in New Zealand waters, manned by New Zealanders, but local rates of pay should be given them. He suggests that on completion of the China unit, the present agreement with New Zealand should cease, that a contribution of £100,000 per annum should continue and be used to pay the difference in the rates of pay to New Zealanders above which would be the British rate, any balance to be at the disposal of the Admiralty.

Mr. McKenna in reply says that the suggestions of New Zealand have been concurred in by the Admiralty.

MRS. JAMES ATCHISON.

Mrs. James Atchison, a former resident of Peterborough, passed away at her home at Bobcaygeon last night. She was sixty-one years of age and had only been ill for two weeks, pneumonia and pleurisy being the cause of death. Mrs. Atchison was a native of Ireland and had resided in Bobcaygeon for the past twenty years, moving there from Peterborough. Her husband predeceased her three years ago. She is survived by two sons and one daughter. The sons are William West, of Peterborough, and Michael James Atchison, of Kinmount, and the daughter is Miss Maud Atchison, of Bobcaygeon. Miss Maggie Lowery, of this city, is a sister.

The funeral will take place from the C.P.R. station to-morrow morning on the arrival of the 11.26 train, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

RUPTURE

Its Danger---Its Treatment.

How many are suffering from a rupture and yet fail to properly treat themselves!

They, in fact, believe that a rupture is a disease without gravity.

Unfortunately, THEY ARE MISTAKEN! And, too often, terrible accidents occur, sometimes causing death.

Rupture is in fact, one of the most DANGEROUS infirmities known.

Not to mention the annoyance and the inconveniences it creates and of the pains it frequently causes, two grave dangers are to be guarded against.

If the rupture is not maintained, or WRONGLY MAINTAINED, which is just as bad, it will most CERTAINLY increase slowly or suddenly, until it reaches FEARFUL proportions.

Then, it will mean for the patient an impossibility to work and even to move, it will make all his body weak and if he is young he will become as an old person or an invalid.

The other danger is more terrible yet: in an unexpected manner and without any warning, the rupture is pinched and it strangles; the digestion is suddenly blocked and it means fearful death within 24 hours.

It is thus extremely imprudent to neglect a rupture because it means at any moment the danger of sudden death.

Unfortunately it is not with the usual trade trusses that one may be protected; it often occurs, on the contrary, that these apparatus do more harm than good.

It is only by a perfected scientific system that one may be made free from all fear and insure life and health.

So, I cannot too strongly recommend to my readers the method and the apparatus of Mr. A. Claverie, the world renowned specialist, who, upon the numerous requests received from patients and doctors of this country has decided to send us his son to benefit the Canadians suffering from Rupture with the marvellous advantages of his system.

Hundreds of thousands of patients who were leading a miserable life of pain and fear have recovered strength, youth, quietude by using the Claverie system.

It is thus a rare chance which all ruptured people of this district will eagerly grasp, by going an[illegible]

He will receive from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

WRAP YOUR GIFTS DAINTILY

Make Your Gifts Attractive—Use Holly Cards, Tags and Seals

A large amount of pleasure in receiving a Christmas gift lies in the manner in which the gift is wrapped. If the parcel is daintily tied up, decorated with pretty holly seals and has a pretty card enclosed conveying the best wishes of the donor, the anticipation is sure to be greater than if the parcel is roughly tied in a careless manner, in perhaps, used wrappings.

So if you would have your gifts appreciated to the highest extent, see that they are wrapped up as nicely as possible. First you will need to supply yourself with some clear white paper; than you need some fancy cards, either small or large, in keeping with the gift; then some fancy tags for the outside and these may be had in two or three sizes and designs. After the parcel is tied up, a Christmas stamp may be put in one corner, and the openings sealed with holly seals, of which there are several designs.

If you do this your parcel will look very much nicer and the recipient of it is sure to enjoy receiving it much more. All these materials may be bought at the Review Office, and really are not expensive. Call and secure some of them before the supply is disposed of.

ALPHONSO VERVILLE'S MEASURE WAS REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

Members of Commons go Warily on Labor Representative's Proposed Bill to Reduce Working Day of Government Labor.

Ottawa, Dec. 10.—Mr. Verville's bill to enforce an eight-hour day on all kinds of Government work and supplies came up for second reading in the Commons yesterday. He made a strong appeal to the Minister of Labor to support the bill.

Claude Macdonnel remarked that Mr. Verville had introduced the bill first on Dec. 11, 1906, when it was read a first and last time. He introduced it a second time on Feb. 14, 1908, when it was read a first time, but he did not attempt to get it any further. A third time Mr. Verville introduced his bill on April 21, 1909, but when it came up for second reading, he moved that it be discharged from the order paper in order to give him an opportunity to discuss the question in another way.

Mr. Macdonnel contended that under this bill, Government contractors could not hope to compete with factories in which more than eight hours a day was the vogue.

Dr. Edwards said it was impossible to have an eight-hour day on the farm, and they should consider what effect this legislation would have on workers generally.

Hugh Guthrie regarded an experiment of this kind on public works property, so called, as a good policy, but he thought the House should have the fullest information before committing itself to the strict terms of the bill.

Hon. Mackenzie King thought the House could not consider too carefully whether the bill would do what the mover said it would do. He reviewed the history of the dealings of the Government with labor men, and said that the House should have fuller information before committing itself to a proposal which was not quite clear.

He hoped the bill would not go to the cemetery, and to avoid that fate suggested that it be referred to a select committee.

The Minister got into grips with Col. Sam Hughes, who resented an insinuation that he had failed to draw the attention of the House to the grievances of workmen in his constituency. Col. Hughes pointed out that he had done so, but thought even that was unnecessary, in view of the number of fair wage officers the Department of Labor employed.

Major Beattie said he had a great deal of sympathy with the bill, but he failed to see how workmen generally could find any relief from it in its present form. The bill might be amended to suit workmen all over the country. He said he was prepared to support any measure which would bring relief to the work people of this country.

C. A. McGrath supported the bill on the grounds of health and the help it would give towards doing away with unemployment. He was ready to lose a few dividends, if that were necessary in order to accomplish this good object.

A. B. Crosby warmly supported the bill and declared the measure was here to stay. It ought to be sent to a committee of the House without any lawyers upon it. They would soon get it into working order.

Ralph Smith described the bill as impossible. He would support any principle of an eight-hour day which would bring equality, but it was impossible for some men to do their best work during longer hours than seven or eight, while other men required longer. Trade unions, he remarked, had done more for the reduction of hours than anything else.

G. H. Cowan, Vancouver, came out as an eight-hour day man, and condemned both the Minister of Labor and Ralph Smith, for attempting to shelve the question and refer it to a committee. He asked Mr. Verville to challenge the courage of the members by forcing the second reading of his bill to a vote.

G. H. Barnard, Victoria, B.C., declared himself a supporter of the bill.

R. L. Borden said that the most important measure ever passed in the the interests of labor in Canada was passed by Sir John A. Macdonald; but for this law, men who went on strike would be criminals in the eyes of the law. He said that the Government to-day was acting in exactly the reverse from what it had in 1907. He had asked at that time that all matters touching disputes between employers and employes should be referred to a committee, for it was only fair that both sides should have been heard before legislation should have been dealt with by the Parliament. However, the Government at that time replied that it had all information. Even Ralph Smith had veered round and had voted against him then. Now, however, he found him proposing the same policy.

Mr. King replied that if any member introduced any measure which would make possible an eight-hour day he would support it.

Mr. Meighen remarked that the extreme capaciousness of his "ifs" was a feature of his addresses. The Minister was already vieing with the Minister of Public Works as the "jollier" of this generation. He asked Mr. King to state definitely if he was prepared to adopt the eight-hour day labor in Government work.

Amid cries of "Question" the Speaker rose, the committee was declared appointed and the House passed on to the consideration of Mr. Macdonnel's bill to amend the Elections Act.

STRIKING MINERS ARE DESPERATE

Cold Weather Drives Them to Violence Against Strike Breakers.

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 10.—Trouble is brewing in the colliery districts of Cape Breton, where for the past five months two thousand U.M.W. miners have been out on strike, demanding recognition from the Dominion Coal Co.

Daily disturbances occur and with the approach of winter weather serious results seem imminent.

While driving home yesterday Angus McLean, a miner at No. 3 pit, narrowly escaped losing his life. He was sitting in a wagon with two other men when a shot was fired from the side of the road, which struck McLean on the side of the head, inflicting a serious wound.

There was a disturbance at Dominion Colliery yesterday morning, when a crowd of about 300 strikers assembled at the gates and with sticks in their hands threatened the men as they went in to work.

The coal company and the town police were there in force and there is little doubt that had it not been for their presence there might have been bloodshed.

It appears as if the strikers are desperate, as the strike continues to drag along through the cold weather, and are making a last effort to persuade the men who are still at work to come out with them in order to effectually tie up the company.

CONFLAGRATION IN WINNIPEG

A Furniture Factory and Warehouse Completely Gutted—A $100,000 Fire.

Winnipeg, Dec. 10.—Fire which started at 1.20 p.m. yesterday afternoon, completely gutted the furniture factory and warehouse, a six-storey building, of W. B. Sterling Co., at Fort and Graham streets, causing loss of about $100,000.

Smoke and water loss also damaged the Leslie Furniture Co.'s warehouse, and several retail stores facing on Main street, Smith and Bruce, architects, and Martel and Shewan, liquor dealers, tenants on the ground floor also suffered losses.

The insurance is $60,000 on building, and $15,000 on the Sterling stock.

The fire started in the fifth floor, and rapidly spread to the sixth floor, with a strong wind blowing and the temperature at 30 below zero, only the torrent of water from the high pressure system stopped the conflagration.

"A colder spell than ever was before known in December," was comment of one old-timer yesterday. Certainly temperatures have been extraordinary low in this province during the past twenty-four hours.

Brandon reports a minimum of forty-five below, and prospects are for another very cold night.

This unusual cold snap follows the unprecedentedly heavy snow fall for this time of the year, and a month of November unique for mildness.

BREAD CHEAPER IN ENGLAND

Chicago, Dec. 10.—Cost of bread in Chicago has proved a puzzle to J. R. Cahill, an investigator for the labor department of the Board of Trade of England.

"I can't understand," says he "how we can buy bread in England for one-third the price you pay in Chicago, when you send us our wheat. You have to pay five cents for four ounces of bread, while we get a loaf weighing sixty-four ounces for ten cents. Our four pound loaf never costs more than twelve cents and usually only ten cents."

POET WATSON MAKES DENIAL

New York, Dec. 10.—The poet Watson gave out the following statement yesterday:

"I have never in my life asked Miss Asquith or her father for either title or pension. The only thing I ever asked her father to do was to bestow a pension upon the unfortunate widow of John Davidson, the poet, who was left in wretched circumstances. Mr. Asquith wrote saying it could not be done, but that he would send her $500 from the royal bounty fund. He did so."

Dr. Torp Declares That He Does Not Believe Latest Traducer of Dr. Fred A. Cook, But Committee is Willing to Examine Statements.

Copenhagen, Dec. 10.—Dr. Torp, rector of the University of Copenhagen, said last night that the charges published yesterday in The New York Times against Dr. Frederick A. Cook, are based on pure fiction. Nevertheless, he added, we would accept the offer to examine the documents prepared by Loose and Dunkle, which The Times has agreed to send to Copenhagen.

Walter Lonsdale, secretary to Dr. Cook, who brought the explorer's records to Copenhagen, said that the papers delivered to the university contained the original observations made by Dr. Cook during the expedition, without alterations.

Loose and Dunkle, Mr. Lonsdale added, were guests at the Waldorf-Astoria during Dr. Cook's stay there, but the explorer's acquaintance with them was slight.

The committee which will examine Dr. Cook's records is composed of the following: President, Prof. Elis Stromgen, director of the astronomical observatory; Dr. C. F. Pechule, astronomer attached to the observatory; Gustav Holm, explorer; Prof. A. B. Yensen, president of the school of navigation; Dr. Royder, director of the meteorological office, and Dr. F. A. Engstrom, director of the Lundok Observatory.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook's personal lawyer, Henry Wellington Wack, has severed relations with his client. Mr. Wack refused last night to confirm or deny his withdrawal, but it can be affirmed on competent authority that Mr. Wack wrote Dr. Cook so long ago as Nov. 30, that he must beg him to seek legal advice elsewhere.

Mr. Wack said last night that he had no idea where Dr. Cook is, but personally was inclined to believe he is abroad.

Owing to the almost complete abolition of toll gates in Frontenac the County Council intends to take further steps to have the city of Kingston do away with its market tolls.

A member of the senior class at the Royal Military College, has been suspended for three months, for having returned to the college in the early hours of the morning in a bibulistic condition and precipitated a merry row.

The naval defence bill providing for the financing of the Dreadnought offer and New Zealand's contribution to the British navy, has been passed through all the stages of the House. The representatives' third reading was carried without division.

Thomas White, a well-known Yarmouth farmer, aged 66, was instantly killed at Sparta yesterday afternoon. He was working at an engine in Cole's sawmill, when he came in contact with a fly wheel and was drawn in. The body was badly mangled.

Henry F. Heenan, forty-four years of age, and employed as cashier in the Dominion Fire Insurance Co.'s office in Toronto, drank carbolic acid yesterday and died after being admitted to the hospital. Heenan was two thousand dollars' short in his accounts and a warrant had been issued for his arrest.

WAS EXPELLED FROM SAXONY

Freiberg, Saxony, Dec. 10.—Because Stuart Scott of Toronto, Can., struck back when a peasant assaulted him while he was picking cherries along a country road, he has been served with the following notice:

"The police hereby decree your expulsion from the Kingdom of Saxony, because you inflicted bodily injuries upon a peasant. We expressly considered your brutality of mind as manifested in your deeds, which rendered you obnoxious. Moreover, as a foreigner, you have no right to sojourn in the Kingdom of Saxony.

"You are therefore required, under pain of 14 days' imprisonment, to leave the Kingdom of Saxony not later than Dec. 18, and never to return."

Scott is a graduate of the School of Practical Science and a son of G. S. Scott, formerly commercial editor of The Toronto Globe, now a customs official for the Dominion Government in New York City. He is in Germany studying forestry methods.

FIVE DROWNED WHEN THE "RICHARDSON" FOUNDERED

S.S. Clarion Sinks off Point Pelee and Two Are Known to be Dead, While Thirteen Are Missing—Terrible Gale Rages on Lake Erie.

Buffalo, Dec. 10.—In the wintry gale that has swept Lake Erie, for 24 hours, the big freighter W. C. Richardson of Cleveland, bound from Duluth to Buffalo, with a cargo of flaxseed foundered early yesterday when she was within half a mile of the harbor entrance.

Five of the crew perished. The remainder numbering fourteen were rescued from the wreck by the crew of the propeller, Wm. A. Paine, which had anchored on the Waverley shoals, just off the west breakwater, an hour before the Richardson sank.

Last night the Paine is still riding at anchor in the heavy seas, and the rescued men are all on board. She will be unable to enter the harbor until the storm abates.

The only communication established with the Paine yesterday was by Capt. Farrell of the tug Mason. Circling around the anchored vessel, he learned that Chief Engineer S. E. Mayberry, Second Mate E. J. Clary, and three deckhands or firemen had lost their lives.

The cause of the wreck can only be surmised until Capt. Burke is brought ashore, but it is believed that while he was trying to swing her around at anchor, to ride out the storm, her cargo shifted causing her to list so badly that she was swamped. Her prow and one funnel show above water.

The insurance on the Richardson, amounting to $250,000 expired at noon to-day. The cargo valued at $400,000 was fully insured.

Two Dead; Thirteen Missing

Cleveland, O., Dec. 10.—Two men lost their lives and the fate of thirteen others is unknown, as a result of the burning of the steamer Clarion, near Point Pelee, in Lake Erie, early yesterday.

Six members of the crew were taken from the Clarion by the steamer L. C. Hanna, and brought here, and then rushed by train to the Buffalo headquarters of the Anchor Line [illegible] the owner of the Clarion.

According to the hurried tale all attempted to leave the Clarion, as soon as it was ascertained that she could not be saved.

Capt. E. J. Bell of Ogdensburg, N.Y., and twelve other members of the crew took to the lifeboat. They left without food and it is feared that they may either starve or freeze to death before rescued, even if they escape being drowned, for high seas are running on the lake.

One of the crew fell overboard when attempting to enter the lifeboat, but was later pulled out of the water and put in the lifeboat.

The mate was frozen to death after he had been overcome by smoke and exposure. An effort was made by the six men who stayed on board to enter another life boat, but it eluded them. One sailor fell overboard and was drowned in his efforts to reach the boat.

The Clarion was a 1,700 ton steel freighter. She was bound from Detroit to Erie, Pa., to lay up.

Lake Superior In Fury.

Port Arthur, Dec. 10.—All rigors, hardships and dangers of winter navigation are being encountered by the few boats on Lake Superior. The extraordinary cold and gales causes banks of vapor to rise from the water, adding fog to the navigators' difficulties.

Boats entering the harbor are covered inches deep in ice. The Caronia of the Northern Navigation Co. left midnight for Sarnia, but returned yesterday to await more favorable weather.

Capt. Wright states the seas rolling on the lake are terrible, beyond description.

The waves swept even over the hurricane decks, leaving layers of ice.

Among boats expected from the east are Ames, Huronic, Wahcondah and Neepawah.

DISTANCE DANCE WAS STOPPED

Butte Authorities Objected to the Waltz Marathon.

Butte, Mont., Dec. 10.—After dancing continuously for 14 hours and 1 minute without nourishment, the last of the 63 couples that started Wednesday night in a Marathon waltz contest to see which pair could waltz the longest, were stopped yesterday by Mayor Charles H. Nevin, on advice of physicians.

Six of the women contestants at the end of several hours, were taken to a hospital, one suffering from a ruptured blood vessel and another of muscular paralysis. All but two pairs had ceased the waltzing long before officers interfered.

These women presented a fearful sight during the last hours of the dancing, with their eyes bloodshot and their bodies swaying. Their male companions were barely able to keep their feet.

Nearly 500 spectators crowded the hall where the contest took place.

FORCIBLE FEEDING IS LEGITIMATE

London, Dec. 10.—The suffragettes' cause received a hard blow yesterday when Lord Chief Justice Alverstone, in the King's bench court, dismissed the damage suit of Mrs. Marie Leigh, a leading suffragette, against Home Secretary Herbert Gladstone, who issued the order for the forcible feeding of the defendant and other suffragettes who were imprisoned in the Birmingham Jail.

The justice declares that the crown officials are not only entitled to use whatever means may be necessary to protect the lives of prisoners, but that it is their duty to do so.

THROW DOWN FOR NELSON, B.C.

Nelson, B.C., Dec. 10.—William Whyte, second vice-president, is reported to have approved of Balfour, opposite Proctor, as a site for the new C.P.R. tourist hotel in Kootenay. Construction will commence early in the spring. Balfour is 22 miles from Nelson, where it is regarded as a breach of faith the city having an understanding with the railway company that the hotel was to be in or near Nelson, in return for concessions made by the city.

Half Million For Yale.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 10.—By the will of the late Charles H. Farnam, jr., filed in the Probate Court here yesterday, an estate estimated at about half a million dollars is left to Yale University to be used for buildings for the Sheffield Scientific School.

THE APPLE MEN HELD MEETING

Toronto, Dec. 10.—Ontario Apple Shippers' Association has elected the following officers: President, Samuel Nesbitt, Brighton; secretary-treasurer, W. Montgomery, Brighton; executive, D. C. Matthews, Colborne; E. McHenry, Oshawa; J. C. Smith, Burlington; H. W. Thorpe, Toronto; J. E. Johnston, Simcoe; J. J. Mitchell, Thornbury; M. Snetsinger, Thornbury; Elmer Lick, Oshawa.

A resolution was adopted to memorialise the Government to negotiate for the removal of the German duty on apples.

The inspection of apples by more than one inspector at different points in the course of shipment was the subject of another resolution. The shippers want the first inspection to be final, and to have a certificate issued when a shipment is passed. The matter will be taken up with the Government.

About 150 shippers were present at the meeting from all part of Ontario, representing practically the whole output of the province.

HORSE BREEDERS BANQUETTED

Guelph, Dec. 10.—President Creelman was chairman of a banquet given by the Fat Stock Club, Guelph City, and the Board of Trade to the horse-breeders on their first visit to Guelph.

In proposing a toast to The King, he told of his visit to the King's farms at Windsor and having seen His Majesty personally handle and describe all the good points of the cattle there.

Joseph Downey, M.P.P., proposed a toast to the Horse Breeders. William Smith, ex-M.P., replied. He was proud of this banquet, because it was the result of a settled home being made for the horse breeders. Toronto had had her chances, but had thrown them down and so the show had to go elsewhere.

The time had come when stallion registration and control should be instituted by the Government. When $1,000 can be got for a team as today, it was time to advance the horse interests in Ontario.

THE CONVENTION OF 1910

The Conservative party in this district, and we think that we are pretty safe in saying in all districts, will not stand for the Convention of 1910's falling again into the hands of "the gang." By "the gang" is meant that body of alleged Conservative politicians who seek their own advancement and prosperity first and that of the party at large next, as a means to an end, and of the country last and just so long as it affords a field for their operations. These few words describe the corresponding "gang" in the Liberal party also who throw in their lot with their brother gay cats of the Conservative party for the mutual benefit and reward of both gangs. This is really a development of recent years. It existed, we all know, to a certain extent before but never on the broad and generous scale of the present. The public is not deceived, however. Neither is the party, if we can judge by what the rank and file say. If it were not for the men at the head who retain the confidence of the party and therefore are kindly permitted to retain their positions by their supporters in parliament aforesaid, the parties would have disrupted long ago. The Convention of 1910 will do well to see to it that none of this lot of assistants is appointed to represent the party at large. It will not stand for it. If the next general election is to be won, this is an absolute necessity. The party, the workers, and the public demand it.

THE GLOBE'S LOGIC

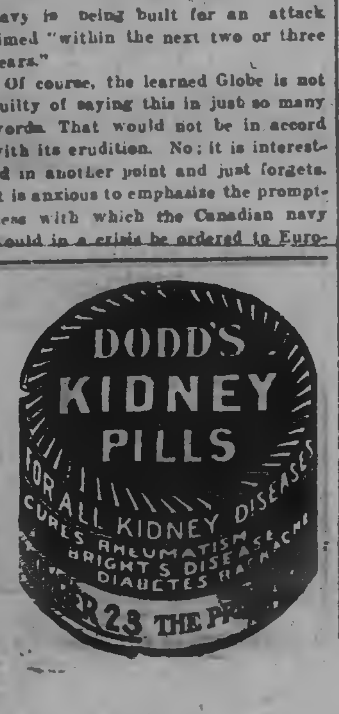
The Montreal Star.

The Globe is still worrying over the illogicality of its attitude on the navy. In an editorial under the caption "Molehill Mountains" it makes another effort to mend its logic and succeeds in making itself still more patently illogical.

It starts off by saying that "those who urge a monetary contribution towards the British navy does so on the assumption that an immediate attack on Britain, or an attack within the next two or three years, is contemplated." Then it goes on in reverend editorial language, to add: "In such case the nation would feel like exclaiming with Melchisidec that the Lord 'had delivered the enemy into their hands.'" And so, having emphatically declared its faith—and backed it up by fitting Biblical allusion—the erudite, but troubled, editor, straightway forgets what he hath said; and for the purpose of proving another point forthwith calls attention to the assertions of Messrs. Asquith, McKenna and Balfour, that the German navy is being built for an attack timed "within the next two or three years."

Of course, the learned Globe is not guilty of saying this in just so many words. That would not be in accord with its erudition. No; it is interested in another point and just forgets. It is anxious to emphasize the promptness with which the Canadian navy would in a crisis be ordered to European waters, and it cites as the readiest instance to hand, the occasion last summer "when the Premier of Great Britain expressed his sense of the gravity of the international outlook." Strangely enough the erudite editor forgets that it was just the expectation of a German naval attack "within the next two or three years" which constituted "the gravity of the international outlook," to which the Globe so deliciously calls attention.

If a word of advice, humbly offered, would be accepted in so high a quarter, we would mildly suggest that the reverend editor had better give up this logic-mending as a bad job. The trouble is that the Globe's position is logically indefensible. The very blue book, brought down by the Government at Ottawa, shows that the naval experts of the Empire are convinced that it is sheer strategic foolishness to attempt to defend the Empire by scattering small Colonial navies all over the world. As for Globe's idea that the Canadian navy will be built in time to take part in the Armageddon in the North Sea, that is so absurd an argument that it never occurred to the Lords of the Admiralty. If the Kaiser waits to challenge the British Empire until the Colonial navies can be completed, he might as well never have laid down a dreadnought keel for his opportunity will be gone past recall.



SOCIALISM

The following is interesting because it is a statement of Socialism proper;—

"How is this done? The privileged classes have possessed themselves of that which they have never earned. Here are four points at issue between modern industrialism and socialism. (1) Land is privately owned and administered for private profit. Socialism would nationalize it and use it for the benefit of all. (2) Machinery is privately owned and run for private profit: Socialism would have the people own it for their own benefit. (3) Labor has to sell itself to whoever owns the land or the machinery: Socialism would have labor work for itself and get the full product of its labor, after cost of production, distribution, etc. (4) At present the products of human labor are the gambling pawns of the world: Socialism would sweep this out of existence and use all products of labor for human needs."—Rev. F. Stitt Wilson.

Much of what is here stated is true. The capitalist (not the capitalist-employer) that is the man who deals in loans and regulates the money-market, rules the world with a rod of gold. The lust of great fortunes is as the scripture say, the root of all evil. It is especially and chiefly an instrument of absolute power. No man is so calculating and callous as the man whose nature is dominated by the love of money. He makes the earth a veritable place of torment for the masses. He does some good, for every such man also has a hobby. But the business of his life is amassing riches, and it is largely done by taking the legitimate earnings of others. Sometimes, as in Standard Oil, it is done in the name of benevolence! The hook-worm is regarded as more serious than the white slave traffic by such a Co. Arguments fail where the mind is irredeemably possessed. Socialism is the result. It would reduce the present undue personal privilege to a condition of the socialist's idea of liberty, which is no liberty at all. True Socialism, that is State Socialism, means the rule of a majority without regard to the old order where principles were analysed in connection therewith.

The workmen would be the first to suffer. Socialism is state-wide Tammany rule. Perhaps occasionally, a man at the head might be the ideal "benevolent despot," but as a rule the condition of mankind would be that of slavery. Everything that directly or indirectly affected the socialistic idea of a state would be crushed. It is identical and must be so with a claim of political infallibility. Even God allows men the freedom of idea, the privilege of thinking freely and of bearing the corresponding responsibility. Without freedom of idea there can necessarily be no responsibility. Hence the ultimate result would be the making of mankind into children, as well as slaves. Beyond all doubt there must be individual liberty, but the true principle of liberty, the preservation of the liberty of all, should be looked to with greater care. We progress by protest. As with the steeple-jack a false move means death, or, if not quite death, at least a severe set-back. It is this danger that has necessitated mankind's progressing slowly. Socialism, that is, State-Socialism, or Socialism proper, is a false move.

The First Plenary Council of the Catholic Church in Canada was an impressive and timely assemblage. The Sacred Heart Review well says of it that it was an indication of the virility of Catholicity in the Dominion, adding: "This is a religious event of the deepest interest to the Catholics not only of Canada but of the United States; for we are closely bound to our Canadian brethren. The Catholics constitute more than half the population of Canada.—Catholic Messenger.

The Christian Guardian asks the question "Why is it that Protestantism and free schools seem to go together?" The answer is, because our Protestant friends cannot get together on any question, and "free schools" by which is meant, of course, public schools, offer the only solution to their sectarian squabbles. The trouble with "free schools" is that they are essentially Protestant and sectarian. As we have asserted many times, these good people are welcome to these schools. The Catholic Church, unless forced by necessity, will have nothing whatever to do with them.—The Catholic Register.

SAM SMALL HEARD THE CRITICISM

When Rev. Sam Small, the temperance speaker, was in the city, he stopped at the Royal. One afternoon a couple of the city's leading sporting men were seated on a settee, not knowing that the reverend gentlemen was at their backs. During their conversation the minister's sermons, which they were reading in one of the local papers, were being discussed, and every minute or so the reader would stop to tell what he thought of a man who talked like Mr. Small did. Many unkind things were said about him; but there was a sudden break in the conversation when the clerk cried out: "Reverend Samuel Small—telegram!" The minister arose much to the surprise of the sporting men, who have not yet recovered from their discomfiture.—Hamilton Herald.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Sudden Change In Diet.

Sudden change in the diet of any animal is bad, especially the horse. The soft bran mash, by many advocated as a good Saturday night offering, is apt to cause colic unless the horse has been accustomed to bran during the week. Similar sudden use of green grass, roots, boiled grain or grain other than those mentioned is apt to cause indigestion of a serious nature, and, taking all things into consideration, the horse will do better on a steady ration at fixed intervals and in such a way as to allow sufficient time for proper mastication.

RIGHT REV. DR. WHITE WAS HONORED BY HIS FRIENDS AT NORWOOD

Special to the Review.

Norwood, Dec. 9.—On Wednesday evening the village was honored by a visit from an old Norwood boy in the person of the Right Rev. Dr. White, Missionary Bishop to Honan, China. To show their appreciation of the choice of the Board of Management of Anglican Missions, the Bishop's many friends had subscribed for an illuminated address and set of scarlet convocation robes, which were presented to him immediately before the evening service at Christ Church by Dr. Ford and Miss Williams. The doctor, in making the presentation, emphasized the fact that this was not the work of the Anglican congregation alone, but of the Bishop's friends of all denominations, who had known him and had watched his career with interest. At the choral evensong, which followed, the Bishop preached from S. Jno. x.16, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold." After pointing out that the "other sheep" referred to by the Saviour in the text were the as yet unconverted heathen, he proceeded to briefly outline the work of Christian missions in China, and the splendid opportunity that now lay open before us in the "awakening of China." Many years ago a Roman Catholic priest had striven to carry the Gospel to China, and had been refused permission to enter the country. He had settled himself on an island near the coast and had watched the distant shore, crying "O, rock, rock, open." Since then Christian teachers, diplomats and merchants had striven in vain to open the door into China. At last, when the way was open Christian work had progressed very considerably in the country. But Christianity had increased largely by the message carried by individual Christians through their daily life and intercourse with their heathen fellow countrymen. There were many agencies for Gospel preaching in the country, but such was the unity among them all, that by a tacit understanding there was no duplicating of work or overlapping. This was specially exemplified in the new work to which he had been appointed. In the province of Honan there were Presbyterian and Baptist missions besides the China Inland Mission. These agencies had hitherto done only evangelistic work. Now the progress of Christianity demanded an educational work, and the Church of England had been asked to provide for the province a Christian University, in which native Christian ministers might be educated. In addition a large territory hitherto unworked and with not a single native Christian, had been set apart for a missionary diocese. The Bishop also mentioned that the time would come when Chinese Christianity would coalesce into a national Christian church, which, from all present indications, and from the Chinese ideas of things, he claimed, would be Episcopal. God had thus set before the Church of England an "open door" to go in and possess the land.

When the Bishop descended from the pulpit, the Rev. W. B. Tucker briefly addressed the congregation, stating that henceforth his interest in Chinese missions would largely centre in the Diocese of Honan.

The collection was given to the China Bishopric Fund.

After the service the Bishop held an informal reception in the rectory and renewed old acquaintances with many old friends.

WARNING FROM THE FIRE UNDERWRITERS' ASSOCIATION

In Connection With Use of Inflammable Material for Christmas Decoration—Special Attention Should be Paid to Electrical Installation.

The Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association have sent out a circular in connection with Christmas decorations and displays. The circular is as follows:—

Toronto, Dec. 8th, 1909.

Dear Sir,—Enclosed herewith I beg to hand you a copy of a circular letter which we are endeavoring to place in the hands of the proprietors of all large Dry Goods and Departmental Stores. The matter is one of general interest and it is difficult for us to bring it before the public generally. I ask you, therefore, to kindly bring the matter to the attention of the readers of your paper. The danger is not confined to the stores above referred to, almost any other mercantile establishment is liable to make a display, and it is frequently made in churches, public halls, etc.

Wherever any kind of a display is made special care should be given to electrical installations, particularly those of a temporary nature. They should only be put in by competent electricians, and all fuse blocks and cut-outs should be located away from inflammable material, and what is known as 'enclosed' or 'cartridge' fuses only should be used. ('Open' fuses are particularly dangerous. The enclosing incandescent lights with paper and other inflammable material is, I am afraid, altogether too common a practice, and is highly dangerous.

The favor of your kind co-operation in this matter, which is of importance to all, will greatly oblige.

Yours truly,
JOHN A. ROBERTSON,
Secretary.

The circular referred to is as follows;—

RE CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS AND DISPLAYS.

Toronto, Dec. 8th, 1909.

Dear Sir,—Following our usual custom at this season of the year, I beg to call your attention to the dangers to life and property from Christmas decorations, displays, etc., which are frequently made at this time of the year. The use of Christmas greens, harvest specimens and other inflammable materials, such as draperies, scenery, cotton to represent snow, and the like (especially in connection with electric and other lighting systems) is decidedly an increase of hazard, it being impossible to make displays of that nature perfectly safe.

The third statutory condition of your insurance policy reads in part as follows;—

"Any change material to the risk, but within the control or knowledge of the assured, shall avoid the policy, as to the part affected thereby, unless the change is promptly notified in writing to the Company or its local agent."

In addition to the danger to property from the displays referred to, the danger to life in crowded stores or places of meeting, by reason of a fire, even though it be small and easily controlled, is so great that the Underwriters, who have made a study of such hazard, would fail in their duty should they not give this warning.

By order,
JOHN A. ROBERTSON,
Secretary.

Pictures of Ito's Death.

Vancouver, Dec. 10.—The steamship Kagamaru, from Oriental ports yesterday morning, brings word that moving picture reproduction of the scene at the Harbin Railway station, when Prince Ito was foully assassinated by a Korean fanatic, will be used as evidence at the assassin's trial, this being probably the first time that the cinematograph has been employed as a factor in criminal law.

Serving Papers Leads to Shooting.

Kansas City, Kan., Dec. 10.—The attempt of Charles H. Lukens, a deputy sheriff, to serve papers in a divorce suit on Charles Galloway, a business man Wednesday night, led to the killing in a street of Lukens, and mortal wounding of Galloway, when he locked himself up in a clothes' closet to resist arrest, and the serious shooting of Harry Anderson, a detective.

Ten Italian inmates barely escaped in their night clothes. Thomas Perks owned the buildings and had $1,400 insurance.

Duck Shooting

By J. R. McCrea

Leaving the camp in the morning ere the day is beginning to break,
Lured from the blanket's warming, by the quack of a far-off drake,
Speeding the boat fast onward, across to the other side,
Searching around in the darkness, trying to locate a hide,
Dipping the hands in the water, care that the decoys float,
Not to alarm the flying, hiding away the boat,
Sitting there by your lonesome trusting the day will bring
Sight of a bird swift flying, the sound of a whistling wing.

Sorting the weeds that are floating and hanging them over the bar,
Peering out in the darkness and watching the lake afar,
Stamping the feet that are numbing and trying a fire to make,
Shielding yourself with bushes, improvising a blake,
Righting a duck that has toppled and slapping your icy hand,
Pacing the shore in the grayness and walking back on the land,
Scanning the clouds that are breaking for a sight of the rising sun,
Hurrying back to your hiding at the boom of a distant gun.

Watching the smoke outfloating and the birds in their hurried flight,
Steeling your nerves for their coming, giving them left and right,
Paddling out where they're floating and picking them up apace,
Plying the paddle swiftly and back to your hiding place.
Nerves that were all atremble have passed away with the night,
Taking a crack at the leader, stopping him in his flight,
Setting the ducks that are floating, winding the strings that are damp,
Bending your back to the paddle, hitting it up for the camp.

Winnipeg, Nov. 4th, 1909.

Fire Imperils Hotel Guests.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 10.—Many firemen were overcome by smoke, 300 hotel guests were driven scantily clad into the icy streets and property valued at approximately one million dollars was destroyed by a fire which started here at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, and was only extinguished after an all-night struggle by the combined fire-fighting forces of Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, and Grand Rapids. It started in the basement of a five and ten cent store.

RUPTURE

Danger of Death—How to Avoid it.

In my last article when I was announcing the coming arrival to Peterborough of Mr. A. Claverie, the distinguished European specialist, I have said that Rupture is a disease to be dreaded.

I have since received several letters inquiring if the disease was really as dangerous as I had stated.

I hasten to reply that rupture is one of the most fearful infirmities known, although most of those who suffer from it are not aware of it.

Not to speak of the inconvenience of the pains it causes, the Rupture if it is not supported, or if it is wrongly supported, which is just as bad, is bound to fatally increase more or less regularly until it attains fearful proportions.

From that time digestion is bad, the appetite decreases, the patient becomes weak until he is unable to work and even to move. It is old age when yet young, it seems the shattering to pieces of all the strength of the patient.

And yet, there is something more terrible in sight; a scrotal rupture. It threatens the small as well as the large ruptures.

All of a sudden, the ring which allows a passage to the rupture sharply tightens, and this without any apparent cause, and if at this moment the rupture is protruding outwards, it is choked, strangled and cannot be pressed back; this means death within 24 hours.

One may judge how urgent it is to take the most earnest precautions when one suffers from rupture.

But it is not by wearing ordinary trusses that one may be protected against such terrible danger because these trusses are, in most instances, unable to support perfectly the Rupture and to maintain the bowels in their proper place.

This question of the treatment of Rupture is a serious and grave problem for science and not traders to solve. It is then only through science and perfected appliances that good results can be secured.

And, for these reasons, I cannot too strongly recommend to my readers not to fail to go and see Mr. A. Claverie, the specialist, known in the whole world, when he will visit your city.

His method and his apparatus have the endorsation of the highest medical authorities and have been adopted by nearly one million sufferers, the world over.

His last creation specially solves the question of the system of palliative cure definitely and it is impossible to count now the many desperate cases that have been relieved and even cured.

You will thus go and see Mr. A. Claverie as you will surely find with him, safety and cure.

Doctor Namy.

Mr. Andrew Claverie will be in Peterborough on Wednesday, the 15th, and on Thursday, the 16th of December. He will receive at the Oriental Hotel from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. All advice given free. Absolute secrecy. Special attention for ladies.

STEAD'S SPOOK BUREAU

ENGLISH JOURNALIST TELLS OF AMAZING MESSAGE.

Dead Aviator Named Lefebvre Comes to Him and Tells Him to Warn M. Bolotoff Not to Use a Defective Motor—Relatives of Dead Man Are Incensed at Stead For Hurting Their Feelings.

A widespread sensation, not limited to spiritualistic circles, has been caused by the extraordinary story told to The Paris Matin by W. T. Stead, the well-known London journalist, in which he reports a conversation he held on Sept. 16 with the spirit of the French aviator, Lefebvre, who was killed recently in an aeroplane accident. The practical outcome of the spirit's communication was to prevent the Russian aviator, M. Bolotoff, to whom Mr. Stead conveyed Lefebvre's warning, from making an aeroplane ascent at Chalons with a motor which, according to the spirit, would fail to work at the critical moment.

The relatives of Lefebvre, through the mouthpiece of Lefebvre's former employer, the engineer, Lambert, are protesting against the publication of Mr. Stead's article as unfair to the memory of the late aviator and "the outrage by a tactless Englishman upon the feelings of mourners."

Altogether, the elements of a very pretty quarrel have been created by Mr. Stead's amazing tale, which is being discussed with equal passion by aviators, spiritualists and critics of manners.

Mr. Stead, it must be explained, founded some months ago at Torbray House, in the Strand, London, a kind of spiritualistic exchange presided over by a spirit named Julia, who is as eager as is Mr. Stead himself to bring living persons into communication with their departed friends and relatives and build a bridge across the borderland between this world and the next.

The members of this spirit exchange meet every morning at 10 o'clock, with "Julia" in the chair, but she is visible only to the mediums present.

Mr. Stead relates that on Sept. 15 last he had been asked by the Princess Wissemily to accompany her on a tour to Melon Le Grand, near Chalons, to witness the experiments which her son was going to make with an aeroplane on the following Monday. On Sept. 16, after receiving two brief communications from "Julia," the clairvoyant employed at the exchange said he heard another voice speaking. Mr. Stead enquired who it was, and the answer came:

"I have been dead for some time, Mr. name is Lefebvre."

Mr. Stead, who had been abroad at the time of the fatal accident to Lefebvre, did not recognize the name, which was equally unknown to all the others members of the circle.

Mr. Stead then enquired of the spirit whether it knew Bolotoff's aeroplane.

"Yes," was the reply, "and tell the young man not to be too rash. I do not think there will be an accident, but the motor should be carefully tested. Do not go up yourself. I shall be at Chalons with you, for I write on the subject through your interceding spirit."

In reply to Mr. Stead's questions he said he did not know Bolotoff, but had met him and gave his former profession as a mechanician. On the following day Lefebvre's spirit, with the assistance of "Julia," described to Mr. Stead the accident which had proved fatal to him. He experienced, he said, a sense of falling, but lost consciousness before reaching the ground. He felt no pain or physical discomfort, but it seemed to him that his spirit was projected outward. He had the sensation of rapid rotation, then something seemed to yield, and he found himself in the air looking down upon his own corpse and the smashed aeroplane lying on the ground below. It was not disagreeable. He was aware of the presence of a very powerful being, who calmed him and who desired to write by Stead's hand.

Mr. Stead telephoned the spirit's warning to Bolotoff, who promised to be cautious. The motor which Bolotoff was using was well tried. It was a four-cylinder Panhard, which seemed incapable of breaking down, he thought. But when he mounted in the machine the motor absolutely refused to work. The starting crank broke and the experiments had to be abandoned.

"The Matin" publishes a telegram from M. Colliex, at Chalons, who was Bolotoff's assistant during the abovementioned experiments, and he declares that not only did the crank refuse to work, but the magneto suddenly returned to its position of maximum advance, with the result that he narrowly escaped serious injury to his arm. He tested the apparatus and discovered that it could not have done this by itself. Lefebvre's family question the truth of Stead's story on the ground that a spirit would certainly have sent messages to relatives rather than to Bolotoff, whom he had hardly known; that in life Lefebvre was not a mere mechanician, but a qualified engineer, that he could not have said he spoke very little English, for he spoke none at all, and furthermore, Lefebvre being "incapable of fear," could not have lost consciousness at the beginning of his fall.

To this excited controversy the Parisian public is listening with open-mouthed bewilderment and great amusement.

INDIAN DID NOT APPEAR IN COURT

Warrant Will be Issued for His Arrest---Weaver Sent Back to Gaol for a Week

When the name of Robert Tobbico, an Indian, was called at the police court this morning, there was no response, and a warrant will be issued for his arrest.

Tobbico was subpoenaed to give evidence against Ernest Weaver, who is charged with supplying him with liquor over a year ago, and who was to have been given a hearing this morning, but will now have to remain in goal for another week, as the magistrate enlarged the case till Friday next.

Must Not Carry Liquor

The Postmaster General has issued orders to the effect that the mail carrier shall carry no liquor in the stage running between Trenton and Frankford for any person.

LICENSE IS INOPERATIVE AFTER THIRD CONVICTION

What the Liquor License Act Has to Say Regarding breaches of the Law in This Connection—Is of Much Local Interest.

The following clauses taken from the Liquor License Act of Ontario will be of interest to those interested in the enforcement of the liquor law in this city. The clauses show the position in which the License Commissioners and License Inspector are placed in connection with the recent case, where a local hotel proprietor was convicted by Magistrate Dumble for the third time. An appeal was made but Judge Huycke sustained the conviction. Clause 1 of section 92, sets forth "that the Board shall within one month from the date of the last of the last of such convictions; or in the event of an appeal when within one month from the date of the judgment of such appeal by resolution declare that the license held by any license holder is cancelled and revoked and thereupon such license shall become inoperative and void and such license holder shall thereafter for a period of three years be disqualified from obtaining or holding any further or other license under this act; provided that nothing in this section contained shall effect the liability to forfeiture of a license in any other case provided for by this act, nor relieve the offender from any other penalty imposed by this act."

LIABILITY OF BOARD REFUSING OR NEGLECTING TO ACT. CLAUSES 2 OF SECTION 92A.

"In case the Board refuse or neglect to declare such license cancelled after having been notified in writing so to do by the minister or by any municipal elector, of the municipality in which the license premises are situated, the members of the Board shall severally be liable to a penalty of $100, which may be recovered with full costs of suit in an action to be tried by a judge, without a jury in any court of competent jurisdiction by any person who may sue therefor, and one-half of every penalty so recovered shall be paid to his Majesty for the uses of the Province and one-half shall be paid to the person bringing such action. Provided that no member of the Board shall be found liable for such penalty and costs, who shows to the court at the trial of such action that he voted for the cancellation of such license or did all tha could be done by him to procure such cancellation."

INSPECTOR TO REPORT CONVICTION TO BOARD.

2. "The Inspector shall repor to the Board every conviction of a holder of a tavern or shop license for a violation of the Liquor License Act or of the act, and in such report shall state the section of the act under which such license holder was convicted and the penalty imposed and the Board shall cause a book to be kept in which shall be recorded against the name of such license holder the report of every conviction.

PENALTY FOR NEGLECT TO REPORT.

4. "If the inspector knowingly or wilfully violates the provisions of the preceding subsection he shall incur a penalty of not less than 50 and not more than $100, besides costs.

SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR AT MARGARET COX HOME

The success which attended the holding of the bazaar at the Margaret Cox Home for Girls yesterday afternoon and evening is a source of much gratification to those in charge at the Institution, and it also reflects considerable credit to the large number of citizens who attended to show their appreciation of the work which is being carried on. The bazaar was held in the dining hall, which is on the lower floor of the new wing recently added. Through the assistance of the Hon. Senator Cox. Six booths well stocked with fancy articles, contributed by the resident girls and those who have been placed in comfortable homes in different parts of the country, and the tea room, at which refreshments were served, together with the beautiful decorations, made the scene a pretty one. A letter was received from Hon. Senator Cox, in which was expressed his regret at being unable to be present, and a substantial cheque to assist in the purchase of an organ for the dining room and for which the affair was held. Other donations were received by the Superintendent from friends as an expression of their interest in the Institution. The bazaar was opened at three o'clock with an address by His Worship Mayor Rush, after which Mrs. Rush was presented by a little girl with a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The address was as follows;—

I am greatly pleased to be with you this afternoon to show my own appreciation of this Institute, and also the appreciation of the citizens of Peterborough. There is no institution in our city more worthy of our esteem and assistance than the Margaret Cox home for Girls, established so many years ago by that noble gentleman, Dr. Barnardo, with the Liberal assistance of the Hon. Geo. A. Cox. For a lifetime Dr. Barnardo gave his time, thought and means for the establishment and carrying on of the work, helping homeless girls and boys, and caring for them, not only in their younger years, but until they were fully capable of caring for themselves. What nobler work could there be than this? We who have good homes and who had the advantage of parental protection and guidance are able to appreciate the greatness of this work, through which thousands of children who lacked these advantages and lacked even the necessary necessaries of their tender existence, were taken by the hand, placed in comfort, and educated and trained for usefulness in after life by Christian women and men. There are a great many homes in Canada that are reaping the benefit of these teachings, homes where children from this institution have been adopted as members of the family, and they have proved a blessing.

For over a quarter of a century this building has been devoted to this development and useful purpose, and it is a pleasure to see the provision that has been made for increased accommodation, and for the greater convenience and comfort of those for whom it is maintained. Not only those directly connected with the work, but all who feel an interest in an undertaking which alleviates suffering and benefits our kind, are indebted to the Hon. Senator Cox for his generosity in providing this building, with its spacious grounds and beautiful situation to this purpose and enlarging it and providing the much improved accommodation. We are pleased that our citizens have been and is so closely associated with the welfare of this Institution. It is gratifying to have such a benevolent establishment in our city. There are undoubtedly advantages in a business way in having it located here, but the gratification does not arise from such a cause, but from the fact that the name of our city is in this way so intimately connected with a benevolent enterprise that has existed, the best and wisest of the Mother Land and has been immensely successful in accomplishing great good for thousands of individuals and for the world at large. I hope that the work will continue to prosper and be even more successful, and that the immediate object you have in view in holding this bazaar, and for which the people have workrd so hard will be attained.

H. RUSH,
Mayor.

TWO ALARMS WERE RUNG IN

A Chimney Fire in Ashburnham and Smoke From Furnace on George St. the Cause

Two small fires demanded the attention of the brigade last night. One was a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. Fred Cook, Cricket Place, Ashburnham, and the other alarm was sent in from the premises of T. E. MacGregor, George street, smoke from the furnace causing some alarm. The first call was at 7.10 and the second at 9.55. No damage resulted in either case.

WELCOMED TO OUR FAIR CITY

Charles Johnson Gathered in by the Police-Can t do His Christmas Shopping

Charles Johnston, who will spend the next ten days with friends at the Victoria Park mansion, called at the Review office yesterday afternoon and made an effort to sit down, presumably to explain the object of his visit. Being in a befoozled condition, he missed the chair and landed on the floor. The sporting editor then took him in hand, and going in the direction of the door, bucked through for a gain of fifteen yards. Charles found himself on the street at the end of the first down, and the signal was for a kick on the second down, but Mr. Johnston moved away before the play could be executed. Later in the evening he was gathered in by the police, and this morning he appeared before the magistrate, charged with being drunk. He could give no account of himself, and was taxed two dollars or ten days on the hill. He reluctantly took the time, not having the cash. From a physical culture standpoint Mr. Johnston is not a shining light, and he also drinks considerably. Outside of that he is all right. He looks as if he might have come from Podunk or Lindsay.

Good Music on Edison Records

Quality and variety are the distinguishing features of the Edison Phonograph Record lists for December. In the four-minute list Sousa's Band is heard in "Manhattan Beach" and "El Capitan" marches (one cylinder); Victor Herbert's Orchestra renders 'Bach's Air;' Herbert L. Clarke, the famous cornetist, offers his solo, "The Bride of the Waves;" Harry Lauder sings three of his most popular numbers; and there are vocal and instrumental offerings by regular and special talent.

As is customary, a feature number is a specially arranged Christmas band selection, introducing a mixed quartette and chorus. There is a similarly arranged number in the two-minute list, in which list Herbert's Orchestra also interprets 'Mendelssohn's Spring Song;' Sousa's Band adds new life to 'The Yankee Shuffle;' Josie Sadler sings 'BL-ND and P.G;' Will Oakland, Manuel Romain, Grace Cameron and the other regular Edison staff of artists are heard in a variety of pleasing selections.

The twenty-eight Grand Opera Records, on sale December 1, are the best efforts of such operatic stars as Florencio Constantino; Leo Slezak, the Austro-Germanic tenor; Riccardo Martin, the American tenor; Blanche Arral and Adelina Agostinelli, sopranos; M. Duclos, tenor; Louis Nicelly, baritone and Gaston Dubois, tenor. The Italian Amberol Record list is augmented by two numbers and the standard by one.

The J. M. Greene Music Co., Ltd., are representatives for Edison Phonographs and Records. They carry at all times a complete line of machines and their record stock is large and well selected. You should visit their store and hear them. 3d

THAT WATCH OF YOURS

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and tis fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch. You put it in your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you ,in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker, and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time-keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones call around and see us.

"THE FAILURE OF CIVILIZATION"

Mr. Sam Small's Subject at St. Andrew's Church—A Large Audience.

"The Failure of Civilization" was the subject of a fine address by Rev. Sam Small at St. Andrew's church last night. There was a large audience.

In the beginning he referred to the downfall of the Babylonian and other civilizations of the earlier centuries and coming down to later times dwelt upon the decay of Greece and Rome's splendid empire. It is contended by many observers that it is too soon for the people of the North American continent to begin the consideration of this subject. We are still in the formative period they maintain, but America is only another name for opportunity, and it is for us to profit by the example of the nations that fell into decline and lost their power and prestige and to grasp that which will mould us into a nation to God's liking. The nations of old had the same opportunities as we possess, but they failed to appreciate that which would safeguard them against disestablishment. That opportunity is expressed in the two commandments, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, etc., and thy neighbor as thy self." It is the following of these precepts that will bring a nation to perfection and for such a nation God is looking.

It is possible that the leading nations of to-day's world may go the same way of their illustrious predecessors. Who are we that we have grown so great and independent that we would tell God that we are through with Him? It is the same God who spoke to the people of former days, and the commandments are the same as delivered to them. It is for us to improve this opportunity of salvation and of perfection of higher civilization.

Rev. Dr. Small took up the evils that threatened the developing civilization of the United States and Canada. That which impressed him most in his many travels throughout the country was the growing spirit of popular national infidelity. He did not mean that kind of infidelity such as impressed by the fool "who says in his heart there is no God." He could not understand the man who could not see the hand of God in himself, and in all the wonders of nature. The agnostic and others of practically the same class received the same consideration from the speaker. It is the sort of infidel who professes to believe in God, and who when brought to bay will agree with anything that is said. This spirit manifests itself in the passage of laws that give official status to things that are crimes against the home, society, humanity and the law of God. It manifests itself in municipal affairs and makes ordinances that grants privileges that are directly contrary to the Ten Commandments. Civilization cannot be said to be thoroughly established when the Sunday is permitted to be desecrated with impunity and the Government offers no satisfactory protection The people of America have greater cause to be thankful than other nations for the many blessings enjoyed. Dr. Small gave instances of cities in the United States that had allowed open Sundays, as they are known, and which had fallen into a depraved condition, finally ending in riots that had to be quelled by the State.

He spoke also of the spirit of irreverence for God's name as manifested in public blasphemy. In this respect he was pleased to note the great change noticeable in Canada during the past twenty years and the same condition was gradually making itself apparent in the United States. There are laws in many of the States that renders the use of profanity in public liable to a penalty the same as for drunkenness. There is no valid excuse for profane language being used. It is no evidence of manliness, and it was found that the greatest cowards were likewise the men that swore the worst. But the meanest man of all is he that brings profanity into his home and swears in the presence of his children and his wife.

"He is the meanest coward in Christendom," the speaker said, and added that he was worse than a dog on the street. The liquor traffic and foreign immigration were two other evils that had to be safeguarded against, particularly the former, which Dr. Small stated was the worst work of the devil

SCOUTING

The Baden-Powell scouting system has captured Britain. The genius of the movement is likened to that of knight-errantry. In our article upon the subject of a few days ago, we endeavored to arouse sufficient public interest locally to create a stir in the desired direction. The imagination of the British boy has been appealed to as never before, or as only in story-books. Now he is given an opportunity of doing the scouting himself. Lieut.-Col. Gardner, organizer, is opening a branch in Montreal. Why not Peterborough?

THE REAL THING

In another column will be found to-day's despatches containing an item of what Australia and New Zealand are doing for the new Imperial fleet. What a contrast this is to the separationist policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who even declined to vote for the resolution of the conference affirming the cause of Empire. Canada, under Laurier, is the one rebellious child. Societies of all sorts everywhere should demand the rescinding of the Laurier Government's programme and the contribution of a fleet-unit to the one great Imperial fleet.

PROPOSED PLAN PREPOSTEROUS

Hon. A. B. Morine was the speaker at the meeting of the Borden Club last night, and his subject was the naval policy of the Dominion Government. In his opinion the proposed navy would not be of much service to Great Britain. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's ultimatum that the Canadian navy must be only under the orders of the Canadian Parliament was incomprehensible, and the declaration from the same statesman that should England's supremacy be challenged the daughter states would rally round her was weak and unmeaning.

"If we should wait till England was challenged," said Mr. Morine, "she would be conquered or she would be triumphant before Canada would have the first ship launched." The government was only giving an opportunity to carry out a programme of graft and corruption, he said.—Toronto World.

As the Habitant in "The Fox," Mr. Ryan has won the warmest praise of the critics, and his supporting company is one of outstanding ability.

The Smart Set

A remarkably good singing chorus, well balanced and well trained is a big feature of "His Honor the Barber" the bright and entertaining musical success presented by "The Smart Set" at the Grand last night to a large and thoroughly pleased audience. The piece is constructed on original lines and the cast of clever and interesting colored performers sing and act to the best advantage.

S. H. Dudley, as Raspberry Snow, the barber, consumed with a desire to shave the president, is a decidedly amusing and effective comedian. While he is eccentric and broad enough in his darky dialect, his efforts are not all exaggerated and he is genuinely amusing. The other principals gave him uniformily excellent support.

"His Honor the Barber," is prettily staged with a wide variety of attractive settings and every song is pleasing and tuneful and some of them conspicuous hits. "Isle of Love" a melodious number and was charmingly sung by Lillian Brown and the chorus, "Let Him Dream," gave the company a chance to show their marked vocal versatility; "Cry Baby in the Moon" is a song with an original idea and catchy music and "I Like That" and "Merry Widow Brown" went big. The most loudly encored number of the show was "Come After Breakfast" a typical end man selection but given in a superior way by Mr. Dudley.

An unknown steamer was burned off the southeast shoal in Lake Erie.

AUSTRALIA FOR EVER!

Orders Given for Fleet Unit—No "Independent" Navy There—The Principle of Federation Affirmed

Melbourne, Dec. 10.—The Federal Cabinet has cabled the Admiralty asking it to commence the construction of a battleship cruiser, which is to be the chief vessel of the Australian unit of the Pacific fleet, immediately. The Government propose to proceed with the construction of the remaining vessels of the unit so that all will be completed simultaneously.

Washington, N.Z., Dec. 9.—The naval defence bill, providing for the financing of the Dreadnought offer and New Zealand's contribution to the British navy, has passed through all its stages in the House of Representatives. The third reading was carried without division.

SALE OF WORK TO BE CONTINUED

At the Margaret Cox Home for Girls on Saturday Afternoon

The result of the "Sale of Work" at the Margaret Cox Home for Girls—Dr. Barnardo's Home—on Thursday were very gratifying to those interested in its success. Many who had known the Home in former years, took this opportunity of seeing the alterations and improvements recently carried out there, and testified to their interest by liberal purchases at the stalls, and in several instances by kind donations. The sale will be continued on Saturday afternoon, December 11th, at three o'clock. There will be many dainty articles, suitable for Christmas gifts, also dolls, home-made candies, etc. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of a new organ for the girls' assembly hall.

HAS RECEIVED MASTER'S PAPERS

The many friends of Capt. S. R. Pearson, of the Otonabee Navigation Company, will be pleased to learn that he has succeeded in passing the Masters and Mates' examination at Toronto, and has received Masters' papers. The examination took place Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday last and out of nineteen candidates only two were successful, the other being Capt. Copperwaithe, of this city, also on the staff of the Otonabee Navigation Company.

Capt. Geo. D. Frewer, also of the O.N.C., deserves considerable credit, owing to the fact that the Toronto Nautical School, which he conducts in winter, prepared the successful candidates for examination.

FURNITURE FOR THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

The firemen's quarters at the fire hall are about to be greatly improved by the addition of some new furniture which will add much to the comfort of the men. The chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and one or two of his committee will make the purchases to-day which will include a box case for the dormitory, twelve arm chairs, six easy leather covered chairs, and two leather covered couches. It is expected that the cost will amount to $150.

THE NATIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE WAR GROWS WARM

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 9.—William C. Temple, of Winter Park, Cal., will reach New York next Tuesday, and will be a guest at the great baseball banquet to be given by the Pittsburg world's champions at the Waldorf-Astoria on Wednesday evening. Temple, who was formerly one of the moving spirits in the National League being President and owner of the Pittsburg club, comes from the Pacific Coast on an invitation extended by Barney Dreyfus, of Pittsburg, and there is a rumor here to-night that in case the Heydler forces are not strong enough to re-elect the present incumbent Temple may be offered by them as a compromise candidate.

Some years ago, before the affairs of the National League were placed in the hands of a board, Mr. Temple was practically offered the Presidency of the National League, but he announced that he would not consider it, as he was thinking of leaving the National Territory to take up his residence on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Temple was very popular with his fellow-magnets in the league, most of whom are yet in baseball. He was a particularly close friends of Stanley Robinson of the St. Louis team, whose vote in the coming election will likely be the deciding one. While owner of the Pittsburg team Mr. Temple evolved in the first idea of the top teams playing a series of games for profit to the players by donating the Temple Cup. Playing forr this trophy, however, made such a bad feeling among the players that Mr. Temple finally withdrew the cup offer. He has always been known as a deep student of baseball, and not only did he lose money heavily backing the Pittsburg team, but he later lost much money trying to introduce professional football into Pittsburg.

WILL FAKE FOR 10 ROUNDS SAYS NEW YORK WORLD

New York, Dec. 9.—W. P. McLaughlin says to-day in the World;

Lou Housman, acting for the moving picture trust, was present at the signing of the papers and when a further verbal agreement was entered upon. And that verbal agreement I have every reason to believe was that neither principal should try for a knockout until the tenth round was over. Then the fight was to go on to a finish and to be the real goods.

While this does not mean that the fight is to be a fake, it does mean that its interest has been seriously impaired. There is too much at stake for either of the men to throw his chance of victory up in the air. I have no doubt that they will go like the deuce when the picture success is provided for by half a score of rounds.

HAS DECIDED ON SALT LAKE CITY

As Place to Big Fight—"On the Level" Says Rickard.

Boston, Dec. 9.—"Nothing in connection with the big fight brings me to Boston," said Tex. Rickard to-day. "I am here on mining business, and I shall remain here a week.

"This talk about the big fight tires me. Nothing sickens me more than that one query: 'Will the fight be on the level?'

"That fight will be on the level if ever a battle was. The men will not get a dollar unless the fight is absolutely on the level.

"The fight will come off in Salt Lake City. It will be held in the Salt Palace, about three blocks from the business district. Every man in the town wants the bout. The business men are wild over it.

"I shall have some alterations made and I think when complete the place will hold 30,000.

"I am willing to stand for Eddie Graney, but no other California man will satisfy me."

It is reported from Syracuse that Tommy Ryan, the former Syracuse pugilist, and the man who developed Jim Jeffries, will train Jack Johnson for his fight with the big boilermaker. Ryan is one of the best men in this country for the job. He has been making his home in Chicago lately, and his booking up with the Big Smoke seems to indicate that Windy City money is going down on the black man. It was Ryan who taught Jeffries his famous crouch, and how to use both hands effectively.

SPORTING NOTES

Belleville will have an Indian player from Deseronto on their intermediate hockey team this season.

Guelph has entered a team in the junior O.H.A. series

In Stratford the floor in the rink is covered with wet sawdust. This freezes quickly and makes the ice surface for flooding in a short time.

The annual meeting of the Trent Valley Hockey League, will be held in Marmora to-night.

Gravenhurst will enter a junior team in the O.H.A.

"The impression that Jeffries and Johnson are going to fake," says "Big Tim" Sullivan, the stake holder, "is all wrong. Take it from me, they will fight on the level."

Sudbury wants to enter an intermediate team in the O.H.A., but their application will not likely be accepted.

Collegiate teachers in Stratford have each been granted $50 increase.

Premier McBride, of British Columbia has returned from a rest in California.

Y.M.C.A. SPORTS

Blues and Whites played their game off last night and the Blues won out on a score of 20 to 6. While it was a large score the game was worth seeing and those that did see it seemed to enjoy it, the little fellows played hard, but the Blues were too much for them. The game would have been much better, had the Whites ad their old reliable with them, but Ross Laing for some unknown reason, stated that he would not play with the Whites again this season.

Line up:

Blues—W. Stratton, R. Lees, H. Hill, D. Dearson, R. Scott.

Whites—H. Smith, D. Carlisle, Hal. Hill, A. Mulhern, W. Thornton.

Referee—Bruce Lees.

Timer—R. Howden.

Scorer—Claude Bartlett.

Circus notes

We have some of the greatest fun producers, ever seen by anyone, in the the sawdust arena. Last night McLaughlin had two of these fun producers at the gym, and it looks as if there is going to be something doing the night of the circus.

Dan Lees, you all know him, I mean Bruce, well, he and another fellow, whose name is not known, do some balancing and flips, that would make the professional acrobats sit up and take notice.

The pyramid workers were at the gym, last night building up their stunts, for the circus and they need very little practice, for they are right up with the best of them now.

This circus affair is something new and it will come to Peterborough for two days, Dec. 31st and Jan. 1st, New Year's day, is to be a big day at the Y.M.C.A. and if you want to spend a jolly good evening why just postpone all engagements for that night and go and see it.

WAS INJURED THROUGH FALL

Mr. Fred Barnes Hurt Internally—Slipped on Doorstep

Mr. Frederick Barnes, 96 1-2 Lansdowne street, solo clarionetist in the 57th Regimental Band, and the opera house orchestra, is confined to his home through internal injuries sustained on Tuesday evening, shortly after six o'clock.

Mr. Barnes had just returned home from his work at the Brinton Carpet Company's factory and was entering the door of his house, when he slipped and fell. He did not think he was at all seriously hurt and was able to be at the factory all day Wednesday. On Wednesday evening, however, he suffered to such an extent he was obliged to go to bed and has remained there since.

NO SONG BOOKS WERE SOLD AT SHOW LAST NIGHT

For Simple Reason That the Song Book Boy Couldn't Make the Theatre—Evening's Lodging was Expensive for One Night Stand.

There was a song book boy missing at the performance of "His Honor the Farmer," at the Grand last night. That boy was Harry Ennis, and while the performance was going on he was sleeping soundly in the first cell right after you enter the door to go down the corridor at the police station.

Yesterday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock a citizen came into the station and told P. C. McGinty that there was a fellow without any overcoat lying in the snow on the market square. The visitor to the police said he couldn't lift him up and as the latter couldn't get up himself he thought the police had better look after him.

Officers Adams and McGinty soon gathered in Harry and when searched all he had on him outside of some pocket money was a song book of the musical show "Me, Him and I."

"You tell the manager of the Smart Set that Harry Ennis will be at the show to-night," he remarked to a young man who was sitting in the police office. The latter called in at the company's car and did so, but as Harry's services are not indispensable he was allowed to stay in the cells all night and was thoroughly sober when at the request of Magistrate Dumble this morning he passed over $2 for the civic treasury.

Zam-Buk will give you speedy relief. It works while you sleep. Apply it to the sore places just before retiring and by morning it will have done its healing work.

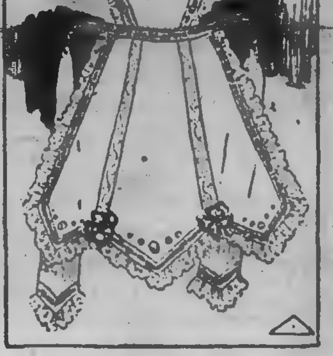
WHEN MAKING A RAREBIT.

The Up to Date Girl Dons Apron All Lace and Frills.

Chafing dish aprons are delightful bits of finery, all lace, sheer muslins and dainty ribbons. A pretty model is illustrated. Fine white batiste gores are joined by strips of valenciennes lace. The apron is edged with lace and beading, through which pink wash ribbon is run. The dots are done in pink silk.

Another dainty affair is of white mull embroidered in a solid and eyelet design, with medallions and edge of cluny lace and light blue ribbon ties. Any number of attractive aprons may be made, using medallions of any kind of lace which is suited to washable articles. They may be in combination with crossbar or dotted muslin and dots and flowers in colored or white embroidery. Usually the embroidery is done with mercerized cotton, though silk is very attractive. Many little fancy aprons are made of wash silk, and, though they are pretty, they lack the crisp daintiness of the lingerie creations.



CHAFING DISH APRON.

Handmade laces enter effectively into the makeup of fancy aprons, and one with princess lace is sketched. Edge and butterfly motifs form the decoration, while openwork dots enhance the delicate effect.

NEEDS GOOD BREAKFAST.

Healthy Persons Require a Substantial First Meal.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, iconoclast in ordinary to the medical profession, as usual, upsets out previous ideas of bodily health in an article in the Woman's Home Companion. Dr. Hutchinson has a faculty for restoring to us our self respect and assuring us that, left alone, we are not such idiots after all. In this particular article, for instance, he points out that the idea of eating little in the summer time is a fallacy. Of breakfast, for instance, he says:

"It is customary to make the first meal of the day lately the lightest and distinctly the plainest and simplest of the three. If there be any deficiency of the appetite, breakfast is the meal at which this is most likely to show itself. But this lack of appetite is in nine cases out of ten clearly traceable to sleeping in an unventilated room or to late hours in foul air the night before or to insufficient exercise the preceding day and is no indication that the body really requires less food at this time. Perfectly healthy men who sleep with their windows open and go to bed at a reasonable hour will tell you that they enjoy their breakfast as well as any other meal of the day, and many even call it their best meal

"Another popular delusion in regard to the lightness and unimportance of the breakfast is that widespread subterfuge, the 'continental breakfast,' consisting of a cup of coffee and some fruit or a single roll. This is a very pretty breakfast as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far, and the sole basis of its adoption on the continent is that it is only intended as a temporary tide-over until the real breakfast of meat, eggs, fish, with beer or wine, which is taken at about 10 or 11 o'clock, like a very early luncheon. If you haven't got a good appetite for breakfast, make it your business to go and get one, instead of allowing yourself to be blinded by this morbid state of affairs and deciding that all you really need is a cup of coffee and a roll or an orange or a puff of breakfast bran."

To a Speck of Dust.

Avaunt there! Get thee gone! Knowest not there is not room for thee in this my house?

Begone, I say, and come not here again, for thou'rt not wanted here nor any place.

Who mad'st thee, evil looking as thou art, and what's thy purpose to exist at all?

Is it to harry woman's soul and bring her body to the dust? What, art thou e'en the same as me? Canst be? And so the good book says! Yet feel I no affinity. I'll e'en remove thee gently, place thee here, and, means of fire, I'll thee resolve into things elemental and cast thee to the four wild winds of heaven, where thou'lt be at least invisible to me.

His Nose For News.

A cub reporter on a big daily paper was sent out by the city editor to get a story on the marriage of a young society girl and a man well known in the city.

The "cub" was gone about an hour and then returned and went aimlessly over to his desk, by which he sat down. Shortly afterward the city editor noticed his presence and his evident idleness.

"Here, kid!" shouted the superior. "Why aren't you at work on that wedding?"

"Nothin' doing," replied the boy.

"Nothing doing! What do you mean? Didn't the wedding take place?"

"Nope. The bridegroom never showed up, so there ain't nothin' to write."

Information for Senders of Parcel To Most Important Places Abroad

At this time of the year questions are continually being asked of the Post Office authorities. Practically everyone is sending parcels, and the number who have friends in foreign countries whom they wish to remember is remarkable. Already a number of parcels have been sent to China and Japan, but the rush to the other countries is only beginning.

These are the rates charged for parcels to some of the most important countries:

Australia, 24 cents for the first pound, and a similar sum for every additional pound.

Bahamas, 12 cents a pound.

Bermudas, 16 cents for the first pound, and 13 cents for each succeeding pound to the limit of 11.

Cape Colony, 28 cents for the first pound, two pounds for 54 cents, three pounds for 80 cents, and four pounds for $1.06.

China, 16 cents for the first pound, and 12 cents for each additional pound.

Cuba, 58 cents for the first pound, 66 cents for a two-pound parcel, three pounds for $1.74.

France, 42 cents for the first pound, 8 cents additional for the next two pounds, and 76 cents for a four-pound parcel.

Germany, first pound 34 cents, 8 cents additional for the second and third pounds, while the four-pound parcel requires 70 cents postage.

Parcels within Canada carried at the rate of a cent an ounce, which reveals the peculiar fact that a five-pound parcel can be sent from Toronto to Hong Kong for 64 cents, while to send the same package from here to Hamilton would cost 80 cents. Small parcels weighing a few ounces are at the present time accepted in nearly all foreign countries except the United States, on the regular letter rates, providing they do not contain anything coming on the prohibited list of the country to which they are addressed. Such parcels are subject to examination at the customs offices.

WRAP YOUR GIFTS DAINTILY

Make Your Gifts Attractive—Use Holly Cards, Tags and Seals

A large amount of pleasure in receiving a Christmas gift lies in the manner in which the gift is wrapped. If the parcel is daintily tied up, decorated with pretty holly seals and has a pretty card enclosed conveying the best wishes of the donor, the anticipation is sure to be greater than if the parcel is roughly tied in a careless manner, in perhaps, used wrappings.

So if you would have your gifts appreciated to the highest extent, see that they are wrapped up as nicely as possible. First you will need to supply yourself with some clear white paper; than you need some fancy cards, either small or large, in keeping with the gift; then some fancy tags for the outside and these may be had in two or three sizes and designs. After the parcel is tied up, a Christmas stamp may be put in one corner, and the openings sealed with holly seals, of which there are several designs.

If you do this your parcel will look very much nicer and the recipient of it is sure to enjoy receiving it much more. All these materials may be bought at the Review Office, and really are not expensive. Call and secure some of them before the supply is disposed of.

T. N. Vail, president American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and R. C. Clowry, president Western Union, will testify in New York before a Legislative Committee's enquiry into the billion-dollar 'phone and telegraph merger.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

FRANK WILLIAMS' AERIAL HALLO'EEN

And the Strange Events That Resulted From the Race of the "Flying Bogies."

BY ARTHUR MORGAN LANGWORTHY.

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

FRANK and Bill had always been in the habit of giving a Hallowe'en party to their friends at Prairie Farm.

They intended to follow the rule this year, but with a variation from the ordinary kind of entertainment. For Frank Williams hit upon a novel idea, which he thought would afford considerable amusement and at the same time give him a chance to continue in his "aeronautical pursuits."

Consequently there was much puzzling when those invited read that they were asked to attend his "Aerial Hallowe'en Party." What on earth was it? But Frank never gave his plans away beforehand, so his friends had to worry along unenlightened until the evening of October 31.

However, Frank's coming party was not the only topic of sensational interest. The chicken houses for miles around were almost depopulated by a daring poultry thief, who, while he made chickens his specialty, also reached out for anything that happened to be on hand.

Various reports described him as being a gigantic colored man. But though many rounds of buckshot were fired at him by the angry farmers none ever succeeded in hitting him. Twice he had been nearly surrounded and captured, yet his luck seemed to be marvellous and he always got away. It was thought he lived in the vast Tamrack Swamps, which had already been the scene of one of Frank's aerial adventures when he bought the eagle.

The day Frank issued the invitations he found Bill absorbed in reading the Clarion's exciting account of the thief's latest outrage.

"Never mind about him; come and help me lay out the 'flying bogies.'"

Bill became interested at once, and when he learned Frank intended the bogie balloons for the grand wind-up of his aerial party he readily consented to help build them. Certainly nothing was complicated about them. The "flying bogies" were simply ordinary hot air balloons made of black tissue paper as nearly in the shape of a pumpkin as possible.

Then holes for eyes, nose and mouth of the bogie man were cut in each, but instead of being left open white tissue paper was pasted over every hole. This served to keep the hot air from escaping when the balloon was inflated. The light for the interior came from the alcohol soaked ball of cotton. This was suspended on a wire running across the middle of the hoop which formed the framework for the bottom opening, as shown in the diagram. When the cotton flamed up it heated the air inside the balloon and lighted it as well, showing the bogie's grinning features perfectly. A small stone was attached as shown to weight the balloon so the "bogie" wouldn't turn turtle.

Frank planned his entertainment so that the "flying bogies" were to be its climax, as will be explained later. In the meantime something happened that pretty nearly put a climax to Frank's very existence.

One afternoon the young balloon builder went down to the "balloon shed," as he called the ex-cow shed which he used for his workshop. He thought it queer to find the door open, but stepped in without dreaming any one else could be inside save Bill. The next event happened so quickly Frank was never quite able to fully describe it. He remembered confronting a big black man, who rushed at him with a heavy stick.

When Frank recovered consciousness he found himself lying on the floor bleeding from a deep cut over his forehead. He managed to get back to the house, weak and sick from his awful experience.

"I guess that 'coon' wanted to fly away in one of the airships!" remarked Bill.

"I'll make him wish he could fly if I ever see him again!" boasted Frank. Hurt as he was, he thirsted for vengeance, and even the family laughed at his earnestness. Fortunately the blow was not serious and Frank recovered in time for the party.

Finally the last night of October arrived—with it puzzled guests who plied Frank with questions, as he opened the ceremonies by presenting each with a tally card. Then he explained that everybody that accomplished each of the dozen "stunts" that were now to begin was to mark a cross opposite the name of the "event."

"The first four who do the most 'stunts' successfully will qualify for the race of the 'flying bogies,'" he announced mysteriously. The prizes were to be awarded to the winners of this race.

The stunts embraced every kind of Hallowe'en pastime from ducking for apples to seeing who could guess the end of a ghost story. After refreshments and eleven of the stunts were disposed of Frank opened a door and released "a whole flock of toy balloons," as he called them. Each little balloon had a rolled up paper tied to it. And when they had all floated up to the ceiling he announced:—

"There is a number tied on every balloon. Every one will have three shots with a bean blower at them. If you hit 'em hard enough they'll explode, and you get the number, which you add to your tally list."

Much fun now ensued as the guests tried to explode the balloons. At last all had merrily shot away at them, and nearly two-thirds had succumbed to the marksmanship of the highly delighted guests. The tallys were counted up, after which Frank declared those eligible for the "flying bogie" race.

Frank then showed the four big bogie balloons to his curious friends, and explained that each of the highest four contestants had won a balloon. The race that was to follow was against time. The bogies "were all to be released at once, and the contestant whose bogie flew or was visible the longest elapsed time"—

Right here there was a sudden interruption. A man excitedly ran into the parlor and shouted to Mr. Williams:—

"Come quick and bring the rest of your men! We've got the chicken thief cornered down near the swamp!"

This piece of news nearly broke up the party. Mr. Williams rushed out to get his farm hands and all the boys deserted on the spot. It was a trying situation for a boy of Frank's active, daring temperament. He wanted to be polite, but he longed to be down there by the swamp, and perhaps have a hand in the capture. He certainly had a heavy score to settle with that "coon."

Then an idea occurred to Frank. Here was a way not to desert his party, yet still get to the coveted spot of danger. Prairie Farm stood on a hill, thus rendering the place where the man was surrounded visible to the guests. Probably if Frank's mother had been present at the moment she would have forbidden him to do what he now proposed. But she was in the kitchen putting up a "snack" for father and the men.

"Ladies, Bob Edwards, Jim Spencer and Eddy Gordon each won a 'flying bogie.' Your can all see them fly from here if I take them down to the boys. Then they can start the race themselves. Hadn't I better go?"

"But how about me?" asked Clara Wilkins timidly. Clara was the only girl winner.

"I'll see to yours personally, Clara," responded Frank gallantly, and then he vanished, leaving the party in a very demoralized condition, minus all the masculine element.

It seemed as if every farmer who owned a gun in Prairie county had arrived to help take the fugitive, surrounded in an impassable thicket near the swamp.

Frank lost no delay in seeking out the bogie racers, and quickly explained about the change of vantage, and said the race had got to be run just the same, besides that, maybe the "flying bogies" might help scare the thief, if he was as superstitious as colored people usually are. So the boys retired behind some bushes and got the balloons ready. They were nearly shot by several farmers, who didn't recognise Frank until they got close by. But when Frank explained that he wasn't trying to signal the fugitive, but was trying to frighten him, and showed them how, they laughed and let Frank go ahead.

So at exactly ten o'clock that night the "flying bogies" ascended into the air.

There was little wind, and the funny looking objects bobbed at random, floating aimlessly about, their grinning faces plainly visible to the Sheriff's posse below and to the hunted man wherever he might be, for two bogies drifted over the thicket where he was.

"Hi! Look at Ed's bogie!" suddenly cried Frank. An unexpected breeze tilted it so far over to one side that it caught fire and settled, a mass of flames, into the clump of woods. But any excitement this incident caused was lost in the shout that now rose.

"There he goes into the swamp!" some one shouted, and all scurried over to the side of the woods toward the swamp. Soon they were beating the swamp, and the clump of woods was deserted.

Frank was about to run after the boys who had followed the men, when he noticed a swift outburst of flames. The woods had ignited from the burning balloon.

The flames spread rapidly, as the woods were dry as tinder, no rain having fallen for some time. Frank remained watching the fire leap from tree to tree.

"It's a good thing that thicket's away by itself or we'd have a regular forest fire—hello! what's that?" he suddenly concluded. Surely he'd seen the outline of a man silhouetted against the fire. He looked closely and this time caught a glimpse of a moving figure.

Another minute and Frank was cautiously following a man through the fields toward the edge of the swamp. It could be none other than the thief. Some one had given a false alarm, for he was in the thicket until the fire drove him out. Though Frank wanted to run he felt now was the time if he ever wanted to help "nail him" and avenge that awful clip he had got over the head. So Frank didn't run. The negro took a roundabout course several miles along the swamp's edge. It must have been an hour before Frank saw him plunge into its depths, and he never could have kept him in sight if it had not been for the moonlight. He narrowly avoided discovery several times himself, but kept bravely on until the fugitive disappeared.

Then Frank was off like a shot for home. He was almost dead when he finally arrived; and he found the "great" aerial Hallowe'en party had broken up hours ago in disgust. He also found his parents almost distracted.

"Father, get the men; go to the part of the swamp where I had the eagle fight in the giant pine. It's the only firm land in that part of the swamp. I've just tracked the man there, and if you go now you'll catch him!"

But Frank was too tired out to accompany his father, who knew how to get there. He slept the sleep of the just, even when they returned with the captured black, for nothing else on earth would have kept him from having a good look at the man before his father turned him over to the Sheriff.

So the next time Frank saw him was at his trial. And then Frank made good his boast of long ago, for that big black man certainly looked as if he wanted to fly to any other spot on earth than to face the boy who so carefully identified him. Frank could not award any prizes for the "flying bogie" races, as he forgot all about the balloons in the excitement. He declared the only prize captured was the big black man behind the bars—and that was enough for any "flying bogie" to win. Don't you think so, too?

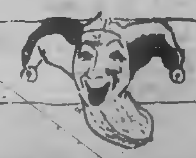
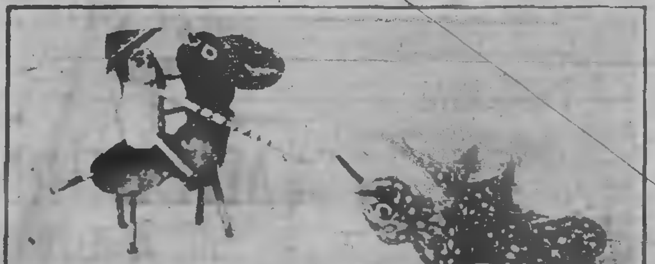
A PECK OF FUN FROM A PINT OF PEANUTS

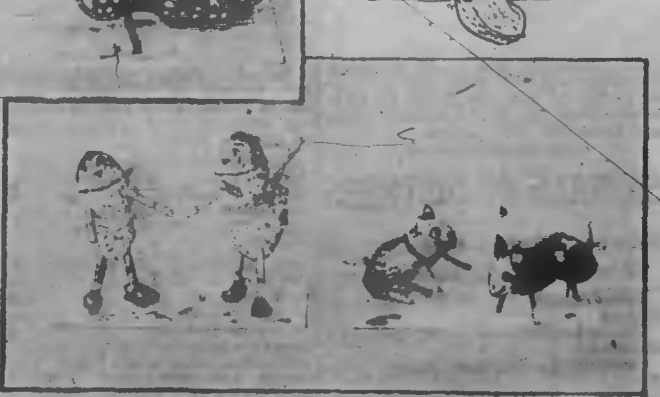
BY

BEATRICE D'EMO





St. George and the Dragon



The Playful Twins with Their Playful Puppies

IN appearance the peanut is undeniably more comical than beautiful with its little parrot-like beak and funny rotund body, but though it be lowly in origin, is not given a place among high class dainties, and even its claim to the latter part of its name is more than doubtful—it is without question the most companionable of nuts, and when there is an informal merrymaking afoot you are pretty certain to find the sociable peanut aiding and abetting the jolity. Fancy any other nut accompanying one to the circus! Why, the almond or walnut would be as much out of place there as would be other accessories of an afternoon tea. And with what delight is the peanut vender's whistling oven hailed when it makes its appearance in country lanes or the streets of the town! And how quickly are his deliciously hot toasted wares crunched down with fine appetite! Not even the chestnut vender can claim such popularity as does his humbler brother in business. Why? Because the peanut is wholesome, palatable, and above all, reasonable.

One can never regard a peanut in a serious light, and it will be seen from this article how readily the jolly little nut lends itself to humorous masquerading. Nothing dignified or decorous can be evolved from it; its very contours make it impossible to be otherwise than a joke, and yet the different articles depicted in the accompanying illustrations have a certain value of their own. A peanut booth at a fair offering all sorts of peanut products—peanut butter, peanut candy, peanut cake, &c., would be made much more interesting by a display of these mirth provoking little toys, which could be used to decorate gift cards, blotters, penwipers, &c., and, being novel, would attract attention and customers.

Again, a peanut party could be made very amusing by each guest being given several raw peanuts, glue pot, toothpicks and pen and ink or paint box and told to produce in a given time some interesting group suggestive of a well known statue, picture, song or book. The result might not always be clear, but would certainly be productive of laughter if nothing else, and laughter is an excellent thing at a party.

Children when obliged to remain indoors can be amused for hours by trying to reproduce the strange little peanut folk and animals, and such occupation not only teaches deftness to their busy little [illegible], but develops in them a wholesome sense of humor, which is one of the healthiest and sanest of all the senses, and when mixed with [illegible] a certain blessing to its owner, for [illegible] otherwise [illegible] and beloved [illegible] it is rather astonishing in this [illegible] generation of all sorts of creeds and teachings that some clever person has not taken up and opened a "School for the Development of Humor," where one could be taught to find the bright side of all things, material and immaterial, and learn how jolly little every day happenings can be made. The little ones are educated in walking, talking, singing, dressing—why not teach them how to laugh? But this is getting altogether too serious for an article on peanuts, so let us get back to our original subject.

The first group presents St. George and the Dragon. The horse has never received honorable mention heretofore, but in this instance surely his noble mien will plead for him:—

Fine his nose, his nostrils thin,
But blown abroad by the pride within.

Three peanuts go to his construction, or, to be accurate, two and one-half peanuts, the half forming his nose. The ends of the outside's are cut away with a sharp knife, the edges neatly trimmed with the [illegible] together. The tail and legs are toothpicks—burned matches will do—and the ears are bits of paper. Tiny holes are made in the peanuts, and the toothpicks or matches, as the case may be, tucked neatly in after being dipped in glue. St. George, always noted for his lack of armor in his combat with the dragon, is painted a beautiful pink and wears only a painted paper helmet and a pair of red sealing wax shoes with pointed toes. His legs, arms and lance are of toothpicks, and he is glued astride his steed. His body, head and all, consists of one small and very plump peanut. The dragon, a noble foe, is made of two long peanuts glued together and painted a vivid green, with black stripes, white spots and scarlet horns. The wings are of paper and the horns and legs are toothpicks. A slit in the end of the peanut gives him a savage looking mouth. A cheap box of water colors may be used to tint the nuts, or colored inks make excellent substitutes.

Next we have a less dramatic but more homelike presentation, "The Playful Twins." Never were happier looking little peanuts. The small brothers are joyfully singing and look refreshingly clean in little rompers and pink ribbon sashes. Their "well matched" legs are finished with beeswax shoes. The "Playful Puppies," who belong to the twins, have cunning screw tails all their own and by which they were originally attached to the mother vine, but their ears and legs have been supplied by the toymaker.

At another time more interesting peanut friends will be introduced through the Children's Page and we will learn how to make them.

YOU CAN'T TEACH OLD DOGS NEW TRICKS

Once upon a time there lived an old man who earned his living by taking his old dog Trickey and his fiddle and sitting on a corner of an avenue. He would play on it while his dog did many wonderful tricks.

Many years went by, and the old man still played on his fiddle, while Trickey did her stunts.

But by and by the people took no more pleasure in the old man's performances, and they would pass him by, saying: "There's that old man, whose dog is still doing the same old tricks."

The next day the old man earned only five cents, and the next day a still smaller sum, and so he simply did not know what to do.

So he at last found out that he must either teach Trickey some new tricks or starve. That night he called the dog to him, but, try hard as he would, Trickey could not learn them. The next night, as he lay in bed, with poor old Trickey lying on the floor beside the bed, he heard a low whining at the door. He crept out of bed and opened it, and there stood a dear little puppy shivering with the cold.

The old man took the shivering little thing in his arms and stroked its soft, floppy ears thoughtfully. "Thou wilt learn some new tricks for me. Won't you, puppy?" he said as he fondled it.

The puppy gave a short bark and licked the old man's hands. And on the spot he named him Chinks. "For," he thought, "money is sometimes called chinks, and if the puppy really learns some new tricks he will certainly bring me some money."

Then the old man set Chinks on the floor and went to a little cupboard for some milk to give it, and when he returned he saw that Trickey was beside the pup. First she smelt it and then she licked it, and before five minutes were up they were firm friends.

The next day the avenue held no amusement, nor for a few days following it, for the old man was home, teaching the new dog new tricks.

At last the old man took his old position again with Trickey and Chinks. He made quite a lot of money that day, and as he started to go home a man said to him:—"Why didn't you teach Trickey some new tricks?"

"Because," the wise old man answered, "you can't teach old dogs new tricks."

Playing Ball.

I don't know why the curly bugs
Roll up so round and small,
But it must be that even they
Are fond of playing ball.

And when the rain comes jumping down
In little drops of wet,
It's just as near to playing ball
As ever it can get.

And every little dormouse, too,
When it is sleeping sound,
Delights to play that it's a ball,
All soft and warm and round.

Of course, it's played in different ways,
And by a different name,
But I am sure, and aren't you,
That it's the same old game.

MAN WHO SUICIDED HAD RETURN TICKET TO PETERBORO'

Howard J. Wilson Found Dead in His Room at Toronto—Was an Electrical Worker—No Reason Assigned for Rash Act.

Toronto, Dec. 9.—With a partly emptied bottle of carbolic acid and an empty glass on the little table beside his bed, Howard J. Wilson was found dead, lying on his bed in an upstairs room at 380 King street west at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

He had evidently committed suicide last night, for everything in the room pointed to deliberate preparation for the act.

He was dressed in a white shirt and black trousers. His boots were still on, but he had removed his collar and tie. The carbolic was partly spilled over the pillow, and some of it had trickled down from the corner of his mouth.

LEFT FOUR LETTERS.

He had written four letters, and left them on the table beside the carbolic bottle.

The letters were addressed to J. J. Lattimor, proprietor of the Power House Toronto; Miss Ethel Llewellyn, 105 St. Vincent street, Toronto; Roy Hanson, 251 Horton street, Detroit, and Mrs. Mahlon Godshall, Lansdale, Monty County, Pa.

In his pocket was a card bearing his name, Howard J. Wilson, and marked in care of Mrs. Godshall.

A fifth letter was addressed to Harry Comeroy, Whitby, Ont.

WAS AN ELECTRICIAN.

He had a membership card in the local union of Electrical Workers, and another little card found on him bore the Lew Lockstader motto: "Treat the booze gently. Don't fight it. Its bigger than you are."

A railroad ticket from Peterborough to Toronto, good for return until December 26th, was also in his pocket.

Mr. J. J. Lattimor, proprietor of the Power House, where Wilson boarded, can think of no reason for the action.

"He always paid his board on time and is paid right up to date," said Mr. Lattimor. "He has been out of work about a week, but I didn't think he was hard up. He has been in Oshawa for six weeks on a job, and has had work since he got back. His home is not in the city, but I don't know where he comes from or anything about his family."

Wilson registered at the office last night, and paid 75 cents for his bed. He said and did nothing whatever to arouse the suspicions of the clerk.

THOUGHT HIM ASLEEP.

This morning the chambermaid opened the door of his room about ten o'clock, and saw his feet at the end of the bed. Thinking he was yet sleeping, she did not look further.

It was nearly one o'clock when the clerk asked the maid if No. 11 had left his room yet.

Then he went upstairs and found the body, stiff and stark, lying full length on the bed.

Policeman Holmes was called in, and he notified the coroner.

No reason is known for the suicide. The reasons may be given in the letters; in fact, it is evident that Wilson wrote them solely for that purpose.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS

Peterboro People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions are dark, contain a sediment.

Passages are frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is constant day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.

The weakened kidneys need quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and urinary disorders.

Peterborough evidence proves this statement.

Mrs. Geo. Hawes, of 857 Water St., Peterborough, Ont., says:

"I suffered for some time with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble, and although I had tried many remedies and doctors, found little or no relief. My back was weak and a dull, bearing down pain had settled across the small of it and extended into my shoulders and around my sides. I was weak and languid, and the least exertion would tire me out. Dizzy spells were frequent and often I would awake with a severe headache. I tried Booth's Kidney Pills through an advertisement at McDermid & Jury's pharmacy and soon found them to benefit me. I continued their use, and in a comparatively short time I was as well and strong as ever, and without a symptom of the painful and longstanding disease."

OPERATED WITH NEW ANAESTHETIC

Dr. Jonnesco's Stovaine is Declared by Doctors to be a Success

New York, Dec. 8.—Dr. Jonnesco, the Roumanian surgeon, demonstrated today the scientific possibilities of stovaine, his newly-discovered anesthetic. Four operations were performed by prominent surgeons in the hospital of the New York Society for the Relief of the Ruptured and Crippled, and Dr. Jonnesco's demonstration of the value of his discovery was regarded as a success. In each instance the patient retained consciousness, but felt no tinge of pain as the surgeons made use of their knives.

The first operation was performed on a boy about five years of age, who had been afflicted with infantile paralysis since birth.

When all was ready, Dr. Jonnesco injected stovaine into the boy's spinal column. Then Dr. Gibney, a celebrated orthopedic specialist, took hold of the boy's right foot, which had been useless and crippled, and began to use the knife. It was necessary to make incisions around the achilles tendon and stretch it.

The boy lay quietly, but perfectly conscious, his face covered by a towel. When asked if he felt pain, he replied: "It does not hurt at all; I feel fine."

After about twenty-five minutes the operation was completed, the wound bandaged, and the little boy was carried back to his cot. They took the towel off his face. The surgeon looked to see if there were traces of pain there or signs of nausea. There was not the slightest indication of suffering or sickness. The child was smiling at Dr. Bennett, the house physician. About 50 physicians and surgeons witnessed the operation. Dr. Jonnesco's demonstration was regarded as a brilliant success by most of the surgeons present.

The little boy with the paralyzed leg was followed on the operating table by another boy, who was eleven years old. The operation was to correct a club foot. Dr. Jonnesco injected stovaine into his spinal cord and Dr. Gibney operated. The boy could not see the surgeon at work, but he lay comfortably, and, replying to questions from time to time, said that he felt no pain, nor could he feel the touch of the knife. The lower part of his body was completely paralyzed for the time being by the anesthetic.

Dr. William B. Coley performed the third operation. It was on a boy of eleven years, who was suffering from double inguinal hernia. The boy could not see, because of the towel over his face, but he talked cheerfully while Dr. Coley performed, and was obviously not in pain. Dr. Coley cut through the right side of the abdomen, pushed back the rupture sac, stitched together the walls of the abdomen and closed the skin over the incision. He repeated the operation on the left side.

The last case was that of a women who suffered from a fracture of the hip. Dr. Jonnesco gave her a maximum injection. After the operation the patient said that she did not feel sick.

After the demonstration, Dr. William Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., who was present, asked Dr. Jonnesco to go to that city and demonstrate there for the benefit of the local surgeons of that city. The invitation was accepted.

There was nothing but praise for Jonnesco from nearly all the medical men present.

NOTHING NEW.

Montreal, Dec. 8.—A medical officer of the Montreal General Hospital is authority for the statement that stovaine, which has been hailed as a new anesthetic for surgical cases, and with which Prof. Jonnesco is now performing operations in New York, has been in use at the Montreal General Hospital for the past four years. The anesthetic is injected into the spine and causes the patient to lose all feeling while retaining his other senses. It is used only in cases where the others would be inadvisable.

SIR WILFRID STILL HANGING ON TO TWO SEATS IN HOUSE

Conservative Members Raise the Point and Show Conclusively That He is Breaking the Constitution and Defying the People's Rights.

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—No more undignified attitude has ever been assumed by a Canadian Premier than by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Commons yesterday. Violating constitution, denying the people's rights, he called upon his followers to vote him in the right. They did so, but by the unusually small majority of 29.

The circumstance was this: Sir Wilfrid is sitting as member for the two constituencies of Ottawa and Quebec East. He has been repeatedly asked to choose which he will hold. He declines to say, and he will not resign from either. He knows that the Conservatives might win the Ottawa seat if he resigned it, and if he resigned from Quebec East he might offend the French-Canadians. Of two problems, he chooses to preserve a seat from attack, and defy the constitution of his country.

A. S. Meighen, in raising the question, said he did not propose to challenge the ruling of the Speaker the other day, when he stated that a member could sit for more than one seat so long as he pleased, but held that the principles which lead up to the ruling were erroneously stated. He moved an amendment to the effect that the orders of the British House in force on July 1, 1867, were within the meaning of the words "rules and forms of proceeding," as stated in rule 1 of the rules of the Canadian Commons. Mr. Meighen read from authorities in support of his view, that the British sessional order, in force on July 1, 1867, declares that a member returned by more than one constituency shall declare which seat he will represent within a week of the opening of Parliament.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth contended that the Speaker's ruling was correct in every respect.

The question resolved itself into whether such a rule was in use in England or not. He refused at any time to regard a sessional order as a rule, for it went out of force with the session. It was not like a Parliamentary rule, which endured from session to session.

R. L. Borden said the argument of the Minister of Justice, that the test of an order was its length of duration, was neither common sense nor common law. Some of the most important legislation of the British House, for instance, that of the defence of the Empire, was passed every year.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the law of Parliament was full of difficulty and mazes, and authorities varied much as to interpretation of the rules. The whole law of Parliament was the arbitrary ruling of Parliament.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur said that he had not given the matter very serious consideration. However, he held strongly that this question of constitution should be dealt with by statute and not by a sessional order or rule.

T. W. Crothers read from Bourinot the rule that in the case of a member returned for more than one constituency he "must resign" from all but one.

The question was then put: For the question 90, and for Meighen's amendment 61, a majority for the Government of 29.

E. N. Lewis introduced a bill to amend the Railway Act, providing, among other things, that all railways doing business must after July 1, 1910, report to the Government the names of all employes who have, during the course of the year, work more than 12 hours consecutively, or for more than 84 hours any one week. Mr. Lewis said that the object was to prevent the species of accidents which are due to long hours of work. Another object is to provide for the appointment of a Government official whose duty it will be to bring to the attention of the Railway Commissioners the complaints of people who are not able to engage counsel.

On motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, it was decided that when the House adjourns on Friday next it will stand adjourned until Jan. 12.

R. L. Borden complained as to delay in bringing down, in printed form, the documents bearing upon the resignation of Mr. Lumsden, as chief engineer of the N.T.R. commission.

Dr. Black of Hants, in a short speech, called upon the Minister of Railways to take steps to prevent the "vile" water of the City of Montreal being forced upon passengers on the I.C.R. trains. He said that when traveling on an I.C.R. train recently he had been informed that the water in the tanks of the passenger cars was supplied by the water system of the typhoid-fever stricken city of Montreal.

GERMANY IS NOT BELLIGERENT

Berlin, Dec. 11.—Addressing the Reichstag again yesterday, Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg reviewed briefly Germany's foreign relations.

English statesmen, among them Premier Asquith, in recent speeches had defined the establishment of good relations between Great Britain and Germany as an important task of statesmanship, the new Chancellor said, and added that he could reply sincerely and with complete conviction, and in accord with these intentions, that the true interests of both countries would be served to the extent that they approached each other in a realization of these aims.

Certain circles endeavored to make it appear that Germany had adventurous aims, dangerous to the world's peace, and declared that such aims were unknown in Germany, which kept on her way in great tranquility and steadiness, free from all nervousness.

ORILLIA HAS SOME RAILWAY TROUBLES

Orillia, Dec. 11.—The Board of Railway Commissioners have made their report on the location of the Georgian Bay & Seaboard Railway in this town. The line will provide a new grain route from Georgian Bay.

"Had the location of the Georgian Bay & Seaboard Railway and the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway Companies in the town of Orillia been left to the unfettered control of the board," said Chairman Mabee, "I should have been in favor of requiring joint use of the present Grand Trunk Railway tracks and terminals, with such enlargements and changes as might be necessary, with a joint union station for the three roads, with a swing bridge over the Narrows at or near the site of the present Grand Trunk Railway bridge. The Georgian Bay & Seaboard Railway Co. and the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway Co. have, however, obtained the approval of the governor-in-council of a new structure over the Narrows, and this board has no power to deviate from this location."

COMMITS SUICIDE AFTER HIS ARREST

Montreal, Dec. 11.—Hedley Gardner, former manager of the west end branch of the Royal Bank of Montreal, committed suicide in Dallas, Texas, a few days ago. He had been arrested on a charge of drunkenness, and was about to be searched when he took a dose of carbolic acid.

Gardner previously served eighteen months in the house of correction at Boston for larceny of several shares of stock.

ACTION AGAINST SON OF ZELAYA

New York, Dec. 11.—Dr. Anabel Zelaya, second son of the President of Nicaragua and a graduate of the medical school of Columbia University, appeared in the Supreme Court here yesterday to defend a suit against him for $100,000 brought by Elizabeth Juliet Hero, who claims that young Zelaya courted her while he was a student at Columbia and that he promised to marry her.

The papers allege that after the young woman's mother gave a dinner at which the engagement was formally announced, President Zelaya forbade the marriage, calling it a misalliance on the part of his son.

FEDERAL GRANT TO CENTENNIAL

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—Replying to a western deputation asking a Federal grant of $2,500,000 toward the Selkirk Centennial Exposition, which it is proposed to hold in Winnipeg, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the total amount which the exhibition management propose to raise—$5,000,000—was too small for an international fair and too large for a provincial show. So far, the directorate have promises from Winnipeg and various Provincial Governments of only $1,250,000. The Premier pointed out that the Portland and Seattle Exposition had received only $500,000 from the U. S. Government.

WM. MACKENZIE AND THE I. C. R.

Montreal, Dec. 11.—A despatch from Quebec says that while William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern was there, he declared that the summer terminus of the company's steamship line would be in Montreal.

Mr. Mackenzie is also credited with the statement that the Government should not delay much longer in handing over the I.C.R. to Mackenzie & Mann.

"It would be," he said, "a good thing for us, as we want an ocean port at Halifax, and it would also be a good thing for the Government."

Beernaert, former Minister of State and Belgian representative at the last Hague peace conference.

MISS RAE E. BOYD

Trenton, N.J.—The mysterious death of Miss Rae E. Boyd, the beautiful Trenton girl, in a Philadelphia hotel has caused a sensation here. It is believed by friends of the unfortunate girl that she was lured from her home by a wealthy man who promised to make her an actress. They also believe that Miss Boyd was poisoned.

At the time of her death the girl wore a valuable diamond ring and members of the family cannot explain how she came in possession of it. Her heartbroken mother believes the ring indicated that she was engaged to be married.

BIG CAR BOAT OF CONNEAUT, OHIO, MISSING FOR 72 HOURS

Marquette & Bessemer No. 2, Left Conneaut on Tuesday Morning for Port Stanley, Ont., With Crew of Thirty-One and Perhaps Some Passengers.

Detroit, Dec. 11.—All hope that the car ferry Marquette and Bessemer No. 2, outlived the wintry gale which has made of Lake Erie a watery graveyard during the last 72 hours, has been practically abandoned at the head offices of the Marquette & Bessemer Dock & Navigation Co., owners of the ill-fated vessel.

It is believed that Captain E. E. McLeod of Connecticut, Ohio, and his crew of 31 men have gone down to death with the big steamer.

The ferry has plied between Conneaut, Ohio, and Pt. Stanley, Ont. The trip usually takes less than six hours, the vessel making two daily.

The Marquette & Bessemer No. 2 was a big boat, probably 340 feet long, and would carry 30 big cars of coal with the cars themselves at a time.

The Marquette & Bessemer No. 2 left Conneaut, Ohio, Tuesday morning for Port Stanley, Ont., with 30 loaded coal cars and under ordinary conditions should have reached her destination that afternoon. She has not been sighted by other boats.

An empty green yawl and some wreckage was seen by the steamer W. P. Davock, near Long Point, Ont., in the path which the ferry would have taken. The yawls of the No. 2 are painted green.

The Marquette & Bessemer No. 1 has searched the lake toward Point Pelee, but has found nothing of her sister ship. Tugs have scoured the lake and report no trace of the No. 2.

The list of the crew includes Captain R. R. McLeod, First Mate John McLeod, Purser R. C Smith, Chief Engineer E. Wood, and Steward G. R. Smith.

It is not definitely known whether or not there were any passengers on board.

The Marquette & Bessemer No. 2 was valued at $350,000, and the cargo at upwards of $40,000. She was built at Cleveland in 1905. She was operated by the Pere Marquette and the Bessemer and Lake Erie roads.

BRANTFORD IS IN DARKNESS

Brantford, Dec. 11.—Brantford was in darkness last night as a result of trouble with slush and ice at Decew Falls. The Grand Valley Radial and Street Railway have been tied up here all day on account of the power supply being shut off. Fortunately, enough electric energy is generated at the local plant of the Cataract Co. for domestic lighting.

Stephen Collins, farmer of Fairfield Plains, was discharged here yesterday on the charge of shooting through a window in a room occupied by Mrs. Postle, aged 82. The complainant told a disconnected story of the affair.

For pointing a revolver at some boys with whom he was playing, Oscar Frey, aged 14, was fined $10 and costs.

WANT A ROAD TO PORCUPINE

Matheson, Dec. 11.—A deputation of Porcupine prospectors and miners interviewed the T. & N. O. Railway Commission at Matheson, and were assured by Messrs. Englehart and Dane that every facility would be offered them for the handling of freight and passengers from that town to the new gold fields. The commission are going to turn the old engine house into a freight shed, capable of holding several cars of freight.

The road is now nearly complete and teams will be driving over this route on Tuesday, the 14th. Over forty men are on it all the time, making a sixteen foot road.

Jack Wilson, superintendent for Mr. Edwards of Chicago, owner of the Golden Pole Mine, has now twenty dogs, making five teams on the route taking in supplies and mail.

ICE CUT HOLES IN THE DREDGE

Six Men Belonging to the Crew are Drowned Near Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Dec. 11.—Six men were drowned at 5 o'clock Thursday evening when dredge No. 8 of the Great Lakes Dredging Co.'s fleet sank near Mutton Island, about four miles from Port Arthur.

Heavy ice was encountered in the Mission River, and it is thought this cut holes in the dredge, causing the disaster; at any rate when off Mutton Island those on the dredge saw that it was sinking and gave the alarm. Before the tugs could put about, the dredge had disappeared with all on board.

Two men attempted to save themselves by clinging to the tow line, but one went down. The dredge had a crew of fourteen men, seven of whom were employed on the scows.

The victims are: John Wilcox, cook; Port Arthur; Williard Smith, cook, Fort William; Peter McDonald, night watchman, Port Arthur; Neil Cameron, deck hand, Port Arthur; John Friendemburg, oiler, Vermont; Peter Phalon, fireman, Port Arthur.

STATEMENT AS TO LOANS TO OFFICIALS

New York, Dec. 11.—Concerning loans made to state officials by the Phoenix Insurance Co., the Brooklyn Fire Insurance concern from the presidency of which George P. Sheldon was removed last week, the state insurance department, yesterday issued a statement declaring:

"The books of the company show that it loaned to Robt. H. Hunter, while he was first deputy superintendent, at the New York office, $60,040.

"The records of the company show that the company, not Mr. Sheldon, loaned Mr. Hunter the money, and received the principal and interest on same.

"The closing of the loan shows a loss of $18,000 to Mr. Sheldon to whose account it had been transferred.

"Mr. Buckley received from the company in 1904 and 1905, $9,000, for what is stated on the books of the company to be "legal services."

BOY BURGLARS ARE CAPTURED

Uxbridge, Dec. 11.—Two brothers, Frank and Albert Hale, aged 14 and 16 years, who broke into the Jones Hardware Co. on Monday night, and stole some firearms and a quantity of ammunition, were arrested yesterday afternoon near Claremont, after a two-days' pursuit by Stouffville and Uxbridge constables. They were brought to town last evening and appeared before Magistrate Hamilton and pleaded guilty. After hearing a number of witnesses they were committed for trial at Whitby.

The boys claimed their home to be near London, Ont. They have both been in the Mimico Industrial Home.

TWO DEAD AND TWO ARE DYING

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 11.—As a result of two domestic tragedies Thursday night, Dr. Eugene Woods, a physician, and Fred Schenck are dead, and Gabriel Jacobs and Mrs. J. A. Jones are dying.

Fred Schenck opened fire with two revolvers upon Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones in his rooming-house, and Mrs. Jones was probably fatally wounded. Schenck killed himself. He believed that Mrs. Jones was responsible for his wife leaving him.

ASQUITH INCLUDES HOME RULE IN HIS PLATFORM

War Against the House of Lords as at Present Constituted and Local Self-Government For Ireland Are the Two Most Important Planks Announced.

London, Dec. 11.—At a monster meeting last night in Albert Hall Prime Minister Asquith laid down the policy on which the Liberal Government is appealing to the country.

He repeated what had been said by other Ministers—that if it were returned to power, the Government would demand the limitation of the powers of the House of Lords, and then went a step farther and pledged the Liberal party to grant self-government to Ireland.

The meeting was marked by the greatest enthusiasm. The audience, which filled the vast hall, greeted Mr. Asquith and the Ministers who accompanied him with round after round of cheers.

The audience was entirely male, women having been excluded in the fear of demonstrations by suffragettes.

A small band of daring suffragettes was dislodged during the day from the hall, where the women secreted themselves the night before, preparatory to an onslaught upon the Premier. The women were hidden away in all quarters of the vast building, some in packing cases and others on the roof. One was found curled up inside the huge organ, squeezed between two rows of pipes.

The Government officials had scented danger and organized a force of beaters, who searched every cranny of the building and spent hours in the game of hide and seek before the promoters of last night's meeting were satisfied that the intruders had been been cleared out.

However, they managed to get two male supporters into the meeting, who interrupted Mr. Asquith momentarily, with cries of "Votes for Women." They were promptly ejected.

Mr. Asquith pointed out that just a few years ago Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, then Prime Minister, had outlined in Albert Hall the policy of a new Liberal Government, which included many reforms.

The representatives of the people in the House of Commons had labored faithfully to carry into law the measures promised, but their will had been nullified; and as a fitting climax, the supplies which the House of Commons had voted had been stepped upon by the House of Lords.

Therefore the House of Commons was now on the eve of another dissolution and it had fallen to his lot to take up the burden. The last time, he said, the Government had reckoned without their hosts, but it was not going to make that mistake again.

"I tell you in the name and in behalf of the Liberal party," Mr. Asquith proceeded, "we have at this moment laid upon us a single task—a task which dominates and transcends because it embraces and involves great and beneficient social and political changes upon which our hearts are set. That task is to vindicate and establish upon unshakable foundation the principle of representative Government."

Referring to the education and licensing bills, the Premier said that the Government stood, in the main, on the principles of the bills, which the House of Lords rejected.

The franchise law, he added, was still encumbered with artificial distinction and impediments, of which there was no justification.

On woman suffrage, Mr. Asquith said his views were well known and he had no reason to alter them, despite the suicidal excesses of a small section of the advocates for such a change.

Mr. Asquith, turning his attention to Ireland, said he had been fortunate for once because the measures sent up in her behalf did not become violently athwart the prejudices of the House of Lords.

NEGRO KILLS TWO WOMEN

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 11.—Mrs. Elisa Grabbil, aged 70 years, was killed; Mrs. Carrie Orlando was first assaulted and then killed, and a third woman was so badly beaten that she was at the point of death in a local hospital — all [illegible] work yesterday afternoon of a negro who is now at large.

Dogs have been set on his trail and excitement is high. The negro used an axe in the murders, dealing blows on the heads of his victims.

The scene in the house of the murders was terrible. The women were found, two dead, one dying, lying about the floor. The house is in the heart of Savannah.

SATURDAY, DEC. 11, 1909.

NOT INCOMPREHENSIBLE

The Hon. A. H. Morine, K.C., of Toronto, the well-known former leader of the Opposition in Newfoundland, has given it as his opinion that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's conduct with regard to Canada's relations to the empire is incomprehensible. That is a mild way of putting it. What we suppose Mr. Morine really means is that it is so inconsistent with Canada's aspirations and the hitherto professions of Sir Wilfrid that it is incomprehensible. If, however, we note two well-known and undisputed facts, viz: that French Canada is against being included in a British empire and is against the waste involved in the creation of a Canadian fleet, we can understand it well enough. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's administration depends for its life upon French Canada. Without its support the government would fall. And, what is more important, without Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his present government French-Canadian aspirations would fall. Therefore their interests are indissolubly wedded. We can imagine Sir Wilfrid saying to Quebec however, "Why, friends, if I do not put up some sort of a bluff about a Canadian navy it will be all up with the Liberal party, but you may rest assured that I will not commit you or myself to any united imperial fleet scheme, or to any principle of empire. I know the destiny of French Canada is incompatible with our being included in a British or any other empire. You can trust me to keep out of any mix-up like that." On this basis Sir Wilfrid's conduct is not incomprehensible. He got into power on a trick. He got in again on a trick and he proposes to get in again in the same way. Australia, New Zealand and South Africa were prepared to vote at the Defence Congress for a united empire when up rose Sir Wilfrid, who, stung to anger by reproaches and expressions of astonishment, cried out, "Well! gentlemen, if you press the motion I must vote against it."

Then Sir Wilfrid produces the Canadian navy proposition and even backs down on that. He is too crafty a diplomat for our people, that is if we keep on being confiding instead of distrustful.

LITTLE CANADIANS

The Examiner quotes an article of the Toronto Star which rejoices in the heading: "Imperialism Declining." The gist of it, and of a similar editorial of the Examiner itself is the desirability of doing away with Imperial ties. The British Empire, to such as these is a bugbear, and a dream, and if the truth were known it always was. The British Empire, before Canada seceded by declaring a "wholly independent navy" policy, was a power in the world. Its policy was sometimes open to criticism. It welcomed criticism, since it was the home of freedom of opinion and of a sense of honour.

But now all things are changing. Sir Wilfrid Laurier deliberately refused to vote for the resolution in favour of the principle of a united Empire. Of all the delegates to the great defence congress he was the one man who so refused. He has pretended to preach British connection, but the moment the Empire is suggested he backs up and denies his country's birthright. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a polished diplomat. He knows how to say one thing and do another. He is the apostle of a new movement, of an independent Canada. It is useless to disguise the fact. Of what use could a Canadian navy be when the dominion of the high seas had fallen into other hands? And perhaps it would have been due to Canada's very refusal to co-operate that the dominion of the seas did pass into other hands, and that the British Empire became an empire no longer, but a thing of the past. It is for every loyal British subject in Canada to see to it that the present policy is prevented from becoming law. Who can wonder that the other countries of the Empire stand amazed! It may be asked: "What could be the object of such a proceeding?" The object is plain. It is to yield to the demands of French-Canada, which, Grit and Tory, is fighting fiercely and victoriously against the federation of the colonies with the Mother Country.

The Laurier Canadian policy is that of "Little Canada." A baby navy, wholesale, unrestricted corruption and Canadian independence, at the dictation of Quebec, are its chief assets.

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

The statement presented at the annual meeting of the Bank of Ottawa by Mr. David MacLaren, president of that institution, containing a review of the business done by the bank during the past year was very gratifying. Trade appeared to be increasing. The prospects of the bank looked even brighter than hitherto. The number of the bank's branches has increased materially. Its finances likewise show splendid progress. Net profits for the twelve months ended November 30 last, after deducting expenses, and making the necessary provision for all interest accounts and other contingencies amounted to $421,065. Four quarterly dividends at the rate of ten per cent. per annum were paid aggregating $303,785; leaving a balance carried forward, after allowing for other disbursement, to profit and loss account of $455,919. Deposits bearing and not bearing interest show a total of $28,776,193.

Call loans in Canada are given at $1,574,000, while call loans elsewhere than in Canada show $900,000 with current loans at $23,935,513. Cash assets make the total of $14,306,645, which are easily convertible into cash. The total assets are placed at $39,212,189. This is certainly a splendid showing and the shareholders will have reason to commend the management for its administration of the bank's affairs.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Christianity at the Cross-roads" is the title of a book just published, a posthumous work of the late eminent English Jesuit, Father Tyrrell. It is very liberal in its tendency and exposition, at least so the S. W. considers it.

The metaphors now being used to mislead public opinion as to the real character of the Canadian navy are ingenious. We would suggest one which might be read in this wise:—"Since the Imperial Federation idea is now on the rocks in Canada, and since rocks are good things for a foundation, it is desirable, etc."

We venture to make a prophecy. French Canada is opposed to a fleet unit, a contribution to the Imperial navy, and even to an independent Canadian navy, although the last is otherwise unobjectionable to it except as a waste of money. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has garrotted the Imperial possibility and pretended to provide a substitute for it in the wholly Canadian navy scheme. He will ultimately give that idea up also, and then he will have succeeded in heading off imperial union and French discontent at one and the same time. That is what he will do. We are a great people and the greatest and craftiest of these are the French.

Only Medicine That Did Any Good

After Suffering Tortures For Years, This Lady Found Happy Relief In "Fruit-a-tives".

Frankville, Ont., June 11th, 1908.

"I have received most wonderful benefit from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered for years from headaches and pain in the back, and I consulted doctors and took every remedy obtainable without any relief. Then I began taking "Fruit-a-tives" and this was the only medicine that ever did me any real good. I took several boxes altogether, and now I am entirely well of all my dreadful headaches and backaches.

MRS FRANK EATON

I take "Fruit-a-tives" occasionally still, but I am quite cured of a trouble that was said to be incurable. I give this testimony voluntarily, in order that others who suffer as I suffered may try this wonderful medicine and be cured."

(Signed) MRS. FRANK EATON.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial box, 25c—or sent post-paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

The girl who perspires will find that she will aid matters immensely if she will carry a tiny vial of rosewater and alcohol.

Cold water dashed on the face and chest in the morning gives the same tonic effect of a cold plunge in the morning without the shock.

A simple remedy for burns is made by adding to a cupful of olive oil a teaspoonful of carbolic acid. Apply bandage soaked in the mixture.

Relaxation is the secret of taking the mental, moral and physical kinks out of one's system in the warm weather. It will take all the unsightly lines from your face and prevent new ones from forming.

All too frequently is a bottle of poison mistaken for something not deadly. One way to help avoid this danger is to put a brass headed tack in the cork of every bottle containing poison. Impress this fact on the family. One can know immediately whether the bottle holds poison simply by the sense of touch. This knowledge is especially valuable when you are looking for a bottle at night.

If any one of the family is so unfortunate as to sprain his or her ankle this summer you will find that you can make the doctor's part easier by soaking the afflicted member at once in hot water. This relieves the congestion, and by the time the doctor arrives with the bandages the sprain will be ready for treatment. It is better not to wait a moment to find out how serious the injury is, for hot water can do no harm, and the patient's suffering will be greatly lessened by prompt action.

For any inflammation of the eye which comes on suddenly cold water soothes the pain. After persistent trouble very hot water will relieve the pain and reduce the swelling. The eye cup is the most convenient way of bathing the eye, for the eyeball is washed directly. The mouth of the eye cup is oval, which fits around the eye at the margin of the orbit. The eye may be opened into the lotion. A weak solution of boracic acid, 3 per cent, may be safely used. The acid must be fresh and clear, however. Tears are the natural method of cleansing this organ.

Earthquake at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—A distinct earthquake which lasted five seconds, was felt all over the city and district yesterday morning. It began at 1.24.10. Windows were rattled, beds shaken, and particularly in the southern part of the city the shock was severe. Dr. Klotz, of the Dominion Observatory, said yesterday morning that the oscillation was one-three-hundredth of an inch of the earth's particles, and moved in easterly-westerly and northerly-southerly directions. He said it was due to the readjustment of the strains in the earth's crust and took place along the weak lines of the district.

Northern Crown Goes Up.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 11.—Northern Crown Bank certificates yesterday morning reached par, one block of 25 being disposed of on the Winnipeg Stock Exchange at $100.

This is one of the most notable advances which has taken place in the western securities in recent years. In June last these certificates were quoted at 75, with little demand.

The announcement of an addition to the directorate may have had something to do with the strength of certificates, it having been decided to add three directors, J. H. Ashdown, H. T. Champion and W. C. Leistikow.

THE LOCAL OPTION MOVEMENT IN THE CITY

The Matter Appearing in This Department is Furnished by the Peterboroug Temperance and Moral Reform League Which Has Arranged for its Publication.

THE QUESTION OF REVENUE

This question is one that is receiving much attention. Dr. Small made reference to it in his address at the Opera House on Sunday night. The money received into the city treasury from license fees, amounts to something less that 30 cents a head of the population. The head of a family of five, if he voted against local option on account of what it would save him in taxes, would be selling his vote for $1.50, if he were an average ratepayer. A low enough figure surely.

A communication from a citizen of Peterborough, which was handed to the editors of this column this week, puts the matter on a little higher plain. The letter in part reads:

"As a student of the local option question, there is one thing that has been borne in on my mind more than any other, and that is that both sides in the controversy seem to have lost sight of what seems to be the most salient point in the whole matter, viz., that this is not a commercial question but a purely moral one. Whilst the supporters of local option are alive to the fact that the moral point is the important one, they have been so busy controverting the arguments of their opponents that they have forgotten to bring this to the forefront. The matter of dollars and cents should have absolutely no place in the question. If the thing is right from a moral view point, what right have the supporters of the open bar to bring in, in support of their contention, the argument that the closing of the bars will have the effect of ruining either themselves or [illegible] generally?"

Along with this we submit the opinions of two others on this phase of the question. The first is part of a sermon by a distinguished clergyman of the Roman Catholic church, Bishop Macdonell of Alexandra, Ont. It takes the same high moral ground. The other is a deliverance of Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, who will appear here in two or more addresses on Sunday, Dec. 26th. Governor Glenn has been "through the fray." He speaks from experience and knowledge at first hand, and his words carry weight wherever he goes.

BISHOP MacDONELL

Some people will hold out the argument that if you reduce the liquor trade, you cut down the municipal revenue, or national revenue, and that the end justifies the means. But the end does not justify the means, when the end in view, no matter how good it may be, can only be attained by immoral or sinful means. Then it does not justify the means. That is the teaching of the Catholic church. What would Jesus Christ say if he were here? He would tell us as He has already taught us, "What will it profit a man to gain the whole world if he lose his own soul?" Then we must do as Christ has told us. We must follow His teachings, no matter how the municipal revenue may suffer, no matter how the national revenue may suffer. Still this old and silly argument is used, that the liquor business must be sustained to keep up the revenues. And where does all the revenue come from? Is it not from pockets of the unfortunate victims of this vice, who fill the coffers of the bar with what should have gone to the improvement of their homes? And with what result? Do we not see many of these homes in the hands of strangers to-day, and no trace of the original owners? How has this change come about? Through intemperance, or indolence superinduced by drunken habits.

His Lordship concluded his sermon by quoting St. Paul and his dreadful warning to drunkards. He exhorted his hearers not to fail in their duty, but to do everything in their power to eliminate this great evil

GOVERNOR GLENN

Now for argument's sake, let us admit that prohibition is going to add a little bit to your tax. Some poor man, on account of all these licenses being done away with, will have to pay twenty-five cents a year more; some of your fifty cents; some of you a dollar; some five dollars; some that God has prospered a hundred dollars; some that God has made richer, five hundred dollars; some that are millionaires, possibly a thousand dollars. You want to save that twenty-five cents, don't you? You want to save that fifty cents, that dollar, that hundred dollars, that five hundred dollars, that thousand dollars?

Now, over on this hand. I will put the body, I will put the mind, I will put the immortal soul of your pure-eyed child, your sweet little girl, your manly, noble little boy, who might be influenced by the curse of strong drink, to drink, and drinking, become a drunkard, and the drunkard die, and in dying be damned. Is there a man in this audience, is there a woman in this audience, so low, so contemptible, as would measure the soul, the mind, the body of that precious girl or boy against dollars and cents?

But there never was a more miserable lie told on the face of the earth. This miserable, pitiful little license we are getting from these breweries and distilleries and saloons does not begin to compensate us for what we are paying out every day on account of their existence. Put on one side the license money; then put on the other side the cost of the crime, the cost of poverty and sickness, and the debit side is ten times greater than the credit side, in this state or in any other state in the Union.

OBJECTIONS AND ANSWERS

In a recent issue of Pearson's Magazine appeared an article on the subject of Prohibition and Local Option, which purports to be written by a minister of the gospel. It treats the subject, however, from the point of view of the liquor dealer and others who have a pecuniary interest in the business, rather than from that of a seeker after truth. This article is being quietly circulated in Peterborough by the interests opposed to local option and in all probability will be distributed in larger numbers as the campaign nears its end.

The writer makes frequent bald assertions that prohibition has been a failure, but advances little proof of his statements except a few things he claims to have seen personally and some stories that have been told to himself and other "clergymen," by hotelkeepers here and there. He strongly advocates in opposition to any attempt at prohibition, some system of license or "Regulation," as he prefers to call it. The whole argument is based on the assertion that prohibition in various forms has been tried for 50 years, and has been a failure. For this reason regulation is to be preferred, but the writer very conveniently forgets that regulation has been tried for 800 years among English-speaking people and has not been a howling success.

The objections dealt with below are quoted from the article referred to:

LAW-BREAKING

"Prohibition creates widespread and habitual law-breaking. Consider the number of crimes that are committed daily in "dry" terriory. And consider the bad moral effect of this habit of law-breaking on the civic life."

Answer.—This one is old and pretty nearly dead. It has done service for a long time, and has been knocked out so often that one is surprised to find it still kicking. It is a common argument of the liquor interests that prohibition of the traffic increases crime. In this column, figures have been quoted from police records and other sources, opinions of judges, police commissioners, and other civic officials have been given to show that decrease in crime invariably follows the introduction of prohibition. Did space permit, figures could be quoted from the records of this province, to show beyond the shadow of a doubt, two things. First that after the introduction of prohibitory laws; the total number of convictions is greatly decreased. Second, that in proportion to population, the number of convictions in "dry" territory is small compared with that in similar "wet" territory. Not only so, but the convictions are for crimes of a less heinous and violent character. Proof of this has already been furnished in this column. The only form of crime that seems to increase in "dry" territory is that of illegal selling of liquor. And yet in his address here a couple of weeks ago Mr. Ireland in speaking of conditions in Owen Sound, said that it was conceded that less liquor is now sold there ILLEGALLY than under license. It is probable, judging from present indications, that it will be possible to say the same about Peterborough a year hence.

WHAT GOOD HAS THE BAR DONE YOU?

FAIRLY TESTED

Objection No.1.—"No legislative system has ever been more extensively nor fairly tested than prohibition."

Answer.—Yes, the system of regulation, for which the writer pleads so eloquently, has been more extensively tested and for much longer time. It has been in operation at least twenty times as long. Has it ever succeeded to any greater extent than prohibition? Is it not a fact that every license law that ever was enacted has been just as persistently violated and defied as any prohibition law? Can it not truthfully be said that these laws have been, at some time, just as violently condemned as the local option movement is at the present time? The very men who are now fighting prohibition with denunciation, derision and prophecy, were only a few years ago using the same weapons against every proposed advance in the direction of better regulation.

HAS IT FAILED?

Objection No. 2.—"There could be no stronger evidence of the failure of prohibition than the fact that states that adopted the system fifty years ago have since abandoned it and gone back to the policy of license and regulation."

Answer—Twenty-five years ago, a prohibitory law was a new thing. The first laws framed were necessarily crude and defective. Every failure showed where improvement could be made. The present law is a great improvement on the earlier attempts at prohibitory legislation. It may also be added that many places where the earlier laws were tried and abandoned, have, after another trial of license, gone back to prohibition. Does this not prove, by the same process of reasoning, that regulation is even a greater failure?

Our Country's Future Depends Upon Our Manhood and Womanhood, The Bar-room Business is Built up by the Ruin of Both.

BECOMES A PROPHET

Objection No. 3.—"Nothing is more certain than that every state and local option community, in which prohibition now obtains, will ultimately have to return to the policy of regulation."

Answer—Why certain? The writer advances nothing to support this but his own opinion. He is likely to be just as poor a prophet as the unfortunate people who have been bold enough to talk rubbish about grass growing on streets, factories leaving towns, markets disappearing, etc. There has never been any great reform movement but has had its prophets of evil. People whose greed and self interest are aroused, have ever been predicting disaster and return to old conditions, when they have seen the hope of their gains disappearing. Take, for instance, the abolition of slavery, both in the British possessions and in America. There were thousands of eloquent advocates of the traffic, and among them many misguided clergymen, who prophesied, just as this preacher does, that any reform movement would surely lead to ruin and a return to the then existing conditions. The cry then, just as now, was for regulation. But what happened? The prophets, where are they now?

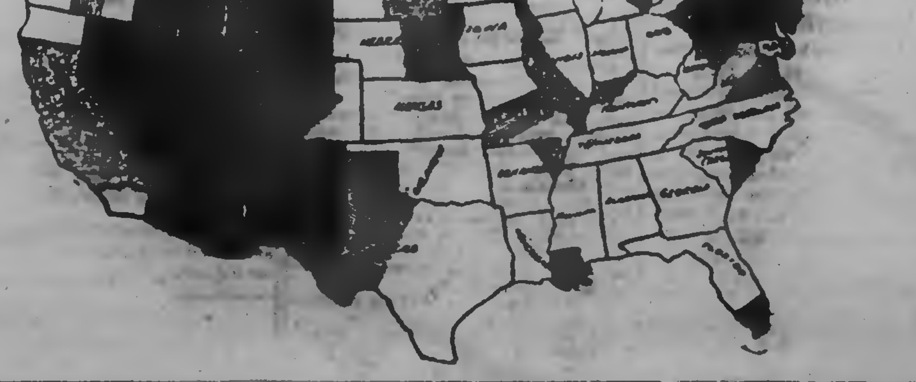
THE ONWARD MARCH

Just as steadily and surely as the intelligent public opinion of Anglo-Saxon civilization wiped out feudalism, autocracy, slavery, privateering and other barbarities, that public opinion is steadily and surely moving on towards the complete suppression of the common traffic in intoxicating beverages. Every year requires a reconstruction of the maps of Canada, Great Britain, New Zealand, Australia and the United States to show the enlargement of the area from which legalized temptations to drink indulgence have been removed.

The Year Book of the Anti-Saloon League of the United States has just been issued and is, as usual, packed full of useful information and records of progress that are gratifying and inspiring. We have pleasure in copying from it a map showing the proportions of "wet" and "dry" territory in the great Republic. This map represents the situation as it was on January 1st of the present year. The states shown in white have state-wide prohibitory laws. These that are black have no Local Option legislation. Those partly shaded and partly white have large areas brought under prohibition through Local Option. The shaded and white parts represent, respectively, the areas in which licenses are not granted.

It will be noted that the State of Maryland is partly black and partly white. It has no Local Option law, but ten of its twenty three counties are under prohibition by special legislative enactment. The Year Book sets out in detail, with a separate map the situation in each state, and a summary of the whole, made up by Collier's Weekly, is subjoined for the information of our readers:

UNITED STATES MAP OF "WET" AND "DRY" TERRITORY



THE MORE BAR-ROOMS THE MORE DRUNKENNESS

OUR OLD FRIEND, MAINE

Objection No. 4.—Now let us turn for a moment to our old friend, the State of Maine. That prohibition has been a failure and a farce in that state is a matter of common knowledge. No one who is not a blind partizan will deny this."

Answer.—Well, let us see. Here are a few facts—a comparison between Portland, Me., and Boston, Mass., the nearest large city, a little "Tale of Two Cities."

For every 10,000 population, Boston has 436 arrests for drunkenness and Portland has 84.

It costs Boston $3 per head to police the city, and Portland $1.05

It costs Boston 29 cents per head for jails, and Portland 2 cents.

In the whole of prohibition Maine, there are 13 criminals per 10,000 of population and in "regulated" Massachusetts there are 33.

These are facts and not stories told to a clergyman whose name is wonderfully like that of the author of article. In the face of these facts, it ought to be borne in mind that no community in America has made a more prolonged and earnest effort at regulation than Boston. It is said at the present time to have the highest license fee in the country.

THE WORKING OF REGULATION

It may be necessary to refer to this article again. In the meantime the public are again cautioned to watch for arguments like these, that may be dumped on them during the last days of the campaign, when no public reply can be made, and there is no time to look into them fully. If they could stand the test, we would have them now.

In conclusion, we cannot do better than make another quotation from the same article, in which the writer in speaking of some of the defects that "regulations" ought to correct, says:

"Some liquor dealers have condoned and encouraged conditions repugnant to moral sense and destructive of decency and good order. They have encouraged other vices, such as gambling and the social evil. They have catered and pandered to the worst passion and impulses of human nature. And they have done all this in a cold-blooded desire to increase the volume of their business."

Is it not somewhat remarkable that a man who condemns prohibition, on the ground that it has failed to make good after a trial of fifty years, should advocate a system that produces such evils as these after a trial of almost a thousand years?

TELEPHONING TO THE COUNTRY

THE City and the Country are bound together by the telephone line.

The farmer and his family use the rural telephone constantly, calling up each other and the market town on all sorts of matters and for all sorts of supplies and information.

City people also find the rural telephone of great advantage. A traveller from his room in the hotel talks with the farm folk miles away. Without the telephone he could not reach them.

The farmer himself may travel far and still talk home over the Long Distance Lines of the Bell System.

WINNERS OF MEDALS FOR BEST WRITING ANNOUNCED

The Review is in a position to-day to announce the winners of the silver medals presented by Mr. John Crane, manager of the Peterborough branch of the Dominion Bank, for the best writing done by pupils in the Public and Separate schools and Collegiate Institute. A large number of students competed for the medals and it was a difficult matter to pick out the best. The awards are as follows;

Public and Separate Schools, 3rd Book—Elizabeth R. Barrie.

Public and Separate Schools, 4th Book—Alithea Clementi.

Lower School, Collegiate Institute. —Madge Graham.

Special medal to Entrance Class 1909. Stella Sherwin.

It is a somewhat singular coincidence that last year the Separate school pupils captured all the medals while this year the Public school pupils carried off the honors. There has been a remarkable improvement in the writing over the samples submitted last year. In fact the quality of the writing that carried off the medals this year is of such a nature that it has won unbounded praise from those who have seen the samples.

STREET CAR STRUCK SLEIGH; BOYS THROWN ON TO ROAD

Two boys had a miraculous escape at the corner of Charlotte and Reid streets this morning. They came down the hill from the corner of Reid and Hunter streets on a "bob" sleigh and shot across the street car track on Charlotte street just in front of a west-bound Edison car. The car caught the sleigh in the middle and it was carried on the tender for a short distance when the car was stopped.

The boys were knocked off the car by the force of the collision, but fortunately both escaped injury.

CHRISTMAS RUSH AT POST OFFICE

Clerks and Carriers Will Soon be Working Overtime--Some Timely Hints

The Christmas rush of mail matter is already being felt at the Peterborough post office. Of course the real deluge has not started yet, but it is only a matter of a few days before the clerks will be up to the neck in letters and parcels, and taking side strokes to keep themselves above the surface. Extra hands will be employed at the post office during the holiday rush, and it may be necessary to have a carrier or two extra.

Regarding the sending of Christmas postcards, the quantity of which is an enormous one, there are one or two things to be considered if one wishes these appropriate little reminders of goodwill to reach their destinations. One is that postcards ornamented with what is generally known as "glitter" are not allowed, and are consigned to the dead letter office when received, as they destroy the machines employed in stamping. Cards of this kind should be enclosed in envelopes and prepaid 2c. each. Photographs, book packages, Christmas cards and calendars must not be sealed but tied and left open to inspection. A mistake very frequently made in regard to fancy postcards, too, say the officials at the post office, is that of neglecting to prepay them. People who have been in the habit of purchasing the ordinary postcards, which are prepaid, often forget that the fancy ones are not. It should also be remembered that outside Canada, United States and Mexico the rate on postcards is 2 cents.

In regard to the sending of money orders, about the only point of importance to be borne in mind is that these orders should be sent in time to arrive before Christmas day if one expects the recipient to cash them in time.

DECEMBER SESSIONS

Only One Criminal Case to be Heard Before Judge Huycke on Tuesday

The December sessions of the County Court will open on Tuesday at one o'clock. Judge Huycke will preside and the cases are as follows, there being one criminal case, that of a charge of perjury against P. J. Carroll.

An action brought by Margaret O'Shea against Samuel Cottingham, administrator of the estate of the late J. J. Cottingham for $1,000 lent by the plaintiff to J. J. Cottingham, deceased, in December, 1908. The defendant claims that the above sum is simply the return of monies borrowed by plaintiff from deceased J. J. Cottingham. Counsel for plaintiff, Dennistoun, Peck and Kerr; and for defendant Bennett & Goodwill.

Margaret R. McGregor against Charles and Nora McDonald for $396 damages for injuries to plaintiff's horse while pasturing in defendant's premises. Mr. R. Ruddy for plaintiff and O'Connell & Gordon for defendants.

James Kelly vs. George O'Neill, John Haggart and John Mervin.

In December, 1908, Kelly gave to one Cavanagh, livery stable keeper, a horse to keep for him. Cavanagh afterwards sold out to George O'Neill, who took possession, including the horse. O'Neill claiming $90.35 for keep, sold the horse by auction to satisfy the account; defendant, Haggart, being the auctioneer. Plaintiff further claims, that he tendered defendant, O'Neill, sufficient sum for charges, which was refused. The horse was sold to Mervin for $162, and same amount was not paid over to plaintiff. Plaintiff also alleges that the horse was not sold for the best price.

For the defence O'Neil states that he had a lien on the horse as a livery stable keeper for its board, the amount of which was not paid. Proceedings to enforce the lien by sale were necessary. Further he states there was a chattle mortgage against the horse. Defendant, Mervin, claims he purchased the horse at public auction for $160, a fair price, and the highest bid. He claims he is entitled to reclaim it. Bennett & Goodwill for the plaintiff. O'Connell & Gordon for O'Neill and Haggart, G. W. Hatton for Mervin.

Wm. R. Rose and Wm. T. Carruthers vs. H. Mitchell. This is an action to recover $145, the price of a horse, which plaintiff alleges was sold to defendant. Bennett and Goodwill for plaintiff. R. F. McWilliams for defendants.

Good Music on Edison Records

Quality and variety are the distinguishing features of the Edison Phonograph Record lists for December. In the four-minute list Sousa's Band is heard in "Manhattan Beach" and "El Capitan" marches (one cylinder); Victor Herbert's Orchestra renders 'Bach's Air;' Herbert L. Clarke, the famous cornetist, offers his solo, "The Bride of the Waves;" Harry Lauder sings three of his most popular numbers; and there are vocal and instrumental offerings by regular and special talent.

As is customary, a feature number is a specially arranged Christmas band selection, introducing a mixed quartette and chorus. There is a similarly arranged number in the two-minute list, in which list Herbert's Orchestra also interprets 'Mendelssohn's Spring Song;' Sousa's Band adds new life to 'The Yankee Shuffle;' Josie Sadler sings 'Blind and P.G;' Will Oakland, Manuel Romain, Grace Cameron and the other regular Edison staff of artists are heard in a variety of pleasing selections.

The twenty-eight Grand Opera Records, on sale December 1, are the best efforts of such operatic stars as Florencio Constantino; Leo Slezak, the Austro-Germanic tenor; Riccardo Martin, the American tenor; Blanche Arral and Adelina Agostinelli, sopranos; M. Duclos, tenor; Louis Nicelly, baritone and Gaston Dubois, tenor. The Italian Amberol Record list is augmented by two numbers and the standard by one.

The J. M. Greene Music Co., Ltd., are representatives for Edison Phonographs and Records. They carry at all times a complete line of machines and their record stock is large and well selected. You should visit their store and hear them. Ad

THAT WATCH OF YOURS

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch. You put it in your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker, and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time-keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones call around and see us.

THE PETERBORO' LIGHT AND POWER CO'S. BY-LAW

A by-law will be submitted to the electors on the 3rd of January, which, if passed, will grant to the Peterborough Light and Power Co. the right to place poles on the streets of Peterborough and leave them there for thirty years. This is a very important matter and should be considered carefully by all those who have a vote. The question has been gone into very thoroughly by a special committee of the City Council. This committee drew up an agreement, which protected the city's interests, and submitted to the City Council who, in turn, approved of it. It can therefore, be taken for granted that if this special committee and the City Council, after careful and mature consideration, were satisfied with the agreement, it must be fair, and the citizens should support the action of the City Council by voting for the by-law.

The conditions under which poles are erected in Peterborough, are now very unsatisfactory and the Council have passed, during the last few years, several by-laws with a view of regulating the placing of poles. These by-laws may be good enough in themselves, but each company operating in the city has been given, or has acquired, certain privileges, and it is very difficult to put into force a general by-law governing all of them, and the only way for the council to get satisfactory control of these companies is by entering into a separate agreement with each one of them. This year's council evidently recognized this fact, and when the Light and Power Company applied for a pole franchise they took the question up and worked out an agreement which gives the citizens absolute control over its streets, as far as the operations of the Light and Power Company are concerned, and it acquired for the citizens a number of concessions which could not otherwise have been had for a number of years. In this agreement the council has insisted upon the company removing a number of poles off George street and placing the remaining poles flush with the kerb, so that the street may be paved. It has bound the Company down to do all future work under the direction of the city engineer, and to allow the city to use their poles, if it wants to light the streets by power generated at the Water Works Dam, or at any other dam it may purchase. It has insisted upon the company allowing other companies to use their poles, and to put their wires underground if the council wishes them to. It has fixed a pole rental which will make the company pay more than double the amount they are now paying. It has made them reduce the minimum charge to meter customers and agree not to charge any meter rent. It has made them give a discount of 30 per cent. instead of 25 per cent. on house lighting, and—one of the most important points—it has bound the company for thirty years not to charge any higher rates than those mentioned in the by-law, but reserved the right to have the higher rates adjusted every five years by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, if the council think they are too high.

Taking all the conditions of the by-law into consideration, it seems that the passing of it would be a good thing for the city, as the people gain a number of concessions, and are still free to deal with any other company that may come along. The by-law does not give the Light and Power Company an exclusive right to use the streets, it merely gives them the privilege of erecting their poles under the direction of the City Council.

This by-law is being submitted to the people with an object. That object is a matter of the company's concern. It wishes to bond its assets to the est advantage for the purpose of further development, and this by-law provides a basis of mutual understanding or agreement between the company and the city, which is necessary to that end.

The following is a synopsis of the By-Law granting the Peterborough Light & Power Co a Thirty Year Pole Franchise to be voted on in January:—

Clause 1—The Company agrees to remove before June 1st, 1910, all surplus poles from George street, and to rebuild the pole line on this street so that all poles will be flush with the curb.

Clause 2.—The Company agrees to do all future work under the supervision of the City Engineer, or someone else appointed by the Council to look after the work.

Clause 3.—The Company agrees in future not to place any poles on the streets without the written consent of the City Engineer.

Clause 4.—The Company agrees to change the location of any poles when requested to do so by the City Engineer, provided they are not asked to move more than 5 per cent. of the total number of poles in any one year.

Clause 5.—The Company agrees to allow the City to use their poles if the City wishes to do its own street lighting after the present contract expires, and also to use the Company's poles to carry fire alarm or other such wires.

Clause 6.—The Company agrees to allow other companies the use of their poles by paying a rental, to be fixed by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

Clause 7.—The Company agrees to put their wires underground in the business section of the city after January 1st, 1914, if the City Council wishes them to do so, and also as soon as the City has a population of 30,000 the Company will put their wires underground whenever ordered to do so by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

Clause 8.—The Company agrees to use only the most modern appliances and apparatus, and to hold the City free from any damages caused by the fact that they have their poles and wires on the streets.

Clause 9.—The Company agrees that after its present contract with the City expires it will pay a pole rental of $1.00 each, for the first two hundred poles, and 50 cents each for all poles above two hundred, but not to pay less than $400.00 a year.

Clause 10.—The Company agrees at the end of thirty years, to remove all its poles and wires from the streets.

Clause 11.—The Company agrees for the full term of thirty years not to charge any rent for meters, or rent for transformers for installations up to 15 h.p.

Clause 12.—(a) The Company agrees, for the full term of thirty years, to allow a discount of 30 per cent, instead of 25 per cent, on all house-lighting accounts, and to reduce the minimum charges to meter customers from twelve dollars to nine dollars per year.

(b) The Company agrees to allow commercial customers who are on a flat rate, to use whatever candle power lamps they wish, and to pay for the lamps in proportion to their size on a basis of $3.00 per year for a 16 candle power lamp.

(c) The Company agrees to reserve, for manufacturing purposes, 2000 horse power above what is supplied to the Quaker Oats Company.

Clause 13.—The Company agrees to allow the rates for light and power to be adjusted every five years by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, and also agrees that the rates mentioned in the By-law shall not be increased during the thirty years.

Clause 14.—The Company agrees that nothing in this By-Law shall interfere with any rights the City now has, or may acquire, in regard to going into the Light and Power business.

Clause 15.—The Company agrees that if the City should wish to purchase its business it will not ask anything for prospective profits or franchise rights.

Clause 16.—The Company agrees that the City Council shall have the option of having any matters in dispute, under this by-law, determined by a board of arbitrators under the Arbitrators' Act, instead of by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board

Clause 17.—The City gives the Company the right to place its poles and wires on the streets for thirty years.

N.B.—It might be pointed out that this By-Law gives the Peterborough Light and Power Company only the right to place its poles and wires on the streets. It is not a contract for street lighting, and is not an exclusive franchise; the City, even if this By-law is passed, will have a perfect right to give franchise rights to other companies.

THE CHOIR HELD ANNUAL BANQUET

Vocalists of Charlotte St. Church Have Enjoyable Evening-Fine Banquet and Good Toast List

The Charlotte street Methodist choir held their annual banquet last evening. In addition to the members of the choir, those members of the church who entertained the choir during the year, and the Musical Committee with them, were present.

The tables were arranged in the form of a cross, decorated in red and white and lighted by candle flame. The fowl supper provided was excellent and was daintily served. Great credit is due to the ladies for their skill in bringing this part of the banquet to such a successful ending.

Supper ended, the following toast list was given:—

"The King," by Messrs. Rudyard and H. B. Collier.

"Our Country," by Messrs. Fleming and Cunningham.

"Our Church," by Mr. Kidd and Rev. Henderson.

"The Gentlemen," by Mrs. Collier and Miss Pringle.

"The Ladies," Messrs. Skitch and Ecclestone.

"The Choir," Messrs. Kennedy, Morrow and Miss Clarry.

Messrs. Lee, Skitch, Ecclestone and Downey sang solos, which were enjoyed by all.

The male quartette sang "Jim," after the toast to the ladies.

Misses Lee and Pringle sang solos, which delighted the gathering.

Mr. Downey was toastmaster.

Every part of the programme was ably carried out, which reflects great credit on all those who took part.

SILVER WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED

By Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell at Their Home on Charlotte St. Were the Recipients of Many Beautiful Presents

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell, 532 Charlotte street, was the scene of a happy event last evening, when, with about thirty of their friends, they celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. An interesting feature of the affair was that the majority of the guests were present at the marriage ceremony of Mr. and Mrs. Bell, twenty-five years ago. The decorations were of carnations and chrysanthemums, and the music was furnished by Cunningham's orchestra. Shortly after nine o'clock the gathering sat down to a dainty repast, at which many interesting reminiscences were recalled. After the many good things which had been prepared had been partaken of, speeches of a congratulatory nature to the host and hostess were made and the remainder of the evening was spent in a sociable manner.

Many beautiful gifts, emblematic of the occasion, were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell were married in North Monaghan by the Rev. Thomas Manning, now of Sarnia.

The guests last evening included Mrs. Bell's father, Mr. Joseph Bairnard, Dufferin street, Ashburnham.

SPORTING NEWS

MARATHONS AGAIN THIS YEAR; IS WHAT SOL MINTZ SAYS

Sol Mintz, the manager of Tom Longboat, says that Marathon racing will probably be in vogue again this winter in New York and some of the other big stands. Mr. Mintz is here with his charge, Tom Longboat, who meets Billy Sherring at the Brock st. rink to-night in a ten mile race.

"I have been in touch with Pat Powers" said the well known Hamilton sporting man to the Review, "and feel certain that he will put on some more marathons this year and the stellar performers in the distance game will again command public attention.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR SENIOR CHURCH HOCKEY LEAGUE

Annual meeting of Church Hockey League was held last evening in the Y.M.C.A parlours with a good representation of clubs on hand to discuss affairs of the incoming season. The election of officers resulted as follows,

Patrons and Patronesses—The ministers of the city churches and their their wives.

Hon. President—Mr. Herb Campbell.

Hon. Vice-President—Mr. T. F. Matthews.

President—Mr. W. Rose.

Vice-President—Mr. H. McCannon.

Sec.-Treasurer—J. O. Reed.

A resolution to change the form of the players' certificates so that signatures of the minister of the church to which the player belongs, shall be necessary before the player is eligible to play, was carried.

O.H.A. rules govern league as far as local circumstances permit.

A committee composed of Messrs. A. E. Wilson, J. Pilling and W. Cartner, was appointed to make arrangements for rinks for this season and report at the next meeting to be held in the Y.M.C.A. next Thursday, Dec. 17th, at 8 p.m.

All churches intending to enter teams in the league are urged to have representatives at this meeting. All those interested in having a team placed in this league are requested to send representatives to the meeting.

SPORTING NOTES

The Ottawa salary list this season will amount to about $15,000.

Credit is due Jim Jeffries for taking his stand against the proposition to reserve a large number of seats for ladies.

Tom Phillips is apparently outshined this season. Very little has been heard of the man who was the big noise last year.

According to a Toronto paper, "Jakey" Moore will play with the senior Argos this winter. He will strength the defence a whole lot.

RUGBY

RUNNERS ARE HERE

For Ten Mile Race at Brock Street Rink This Evening.

Both Tom Longboat and Billy Sherring are looking fit for their ten mile race at the Brock street rink this evening. Owing to the fame and publicity that Sherring has earned by reason of his splendid distance running, the Peterborough fans are very anxious to see him in action.

The Onandaga displays a clannishness worthy of a Scotchman, and since he came here last night has been asking for Fred Simpson, the Hiawatha distance man. The two Indian runners are on the most intimate terms.

Both men are confident and say they are in the very best condition.

SPORTING TALK

Capt. Ross Craig, the husky auburn-haired wing player, is the only man on the team who was not born at Dundas. Peterborough is his native town, and he played on two championship teams before coming to Dundas. He is a machinist and is married. Rugby is almost a religion with Craig. Few men know the fine points of the game better than Craig, and he can plan and scheme with the best football general.—Hamilton Spectator.

NEW PREMISES FOR WARNE BROS.

Warne Bros. have again demonstrated their progressiveness by securing enlarged quarters, and have taken the store lately occupied by E. F. Mason & Co., next to R. Hall & Son's. This store is very much more suitable for the handling of the rapidly increasing business of the Messrs. Warne giving, as it does, about double the floor space. This morning the Christmas stock of both the drug store and jewellery sections was moved in, and put in place, ready for the Saturday trade, and presented quite a bright and attractive appearance. Both stores will be occupied for a while, but the new store will finally be the home of the firm.

GANANOQUE MAN OUT OF TROUBLE

Had Rheumatism, but Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured It.

Hugh Abernethy on His Feet Again—Cure is Easy, Simple, Natural and Permanent.

Gananoque, Ont., Dec. 10.—(Special)—That Rheumatism can be cured surely, simply and permanently is the good news that Hugh Abernethy, a well-known resident of King street, is spreading among his neighbors.

"I had suffered from Rheumatism and stiffness of the joints," Mr. Abernethy states. "My muscles would cramp. I could not sleep, and I had terrible headaches. I took many different medicines, but nothing did me any good till I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes put me on my feet again."

Others who have taken Mr. Abernethy's advice and used Dodd's Kidney Pills are also loud in their praises of the old reliable Canadian Kidney remedy. For Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Rheumatism and other blood diseases by curing the Kidneys. Sound Kidneys keep the blood free from impurities. And with no impurities, such as uric acid in the blood you cannot have such painful and dangerous diseases as Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia, and Heart Disease.

Keep your Kidneys strong and well with Dodd's Kidney Pills and you can face the cold, wet days of fall without a fear of Rheumatism.

ORIGIN OF THE XMAS STAMP.

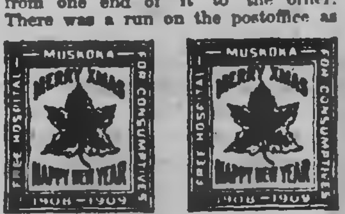
The Work It Did In Denmark Before Being Introduced Here.

In a recent issue of The Outlook Mr. Jacob Riis, the well-known philanthropist, has this to say of Christmas stamps, such as are now being sold in support of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives:

"It was in October, 1904, that a committee of fifteen met in Copenhagen to devise ways of putting in practice the idea of a Christmas stamp, advanced by a postal official, Mr. Holboell. I do not know how much of it was original with him. There has been charity stamps before. They are used in Austria, and in Holland whence there came recently a wail begging people to buy them for stamp collections. And I know that they were considered in Germany, but for some reason, I believe, did not find favor. I think I can guess the reason. They didn't have the right spokesman. It remained for Hans Christian Andersen's countryman to enlist Santa Claus. With him as their champion they don't have to ask anybody to buy the stamps in Denmark. Their only trouble is how to print enough. The people, the king, and the postoffice think of nothing else than how they can best help along the cause.

"This was the upshot of the committee's work: That two million stamps were to be printed, and sold through the postoffices at two oere each (about half a cent) during the Christmas season—to be exact, from December 9 to January 6—the proceeds to be used in building a hospital for tubercular children, something like our Sea Breeze in New York. The Government stipulated only that the stamps should be different in size and shape from the ordinary postage stamps, so as to be easily distinguishable from them. The Christmas stamp is not good for postage; every other way it is good—for the man who buys it and puts it on his letter; for the clerk who concels it with a glad thought for the little waifs with every whack; for the postman who delivers the letter with a smile as broad and as good as Christmas itself. The proof that they like it is this: that they refused to a man to take anything for their work. In the plan of the committee there was provided a small profit of ten oere on each sheet of fifty stamps, for the local postoffices, but it was refused. They all wanted to help.

"The newspapers joined hands; that was another part of the plan. Posters telling of it were put up everywhere. Denmark is a small country, and a thing gets quickly to be talked of from one end of it to the other. There was a run on the postoffice as soon as the stamps were out. The two million became four, then six. Business houses asked the privilege of retailing the stamps; but that was refused. They were told to buy them at the postoffices, and they did. Many business houses let no letter or package pass out in the holiday season without the Christmas stamp. The executive committee of four that was appointed to manage things had their hands full giving out stamps. They were not allowed to give out much else. Labor, office rent, furniture—everything outside of the actual printing of the stamps—was given to them. When it was all over, it was shown that 4,113,000 stamps had been sold and paid for—about two for every man, woman, and child in the country. The children's hospital had to its account in the savings bank 68,000 kroner through this penny subscription.



"That was the first year's showing, when the matter had been talked of only a month or two. I saw in the Danish papers that last year's receipts the third season's—were nearly four times as big. The hospital is built, I suppose, by this time, or under way, and out of a small beginning has grown a great benefaction. But that is not the greatest thing accomplished, to my mind. The thought itself, with its power of setting everybody to thinking of a great wrong that can only be righted through everybody's thinking of it, deserves that place. What else is the tuberculosis scourge than such a wrong? Nothing in all the world is better proven to-day than that it is a preventable disease, and therefore needless. And yet in our own country, to bring the matter home, it goes on year after year killing an army of one hundred and fifty thousand persons, and desolating countless homes in which half a million men and women are always wearily dragging themselves to graves dug by this single enemy. Perhaps I feel strongly about it, and no wonder. It killed six of my brothers, and I guess I know. That was in the days when there was no help for it. There is now."

As You Would the Enemy.

A certain captain having been ordered on foreign service, gave a farewell dinner to his company. Addressing the men before the meal, he said: "Now, lads, treat this dinner as you would your enemy." So, nothing loath, the men fell to and made a hearty meal; but after dinner Private Jones was discovered stowing away half a goose and a large cake in a bag. Highly incensed, the captain asked him what he meant by such conduct.

"Please, sir," said Jones, "I'm obeying orders."

"Obeying orders," roared the captain. "What do you mean?"

"Yes, sir," said the unbashed private. "You told me to treat this dinner as you would your enemy, and you know, sir, when we meet an enemy, those we don't kill we take prisoners."

WHAT WOMEN INVENT.

Five Safety Razors Among the Things to Be Exhibited in London.

What was the inspiration of the five Englishwomen who during the last year felt that their inventive powers were put to their best use in inventing safety razors? At all events, five such appliances will be exhibited in the forthcoming London exhibition of inventions by women. The inventive spirit of Englishwomen seems well developed. There are on an average every year about 1,500 new contrivances patented. The greater number of these are, naturally enough, intended for the use of their own sex, although there are such occasional exceptions.

Other recent forms of their inventive skill when it soared far beyond the needs of mere women were shown in an automobile, a steam engine and a flying machine. Of sterner stuff than most of their sex even in this country of militant suffragettes were the inventors who applied to patent their methods of strengthening the sides of ships in their powers of resistance and the new kind of invisible shield to be worn in war. Yet these superwomen were rare among the whole number, most of whom devoted themselves to such characteristic inventions as new kinds of hats for women and children a method of washing furs, an apparatus to kill chickens painlessly, newfangled clothes for dogs and similar evolutions of feminine necessities. This exhibition is a contrast to that which will soon be opened in Paris dedicated to proving the social misery of women through their legal and social inferiority to man. It is prophesied that the most stubborn opponents of woman suffrage will be convinced by this eloquent collection of documents, pictures and other evidence.

Furniture News.

To give the desired "old" look to new finish has been found for furniture. This is nothing more or less than rubbed off edges. In heavy fumed oak the rungs and arms of chairs, the corners of sideboards, all little protuberances that would naturally have met the most wear in real antique furniture, have been treated possibly with sandpaper—so that the lighter ground wood shows through irregularly. Inlay is a feature of much of the new furniture. Strips of satin wood in mahogany, fanciful designs in colored wood, mother of pearl, etc. and even that imitation of inlay gained by painting or stenciling some glaring flowers or vines on the surface, in the manner of bedroom sets of old, are seen on some of the handsomest pieces for use in every part of the house—drawing room, dining room, bedroom, boudoir.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

WRAP YOUR GIFTS DAINTILY

Make Your Gifts Attractive—Use Holly Cards, Tags and Seals

A large amount of pleasure in receiving a Christmas gift lies in the manner in which the gift is wrapped. If the parcel is daintily tied up, decorated with pretty holly seals and has a pretty card enclosed conveying the best wishes of the donor, the anticipation is sure to be greater than if the parcel is roughly tied in a careless manner, in perhaps, used wrappings.

So if you would have your gifts appreciated to the highest extent, see that they are wrapped up as nicely as possible. First you will need to supply yourself with some clear white paper; then you need some fancy cards, either small or large, in keeping with the gift; then some fancy tags for the outside and these may be had in two or three sizes and designs. After the parcel is tied up, a Christmas stamp may be put in one corner, and the openings sealed with holly seals, of which there are several designs.

If you do this your parcel will look very much nicer and the recipient of it is sure to enjoy receiving it much more. All these materials may be bought at the Review Office, and really are not expensive. Call and secure some of them before the supply is disposed of.

Two Mills Using Same Quality of Wheat May Not Produce Same Quality of Flour

The quality of flour largely depends on the milling. Two mills might grind wheat of the same quality and the product of one far outclass the other. It is not only the high quality of the hard wheat used, but also the superior milling facilities, that places "PURITY" flour so far above all others. Our milling plant at St. Boniface, Manitoba, cost nearly $1,000,000, and is one of the most perfectly equipped mills in the world. The wheat itself is subjected to the most wonderful system of cleaning and scouring, passing through twenty distinct machines. Fifty-five steel rollers, the largest in Canada, reduce the wheat into flour. Then it is purified and dressed by "bolting" it through silk sifters of fine mesh. Not a "branny" particle or speck of dust is ever found in "Purity" Flour.

You may have to pay a little more for Purity, but baking results, quality and quantity, prove it is worth far more than the slight difference.

We have two other modernly equipped mills at Brandon, Man., and Goderich, Ont.

RUPTURE

Some Good News For the Ruptured of Our Country.

I wish to add something more today to the news I have recently published of the coming in Peterborough of Mr. A. Claverie, the distinguished French specialist whose methods and apparatus have been adopted all over the world, and specially in Canada with the greatest enthusiasm by patients and doctors.

It is not my intention to enter into very long explanations because such are better given in person to those who are interested, and because Mr. A. Claverie will be entirely at the disposal of the ruptured, who shall go and see him; he will give them free and willingly all advice and information they shall require.

I shall only say that results are way beyond expectations.

Under the pressure of the apparatus, carefully calculated for every case, the rupture is pressed back in its normal place and does not protrude out any more.

The apparatus is warranted to maintain any rupture whatever its size. Moreover, it never displaces itself owing to its suppleness, which is extremely delicate and which makes it easy to wear night or day, even by the most sensitive persons.

So, it is not surprising to hear that the method and the apparatus of Mr. A. Claverie have been adopted so far by nearly 1,000,000 (one million) sufferers all over the world, and that the most flattering testimonials of gratitude are sent in numbers to the eminent specialist.

No doubt that the unfortunate sufferers from rupture from all our district will go in haste to try these apparatus, which have brought health and life to so many afflicted.

Dr. Namy.

Mr. Andrew Claverie will be in Peterborough on Wednesday, the 15th, and on Thursday, the 16th of December. He will receive at the Oriental Hotel from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. All advice given free. Absolute secrecy. Special attention for ladies.

NEW LIVERY FOR PETERBORO

Mr. J. Akey Will Open Superior One at Oriental Barns

Mr. James Akey, the well-known and experienced liveryman, is opening a new and thoroughly up-to-date livery business at the Oriental stables.

Mr. Akey announces that he secured a complete line of new vehicles and will be able to cater to the most exacting trade. His horses will also be of the best order and he will be able to supply his patrons with turnouts for family, general purpose and other kinds of driving.

THEATRICAL

Miss Harriet Duke, who created such an impression by her fine acting as "Salome" in the play of that name, when it was presented by Mr. Daniel Ryan and company at the Grand last year, is with Mr. Ryan's company again this year, and plays the leading feminine role in "The Fox," which will be given at the Opera House tonight.

ANNUAL MEETING ST. PAUL'S W.F.M.S.

Past Year Was Successful One—Miss Herdman Gave Interesting Address

A large number of women attended the 33rd annual meeting of St. Paul's Women's Foreign Missionary Society yesterday afternoon.

After the opening exercises Miss Dickson, the President, gave a splendid address, taking as her theme, "The Royal Commission," and basing her remarks on the verse, "As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world."

Miss Herdman, of India, also addressed the meeting on the village work around Mhow, where she and Miss Weir have been laboring. Miss Herdman's address was most interesting, and gave a very vivid description of their work from day to day, as carried on in the market places, or on the way from village to village. Miss Herdman wore the native costume, and had many souvenirs from India, and also sang some of their hymns.

The Fraser Mission Band submitted an encouraging report for the year, showing an average attendance of fourteen, and a balance in the bank of $106.87.

The Faithful Workers' Mission Band also reported a successful year, with an average attendance of nineteen, and a balance in the bank of $96.36.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

In presenting the 33rd annual report of our society, we are grateful to our Heavenly Father for His guidance and blessing throughout the year.

Meetings have been held regularly every month, with the exception of August, the average attendance being 31.

The January meeting, as usual, was especially devoted to prayer. This year the study of the Nearer and Farther East was found most interesting, two ladies having charge of the meeting each month. A general willingness to prepare papers or take part in the programmes is becoming more evident every year.

At our May meeting Mrs. Roger gave a most interesting and helpful report of the annual meeting in Ottawa, and at our June meeting Mrs. Shook fully reported the Presbyterian meeting at Port Hope.

Our society sent a bale of clothing valued at $75.29, to the school at Birtle, which contained an outfit for a girl of seven, supplies for the boarding school, as well as quilts and garments for the old and feeble on the reserve. The thank offering meeting in October was largely attended, and our thank offering of $468.53 again exceeds former years.

We are pleased to note that more of the envelopes were used for this meeting, and this no doubt accounts for the increase in our collections.

We regret the removal from Peterborough of some of our members, and we are sorry that more of the new members are not coming forward to take their places.

We have again to record the death of two of our members, Mrs. Alexander Lawson, who passed to her eternal home on September 1st, and on October 25th, Mrs. John Haslitt fell asleep. Although not often present at our meetings both these ladies manifested their interest by being members of our Auxiliary. One of the last things Mrs. Haslitt did was to make a comforter for the bale of clothing sent to the Indians.

We would like to urge the members, who are not subscribers for Foreign Missionary Tidings, to subscribe for it, as it is filled with most interesting news, and a great stimulus to the work of the society.

"The Interior," as usual, was sent by our society to the missionaries in India, where it is much appreciated.

With thankfulness for many blessings received during the past year, let us press on being assured, that He who has blessed us will bless us still if we are faithful in His work.

M. H. MacLEAN,
Secretary.

THIRTY-FIFTH ANNUAL MEETING

The Thirty-fifth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of The Bank of Ottawa was held on Wednesday, the 8th day of December, 1909, the President, Mr. David Maclaren, in the chair.

Report of the Directors

The Directors beg to submit to the Shareholders the Thirty-fifth Annual Report, showing the statement of Profit and Loss for the year, and the Balance Sheet to 30th ultimo:

Balance at credit of Profit and Loss Account on 30th November, 1908, was		$405,991.22
Net Profits for the year ended 30th November, 1909, after deducting expenses of management, and making necessary provision for interest due to depositors, unearned interest on current loans and for all bad and doubtful debts, and contingencies		421,065.49
		$827,056.71
Appropriated as follows:—

Dividend No. 71, 2½ per cent., paid 1st June, 1909	75,000.00
Dividend No. 72, 2½ per cent., paid 1st September, 1909	75,000.00
Dividend No. 73, 2½ per cent., paid 1st December, 1909	78,785.83
Applied in reduction of Bank Premises and Furniture	47,351.07
Transferred to Officers' Pension Fund	10,000.00
		$361,136.90
Balance carried forward at credit of Profit and Loss Account		$465,919.81

Branches of the Bank have been opened since the last Annual Meeting, at Cochrane, Ont.; Fort William, Ont.; Edmonton, Alta.; Swift Current, Sask.; Vancouver, B.C.; Queen Street (Chaudiere), Ottawa, and Cartier Street, Ottawa, and sub-offices at Casselman, Ont., and Mountain, Ont., while it has been deemed advisable to close the sub-offices at Jasper, Ont., and at the south end of Peterborough City, Ont.

The unsettled financial conditions alluded to last year were followed by a very large falling off in the volume of business and a consequent plethora of money, with a corresponding lowering of rates. During the last three or four months conditions have changed materially and there is every hope now of an increased business being done during the coming year.

A Building for the use of the Bank is nearly completed at Cochrane, and premises have also been acquired at Vancouver; Regina; Cartier Street, Ottawa; Pembroke, and Broadview Avenue and Pape Avenue in Toronto, necessitating a very considerable outlay and a corresponding increase in the Bank Premises Account.

Acting under the authority given at the Annual Meeting in 1907, the Directors issued on 1st October last 5,000 shares of new Stock at a premium of 100 per cent.

The usual inspections of the Head Office and Branches have been made during the year.

The Directors have pleasure in testifying to the satisfactory manner in which the duties of the staff have been performed.

DAVID MACLAREN,
President.

OFFICERS OF CITY AND DISTRICT BRANCHES OF L.O.L.

Reports Show an Increase in the Various Lodges and Finances Are in Good Shape—Social Club and Fife and Drum Band Organized in the City District.

The lodges of the Loyal Orange Association for the city and district have been busy during the last ten days electing officers and receiving reports from their several officers. These reports show a general increase in membership all along the line. Some of the lodges in this vicinity are now able, through having a handsome surplus on hand, to pay off the mortgages on their halls. Col. Sanderson, L.O.L. No. 321, has liquidated the mortgage and hopes to have a celebration shortly to burn their mortgage. The interest shown in the order has wonderfully increased, if the well attended meetings is any evidence, and these, so the reports say, have been much better in the past year.

In the city district a social club and a fife and drum band has been organized, and both bid fair to be an unqualified success.

One pleasing feature of the annual meeting of L.O.L. No. 50 was the presentation of a large group photo of the charter members of the lodge by Lieut.-Col Miller, on behalf of one of the lodge members. It was the work of Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore.

Refreshments were served at 50's meeting. The boys served up oysters in first-class style.

CHRONIC CATARRH NOSE AND THROAT

"At the Advice of Friends I Tried Peruna and the Results Have Been Highly Satisfactory." — So Writes Mr. Pilon.

MR RAOUL PILON

MR. RAOUL PILON, 116 Rue Notre Dame, Lachine, P.Q., Can., writes: "I write you a few words to express to you my satisfaction at being cured. I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and nose and suffered much. I was greatly discouraged. I had a bad breath and a bad taste in my mouth in the morning.

"I took treatment for some time without obtaining relief. At the advice of friends I tried the Peruna and the results have been highly satisfactory. At the end of four months I was completely cured."

Neglected catarrh becomes chronic. Having developed into the chronic stage, a longer and more persistent treatment will be required to cure it than if the disease were treated at the onset.

However, Peruna generally brings relief, whether the catarrh is acute or chronic. If you are wise you will keep Peruna on hand and take a few doses at the first appearance of a cold or cough, and thus perhaps save yourself both suffering and expense.

Peruna is recognized the world over as a standard remedy for catarrh. A multitude of people have been benefited by it.

NOT PLEASED WITH CALENDAR FROM THE U. S.

A Review representative was yesterday shown a calendar sent by a large American firm to a Peterborough hardware firm. From an artistic standpoint the calendar was all right, but the firm which sent it to a Canadian customer showed bad judgment and worse taste. The picture on the calendar has to do with the signing of the American Declaration of Independence. The calendar is all right from an American standpoint, point, but it is a poor thing to send into Canada.

JUDGMENT FOR THE PLAINTIFF

Chef of Local Hotel Took Action to Recover Wages—He Was Awarded $12.05.

An action to recover $15.83 for wages was heard at the police court this morning. The defendant was the proprietor of the National Hotel, and the plaintiff was the chef, who was up to yesterday, engaged at the hotel. The magistrate decided that $12.05 was due the plaintiff, and ordered that this amount be paid him.

The plaintiff stated that he had been engaged by Mr. Dennison on September 30th at $50 per month. His duty was only to prepare the meals, and when this was done the remainder of the time was at his own disposal. A couple of weeks after the fire, his employer asked him if he would like to go with Mr. F. P. J. McPherson, for demonstration purposes on a new range. He consented, and spent four afternoons and four evenings at this work, and received $8. Ten days ago he gave notice to Mr. Dennison that he was going to leave. Yesterday he received $50, but the full amount owing him was $65.83, and he claimed the balance of $15.85.

Mr. Dennison contended that he had not been fairly dealt with by his employee. After the fire his duties had been very light, and he thought he had a right to the $8 which had been earned at McPherson's, as it was in time for which the plaintiff was being paid for by him. At the time of the engagement in Toronto, the chef's fare was paid to Peterborough, and and since then a lady friend of his had been a guest at the hotel, for which no charge had been made. He had also been put to considerable expense in securing another chef.

WHITNEY REPLIES TO THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ON PUBLIC POWER POLICY

Premier of Ontario Delivers His Ultimatum to Ottawa Declaring That He Means to Preserve for the People of the Province Their Right to Legislate.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—After hearing for months in dignified silence the electric ring's attacks, in season and out of season, in the law courts and in the public press, and by inunendoes, pitchfork brigades and petitions to Parliament, to endeavor to prevent the triumphant Whitney-Beck power policy, the Government of the Province of Ontario has made its official protest to the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in a lucid, comprehensive and convincing statement, which is now in the hands of the Ottawa authorities.

The intention of the local Government to preserve, on behalf of the people of the Province of Ontario, "their inherent rights as British subjects of freedom to legislate within their jurisdiction as the Lords and Commons of Great Britain are free to legislate," is expressed in no uncertain terms.

The crux of the question is expressed in a quotation from the judgment of the judicial committee of the Privy Council in the case of Rodge v. the Queen, in which is asserted that the British North America Act, in creating the Legislature "conferred powers in any sense to be exercised by delegation," and that the Legislature, within its limits of subjects and area has the same authority as the Imperial or Dominion Parliaments.

Quotations from Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. Edward Blake, and particularly a long quotation from Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, in his report on the Florence Mining Co. disallowance petition, clinch the argument.

Answer is given to the contention that the Power Commission Amendment Act of 1909 makes no provision for the payment of easements. "If there is any doubt as to this," it declares, "it can be made clear by the Legislature at its next session by a declaratory act."

Statements as to the alleged adverse effect of the power projects on provincial credit are refuted in pithy newspaper interviews with Byron E. Walker, William Mackenzie and E. B. Osler, M.P.

It is pointed out that no objections were raised by the Electoral Development Power Co. until after it had failed, through its tender not being the lowest, to secure the contract from the power commission.

It is made clear that the contracts with the municipalities must go back to the ratepayers for confirmation, and the petition of twelve municipalities praying that the misunderstanding of the courts in this regard be corrected, in consequence of which the amending act was passed, is quoted.

A strong point is made in the statement that during the current session of the Imperial Parliament there are no less than 34 instances of constructive substantiative legislation in which no appeal is allowed to the courts on matters affecting the rights of property.

BODY OF INFANT WAS BURIED IN SOAP BOX AT PORT HOPE

Port Hope, Dec. 13.—An arrest may follow the burial of an infant daughter born to Florence Paden, aged 20 years, the daughter of James Paden, Sullivan street. The young woman was unmarried.

The infant was born on the 6th inst. and the birth registered by Dr. A. G. Aldrich. Tuesday, the mother says, the baby died from convulsions, when the grandmother placed the remains in a small soap box and a boarder, Albert Ginsburg, aged 22 years old, took the box and buried the body in a yard to the rear of Blacklack's grocery. Ginsburg denies being the father of the child.

No death certificate was asked for, and upon the autopsy to-day will depend much in regard to the actual cause of death.

Recently there occurred the death and proper burial of an infant child, only five days' old, of Mrs. James Paden, mother of Florence, in contrast to the alleged ignorance of the burial law displayed by Florence Paden and young Ginsburg.

LUDWIG MOND, NOTED CHEMIST PASSES AWAY

London, Eng., Dec. 13.—Dr. Ludwig Mond, the noted chemist, is dead. He was born at Cassel, Germany, in 1839.

Dr. Mond was educated in Germany and Italy, but after he had attained some note as a scientist, he became a British subject by naturalization. He was successful as a chemist both from a scientific and financial standpoint, and patented hundreds of his discoveries.

The most important of his discoveries was a process for making gas which reduced the cost several cents a thousand feet. He devised a gas engine which produced more power from a given amount of care than any steam engine ever perfected.

He came to England in 1862 and was engaged in the Leblanc soda industry. There he introduced his process for recovering sulphur from alkali waste. In 1873 he, in company with J. T. Brunner engaged in the manufacture of ammonia soda by the Solvay process, which he greatly improved. These works at Winnington, Norwich, Cheshire, form the largest alkali establishment in the world.

Dr. Mond founded and endowed the Davy-Feraday research laboratory of the Royal Institution in 1896.

CLERGYMAN WAS NOT JUSTIFIED

London, Eng., Dec. 13.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Judgment has been given in favor of Mr. and Mrs. Banister, in the case in which they brought action against Rev. Canon Thompson of the Church of England for repelling them from holy communion. The clergyman said he was justified in so doing because Mrs. Banister was a deceased wife's sister. There were married in Canada. The court decided that this was no justification for refusing holy communion to Mr. and Mrs. Banister.

It was argued during the trial of the action by the counsel for the defendant clergyman that the civil law had nothing to do with the canonical law in this regard.

Suicides In Cell.

Owen Sound, Dec. 13.—Fred Miller of Owen Sound, who jumped his bail here, where he was charged with assault, and was arrested at Shelburne, committed suicide in the cells there. He was found dead with an empty bottle, that had contained carbolic acid, beside him.

TORY CANDIDATE WAS MOBBED

London, Dec. 13.—The feature of the Conservative meetings during the past week has been the number of peers who have come forward to support the candidates, and the storm of interruptions and generally good natured chaff to which they have been subjected.

But a more serious incident occurred at Rhos Denbigh Saturday evening, when the audience broke up a Conservative meeting, chased the candidate out of the building and kicked the Conservative agent unconscious.

Austin Chamberlain, the ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer, up to the present, has been the only Conservative leader actively in the field. Saturday night he met with stormy interruptions again from his constituents in a suburb of Birmingham.

Joseph Chamberlain has issued a manifesto in Manchester and Salford, declaring that tariff reform must be adopted in order to compete with foreign countries.

DR. COOK IN A SANATORIUM

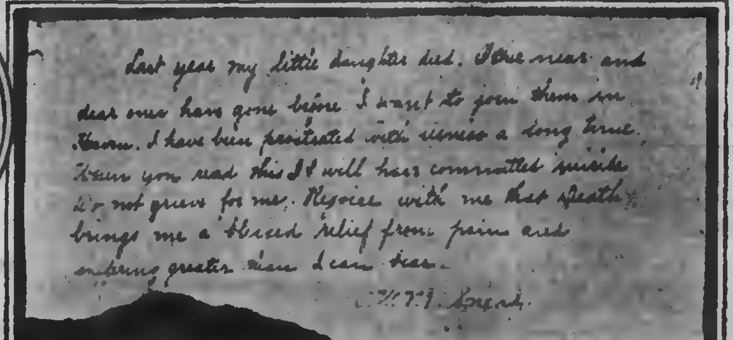
Boston, Dec. 13.—According to The Journal, Dr. Cook, Arctic explorer, is the sole patient of the Pine Tree Sanatorium at Wells, Maine. He daily receives many letters and telegrams, but so well guarded is he from everyone, and so secluded is he and determined not to be seen, that when two telegrams from New York arrived to be delivered to him personally and personally receipted, he refused to allow the bearer to take them up to his quarters on the second floor or to come down and get them.

HOMESTEADER IS SENTENCED TO BE HANGED

Yorkton, Sask., Dec. 13.—Sanford Hainer, a homesteader, who last July ambushed and shot his neighbor, A. D. Fraser of Margo, was found guilty Saturday and sentenced to hang on Feb. 17 by Judge Johnstone.

The evidence indicated that while the prisoner is peculiar, he was well aware of the serious nature of the crime. The judge did not use the traditional black cap.

MRS. SNEAD AND BABY--MRS. WARDLAW ON WAY TO COURT



Last year my little daughter died. Those near and dear ones have gone before. I want to join them in Heaven. I have been prostrated with illness a long time. When you read this I will have committed suicide. Do not grieve for me. Rejoice with me that death brings me a blessed relief from pain and suffering greater than I can bear.

O. W. M. Snead.

With one woman already under arrest and held without bail for the murder of Mrs. Ocey W. M. Snead, and with the capture and arrest of two other women reported, the "bath-tub" mystery of East Orange, N.J., promises to develop into one of the most sensational murder mysteries of the age.

That the unfortunate young woman whose nude body was found half submerged in a tub of water in the house at No. 89 North Fourteenth street, East Orange, on Monday afternoon, was murdered for the purpose of securing the $20,000 insurance which she carried, and the $16,000 worth of real estate which she owned, is the theory which the police of East Orange are now working on.

Detective O'Neill has discovered a will signed by Mrs. Snead on September 8th last, and it is believed that this insurance will figure prominently in the solution of the case. When the will was shown to Chief of Police Bell, of East Orange, he immediately ordered the arrest of Miss Virginia Wardlaw, the aunt of the dead woman, in whose home at East Orange Mrs. Snead's body was found.

The Wardlaw woman was arraigned before Recorder Nott to-day and held without bail for a further hearing December 6. Meanwhile the police are conducting a vigorous search for the mother and grandmother of the mur-

WILL CROOKS, LABOR M.P., SAYS THE PREFERENCE IS A JOKE

Speaking in Melbourne, Australia, the Bristol Labor M.P. Says Canadians, New Zealanders and Australians He Has Met Absolutely Decline to Accept Any Imperial System of Duties.

London, Dec. 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—According to a Melbourne cable to The Chronicle, Will Crooks, the Bristol Labor M.P., speaking of the preference question cry, said "The colonial preference question is laughed to scorn wherever I have been. When it is mentioned that the preference will raise the price of food, Canadians and New Zealanders, and so far as I have gone, Australians, have emphatically declined to accept any preferential system, having such an effect. They indignantly refuse to have anything to do with any scheme which would increase the price of food to the masses of Great Britain."

Austin Chamberlain, addressing his constituents at Stirchley, made a searching criticism of Mr. Asquith's speech at Albert Hall. There was not, said Mr. Chamberlain, a word about the question which, to those scanning the Empire as a whole, loomed largest amongst all the great political issues. There was not a word about the question of imperial union or the methods by which closer intercourse and friendship could be fostered.

An alliance between ourselves and our kinsmen beyond the seas might be promoted through tariff reform. Reformers of the tariff were ready to take that step forward. They knew what the next step was and they invited the electors to march along that line with them. But the Prime Minister had not a word to say on that greatest of all Imperial questions, the one which was most vital to the future power and influence of our race.

GOLDWIN SMITH MAKES REPLY TO JUSTICE RIDDELL

Kingston, Dec. 13.—Prof. Goldwin Smith has replied to the speech of Justice Riddell before the Canadian Club in New York last week, in which it was said that annexation sentiment is dead and that there was only one man in Canada in favor of it, the reference clearly being Prof. Smith. In a letter from Toronto to The Daily Standard of this city, Dr. Smith says:

"Sir,—It seems that I have been reported as advocating 'annexation.' Let me assure you that I have studiously avoided the use of a term which implies submission on the part of Canada to the part of the United States. That which, I think, seems the dictate of nature, and likely as such to come to pass is the voluntary union of the two great English-speaking communities on this continent for their mutual benefit and security. Social fusion seems to be already pretty complete.—Goldwin Smith."

ROYALTY TO HAVE HUNT IN AFRICA

London, Eng., Dec. 13.—It is officially announced that the Duke of Connaught, accompanied by the Duchess of Connaught Princess Patricia, and Prince Arthur, will leave England on Jan. 21, for Naorobi British East Africa.

According to present arrangements the duke will go on a big game shooting expedition. The royal travelers are expected to return to England toward the end of May.

SHIPBUILDING COSTLY WORK

Halifax, Dec. 13.—According to the calculations of an expert sent out by Harland & Wolfe, the world-famous shipbuilders of Belfast, Ireland, to investigate the conditions governing and inducements for the erection of a Canadian plant, the cost of constructing iron or steel steamships in Canada is forty-six per cent. greater than in Great Britain.

The difference in the cost of construction of steel ships in Canada and Great Britain is in the matter of labor—skilled and unskilled—alone.

If these figures are correct, the building of a Canadian navy in Canada will cost half as much again is the estimates in the hands of the Government call for.

SUICIDES ON NEARING HOME

London, Ont., Dec. 13.—Just back to his home city, after three years in the west, Daniel Campbell, aged 30, lost his life in the Thames near Adelaide street bridge, Saturday afternoon. His outer clothing was found on the river bank, his watch on the ice and all the indications point to suicide while delirious.

Campbell had been ill for some time.

High Constable Hughes and other county constables recovered the body with grappling irons at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Campbell has relatives in this city and was on his way from the depot, after returning from British Columbia.

MEMBERS OF BESSEMER CREW PERISH IN AN OPEN BOAT

Some of the Men Who Escaped From the Ill-Fated Car-Ferry Are Found in a Small Boat Sitting Upright, Frozen in Their Seats.

Erie, Pa., Dec. 13.—With flag at half-mast, the state fisheries boat, Commodore Perry, brought to this port late yesterday the dead and frozen bodies of nine men of the crew of the Bessemer & Marquette Ferry No. 2, which left Conneaut, Ohio, Tuesday morning, carrying 32 men, and which has evidently foundered in the middle of Lake Erie. The yawl was found 75 miles from this port.

Eight of the men were sitting up in the boat, their life-preservers strapped about their shoulders. The ninth man lay at the bottom of the boat, frozen to the slat flooring. The faces of the men were bloated. Their clothes were heavy with frozen water.

News of the finding of the bodies had reached the city before the Perry arrived, and thousands of persons swarmed the wharves. When the fish boat made fast, a force of men with tackle immediately set to work raising the bodies of the men to the dock, when they were conveyed to the morgue, followed by hundreds of persons.

Conneaut, Ohio, where all the dead men lived, was notified by telephone of the gruesome find, and a hundred residents of that city arrived here within two hours. They were taken directly to the morgue, where the following identifications were made:

H. Thomas, a second cook, Port Stanley, and Wm. Ray, J. W. Souars, waiters; G. R. Smith, steward; F. Steele, fireman; J. Schenck, fireman; J. Hart, oiler; — O'Hagan, Charles Allen, all of Conneaut, Ohio.

Thomas, the cook, was the only man who had worn an overcoat. The eight bodies were dressed in overalls and jumpers, indicating that the departure from the car ferry had been hurried. In the bow end of the boat was found complete clothing for one man, and it is the belief that the yawl originally contained ten men and that one becoming crazed, had discarded his clothing and jumped into the icy waters of Lake Erie.

Albert J. Weis of this city, treasurer of the Keystone Fish Co., and the Bay State Iron Works, was a passenger on the ill-fated boat.

The fate of the car ferry is thus conjectured: That the heavy sea broke the key which held the cars in place, and, weighted heavy with coal, they raced to the stern of the boat, overcoming her keel. She probably turned turtle and sank without a minute's warning.

At Conneaut, Ohio, a public funeral service in remembrance of the victims will be held. Among the dead are Capt. McLeod, with relatives at Kincardine, Ont., his former home, his brother, who was first mate, and lived at Courtwright, Ont.; Harry Thomas, and Roy Hine of Port Stanley, Ont.; John King, Aylmer, Ont., and John King, London, Ont.

Heard Distress Whistles.

Port Stanley, Dec. 13.—Several residents at Port Stanley said yesterday that about five o'clock on Wednesday morning they heard the distress whistles of a steamer now [illegible] to have been the Bessemer, which would be from one to ten miles out in the lake.

A heavy northwest gale was blowing. It is supposed that in turning the ferry got caught in the trough of the sea, and that the cars on board broke loose.

It is said that Capt. McLeod expected some day that the Bessemer would go down. It is said that she was top-heavy. She rolled terribly in an ordinary storm.

One day last summer she came into port with quite a sea on. The Bessemer was then rolling very badly. Capt. Walter Smith of London, who knew Capt. McLeod well, spoke of this to the commander and asked what caused it.

"My load is on the hurricane deck," said Capt. McLeod, "not where it should be. That is what causes the rolling."

"If we were caught in a heavy sea and the cars shifted, a man would not have time to put on his hat until she would be on the bottom. She would go down like a shot."

ESSAYISTS WHO TOOK THE PRIZES

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Some months ago the executive council of the Strathcona trust for the encouragement of physical and military training in the public schools offered prizes for the six best essays on "The best method of introducing and developing a general system of physical and military training in the public schools throughout the Dominion upon the principles set forth in the rules of the Strathcona Trust."

The prize winners are as follows:

First, $250—George H. Huggins, principal Richmond School, Halifax.

Second, $150—Miss Lillian L. M. Davey, 39 Sussex avenue, Toronto.

Third, $100—Lieut. C. K. Flint, teacher of physical culture, Edmonton Public School.

Fourth, $75—J. H. Putnam, English master, Ottawa Normal School.

Fifth, $50—John J. McCarthy, McLean, Sask.

Sixth, $25.—S. A. Morton, principal Halifax Academy.

Attacked by Dog.

New York, Dec. 13.—When Mrs. Emma Scheurman returned to her flat in Harlem yesterday, she found her pet bull terrier covered with blood and crouched whining under a table.

Passing to an adjoining room she was horrified to find her brother, Carl Limperi, a clerk, 43 years old, stretched out dead on the floor, the face horribly mutilated by the dog's teeth. It is believed that Limperi, who was subject to apoplexy, fell unconscious and was attacked by the animal.

HURONIC IS LAST BOAT

Northern Navigation Co.'s Steamer is the Last to Brave Storms on Lakes.

Port Arthur, Ont., Dec. 13.—A solitary boat in the storm tossed surface of Lake Superior, plowing her way through waves that are being dashed over her by the 30-mile an hour gale, and each leaving a new coating of ice, is the sturdy Huronic of the Northern Navigation Co.

With Captain A. L. Campbell, one of the youngest of the lake captains in command, the Huronic pulled out for the Soo before midnight, to be inside the extended insurance term, and with the mercury hovering around the zero mark, headed into a strong northeastern gale. She is the last boat of the year on Lake Superior. All others—at least Canadian-owned—are safe in the harbors.

Last arrivals at this port were the Beaverton and Wahcoudah, which came in Saturday night looking like miniature ice barges, everything covered with ice but the smoke stacks. They had been several days out from the Soo, most of the time in shelter at White Fish, and making the run across the lake experienced the extreme rough seas and cold weather. The Ames and Kenora came across here Saturday after their arrival at Fort William from the east with package freight, so that there are now five Canadian freighters at the docks, all of which will, contrary to custom, spend the winter here as it is now too late to make return trips.

At the Canadian Northern coal docks, with coal, are the Hemert, Hawgood, Zimmerman and Squire, all United States owned, and they will also remain here over winter.

Most of the boats in harbor will take on grain for storage.

Walter Ross is under arrest at New Liskeard charged with having shot and killed Percy Parkinson in a dispute over the boundary line of a mining claim. Ross says Parkinson threatened him with an axe.

WIFE IS READY TO GO TO JAIL

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 13.—Several days ago a warrant was issued for Julius Gutake, a German resident of this city, charging him with not sending a daughter to school. He was summoned to appear before a justice but instead of doing this he sent his wife, with a message that she would take any punishment imposed on him.

After asking a few questions Judge Benedict learned that Gutake had 11 children to support and was getting only $30 per month. The wife planned to assist him by enabling him to continue his work.

SCOUTING

In this, the third of our little series of articles, upon the Baden-Powell scouting system, we can only repeat largely what has been said previously:

1. The movement in Britain has become so successful as to embrace nearly every boy in the United Kingdom.

2. Its originator, Baden-Powell, was knighted by the King for devising the scheme.

3. The list of duties comprises responsibility of the individual boy, a strict sense of honour, courage, nobility of character and keenness of the physical senses. It is not unlike the list of requirements of Chivalry.

4. It appeals in a striking way to the imagination of a boy just as the heroes of similar work in story-books do.

5. It is at once the poetry and prose of a boy's life and education.

6. It gives a boy that ethical education which nowadays he is permitted to grow up ignorant of, at least practically.
